(iv) Discontinuance or Abandonment

290. Discontinuance of large raised reservoirs.

A large raised reservoir<sup>1</sup> may not be altered in order to render it incapable of holding more than 25,000 cubic metres of water above the natural level of adjoining land<sup>2</sup> unless a qualified civil engineer<sup>3</sup> is employed to design or approve and to supervise the alteration<sup>4</sup>. An engineer so employed must give a certificate<sup>5</sup>, as soon as he is satisfied that it is so, that the alteration has been completed and efficiently executed<sup>6</sup>. Where such a certificate is given, the Environment Agency in its capacity as the relevant authority<sup>7</sup> must, on receipt of the certificate or a copy of it, remove the reservoir from its register of large raised reservoirs<sup>8</sup>; but unless the alteration is made and a certificate given in accordance with these provisions, a reservoir that has been a large raised reservoir but is altered so as no longer to be capable of holding more than 25,000 cubic metres of water above the natural level of adjoining land nevertheless continues for the purposes of the Reservoirs Act 1975 to be a large raised reservoir<sup>9</sup>.

291. Abandonment of large raised reservoirs.

Where the use of a large raised reservoir as a reservoir<sup>1</sup> is to be abandoned<sup>2</sup>, the undertakers<sup>3</sup> must obtain from a qualified civil engineer<sup>4</sup> a report<sup>5</sup> as to the measures, if any, that ought to be taken in the interests of safety to secure that the reservoir is incapable of filling accidentally or naturally with water above the natural level of adjoining land<sup>6</sup> or is only capable of doing so to an extent that does not constitute a risk<sup>7</sup>. The engineer must give with the report a certificate<sup>8</sup> stating that the report does, or does not, make recommendations for measures to be taken in the interests of safety<sup>9</sup>. Where the report of an engineer under these provisions makes any recommendation as to measures to be taken in the interests of safety then, subject to any reference of the matter to a referee<sup>10</sup>, the undertakers obtaining the report must, before the use of the reservoir as a reservoir is abandoned or as soon as practicable afterwards, carry the recommendation into effect<sup>11</sup>.

Where it appears to the Environment Agency in its capacity as the enforcement authority<sup>12</sup>, in the case of any large raised reservoir:

- 564 (1) that the use of the reservoir as a reservoir has been abandoned but that no such report has been obtained as required under these provisions<sup>13</sup>; or
- 565 (2) that such a report so obtained includes a recommendation as to measures to be taken in the interests of safety that has not been carried into effect as so required<sup>14</sup>, the Agency may by written notice served<sup>15</sup> on the undertakers<sup>16</sup> require them, within 28 days after the date when the notice is served, to appoint an engineer to make such a report, unless an appointment has already been made, and in either case to notify the Agency of the appointment or, as the case may be, require them to carry the recommendation into effect within a specified time<sup>17</sup>.

Failure to comply with these provisions is an offence<sup>18</sup>.

16 For these purposes references to the undertakers have effect as at the time when the use of the reservoir as such is abandoned: Reservoirs Act 1975 s 14(4).

17 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 14(4). Where the Agency proposes to serve a notice requiring undertakers to carry a recommendation into effect, it must consult, as to the time to be specified in the notice, a civil engineer who must, if the recommendation involves any alteration of the reservoir, be a qualified civil engineer for the purpose of supervising the alteration under s 13 (see PARA 290): s 14(5). If the undertakers fail to comply with the notice, the Agency may itself make the appointment or cause the recommendation to be carried into effect: see PARA 293. ## (v) Additional Enforcement Powers

292. Emergency measures.

Where it appears to the Environment Agency in its capacity as the enforcement authority<sup>1</sup>, in the case of any large raised reservoir<sup>2</sup>, that the reservoir is unsafe and that immediate action is needed to protect persons<sup>3</sup> or property against an escape of water from the reservoir, it may take at the reservoir such measures as it considers proper to remove or reduce the risk or to mitigate the effects of an escape<sup>4</sup>. Similarly, where it appears to Agency, in the case of any large raised reservoir, that the use of the reservoir as a reservoir has been abandoned<sup>5</sup>, but that there may from time to time be an undue accumulation of water there and immediate action is needed to protect persons or property against an escape of water, it may take there such measures as it considers proper to remove or reduce the risk or to mitigate the effects of an escape<sup>6</sup>. The Agency, in proposing to exercise these powers, must appoint a qualified civil engineer<sup>7</sup> to make recommendations as to the measures to be taken in the exercise of those powers, and any measures so taken must be carried into effect under the supervision of such an engineer appointed by the Agency<sup>8</sup>.

The Agency, in exercising or proposing to exercise these powers at a reservoir, must, as early as practicable, serve a notice<sup>9</sup> on the undertakers giving full information of the measures that are being or are to be taken in the exercise of those powers<sup>10</sup>. If, however, the authority is unable after reasonable inquiry to ascertain the name or address of the undertakers, it is not required to serve any notice on them after work is begun at the reservoir<sup>11</sup>.

Where the Agency exercises these powers, the undertakers must pay to the Agency the amount of the expenses reasonably incurred by it in the exercise of those powers<sup>12</sup>.

293. Default powers of Environment Agency.

Where undertakers<sup>1</sup> are required by a notice from the Environment Agency in its capacity as the enforcement authority<sup>2</sup> to appoint an engineer for any purpose of the Reservoirs Act 1975, and the undertakers fail to make the appointment, the Agency may appoint an engineer for that purpose who must be a person eligible for appointment by the undertakers<sup>3</sup>. An appointment so made is of no effect if before it is made the undertakers have appointed an eligible engineer; and any such appointment of a supervising engineer<sup>4</sup> terminates when an appointment of a supervising engineer duly made by the undertakers takes effect<sup>5</sup>.

Where undertakers are required by a notice from the Agency<sup>6</sup> to carry into effect any recommendation as to measures to be taken in the interests of safety, and the undertakers fail to comply with that requirement, the Agency may cause the recommendation to be carried into effect under the supervision of a qualified civil engineer<sup>7</sup> appointed by the Agency, who must give a certificate<sup>8</sup>, as soon as he is satisfied that it is so, that the recommendation has been carried into effect<sup>9</sup>.

Where the Agency makes any such appointment<sup>10</sup> or exercises any powers so conferred<sup>11</sup>, the undertakers must pay to the Agency the amount of the expenses reasonably incurred by reason of the appointment or, as the case may be, in the exercise of those powers<sup>12</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'undertakers' see PARA 280 note 4.

2 I.e. notice under the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 8 (see PARA 284), s 9 (see PARA 285), s 10 (see PARA 286), s 12 (see PARA 287) or s 14 (see PARA 291). Without prejudice to the Environment Act 1995 s 123 as it is applied by the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 22A (see PARA 22), where the Agency is unable after reasonable inquiry to ascertain the name or address of the undertakers for any large raised reservoir, then for the purposes of s 15 a notice relating to the reservoir is deemed to have been duly served on the undertakers if it has been left in the hands of a person who is or appears to be resident or employed at the reservoir or if it has been left conspicuously affixed to some building or object at the reservoir: s 15(4) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 76(1)). ## 294. Powers of entry.

A person duly authorised in writing<sup>1</sup> by the Environment Agency in its capacity as the enforcement authority<sup>2</sup>, may at any reasonable time enter upon the land on which a reservoir<sup>3</sup> is situated for the purpose of carrying out<sup>4</sup>:

- 566 (1) any survey or other operation needed to determine whether the reservoir is a large raised reservoir or is being constructed or altered so as to be one, whether, being a large raised reservoir, it is being altered so as to increase its capacity, or whether it is or is not in use as a reservoir<sup>5</sup>;
- 567 (2) any survey or other operation needed to determine whether any recommendation as to measures to be taken in the interests of safety has been carried into effect<sup>6</sup> or what period should be specified in a notice<sup>7</sup> requiring the undertakers<sup>8</sup> to carry such a recommendation into effect<sup>9</sup>;
- 568 (3) any inspection of the reservoir that he has been appointed<sup>10</sup> to carry out, or any survey or other operation needed for the purpose of a report<sup>11</sup> that he has been appointed to make<sup>12</sup>;
- 569 (4) any survey or other operation needed to determine whether any or what emergency measures<sup>13</sup> should be taken, or for any purpose connected with the carrying into effect of any such measures<sup>14</sup>, and also for any purpose connected with the carrying into effect under reserve powers<sup>15</sup> of a recommendation as to measures to be taken in the interests of safety<sup>16</sup>. He must, if so required, produce evidence of his authority before so entering and may take with him on to the land such other persons and such equipment as may be necessary<sup>17</sup>. Except for a purpose within head (4) above, a person may not demand admission as of right to occupied land unless at least seven days' written notice of the intended entry<sup>18</sup> has been given to the occupier or the entry is authorised by warrant<sup>19</sup>.

Any person who wilfully obstructs a person entitled to enter on land by virtue of these provisions commits an offence<sup>20</sup>.

19 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 17(4). If it is shown to the satisfaction of a justice of the peace on sworn information in writing that: (1) admission to any land on which any person is entitled to enter under s 17 has been refused, or that a refusal is apprehended, or that the occupier is temporarily absent (s 17(5)(a)); and (2) there is reasonable ground for entry on to the land for the purpose for which entry is required (s 17(5)(b)), the justice may by warrant under his hand authorise that person to enter on the land, if need be by force; but such a warrant may not be issued on the ground that entry has been refused or that a refusal of entry is apprehended unless the justice is satisfied that notice in writing of the intention to apply for a warrant has been given to the occupier (s 17(5)). ## (vi) Reference of Disputed Recommendations

296. Reference of disputed recommendations to referee.

Where:

- 570 (1) an inspecting engineer<sup>1</sup> includes in his report<sup>2</sup> recommendations to be taken in the interests of safety or as to the time of the next inspection<sup>3</sup>; or
- 571 (2) an engineer acting under certain powers<sup>4</sup> includes in his report recommendations to be taken in the interests of safety<sup>5</sup>, the undertakers<sup>6</sup> may, if aggrieved by any recommendation, refer their complaint to a referee<sup>7</sup>. The referee must be an independent qualified civil engineer<sup>8</sup> appointed by agreement between the undertakers and the engineer making the recommendation complained of or, in default of their agreement, must be a person appointed by the Secretary of State<sup>9</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>10</sup>.

The Secretary of State or in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers may make rules by statutory instrument as to the time within which a referee may be appointed by agreement, as to the time within which and the manner in which a request for the appointment of a referee may be made to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, as to the procedure before the referee, and as to the costs of the proceedings before and investigation by the referee, including his remuneration<sup>11</sup>. Those costs and that remuneration must, however, be paid by the undertakers<sup>12</sup>.

A referee may be appointed by agreement between the undertakers and the engineer making the recommendation complained of within 40 days after the day on which the undertakers receive the report containing the recommendation or a copy of it<sup>13</sup>. In default of agreement, a request may be made to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers to appoint a referee within 50 days after the day on which the undertakers receive that report or copy<sup>14</sup>.

297. Referee's investigation and decision.

Upon his appointment<sup>1</sup>, a referee must invite the undertakers<sup>2</sup> to send him, within 28 days after the date of his appointment, a written<sup>3</sup> statement of the grounds of their complaint, a copy of which he must send to the engineer who made the recommendation<sup>4</sup> with a request for his written observations within 28 days after the date of that request<sup>5</sup>. The referee must refer the written observations of the engineer to the undertakers for comment and may, if he wishes, arrange to meet them or their representatives to hear any observations either party may wish to make orally<sup>6</sup>. At any time during his investigation of the complaint, the referee may make an inspection of the reservoir<sup>7</sup> with or without the undertakers and the engineer or their representatives<sup>8</sup>. Subject to these provisions, the referee may exercise his own discretion as to the manner in which he conducts his investigation<sup>9</sup>.

After concluding his investigation of the complaint, the referee must communicate his decision on the report, and the reasons for it, to the undertakers and the engineer as soon as practicable<sup>10</sup>. After investigating the complaint he has power to make such modifications as he thinks fit in the report containing the recommendation complained of, and the report has effect<sup>11</sup> accordingly<sup>12</sup>. When he gives his decision on a report, he must also give a certificate<sup>13</sup> stating that the decision does or does not modify the report and, if necessary in consequence of any modification, revising accordingly any certificate given with reference to the report by the engineer who made it<sup>14</sup>.

(vii) Documents and Information; in general

298. Engineers' reports, certificates and other documents.

Any engineer's report or certificate<sup>1</sup> must be in the prescribed<sup>2</sup> form<sup>3</sup> and, unless the engineer in question is appointed to act by the Environment Agency in its capacity as the enforcement authority<sup>4</sup>, must be delivered to and kept by the undertakers<sup>5</sup>. Where the engineer is appointed to act by the Agency, the report or certificate must be delivered to the Agency but a copy of it must be sent by the engineer at the same time to the undertakers and must be kept by them<sup>6</sup>.

Where any of the specified documents is delivered by the engineer in question to the undertakers, he must within 28 days after he delivers it to the undertakers send a copy of it to the Agency in its capacity as the enforcement authority<sup>7</sup>. The specified documents are:

- 572 (1) any certificate of an engineer acting for any purpose of the Reservoirs Act 1975<sup>8</sup>;
- 573 (2) any report made by an inspecting engineer<sup>9</sup> or an engineer acting for the purposes of the provisions relating to abandoned reservoirs<sup>10</sup> and stated in his certificate to include a recommendation as to measures to be taken in the interests of safety, and any report made by an engineer acting for the purposes of the Agency's powers on the undertakers' non-compliance with construction or enlargement requirements<sup>11</sup> or for purposes connected with the re-use<sup>12</sup> of abandoned reservoirs<sup>13</sup>;
- 574 (3) any decision of a referee modifying any such report as is mentioned in head (2) above<sup>14</sup>;
- 575 (4) any written explanation given by a construction engineer<sup>15</sup> to the undertakers of his reasons for deferring the issue of his final certificate<sup>16</sup>;
- 576 (5) any advice given by a supervising engineer<sup>17</sup> to the undertakers which either recommends them to have the reservoir inspected<sup>18</sup> or to take any other action or which draws their attention to a breach of any specified<sup>19</sup> statutory provision<sup>20</sup>.

Where the Agency receives a certificate or copy certificate of an engineer acting for the purposes of the provisions as to the discontinuance of reservoirs<sup>21</sup> and the reservoir is situated partly in the area of another relevant authority<sup>22</sup> which is not the undertaker, the Agency must send a copy of the certificate to that other relevant authority<sup>23</sup>.

299. Information to be furnished by undertakers.

Where undertakers<sup>1</sup> intend: (1) to construct a large raised reservoir<sup>2</sup>, or to alter it so as to increase its capacity<sup>3</sup>; or (2) to bring such a reservoir back into use as a reservoir after that use has been abandoned<sup>4</sup>, they must, if they are not the relevant authority<sup>5</sup>, serve notice of their intention<sup>6</sup>, giving the prescribed information<sup>7</sup>, on the Environment Agency<sup>8</sup> in its capacity as the relevant authority in whose area the reservoir will be or, if it will extend into the areas of more than one relevant authority, on each of those authorities<sup>9</sup>.

Undertakers must notify the Agency in its capacity as the enforcement authority<sup>10</sup> in writing<sup>11</sup> within 28 days:

- 577 (a) where the use of a large raised reservoir as a reservoir is abandoned<sup>12</sup>;
- 578 (b) whenever a person is appointed to be, or ceases to be, supervising engineer<sup>13</sup> for a large raised reservoir<sup>14</sup>;
- 579 (c) of the appointment of an inspecting engineer<sup>15</sup> for such a reservoir<sup>16</sup>.

The supervising engineer, every inspecting engineer for a large raised reservoir, and any civil engineer employed by the undertakers or appointed by the Agency in its capacity as the enforcement authority for certain statutory purposes<sup>17</sup> must be afforded all reasonable facilities by the undertakers for the effective performance of his functions<sup>18</sup>. The undertakers must furnish him with:

- 580 (i) the statutory record<sup>19</sup> required to be kept for the reservoir<sup>20</sup>;
- 581 (ii) copies of any statutory certificates relating to it, with any annexes<sup>21</sup>;
- 582 (iii) copies of the reports made by inspecting engineers on any statutory inspection of the reservoir<sup>22</sup>; and
- 583 (iv) such further information and particulars as he may require<sup>23</sup>.

Failure to comply with these provisions is an offence<sup>24</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'undertakers' see PARA 280 note 4.

3 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 21(1)(a). As to construction generally see PARA 282.

4 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 21(1)(b). As to the re-use of abandoned reservoirs generally see PARA 285.

5 As to the relevant authority see PARA 279 note 1.

6 The notice must be served not less than 28 days before any work on the construction or alteration of the reservoir is begun or, if the case is within head (2) in the text and the reservoir is to be brought back into use without alteration, not less than 28 days before it is brought back into use: Reservoirs Act 1975 s 21(1). As to the service of documents see PARA 22.

7 As to the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 279 note 4. The prescribed information is: (1) the name and address of the undertakers serving the notice; (2) the name and situation of the reservoir; (3) the national grid reference of the approximate centre of the reservoir; (4) if the reservoir extends into the area of more than one local authority, the name of each of those authorities; (5) whether the undertakers intend to construct a new large raised reservoir, to alter an existing reservoir which is not such a reservoir so that it becomes one, to alter such a reservoir so as to increase its capacity or to bring such a reservoir back into use after that use has been abandoned; (6) the date when it is intended that construction or alteration will commence or the date when it is intended the reservoir will be brought back into use, as the case may be; (7) the name and address of the construction engineer or, in the case of re-use, the engineer appointed for the purposes of the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 9 (see PARA 285); and (8) the following information about the reservoir as it will be when constructed, altered or brought back into use as proposed, ie (a) category, whether impounding or non-impounding; (b) date(s) or approximate date(s) of completion of the dam(s); (c) construction of the dam(s) whether of earth, rockfill, gravity, buttress or by other means; (d) maximum height of the dam(s) in metres measured from the lowest natural ground level adjacent to it, to the top of the dam, excluding the height of the wave wall; (e) the height of the dam(s) in metres measured from the lowest natural ground level adjacent to it to top water level; (f) capacity in cubic metres measured from the lowest natural ground level adjacent to it to top water level; (g) the water surface area at top water level in square metres or square kilometres: Reservoirs Act 1975 (Certificates, Reports and Prescribed Information) Regulations 1986, SI 1986/468, reg 5, Sch 3. For these purposes, 'lowest natural ground level' means, where there is a watercourse below the dam, the lowest bed level of that watercourse; and 'top water level' means, in relation to a reservoir with a fixed overflow sill, the lowest crest level of that sill, and for a reservoir the overflow from which is controlled wholly or partly by movable gates, syphons or otherwise, the maximum level to which water may be stored exclusive of any provision for flood storage: Sch 3.

(viii) Criminal and Civil Liability

300. Criminal liability of undertakers and their employees.

If:

- 584 (1) by the wilful default of the undertakers<sup>1</sup> any specified provision<sup>2</sup> is not observed or complied with in relation to a large raised reservoir<sup>3</sup>; or
- 585 (2) the undertakers fail to comply with any of certain notices<sup>4</sup> from the Environment Agency in its capacity as the enforcement authority<sup>5</sup>; or
- 586 (3) the undertakers fail to comply with a direction<sup>6</sup> to prepare a flood plan<sup>7</sup>;

then unless there is reasonable excuse for the default or failure, the undertakers are guilty of an offence<sup>8</sup>.

If the undertakers fail to comply with a notice restricting publication of, or access to, a flood plan in the interests of national security<sup>9</sup>, they are guilty of an offence<sup>10</sup>.

If, in the case of any large raised reservoir:

- 587 (a) the undertakers fail without reasonable excuse to give the Agency in its capacity as the enforcement authority in due time any notice which they are required to give<sup>11</sup>; or
- 588 (b) the undertakers or persons<sup>12</sup> employed by them without reasonable excuse refuse, or knowingly fail, to afford to any person the required facilities<sup>13</sup> or the required information and particulars<sup>14</sup>, the undertakers are guilty of an offence<sup>15</sup>.

If a person makes use of any document for certain statutory purposes<sup>16</sup> or furnishes any information or particulars for those purposes which he knows to be false in a material respect, or recklessly makes use of any document or furnishes any information or particulars which is or are false in a material respect, he is guilty of an offence<sup>17</sup>.

Proceedings for any of these offences may be instituted only by the Agency, or the Secretary of State<sup>18</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>19</sup>, or by or with the consent of the Director of Public Prosecutions<sup>20</sup>. Where any such offence committed by a body corporate is proved to have been committed with the consent or connivance of any director, manager, secretary or other similar officer, or any person purporting to act in any such capacity, he as well as the body corporate is guilty of the offence and is liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly<sup>21</sup>.

It is also an offence to obstruct a person exercising a statutory power of entry on land<sup>22</sup>.

301. Civil liability of undertakers.

The Reservoirs Act 1975 is not to be taken as conferring on any person<sup>1</sup> a claim to damages in respect of a breach by undertakers<sup>2</sup> of their obligations under it<sup>3</sup>. Nevertheless, where damage or injury is caused by the escape of water from a reservoir<sup>4</sup> constructed<sup>5</sup> after the year 1930<sup>6</sup> under statutory powers granted after July 1930<sup>7</sup>, the fact that the reservoir was so constructed does not exonerate the persons for the time being having its management or control from any indictment, claim or other proceedings to which they would otherwise have been liable<sup>8</sup>.

5 The Reservoirs Act 1975 s 6(1) (see PARA 282 note 3) does not apply for the interpretation of 'constructed' in this context: see s 28(2).

6 The Reservoirs (Safety Provisions) Act 1930 (repealed) commenced on 1 January 1931: see s 12(2) (repealed).

7 The Reservoirs (Safety Provisions) Act 1930 (repealed) was passed on 1 August 1930.

8 See the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 28(2), Sch 2, which preserves in an amended form the Reservoirs (Safety Provisions) Act 1930 s 7 (repealed). The effect is to preserve rights of action against undertakers for damage caused by the escape of water from a reservoir constructed after 1930, ie claims in respect of the absolute liability under the rule in Rylands v Fletcher (1868) LR 3 HL 330 (see PARA 667). The defence of statutory authority (see NUISANCE vol 78 (2010) PARA 192) may still be available in respect of escapes from reservoirs constructed before 1931 under statutory powers, subject to any applicable local enactments to the contrary. As to the common law in respect of liability for damage by water see PARA 662 et seq.

(6) WATER SHORTAGES

(i) In general

302. Introduction.

The water legislation contains provisions allowing both water undertakers<sup>1</sup> and the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> to take special steps to cope with water shortages<sup>3</sup>. Some of these provisions relate only to water undertakers, others relate only to the Agency, and some are common to both. In summary: the Water Resources Act 1991 provides four mechanisms for dealing with drought situations: ordinary drought orders and emergency drought orders (both granted by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>4</sup>), drought permits (granted by the Agency)<sup>5</sup>, and specific provision for water undertakers to obtain drought orders restricting the use of water for certain purposes (so-called 'non-essential use bans')<sup>6</sup>. The Act also gives the Agency power to place temporary restrictions on spray irrigation licences<sup>7</sup>. The Water Industry Act 1991 gives water undertakers free-standing powers to impose hosepipe bans<sup>8</sup>, and requires water undertakers to prepare and review drought plans<sup>9</sup> in respect of which licensed water suppliers<sup>10</sup> are required to provide water undertakers with information<sup>11</sup>.

The prerequisite for both drought orders and drought permits is an exceptional shortage of rain meaning that a serious deficiency of water supplies exists or is threatened<sup>12</sup>. Both can authorise abstraction from specified sources, and can modify or suspend restrictions or obligations relating to the (existing) abstraction of water from any source<sup>13</sup>, but drought orders may go further<sup>14</sup>. Ordinary drought orders can also be granted for environmental reasons, that is where the lack of rain poses a serious threat to flora or fauna dependent on affected inland waters. These may be referred to as 'environmental drought orders'<sup>15</sup>. Emergency drought orders may be granted where the deficiency of water supplies is likely to impair the economic or social well-being of persons in the affected area. In practice these are granted to water undertakers and can enable them, for example, to impose rota cuts<sup>16</sup>.

(ii) Drought Permits and Drought Orders

A. IN GENERAL

303. Drought orders and drought permits distinguished.

Drought orders are granted by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>1</sup>, while drought permits are granted by the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup>.

Ordinary and emergency drought orders may go further than drought permits. Drought orders can deal with discharges of water<sup>3</sup>, abstractions and discharges by people other than the undertaker affected<sup>4</sup>, supply, filtration, and treatment obligations<sup>5</sup>. They can allow water undertakers<sup>6</sup> to prohibit or limit particular uses of water<sup>7</sup> and can authorise the carrying out of associated works<sup>8</sup>. Emergency drought orders can go further still: the water undertaker has complete discretion on the uses of water that may be prohibited or limited<sup>9</sup>, and such orders can authorise supply by stand-pipes or water tanks<sup>10</sup>.

By contrast drought permits can only authorise a water undertaker to take water from specified sources, and modify or suspend restrictions or obligations to which that undertaker is subject relating to the (existing) taking of water from any source<sup>11</sup>.

WATER RESOURCES/(6) WATER SHORTAGES/(ii) Drought Permits and Drought Orders/A. IN GENERAL/304. Procedure on applications for drought orders and drought permits.

304. Procedure on applications for drought orders and drought permits.

The applicant for a drought order<sup>1</sup> or drought permit<sup>2</sup> must cause notice of the application<sup>3</sup> to be served<sup>4</sup> on the specified persons<sup>5</sup> and published in one or more local newspapers circulating within the area affected by the order or permit<sup>6</sup> and in the London Gazette<sup>7</sup>.

If any objection is duly made with respect to the application and is not withdrawn, then the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers if the application is for a drought order, or the Environment Agency if the application is for a drought permit, must afford an opportunity to the objector and, if he avails himself of the opportunity, to the applicant and any other persons to whom it appears to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers or, as the case may be, the Agency expedient to afford the opportunity, of appearing before and being heard by a person appointed by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers or, as the case may be, by the Agency for the purpose<sup>8</sup>. In the case of an application for a drought order, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may alternatively cause a local inquiry to be held<sup>9</sup>. Where, however, it appears to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers or to the Agency, as the case may be, that the order or permit is required to be made urgently if it is to enable the deficiency of supplies of water to be effectively met, they may direct that these requirements<sup>10</sup> may be dispensed with<sup>11</sup>, but this does not authorise any of them to fail to consider any objection which has been duly made and not withdrawn<sup>12</sup>.

Notwithstanding the above provisions relating to the hearing of objections<sup>13</sup>, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers in relation to an application for a drought order, or the Agency in relation to an application for a drought permit, may:

589 (1) require any person who has made an objection to the proposed order or permit to state in writing<sup>14</sup> the grounds of his objection<sup>15</sup>; and

590 (2) disregard the objection if satisfied:

67. (a) that it relates exclusively to matters which can be dealt with on a reference in relation to compensation<sup>16</sup> or by any person by whom compensation is to be assessed<sup>17</sup>; or

68. (b) in a case where the order or permit is one confined to the extension of a period specified in a previous order or permit, that the objection is one that has in substance been made with respect to the previous application<sup>18</sup>.

Upon being satisfied that the proper notices have been published and served, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers if he or they think fit may make the drought order, or the Agency if it thinks fit may make the drought permit, in respect of which the application is made, with or without modifications<sup>19</sup>. After a drought order or permit has been made, the person on whose application it was made must cause a notice to be published<sup>20</sup> stating that the order or permit has been made and naming a place where a copy of it may be inspected<sup>21</sup>.

1 'Drought order' means an ordinary drought order under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 73(1) (see PARA 307) or an emergency drought order under s 73(2) (see PARA 308): s 221(1).

2 As to drought permits see PARA 305. The Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 8 has effect with respect to the procedure on an application for a drought permit as it has effect with respect to the procedure on an application for a drought order, but with modifications: see s 79A(7) (added by the Environment Act 1995 s 120, Sch 22 para 140).

3 The notice must: (1) state the general effect of the application; (2) specify a place within the area affected by the order where a copy of any relevant map or plan may be inspected by any person free of charge at all reasonable times within a period of seven days from the date on which it is served or, as the case may be, published; (3) state that objections to the application may be made to the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers, in the case of an application for a drought order, and to the Environment Agency at a specified address in the case of an application for a drought permit, within seven days from the date on which it is served or, as the case may be, published; and (4) in the case of an application for an order authorising the occupation and use of land, specify the land to which the application relates: Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 8 para 1(3). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 8, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

4 As to the service of documents see PARA 22. A notice sent in a letter in pursuance of the Water Resources Act 1991 s 220 (general provisions about service: see PARA 22) to an address to which it may be sent in pursuance of s 220 is not treated as having been properly served for these purposes unless the sender takes such steps as are for the time being required to secure that the letter is transmitted in priority to letters of other descriptions: Sch 8 para 1(4).

5 Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 8 para 1(1)(a). The specified persons are, in the case of applications for: (1) all drought permits: every local authority, not being an English county council, and water undertaker, not being the applicant, whose area would be affected by the order; (2) all drought orders: the persons specified in head (1) above and the Environment Agency where it is not the applicant; (3) drought orders or permits which suspend or modify any enactment or any order or scheme made or confirmed under any enactment: such persons, if any, as are specified by name in the enactment, order or scheme as being persons for whose protection it was enacted or made; (4) drought orders or permits concerning the taking of water from a source or the discharge of water or effluent to a place: (a) every local authority, not being an English county council, in whose area the source, or the place at which water or effluent is to be discharged, is situated; (b) every drainage board for an internal district in which the source, or the place at which water or effluent is to be discharged, is situated; (c) every navigation authority exercising functions over any watercourse affected by the order; (d) if the order concerns any consent relating to the discharge of sewage effluent or trade effluent, the person to whom the consent was given; (5) drought orders which authorise the carrying out of any works: every local authority, not being an English county council, within whose area the works are situated and, if the order authorises the carrying out of works in, under or over a watercourse, every drainage board for an internal drainage district within which the works, or any part of the works, are situated; (6) drought orders which authorise the occupation and use of land: every owner, lessee and occupier of the land; and (7) drought orders which prohibit or limit the taking of water: every named person to whom the prohibition or limitation applies: Sch 8 para 1(2), Table (amended by the Environment Act 1995 Sch 22 para 128; the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 22(5), Sch 11 para 3(7); and modified in its application to drought permits by the Water Resources Act 1991 s 79A(7)(a), (c) (as added: see note 2)).

As to the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 187 note 2. As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31. As to the meaning of 'effluent' see PARA 262 note 31. As to the meaning of 'owner' see PARA 22 note 9. As to the meaning of 'navigation authority' see PARA 189 note 1. As to the meaning of 'watercourse' see PARA 187 note 2. As to internal drainage boards see PARA 569 et seq. As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21. 'Sewage effluent' includes any effluent from the sewage disposal or sewerage works of a sewerage undertaker but does not include surface water: Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1). 'Trade effluent' includes any effluent which is discharged from premises used for carrying on any trade or industry, other than surface water and domestic sewage, and for the purposes of this definition any premises wholly or mainly used (whether for profit or not) for agricultural purposes or for the purposes of fish farming or for scientific research or experiment are deemed to be premises used for carrying on a trade: s 221(1). As to the meaning of 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meaning of 'agricultural' see PARA 209 note 20. In Pt II Ch III (ss 73-81) references to the 'taking of water' include references to the collection, impounding, diversion or appropriation of water: s 81(a).

8 Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 8 para 2(1)(b).

9 See the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 8 para 2(1)(a), (6). For the purposes of the Environment Act 1995 s 53(2) (which applies the Local Government Act 1972 s 250(2)-(5) to inquiries in connection with functions of or in relation to the Agency: see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 89), a local inquiry held under the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 8 para 2 with respect to an application by a water undertaker for a drought order, if it would not otherwise fall within the Environment Act 1995 s 53(2)(a) or (b), is to be treated as one which falls within s 53(2)(b): Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 8 para 2(7) (added by the Water Act 2003 s 65). For the procedure to be followed before any such inquiry see the Drought Orders (Inquiries Procedure) Rules 1984, SI 1984/999, r 4; as to appearances at the inquiry see rr 5, 6; for the procedure at the inquiry see r 7; as to site inspections see r 8; and as to the procedure after the inquiry see rr 9, 10. In relation to any such inquiry, references in those rules to 'government policy' have effect as if they included reference to policy adopted or formulated by the Welsh Ministers: National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 2000, SI 2000/253, art 6(1), (2), Sch 4; Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. In relation to any such inquiry which is held or caused to be held other than by the Welsh Ministers, references to a government department have effect as if they included reference to the Welsh Ministers (National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 2000, SI 2000/253, art 6(3); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32); but this does not include an inquiry held by an inspector where jurisdiction to determine the appeal to which that inquiry relates has been transferred to the inspector by the Welsh Ministers (National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 2000, SI 2000/253, art 6(4); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32).

B. DROUGHT PERMITS

305. Powers to issue drought permits.

If the Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> is satisfied that, by reason of an exceptional shortage of rain, a serious deficiency of supplies of water in any area exists or is threatened, it may, upon the application of a water undertaker<sup>2</sup> which supplies water to premises in that area, issue to that undertaker a drought permit making such authorised provision<sup>3</sup> as appears to the Agency to be expedient with a view to meeting the deficiency<sup>4</sup>.

A drought permit may contain any of the following provisions:

- 591 (1) provision authorising the water undertaker to which it is issued to take water<sup>5</sup> from any source specified in the permit subject to any conditions or restrictions so specified<sup>6</sup>;
- 592 (2) provision suspending or modifying<sup>7</sup>, subject to any conditions specified in the permit, any restriction or obligation<sup>8</sup> to which that undertaker is subject as respects the taking of water from any source<sup>9</sup>; and may make different provision for different cases, including different provision in relation to different persons<sup>10</sup>, circumstances or localities, and may contain such supplemental, consequential and transitional provisions as the Agency considers appropriate<sup>11</sup>.

A drought permit must specify the day on which it comes into force<sup>12</sup> and the period for which any authorisation given or suspension or modification effected by the permit is to have effect<sup>13</sup>. The period for which an authorisation given by a drought permit<sup>14</sup>, or a suspension or modification effected by such a permit<sup>15</sup>, has effect expires before the end of the period of six months<sup>16</sup> beginning with the day on which the permit comes into force<sup>17</sup>; but at any time before the expiration of that period the Agency may, by notice<sup>18</sup> given to the water undertaker to which the permit in question was issued, extend that period<sup>19</sup>.

A drought permit which:

- 593 (a) authorises the taking of water from a source from which water is supplied to an inland navigation<sup>20</sup>; or
- 594 (b) suspends or modifies (i) a restriction as respects the taking of water from a source from which water is supplied to an inland navigation<sup>21</sup>; or (ii) an obligation to discharge compensation water<sup>22</sup> into a canal or into any river or stream which forms part of, or from which water is supplied to, an inland navigation<sup>23</sup>, must not be issued without the consent of every navigation authority<sup>24</sup> exercising functions over any or all of the parts of the canal or inland navigation in question which are affected by the permit<sup>25</sup>.

Where a water undertaker makes an application for a drought permit, the Agency may recover from the water undertaker any expenses it incurs, whether of a revenue or capital nature, in the exercise of its functions so far as their exercise is attributable to the application<sup>26</sup> and (if the permit is issued) the permit<sup>27</sup>, in so far as those expenses have not been recovered, whether from the water undertaker or not, under or by virtue of any other enactment<sup>28</sup>.

C. DROUGHT ORDERS

306. Powers to make drought orders; in general.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> may make both ordinary<sup>3</sup> and emergency drought orders<sup>4</sup> on application by the Environment Agency<sup>5</sup> or a water undertaker<sup>6</sup>. Third parties are not entitled to apply for drought orders, but the Agency may in practice use its powers to apply for them for the benefit of such persons<sup>7</sup>.

Where a water undertaker makes an application for a drought order, the Environment Agency may recover from the water undertaker any expenses it incurs (whether of a revenue or capital nature):

- 595 (1) in connection with any local inquiry held in respect of the application<sup>8</sup>;
- 596 (2) in the exercise of the Agency's functions so far as their exercise is attributable to the application and (if the order is made) to the order<sup>9</sup>, in so far as those expenses have not been recovered (whether from the water undertaker or not) under or by virtue of any other enactment<sup>10</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

307. Ordinary drought orders.

If the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> is satisfied that, by reason of an exceptional shortage of rain, there exists or is threatened:

- 597 (1) a serious deficiency of supplies of water in any area<sup>3</sup>; or
- 598 (2) such a deficiency in the flow or level of water in any inland waters<sup>4</sup> as to pose a serious threat to any of the flora or fauna which are dependent on those waters<sup>5</sup>, then he or they may by order (an 'ordinary drought order')<sup>6</sup> make such authorised provision<sup>7</sup> as appears to him or them to be expedient with a view to meeting the deficiency<sup>8</sup>. The power to make such an order in relation to any area is not exercisable unless an application is made<sup>9</sup> to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers by the Environment Agency<sup>10</sup> or, except in the case of an ordinary drought order by virtue of head (2) above, by a water undertaker<sup>11</sup> which supplies water to premises in that area<sup>12</sup>.

An ordinary drought order made on the application of the Agency may contain any of the following provisions:

- 599 (a) provision authorising the Agency (or persons<sup>13</sup> authorised to do so by the Agency) to take water from any source specified in the order subject to any conditions or restrictions so specified<sup>14</sup>;
- 600 (b) provision authorising the Agency (or persons authorised to do so by the Agency) to discharge water to any place specified in the order subject to any conditions or restrictions so specified<sup>15</sup>;
- 601 (c) provision authorising the Agency to prohibit or limit the taking by any person (including a water undertaker) of water<sup>16</sup> from a source specified in the order if the Agency is satisfied that the taking of water from that source seriously affects the supplies available to the Agency, any water undertaker or any other person<sup>17</sup>;
- 602 (d) provision suspending or modifying<sup>18</sup>, subject to any conditions specified in the order, any restriction or obligation<sup>19</sup> to which the Agency, any water undertaker or sewerage undertaker<sup>20</sup> or any other person is subject as respects the taking of water from any source<sup>21</sup>, the discharge of water<sup>22</sup>, the supply of water (whether in point of quantity, pressure, quality, means of supply or otherwise)<sup>23</sup>, or the filtration or other treatment of water<sup>24</sup>;
- 603 (e) provision authorising the Agency to suspend or vary, or attach conditions to, any consent specified in the order for the discharge of any effluent<sup>25</sup> by any person, including any sewerage undertaker or water undertaker<sup>26</sup>.

An ordinary drought order made on the application of a water undertaker may contain any of the following provisions;

- 604 (i) provision authorising the water undertaker to take water from any source specified in the order subject to any conditions or restrictions so specified<sup>27</sup>;
- 605 (ii) provision authorising the water undertaker to prohibit or limit the use of water for any purpose specified in the order, being a purpose for the time being set

- out in a direction given by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers to water undertakers generally as a purpose which may be specified by virtue of this provision in any ordinary drought order<sup>28</sup>;
- 606 (iii) provision authorising the water undertaker to discharge water to any place specified in the order subject to any conditions or restrictions so specified<sup>29</sup>;
- 607 (iv) provision authorising the Agency to prohibit or limit the taking by any person of water from a source specified in the order if the Agency is satisfied that the taking of water from that source seriously affects the supplies available to the water undertaker<sup>30</sup>;
- 608 (v) provision prohibiting or limiting the taking by the Agency of water from a source specified in the order if the taking of water from that source is determined, in accordance with provision made by the order, seriously to affect the supplies available to the water undertaker<sup>31</sup>;
- 609 (vi) provision suspending or modifying, subject to any conditions specified in the order, any restriction or obligation to which the water undertaker or any sewerage undertaker or other person is subject as respects the taking of water from any source<sup>32</sup>, the discharge of water<sup>33</sup>, the supply of water (whether in point of quantity, pressure, quality, means of supply or otherwise)<sup>34</sup>, or the filtration or other treatment of water<sup>35</sup>;
- 610 (vii) provision authorising the Agency to suspend or vary, or attach conditions to, any consent specified in the order for the discharge of any effluent by any person, including the company which applied for the order (whether in the capacity in which it made the application, in its capacity as a sewerage undertaker or in any other capacity)<sup>36</sup>.

An ordinary drought order may<sup>37</sup> make different provision for different cases (including different provision in relation to different persons, circumstances or localities)<sup>38</sup>, and contain such supplemental, consequential and transitional provision as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers consider appropriate<sup>39</sup>.

The period for which an authorisation given by or under an ordinary drought order<sup>40</sup>, a prohibition or limitation imposed by or under any such order<sup>41</sup>, or a suspension or modification effected by or under any such order<sup>42</sup>, has effect must expire before the end of the period of six months<sup>43</sup> beginning with the day on which the order comes into force, unless that period of six months is extended, in relation to that order, by virtue of the exercise by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers of the power to amend the order<sup>44</sup>.

Where any purpose set out in a direction given for the purposes of s 74(2)(b) will cease, by virtue of the variation or revocation of the direction, to be one which may be specified in an ordinary drought order, the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers must (without an application having been made to him or them) exercise the power to vary or revoke ordinary drought orders, in so far as any orders in force will be affected by the variation or revocation of the direction, so as to make those orders conform to the variation or reflect the revocation: s 76(3). The revocation or variation of a direction under s 76(3) does not affect either: (1) the validity of anything done in pursuance of an order before the giving of the further direction (s 76(4)(a)); or (2) any obligation or liability accrued or incurred before the giving of the further direction (s 76(4)(b)). Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/5. WATER RESOURCES/(6) WATER SHORTAGES/(ii) Drought Permits and Drought Orders/C. DROUGHT ORDERS/308. Emergency drought orders.

308. Emergency drought orders.

- 611 (1) are satisfied that by reason of an exceptional shortage of rain a serious deficiency of supplies of water in any area exists or is threatened<sup>3</sup>; and
- 612 (2) are further satisfied that the deficiency is such as to be likely to impair the economic or social well-being of persons<sup>4</sup> in the affected area<sup>5</sup>, he or they may by order (an 'emergency drought order')<sup>6</sup> make such provision as appears to him or them to be expedient with a view to meeting the deficiency<sup>7</sup>. The power to make an emergency drought order in relation to any area is not exercisable unless an application<sup>8</sup> is made to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers by the Environment Agency<sup>9</sup> or by a water undertaker<sup>10</sup> which supplies water to premises in that area<sup>11</sup>.

An emergency drought order made on the application of the Agency may contain any of the provisions which could be included<sup>12</sup> in an ordinary drought order made on the application of the Agency<sup>13</sup>. An emergency drought order made on the application of a water undertaker may contain any of the following provisions:

- 613 (a) any provision which could be included<sup>14</sup> in an ordinary drought order made on the application of a water undertaker, except provision authorising<sup>15</sup> the water undertaker to prohibit or limit the use of water for any specified purpose<sup>16</sup>;
- 614 (b) provision authorising the water undertaker to prohibit or limit the use of water for such purposes as the water undertaker thinks fit<sup>17</sup>;
- 615 (c) provision authorising the water undertaker to supply water in its area, or in any place within its area, by means of stand-pipes or water tanks<sup>18</sup>; and to erect or set up and maintain stand-pipes or water tanks in any street<sup>19</sup> in that area<sup>20</sup>.

The period for which (i) an authorisation given by or under an emergency drought order<sup>21</sup>, (ii) a prohibition or limitation imposed by or under any such order<sup>22</sup>; or (iii) a suspension or modification effected by or under any such order<sup>23</sup>, has effect must expire before the end of the period of three months<sup>24</sup> beginning with the day on which the order comes into force unless that period of three months is extended, in relation to that order, by virtue of the exercise by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers of the power to amend the order<sup>25</sup>.

Where powers have been conferred by an emergency drought order on any person, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may give to that person such directions as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers consider necessary or expedient as to the manner or the circumstances in which any of those powers is, or is not, to be exercised<sup>26</sup>. It is the duty of that person to comply with any such direction<sup>27</sup>; and where that person is a water undertaker or sewerage undertaker<sup>28</sup> that duty is enforceable<sup>29</sup> by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>30</sup>. The giving of such a direction in relation to any power does not affect the validity of anything done in the exercise of that power before the giving of the direction<sup>31</sup>, or any obligation<sup>32</sup> or liability incurred before the giving of the direction<sup>33</sup>.

An emergency drought order may<sup>34</sup> make different provision for different cases, including different provision in relation to different persons, circumstances or localities<sup>35</sup>, and may contain such supplemental, incidental or consequential provision as the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers consider appropriate<sup>36</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 73, 75 (subject as stated below) so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. In respect of the functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 75(5)(c) (see the text to notes 28-30): (1) such functions so far as relating to matters concerning the construction or enlargement of reservoirs are transferred to the Welsh Ministers in relation to Wales; (2) such functions so far as relating to matters other than the construction or enlargement of reservoirs are transferred to the Welsh Ministers in relation to those parts of Wales which are outside the catchment areas of the rivers Dee, Wye and Severn; (3) it is directed that such functions so far as relating to matters other than the construction or enlargement of reservoirs are, in relation to those parts of Wales which are within the catchment areas of the rivers Dee, Wye and Severn, exercisable by the Welsh Ministers concurrently with the Secretary of State: National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1; Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. Where a drought order<sup>1</sup> contains a provision authorising a water undertaker<sup>2</sup> to prohibit or limit the use of water:

- 616 (1) the power may be exercised in relation to consumers generally, a class of consumer or a particular consumer<sup>3</sup>;
- 617 (2) the water undertaker must take such steps as it thinks appropriate for bringing the prohibition or limitation to the attention of the persons<sup>4</sup> to whom the prohibition or limitation will apply and, in particular, must (as the undertaker thinks appropriate) (a) cause notice of the prohibition or limitation to be published in one or more local newspapers circulating within that part of the water undertaker's area which would be affected by the provision of the order<sup>5</sup>; or (b) send notice<sup>6</sup> of the prohibition or limitation to the persons to whom the prohibition or limitation will apply<sup>7</sup>;
- 618 (3) the prohibition or limitation does not come into operation until the end of the period of 72 hours beginning with the day on which the notice is published or, as the case may be, sent to the person in question<sup>8</sup>.

WATER RESOURCES/(6) WATER SHORTAGES/(ii) Drought Permits and Drought Orders/C. DROUGHT ORDERS/310. Provisions of drought order with respect to abstractions and discharges.

310. Provisions of drought order with respect to abstractions and discharges.

Any drought order<sup>1</sup> which:

- 619 (1) authorises the taking of water<sup>2</sup> from a source from which water is supplied to an inland navigation<sup>3</sup>; or
- 620 (2) suspends or modifies<sup>4</sup> a restriction<sup>5</sup> as respects the taking of water from such a source, or an obligation<sup>6</sup> to discharge compensation water<sup>7</sup> into a canal or into any river or stream which forms part of, or from which water is supplied to, an inland navigation<sup>8</sup>, may include provision for prohibiting or imposing limitations on the taking of water from the inland navigation, or for the suspension or modification of any obligation to which a navigation authority<sup>9</sup> is subject as respects the discharge of water from the inland navigation<sup>10</sup>.

Where a drought order made on the application of a water undertaker<sup>11</sup> confers power on the Environment Agency<sup>12</sup> to prohibit or limit the taking of water from any source<sup>13</sup>, or to suspend or vary, or attach conditions to, any consent for the discharge of any effluent<sup>14</sup>, the Agency must exercise that power in such manner as will ensure, so far as reasonably practicable, that the supplies of water available to the water undertaker are not seriously affected<sup>15</sup>. Where any drought order confers power on the Agency to suspend or vary, or attach conditions to, any consent for the discharge of any effluent<sup>16</sup>, and the Agency exercises that power so as to restrict the discharge of effluent by a sewerage undertaker<sup>17</sup>, the sewerage undertaker may so modify any consents or agreements relating to the discharge by other persons of trade effluent<sup>18</sup> as to enable it to comply with any requirements or conditions imposed on it by or under the order with respect to discharges from sewers<sup>19</sup> or works of the undertaker<sup>20</sup>.

311. Works under drought orders.

A drought order<sup>1</sup> may authorise the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> or a water undertaker<sup>3</sup>, subject to any specified conditions and restrictions<sup>4</sup>, to carry out any works<sup>5</sup> required for the performance of any duty or the exercise of any power which is imposed or conferred by or under the order<sup>6</sup>. Such an order may authorise the Agency or a water undertaker to enter upon any land<sup>7</sup> specified in the order and to occupy and use the land to such extent and in such manner as may be requisite for the carrying out and maintenance of the works<sup>8</sup>. The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers must, however, include in any drought order authorising the Agency or a water undertaker to enter any land provisions requiring the Agency or that undertaker to give to the occupier of the land, and to such other persons<sup>9</sup> concerned with the land as may be specified in the order, not less than 24 hours' notice<sup>10</sup> of any intended entry<sup>11</sup>.

Compensation is payable in respect of the entry upon or the occupation or use of land under a drought order<sup>12</sup>.

2 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

3 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

4 As to the meaning of 'restriction' see PARA 305 note 8.

5 Any works to be carried out under the authority of an emergency drought order are included in the definition of 'emergency works' in the New Roads and Street Works Act 1991 s 52 (see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 431); Water Resources Act 1991 s 78(5). As to emergency drought orders see PARA 308.

7 As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21.

8 Water Resources Act 1991 s 78(2)(a) (as amended: see note 6). The order may apply in relation to the carrying out of the works such of the provisions of Pt VII (ss 154-186) or of the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt VI (ss 155-192) (see PARA 453 et seq) as appear to the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers to be appropriate, subject to such modifications as may be specified in the order: Water Resources Act 1991 s 78(2)(b). As to the meaning of 'modifications' see PARA 141 note 20. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 78, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

9 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

10 As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the service of documents see PARA 22.

11 Water Resources Act 1991 s 78(3) (as amended: see note 6). Subject to this requirement, a drought order may make any such provision in relation to the authorised entry on any land as corresponds to provisions relating to powers of entry having effect by virtue of s 173 (see Sch 20; and PARAS 482-485) or to provision contained in the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 Pt II (paras 6-13) (see PARAS 482-485): Water Resources Act 1991 s 78(4).

Compensation to be made in the case of all drought orders and drought permits.

D. COMPENSATION AND CHARGES DURING DROUGHTS

312. Compensation to be made in the case of all drought orders and drought permits.

Where a drought order<sup>1</sup> has been made or a drought permit<sup>2</sup> has been issued, compensation in respect of the entry upon or occupation or use of land<sup>3</sup> must be made by the applicant for the order or permit<sup>4</sup> to the owners<sup>5</sup> and occupiers of the land<sup>6</sup>, and to all other persons<sup>7</sup> interested in the land or injuriously affected by the entry upon, occupation or use of the land<sup>8</sup>, for loss or damage sustained by reason of the entry upon, occupation or use of the land<sup>9</sup>. A claim for compensation must be made by serving<sup>10</sup> upon the applicant for the order or permit a notice<sup>11</sup> stating the grounds of the claim and the amount claimed<sup>12</sup>. Any question as to the right of a claimant to recover compensation, or as to the amount of compensation recoverable, must in default of agreement be referred to and determined by the Lands Tribunal<sup>13</sup>.

UPDATE

312 Compensation to be made in the case of all drought orders and drought permits

TEXT AND NOTE 13--Reference to the Lands Tribunal is now to the Upper Tribunal: Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 9 para 3(2) (amended by SI 2009/1307).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/5. WATER RESOURCES/(6) WATER SHORTAGES/(ii) Drought Permits and Drought Orders/D. COMPENSATION AND CHARGES DURING DROUGHTS/313. Additional compensation in the case of ordinary drought orders and drought permits.

313. Additional compensation in the case of ordinary drought orders and drought permits.

Where an ordinary drought order<sup>1</sup> has been made or a drought permit<sup>2</sup> has been issued, additional compensation<sup>3</sup> must be made by the applicant for the order or permit<sup>4</sup>:

- 621 (1) in respect of the taking of water<sup>5</sup> from a source or its taking from a source otherwise than in accordance with a restriction or obligation<sup>6</sup> which has been suspended or modified<sup>7</sup>, to the owners<sup>8</sup> of the source of water and to all other persons<sup>9</sup> interested in the source of water or injuriously affected by the taking of the water, for loss or damage sustained by reason of the taking of the water<sup>10</sup>;
- 622 (2) in respect of water's being discharged or not discharged to any place or its being discharged otherwise than in accordance with a restriction or obligation (whether relating to the treatment or to the discharge of water), which has been suspended or modified, to the owners of the place of discharge and to all other persons interested in the place of discharge or injuriously affected by the discharge or lack of discharge, for loss or damage sustained by reason of the water being discharged or not discharged or being discharged otherwise than in accordance with the restriction or obligation<sup>11</sup>;
- 623 (3) in respect of the imposition of a prohibition or limitation on the taking of water from a source, to any persons to whom the prohibition or limitation applies, for loss or damage sustained by reason of the prohibition or limitation<sup>12</sup>;
- 624 (4) in respect of a power to make discharges of sewage effluent or trade effluent<sup>13</sup> in pursuance of any consent, to any person who has been exercising that power for loss or damage sustained by reason of the suspension or variation of the consent or the attachment of conditions to the consent<sup>14</sup>.

A claim for such compensation may be made<sup>15</sup> at any time not later than six months<sup>16</sup> after the end of the period for which the order or permit authorises, as the case may be, the taking or discharge of water, the imposition of a prohibition or limitation on the taking of water, the suspension or modification of any restriction or obligation, or the suspension or variation of, or the attachment of conditions to, any consent relating to the discharge of sewage effluent or trade effluent<sup>17</sup>. Where such a claim is made during the continuance of the ordinary drought order or drought permit, the Lands Tribunal may, if it thinks fit, award a sum representing the loss or damage which is likely to be sustained by the claimant in respect of each day on which, as the case may be, water is taken or discharged, water is not discharged or is discharged otherwise than in accordance with an obligation or restriction, or sewage effluent or trade effluent is discharged otherwise than in accordance with a consent originally given<sup>18</sup>.

<sup>2</sup> The Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 9 applies in relation to drought permits and their issue as it applies in relation to ordinary drought orders and their making: s 79A(9) (s 79A added by the Environment Act 1995 s 120, Sch 22 para 140). As to drought permits see PARA 305.

13 As to the meanings of 'sewage effluent' and 'trade effluent' see PARA 304 note 5.

14 See the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 9 para 2(5).

15 A claim for compensation must be made by serving upon the applicant a notice stating the grounds of the claim and the amount claimed: Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 9 para 3(1). Any question as to the right of a claimant to recover compensation, or as to the amount of compensation recoverable, must, in default of agreement, be referred to, and determined by, the Lands Tribunal: Sch 9 para 3(2). As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the service of documents see PARA 22. As to the Lands Tribunal see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 720 et seq. At the date at which this volume states the law, draft legislation proposes the abolition of the Lands Tribunal and its replacement by the Upper Tribunal (as to which see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) para 13A).

16 As to the meaning of 'month' see PARA 23 note 10.

17 Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 9 para 4(1). Interest is payable on the compensation payable: in the case of a claim under heads (1) and (2) in the text, from the date of the ordinary drought order or the drought permit; in the case of a claim under head (3) in the text, from the date of decision to prohibit or limit the taking of water; and in the case of a claim under head (4) in the text, from the date of suspension or variation of consent to make discharges or of the attachment of conditions to such consent: see the Planning and Compensation Act 1991 s 80(1), Sch 18 Pt I (amended by the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2, Sch 1 para 58; SI 1996/593). Payments on account of compensation or interest may be made: see the Planning and Compensation Act 1991 s 80(2), (3).

18 Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 9 para 4(2). In assessing the compensation to be made under head (1) in the text, the Lands Tribunal may, if it thinks fit, have regard to the amount of water which, on an equitable apportionment of the water available from the source between the claimant, the applicant and other persons taking water from the source, may fairly be apportioned to the claimant: Sch 9 para 4(3). In assessing the compensation to be made under head (2) in the text in respect of the lack of discharge of compensation water the tribunal may, if it thinks fit, have regard to the amount of water which, under the conditions existing by reason of the shortage of rain, would have been available to the claimant during the period during which the deficiency of supplies of water is continued, if the applicant in relation to which the obligation was imposed had never carried on its undertaking: Sch 9 para 4(4). As to the meaning of 'compensation water' see PARA 305 note 22: definition applied by Sch 9 para 4(5).

314. Other civil liabilities where drought order made or drought permit issued.

Apart from the statutory provisions with respect to the payment of compensation<sup>1</sup>, neither the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> nor any water undertaker or sewerage undertaker<sup>3</sup> will incur any liability to any person<sup>4</sup> for loss or damage sustained by reason of anything done, or of any omission, in pursuance of a drought order<sup>5</sup> or drought permit<sup>6</sup>.

Nothing in any drought order or drought permit affects the right of the Agency or any water undertaker or sewerage undertaker, in the event of an interruption or diminution of the supply of water, to recover any fixed or minimum charge which might have been recovered from any person by the Agency or that undertaker if there had been no such interruption or diminution<sup>7</sup>.

E. OFFENCES RELATING TO DROUGHT ORDERS OR PERMITS

315. Offences against drought order or drought permit.

A person<sup>1</sup> is guilty of an offence<sup>2</sup> if he:

- 625 (1) takes<sup>3</sup> or uses water in contravention<sup>4</sup> of a prohibition or limitation imposed by or under any drought order<sup>5</sup>, or takes or uses water otherwise than in accordance with any condition or restriction imposed by or under any such order or by a drought permit<sup>6</sup>; or
- 626 (2) discharges water otherwise than in accordance with any condition or restriction imposed by or under a drought order<sup>7</sup>; or
- 627 (3) fails to construct or maintain in good order a gauge, weir or other apparatus for measuring the flow of water required to be constructed or maintained by any drought order or drought permit<sup>8</sup>; or
- 628 (4) fails to allow some person authorised for the purpose by or under any such order, or by virtue of any such permit, to inspect and examine any such apparatus or any records<sup>9</sup> made by that apparatus or kept by that person in connection with the apparatus or to take copies of any such records<sup>10</sup>.

In any proceedings against any person for such an offence it is a defence for that person to show that he took all reasonable precautions and exercised all due diligence to avoid the commission of the offence<sup>11</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 A person who is guilty of any such offence is liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum (Water Resources Act 1991 s 80(4)(a)); or on conviction on indictment, to a fine (s 80(4)(b)). As to the statutory maximum see PARA 169 note 20.

(iii) Other Temporary Restrictions

316. Hosepipe bans.

If a water undertaker<sup>1</sup> is of the opinion that a serious deficiency<sup>2</sup> of water available for distribution by that undertaker exists, or is threatened, it may, for such period as it thinks necessary, prohibit or restrict, as respects the whole or any part of its area<sup>3</sup>, the use, for the purpose of watering private gardens<sup>4</sup> or washing private motor cars<sup>5</sup>, of any water supplied by that undertaker or a licensed water supplier<sup>6</sup> and drawn through a hosepipe or similar apparatus<sup>7</sup>. Before the prohibition or restriction comes into force, the undertaker must give public notice of it, and of the date when it will come into force, in two or more newspapers circulating in the locality affected by the prohibition or restriction<sup>8</sup>. During any period when any such prohibition or restriction is in force, any person designated for the purpose by the water undertaker which imposed it may, on producing some duly authenticated document showing his authority, at all reasonable times enter any premises to which the prohibition or restriction applies for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is or has been any contravention of it<sup>9</sup>.

Any person<sup>10</sup> who contravenes<sup>11</sup> the provisions of such a prohibition or restriction at a time while it is in force is guilty of an offence<sup>12</sup>.

Where such a prohibition or restriction is imposed by a water undertaker, charges made by the undertaker for the use of a hosepipe or similar apparatus are subject to a reasonable reduction, and, in the case of a charge paid in advance, the undertaker must make any necessary repayment or adjustment<sup>13</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

2 There must be a 'serious deficiency' of water; it is not enough that there is a shortage of rain; cf the position in relation to emergency variations of spray irrigation licences, where an 'exceptional shortage of rain' is sufficient: see PARA 262.

3 As to a water undertaker's area see PARA 318.

4 Water Industry Act 1991 s 76(1)(a). 'Private garden' is not defined for these purposes but it is submitted that the prohibition applies to all gardens and parts of gardens which are not open to the public and are not commercial in nature. Thus, while a prohibition or restriction under this provision is in force, the watering by a hosepipe or similar apparatus of private allotments and vegetable gardens, and of lawns and ornamental gardens which are not open to the public, is affected by the prohibition or restriction. The watering by such means of commercial allotments and market gardens, of ornamental gardens open to the public as of right and of sports grounds of any description is unaffected. However, as to the position when any prohibition or restriction under the drought provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 is in force see PARA 309.

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 76(1)(b). For these purposes, 'private motor car' means any mechanically propelled vehicle intended or adapted for use on roads, other than a public service vehicle within the meaning of the Public Passenger Vehicles Act 1981 (see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(3) (2007 Reissue) PARA 1136) or a goods vehicle within the meaning of the Road Traffic Act 1988 (see ROAD TRAFFIC vol 40(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 220), and includes any vehicle drawn by a private car: Water Industry Act 1991 s 76(5).

6 As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152.

6. WATER SUPPLY

(1) EUROPEAN COMMUNITY LEGISLATION

317. Power to give effect to international obligations.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> may by regulations<sup>2</sup> provide that the provisions of the Water Industry Act 1991 relating to water supply<sup>3</sup> have effect with such modifications<sup>4</sup> as may be prescribed to enable Her Majesty's government in the United Kingdom<sup>5</sup> to give effect to any Community obligations<sup>6</sup>, or to any international agreement to which the United Kingdom is for the time being a party<sup>7</sup>.

The quality of water supplied for human consumption is increasingly regulated by European Community legislation<sup>8</sup>, which either has direct effect<sup>9</sup> or is effective through national legislation made for the purpose of implementing a European Directive<sup>10</sup>. Additionally, member states must ensure by 2010 that water-pricing policies provide adequate incentives for users to use water resources efficiently, and thereby contribute to the environmental objectives of the Water Framework Directive<sup>11</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 As to the making of regulations see PARA 21. By virtue of the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2(2), Sch 2 para 1(1), (2), the following regulations have effect as if made under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 92: the Surface Waters (Dangerous Substances) (Classification) Regulations 1989, SI 1989/2286, and the Bathing Waters (Classification) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/1597. See further ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARAS 330, 331.

(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY

(i) General Duties

318. Water undertakers and their appointed areas.

The area within which it is the duty of a water undertaker<sup>1</sup> to supply water<sup>2</sup> is the area defined in its appointment<sup>3</sup>. In the appointment the area of supply is defined by reference to a map. Properties outside the boundary on the map may be listed as being in the undertaker's area of supply; and properties inside the area on the map may be listed as outside the area of supply<sup>4</sup>. Occupiers of premises within that area<sup>5</sup> are entitled on certain conditions to receive on demand a supply of water for domestic purposes<sup>6</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

2 As to the duty to supply water see PARA 319.

3 As to the appointment of water undertakers see PARA 137 et seq.

4 The instruments of appointment of the water undertakers are available on the Water Services Regulation Authority's website at www.ofwat.gov.uk.

5 The Water Industry Act 1991 s 45(1) (as originally enacted) (duty to make connections with main: see PARA 335) placed a duty on a water undertaker to make a connection to a water main only in relation to properties in the undertaker's area. The words 'in the undertaker's area' were deleted by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 ss 43(1), 56(7), Sch 2. Before this amendment the position was, strictly speaking, that an amendment of the appointment was needed if a person living outside the undertaker's area requested a connection. This could happen, eg, where a person lived near the border of two undertakers' areas and the nearest main was in the area of the undertaker in whose area the applicant's property was not situated. Following the 1992 amendment a person, regardless of where he lives, can request a connection to any undertaker's main. Until that change was made, supply to persons outside that area and in excess of any such powers could possibly be restrained at the instance of the Attorney General: see A-G v West Gloucestershire Water Co [1909] 2 Ch 338, CA, where it was also held that the fact that the junction of the pipes of the person supplied with the company's mains was inside the limits was immaterial. The duties to supply water for non-domestic purposes, and to supply water to premises other than buildings, still apply only to premises in the area of a water undertaker: see PARA 347.

319. General duty to maintain water supply system etc.

It is the duty of every water undertaker<sup>1</sup> to develop and maintain an efficient and economical system of water supply within its area<sup>2</sup> and to ensure that all such arrangements have been made:

- 629 (1) for providing supplies of water to premises in that area and for making such supplies available to persons<sup>3</sup> who demand them<sup>4</sup>; and
- 630 (2) for maintaining, improving and extending the undertaker's water mains<sup>5</sup> and other pipes<sup>6</sup>, as are necessary for securing that the undertaker is, and continues to be, able to meet its obligations under the provisions of the Water Industry Act 1991<sup>7</sup> relating to water supply<sup>8</sup>.

The obligations imposed on a water undertaker by those water supply provisions, and the remedies available in respect of contraventions<sup>9</sup> of those obligations, are in addition to any duty imposed or remedy available by virtue of the above duty and are not in any way qualified by any such duty or remedy<sup>10</sup>.

Unless otherwise stated, references in the Water Industry Act 1991 to the supply system of a water undertaker are to the water mains and other pipes which it is the undertaker's duty to develop and maintain by virtue of s 37: s 219(4A) (added by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 50(1), (3)).

The duty under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 37 is enforceable under s 18 (see PARA 163) by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers (s 37(2)(a)), or, with the consent of, or in accordance with a general authorisation given by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers, by the Water Services Regulation Authority (s 37(2)(b) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2))). The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers may make regulations to help determine whether an undertaker is in breach of the duty under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 37: see s 38(1)(a); and PARA 325. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 37, 38 in relation to any water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1 (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 100(2)(b)(iii)). ### 320. Duty to promote efficient use of water.

It is the duty of every water undertaker<sup>1</sup> or licensed water supplier<sup>2</sup> to promote the efficient use of water by its customers<sup>3</sup>. The Water Services Regulation Authority may require a water undertaker or licensed water supplier, in its performance of this duty, to take any such action<sup>4</sup> or achieve any such overall standards of performance<sup>5</sup> as it may specify in the document imposing the requirement<sup>6</sup>. Such a requirement may<sup>7</sup> require a water undertaker or licensed water supplier to: (1) make specified facilities available to its customers or potential customers<sup>8</sup>; or (2) provide or make available to them specified information<sup>9</sup>, and may specify the form in which, the times at which or the frequency with which any such information is to be provided or made available<sup>10</sup>. Before imposing any such requirement on a water undertaker or licensed water supplier, the Authority must consult that undertaker or supplier<sup>11</sup>, and in exercising these powers in regard to any such undertaker or supplier the Authority must have regard to the extent to which water resources are available to that undertaker or supplier<sup>12</sup>.

Nothing in the above provisions, however, has effect to authorise or require a water undertaker or licensed water supplier to impose any requirement on any of its customers or potential customers<sup>13</sup>; or authorises the Authority to impose any requirement on a water undertaker or licensed water supplier which has, or may have, that effect<sup>14</sup>.

Where the Authority imposes any requirement on a water undertaker or licensed water supplier under these provisions, the Authority may arrange for that requirement to be publicised<sup>15</sup> in any such manner as it may consider appropriate for the purpose of bringing it to the attention of that undertaker's or supplier's customers<sup>16</sup>. Where a water undertaker or licensed water supplier is subject to any requirement imposed under these provisions, the Authority may also arrange for there to be given to the customers of that undertaker or supplier, at such times or with such frequency, and in any such manner<sup>17</sup>, as the Authority may consider appropriate, such information about the level of performance achieved by the undertaker or supplier in relation to that requirement as appears to the Authority to be expedient to be given to those customers<sup>18</sup>.

At such times and in such form or manner as the Authority may direct, a water undertaker or licensed water supplier must provide the Authority with such information as may be specified in the direction in connection with the undertaker's or supplier's performance in relation to any requirement imposed upon the undertaker or supplier under these provisions<sup>19</sup>. A water undertaker or licensed water supplier who fails without reasonable excuse to do anything so required of it is guilty of an offence<sup>20</sup>.

2 As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152.

3 Water Industry Act 1991 s 93A(1) (ss 93A-93D added by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 102; Water Industry Act 1991 s 93A(1) amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 29(a)). This duty is enforceable under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 18 (see PARA 163) by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers, or by the Water Services Regulation Authority with the consent of, or in accordance with a general direction given by, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers: see s 93A(2) (as so added; and amended by the Water Act 2003 ss 36(2), 101(1), Sch 8, paras 2, 29(b)). 109. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2.

The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 93A in relation to any water or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales, and any licensed water supplier so far as relating to licensed activities using the supply system of any such water undertaker, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1 (amended by the Water Act 2003, s 100(2)(d)). These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meaning of 'supply system of a water undertaker' see PARA 319 note 8. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

Where the Authority, in the document imposing a requirement on a water undertaker or licensed water supplier, stipulates that any contravention of the requirement by the undertaker or supplier will be a breach of its duty under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 93A (see the text to notes 1-3), any contravention of that requirement by the undertaker or supplier is a breach of that duty: s 93B(2) (as so added; and amended by the Water Act 2003 ss 36(2), 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 30(1), (3)). 15 Without prejudice to the generality of this provision, the Authority may arrange for such publicising by itself publicising the requirement or causing it to be publicised, or by directing the undertaker or supplier to inform or arrange to inform its customers of the requirement: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 93C(2) (as added (see note 3); and amended by the Water Act 2003 ss 36(2), 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 31(1), (3)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(i) General Duties/321. Duty to prepare, maintain and revise water resources management plans.

321. Duty to prepare, maintain and revise water resources management plans.

It is the duty of each water undertaker<sup>1</sup> to prepare and maintain a water resources management plan<sup>2</sup>, that is, a plan for how the water undertaker will manage and develop water resources so as to be able, and continue to be able, to meet its water supply obligations<sup>3</sup>. A water resources management plan must address in particular:

- 631 (1) the water undertaker's estimate of the quantities of water required to meet those obligations<sup>4</sup>;
- 632 (2) the measures which the water undertaker intends to take or continue for the purpose for which the plan is required<sup>5</sup>, also taking into account for that purpose the introduction of water into the undertaker's supply system<sup>6</sup> by or on behalf of licensed water suppliers<sup>7</sup>;
- 633 (3) the likely sequence and timing for implementing those measures<sup>8</sup>; and
- 634 (4) such other matters as the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may specify in directions<sup>9</sup>.

Before preparing its water resources management plan (including a revised plan), the water undertaker must consult the Environment Agency<sup>10</sup>, the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>11</sup>, the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers<sup>12</sup>, and any licensed water supplier which supplies water to premises in the undertaker's area via the undertaker's supply system<sup>13</sup>. It is the duty of each licensed water supplier to provide the water undertaker with such information<sup>14</sup> as the water undertaker may reasonably request for the purposes of preparing or revising its water resources management plan<sup>15</sup>. In the event of any dispute between a water undertaker and a licensed water supplier as to the reasonableness of the water undertaker's request under this provision, either party may refer the matter for determination by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, to the Welsh Ministers, and any such determination is final<sup>16</sup>.

Before each anniversary of the date when its plan (or revised plan) was last published<sup>17</sup>, the water undertaker must review its plan<sup>18</sup> and send a statement of the conclusions of its review to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, to the Welsh Ministers<sup>19</sup>. The water undertaker must prepare a revised plan in each of the following cases<sup>20</sup>: (a) following conclusion of its annual review, if the review indicated a material change of circumstances<sup>21</sup>; (b) if directed to do so by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>22</sup>; (c) in any event, not later than the end of the period of five years beginning with the date when the plan (or revised plan) was last published<sup>23</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

2 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37A(1) (ss 37A-37D added by the Water Act 2003 s 62). The procedure for preparing a water resources management plan (including a revised plan) is set out in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 37B (see PARA 322): s 37A(4) (as so added). Water resources management plans may require strategic environmental assessment (see PARA 9) and/or an appropriate assessment pursuant to the Habitats Directive (see PARA 11).

3 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 37A(2) (as added: see note 2). The water supply obligations referred to in the text are the undertaker's obligations under Pt III (ss 37-93). The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers may give directions specifying: (1) the form which a water resources management plan must take (s 37A(7)(a) (as so added)); (2) the planning period to which a water resources management plan must relate (s 37A(7)(b) (as so added)).

The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 37A-37D, and s 39B and s 39C (see PARA 323) so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1 (amended by SI 2000/253). Those functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. In respect of those functions it is provided as follows: (a) functions so far as relating to matters concerning the construction or enlargement of reservoirs are transferred to the Welsh Ministers in relation to Wales; (b) functions so far as relating to matters other than the construction or enlargement of reservoirs are transferred to the Welsh Ministers in relation to any water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales; and (c) the functions of the Welsh Ministers referred to in head (b) above so far as they are exercisable in relation to England are exercisable only after consultation with the Secretary of State: National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, Sch 1 (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 100(2)(a)(ix), (g)); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 30. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 37A-37D, s 39B and s 39C so far as relating to matters other than the construction or enlargement of reservoirs are exercisable only after consultation with the Welsh Ministers: National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 5, Sch 2 (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 100(3)); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16. As to the exercise by the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers of the powers and duties relating to the regulation of undertakers see s 2; and PARA 130. 8 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37A(3)(c) (as added: see note 2).

9 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37A(3)(d) (as added: see note 2). Directions given under s 37A may be: (1) general directions applying to all water undertakers (s 37D(1)(a) (as so added)); or (2) directions applying only to one or more water undertakers specified in the directions (s 37D(1)(b) (as so added)), and must be given by an instrument in writing (s 37D(1) (as so added)). It is the duty of each water undertaker to whom directions apply to comply with the directions: s 37D(2) (as so added). The duties of a water undertaker under ss 37A-37D, and a licensed water supplier under s 37C (see the text to notes 14-16), are enforceable by the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers under s 18 (see PARA 163): s 37D(3) (as so added). 13 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37A(8)(d) (as added: see note 2).

14 As to the meaning of 'information' see PARA 117 note 13.

15 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37C(1) (as added: see note 2). The water undertaker must not use any unpublished information save for the purpose of facilitating the performance by it of any of the duties imposed on it by or under the Water Industry Act 1991, any of the other consolidation Acts or the Water Act 1989: Water Industry Act 1991 s 37C(4) (as so added). For these purposes, 'unpublished information' means confidential information which: (1) is provided to the water undertaker by a licensed water supplier under s 37C; (2) relates to the affairs of any individual or to any particular business; and (3) by virtue of s 37B (see PARA 322), is not published: s 37C(5)(a) (as so added). The 'other consolidation Acts' has the same meaning as in s 206 (see PARA 133 note 5): s 37C(5)(b) (as so added).

16 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37C(2) (as added: see note 2). As to judicial review of decisions expressed to be final see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 655.

17 In relation to a water resources management plan, 'published' means published in accordance with the Water Industry Act 1991 s 37B(8)(a) (see PARA 322): s 37A(10) (as added: see note 2).

18 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37A(5)(a) (as added: see note 2).

19 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37A(5)(b) (as added: see note 2).

20 In the preparation of a revised plan the water undertaker must follow the procedure in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 37B (see PARA 322) (whether or not the revised plan prepared by the undertaker includes any proposed alterations to the previous plan): see s 37A(6) (as added: see note 2).

21 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37A(6)(a) (as added: see note 2).

22 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37A(6)(b) (as added: see note 2). The Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers must consult the Environment Agency before giving such a direction: s 37A(9) (as so added).

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(i) General Duties/322. Procedure for preparation and revision of water resources management plans.

322. Procedure for preparation and revision of water resources management plans.

A water undertaker must<sup>1</sup>:

- 635 (1) send a draft water resources management plan<sup>2</sup> to the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup>;
- 636 (2) state whether it appears to the undertaker that any information<sup>4</sup> contained in that plan is or might be commercially confidential (as regards itself or another person)<sup>5</sup>; and
- 637 (3) give the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers the name of each such other person and his address for service of a notice<sup>6</sup> that such information is included in the draft plan<sup>7</sup>.

If the water undertaker states that it so appears in relation to any such information, the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers must, if the person to whom or to whose business the information relates is not the water undertaker, give that person notice<sup>8</sup> that the information is included in a draft water resources management plan and, unless excluded<sup>9</sup>, is required to be published<sup>10</sup>; and give each person (including the water undertaker) to whom any such information relates a reasonable opportunity of objecting to the publication of the information relating to him on the ground that it is commercially confidential<sup>11</sup>, and of making representations to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers for the purpose of justifying any such objection<sup>12</sup>. The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must determine, taking any such objections and representations into account, whether the information is or is not commercially confidential<sup>13</sup>.

A water undertaker must publish the draft water resources management plan in the prescribed<sup>14</sup> way or, if no way is prescribed, in a way calculated to bring it to the attention of persons likely to be affected by it<sup>15</sup>. The undertaker must publish with the draft plan a statement whether any information has been excluded<sup>16</sup> from the published draft plan; if it has, the general nature of that information<sup>17</sup>, and that any person may make representations in writing about the plan to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers before the end of a period specified in the statement<sup>18</sup>. The undertaker must send a copy of the published draft plan and accompanying statement to such persons (if any) as may be prescribed<sup>19</sup>.

The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must send to the water undertaker a copy of any representations he or they receive following such publication of the draft plan and must give it a reasonable period of time within which to comment on the representations<sup>20</sup>. The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may in regulations prescribe how such representations and any comments by the water undertaker on them are to be dealt with<sup>21</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may direct a water undertaker that its water resources management plan must differ from the draft sent to him or them in ways specified in such a direction, and it is the duty<sup>22</sup> of the water undertaker to comply with the direction<sup>23</sup>. If, however, the water undertaker considers that publishing a water resources management plan complying with such a direction would mean including in the published plan any information (other than any information in relation to which the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers have already made a determination<sup>24</sup>) which might be commercially confidential (as regards itself or another person) the water undertaker must send the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers a notice saying so, and giving the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers the name of any such other person and his address for service of a notice<sup>25</sup> that the information is included in a water resources management plan and, unless excluded, is required to be published<sup>26</sup>. The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may either confirm the direction<sup>27</sup> (which is to be treated as a new such direction) or revoke the previous such direction (or the previous one so treated) and give a new one<sup>28</sup>.

The water undertaker must publish<sup>29</sup> the water resources management plan in the prescribed way or, if no way is prescribed, in a way calculated to bring it to the attention of persons likely to be affected by it<sup>30</sup>. It must also publish with that plan a statement whether any information has been excluded from the published plan<sup>31</sup> and, if it has, the general nature of that information<sup>32</sup>.

1 Any steps to be taken by a water undertaker under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 37B must be completed by such time or within such period as the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers may direct: s 37B(11) (ss 37B-37D added by the Water Act 2003 s 62). The duties of a water undertaker under the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 37B, 37C (see note 5) are enforceable by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers under s 18 (see PARA 163): s 37D(3) (as so added). As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the exercise of functions under the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 37B-37D by the Secretary of State, and their transfer, in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 321 note 3. 5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37B(1)(b) (as added: see note 1). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. The water undertaker must identify in its statement any information: (1) provided by a licensed water supplier pursuant to the Water Industry Act 1991 s 37C(1) (see PARA 321) (s 37C(3)(a) (as so added)); and (2) contained in the water undertaker's draft water resources management plan (s 37C(3)(b) (as so added)), which the licensed water supplier has (at the time of providing it to the water undertaker) specifically identified as being, in the licensed water supplier's opinion, commercially confidential (s 37C(3) (as so added)). The water undertaker must not use any unpublished information save for the purpose of facilitating the performance by it of any of the duties imposed on it by or under the Water Industry Act 1991, any of the other consolidation Acts or the Water Act 1989: Water Industry Act 1991 s 37C(4) (as so added). As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152. As to the meanings of 'unpublished information' and 'consolidation Acts' see PARA 321 note 15. As to the duty of licensed water suppliers to provide information to water undertakers see s 37C(1), (2); and PARA 321.

14 'Prescribed' means prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1). A draft water resources management plan published in accordance with s 37B(3)(a) must be published both in paper form and on a website: Water Resources Management Plan Regulations 2007, SI 2007/727, reg 2(1). The Water Resources Management Plan Regulations 2007, SI 2007/727, extend to both England and Wales: reg 1(2). As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8.

15 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37B(3)(a) (as added: see note 1). The published version of a draft water resources management plan so published, and a water resources management plan published under s 37B(8) (a) (see the text to notes 29-30), must exclude any information which the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers: (1) have determined under s 37B(2) (see the text to note 13) (or that subsection as applied by s 37B(9): see the text to note 26) is commercially confidential (s 37B(10)(a) (as so added)); or (2) direct the water undertaker to exclude on the ground that it appears to them that its publication would be contrary to the interests of national security (s 37B(10)(b) (as so added)). Directions given under s 37B may be: (a) general directions applying to all water undertakers (s 37D(1)(a) (as so added)); or (b) directions applying only to one or more water undertakers specified in the directions (s 37D(1)(b) (as so added)), and must be given by an instrument in writing (s 37D(1) (as so added)). It is the duty of each water undertaker to whom directions apply to comply with the directions: s 37D(2) (as so added). As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1.

18 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37B(3)(b)(ii) (as added: see note 1). Where a water undertaker publishes a statement accompanying the draft water resources management plan in accordance with s 37B(3)(b), it must specify in the statement that any person making representations: (1) to the Welsh Ministers, must send a copy of those representations to the Secretary of State if those representations are made in response to a draft water resources management plan sent to the Welsh Ministers in accordance with the Water Resources Management Plan Regulations 2007, SI 2007/727, reg 2(2)(j) or (k) (see heads (10) and (11) in note 19); and (2) to the Secretary of State, must send a copy of those representations to the Welsh Ministers if those representations are made in response to a draft water resources management plan sent to the Secretary of State in accordance with reg 2(2)(h) (see head (8) in note 19): reg 3; Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32.

19 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37B(3)(c) (as added: see note 1). The persons to whom a water undertaker must send a copy of the published draft water resources management plan and accompanying statement are: (1) those bodies and persons specified in s 37A(8) (see PARA 321); (2) any regional development agencies, established under the Regional Development Agencies Act 1998 (see TRADE AND INDUSTRY vol 97 (2010) PARA 988), in the water undertaker's area; (3) if the water undertaker's area includes any part of England, any elected regional assembly, established under an enactment following a referendum held under the Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 s 1 (see ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS vol 15(4) (2007 Reissue) PARA 548), in the water undertaker's area or that part of its area which is in England; (4) all local authorities (except the council of any parish or community), as defined in the Local Government Act 1972 s 270(1) (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 22), in the water undertaker's area; (5) any National Park authorities established under the Environment Act 1995 s 63 (see OPEN SPACES AND COUNTRYSIDE vol 78 (2010) PARA 526) for any part of the water undertaker's area; (6) if the water undertaker's area includes any part of the Broads, as defined in the Norfolk and Suffolk Broads Act 1988 s 2(3) (see PARA 735 note 2), the Broads Authority; (7) if the water undertaker's area includes any part of England, Natural England and the Historic Buildings and Monuments Commission for England; (8) if the water undertaker's area is mainly but not wholly in Wales, the Secretary of State; (9) if the water undertaker's area includes any part of Wales, the Countryside Council for Wales and Cadw, being the executive agency responsible for carrying out the functions vested in the Welsh Ministers relating to the historic environment; (10) if the water undertaker's area includes any part of Wales, but is not wholly or mainly in Wales, the Welsh Ministers; (11) if the water undertaker abstracts water in Wales, but its area does not include any part of Wales, the Welsh Ministers; (12) any navigation authority, exercising functions in relation to any canal or other inland navigation which is wholly or partly in the water undertaker's area; (13) any other water undertaker (a) which supplies water to, receives water from, or shares a water resource with, the water undertaker; (b) whose water resources are identified by the water undertaker, in its draft water resources management plan, as a possible supply; or (c) which is identified by the water undertaker, in its draft water resources management plan, as a potential partner for the development of new water resources; and (14) the Consumer Council for Water: Water Resources Management Plan Regulations 2007, SI 2007/727, reg 2(2)(a)-(n); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. As to water undertakers' areas see PARA 318. As to the Broads Authority see PARA 734. As to the Consumer Council for Water see PARA 115.

20 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37B(4) (as added: see note 1).

21 Water Industry Act 1991 s 37B(5) (as added: see note 1). Such regulations: (1) may provide for the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers to cause an inquiry or other hearing to be held in connection with the draft water resources management plan (s 37B(6)(a) (as so added)); and (2) if they do so provide, may provide for the Local Government Act 1972 s 250(2)-(5) (local inquiries: evidence and costs: see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 105) to apply with prescribed modifications to such an inquiry or hearing as it applies to inquiries under that provision (Water Industry Act 1991 s 37B(6)(b) (as so added)). 'Prescribed' means prescribed by the regulations: see s 219(1). As to the making of regulations see PARA 21.

A water undertaker must, in relation to any representations received by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers and sent to that undertaker in accordance with s 37B(4) (see the text to note 20), prepare a statement detailing: (a) the consideration that it has given to those representations; (b) any changes that it has made to the draft water resources management plan as a result of its consideration of those representations and its reasons for doing so; and (c) where no change has been made to the draft water resources management plan as a result of its consideration of any representation, the reason for this: Water Resources Management Plan Regulations 2007, SI 2007/727, reg 4(1); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. The water undertaker must publish the statement in paper form and on its website, and send a copy of the statement to any person who has made representations in writing in relation to the draft water resources management plan to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers in accordance with the Water Industry Act 1991 s 37B(4): Water Resources Management Plan Regulations 2007, SI 2007/727, reg 4(2); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may cause an inquiry or other hearing to be held in connection with a draft water resources management plan: Water Resources Management Plan Regulations 2007, SI 2007/727, reg 5(1); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. Where the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers so cause an inquiry or other hearing to be held, the Local Government Act 1972 s 250(2)-(5) applies to such inquiry or other hearing as it applies to inquiries under that section, except that for any reference in that section to a 'local authority' there must be read instead a reference to the water undertaker whose draft water resources management plan is the subject of the inquiry or other hearing: Water Resources Management Plan Regulations 2007, SI 2007/727, reg 5(2); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32.

323. Duty to prepare, maintain and review drought plans.

It is the duty of each water undertaker<sup>1</sup> to prepare and maintain a drought plan<sup>2</sup>. A drought plan is a plan for how the water undertaker will continue, during a period of drought, to discharge its duties to supply adequate quantities of wholesome water<sup>3</sup>, with as little recourse as reasonably possible to drought orders or drought permits<sup>4</sup>. A drought plan must address, in particular, the following matters:

- 638 (1) what measures the water undertaker might need to take to restrain the demand for water within its area<sup>5</sup>;
- 639 (2) what measures the water undertaker might need to take to obtain extra water from other sources (also taking into account for that purpose the introduction of water into the undertaker's supply system<sup>6</sup> by or on behalf of licensed water suppliers)<sup>7</sup>;
- 640 (3) how the water undertaker will monitor the effects of the drought and of the measures taken under the drought plan<sup>8</sup>;
- 641 (4) such other matters as the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers may specify in directions<sup>9</sup>.

Before preparing its drought plan (including a revised plan), the water undertaker must consult the Environment Agency<sup>10</sup>, the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>11</sup>, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers<sup>12</sup>, and any licensed water supplier which supplies water to premises in the undertaker's area via the undertaker's supply system<sup>13</sup>. It is the duty of each licensed water supplier to provide the water undertaker with such information<sup>14</sup> as the water undertaker may reasonably request for the purposes of preparing or revising its drought plan<sup>15</sup>. In the event of any dispute between a water undertaker and a licensed water supplier as to the reasonableness of the water undertaker's request, either party may refer the matter for determination by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers and any such determination is final<sup>16</sup>.

The procedure for preparing and publishing water resources management plans<sup>17</sup>, including any power to make regulations<sup>18</sup> or give directions, applies in relation to drought plans (including revised plans) as it applies in relation to water resources management plans<sup>19</sup>.

Each water undertaker must review (or further review) its drought plan and prepare a revised plan in each of the following cases: (a) if there is a material change of circumstances<sup>20</sup>; (b) if directed to do so by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>21</sup>; (c) in any event, not later than the end of the period of three years beginning with the date when the plan (or revised plan) was last<sup>22</sup> published<sup>23</sup>.

1 The duty of a water undertaker under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 39B is enforceable by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers under s 18 (see PARA 163): s 39B(12) (ss 39B, 39C added by the Water Act 2003 s 63). As to the exercise of functions under the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 39B, 39C by the Secretary of State, and their transfer, in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 321 note 3. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

2 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39B(1) (as added: see note 1). The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers may give directions specifying the form which a drought plan must take: s 39B(8) (as so added). Directions given under s 39B (including directions given under s 37B as applied by s 39B(5) (see the text to notes 17-19)) may be: (1) general directions applying to all water undertakers (s 39B(9)(a) (as so added)); or (2) directions applying only to one or more water undertakers specified in the directions (s 39B(9)(b) (as so added)), and must be given by an instrument in writing (s 39B(9) (as so added)). It is the duty of each water undertaker to whom directions apply to comply with the directions: s 39B(10) (as so added). As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1. Drought plans may require strategic environmental assessment (see PARA 9) and/or an appropriate assessment pursuant to the Habitats Directive (see PARA 11).

3 The duties referred to in the text include in particular those imposed under or by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 37 (see PARA 319), ss 67-69 (see PARAS 373-375): s 39B(3) (as added: see note 1).

4 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39B(2) (as added: see note 1). As to drought orders and drought permits see the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch III (ss 73-81); and PARA 302 et seq.

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39B(4)(a) (as added: see note 1). As to water undertakers' areas see PARA 318.

6 As to the meaning of 'supply system of a water undertaker' see PARA 319 note 8.

7 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39B(4)(b) (as added: see note 1). As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152.

8 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39B(4)(c) (as added: see note 1).

9 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39B(4)(d) (as added: see note 1). See also note 2.

10 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39B(7)(a) (as added: see note 1). As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the exercise of the duty to consult see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 627.

11 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39B(7)(b) (as added: see note 1). As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109.

12 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39B(7)(c) (as added: see note 1).

13 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39B(7)(d) (as added: see note 1).

14 As to the meaning of 'information' see PARA 117 note 13.

15 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39C(1) (as added: see note 1). The duties of a licensed water supplier and a water undertaker under s 39C are enforceable by the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers under s 18 (see PARA 163): s 39C(6) (as so added).

16 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39C(2) (as added: see note 1). As to judicial review of decisions expressed to be final see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 655.

17 Ie the Water Industry Act 1991 s 37B: see PARA 322.

18 As to the regulations made see the Drought Plan Regulations 2005, SI 2005/1905, which make provision as to the publication of draft drought plans (see reg 2), the publication of statements accompanying draft drought plans (see reg 3), the procedure in respect of any representations received by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers (see reg 4), the holding of inquiries (see reg 5) and the publication of drought plans (see reg 6). The regulations extend to both England and Wales: reg 1(2).

19 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39B(5) (as added: see note 1). For the purposes of s 37B(1)(b) (see PARA 322) as so applied, the water undertaker must identify in its statement under that provision any information provided by a licensed water supplier pursuant to s 39C(1) (see the text to notes 14-15) and contained in the water undertaker's draft drought plan, which the licensed water supplier has (at the time of providing it to the water undertaker) specifically identified as being, in the licensed water supplier's opinion, commercially confidential: s 39C(3) (as so added). The water undertaker must not use any unpublished information save for the purpose of facilitating the performance by it of any of the duties imposed on it by or under the Water Industry Act 1991, any of the other consolidation Acts or the Water Act 1989: Water Industry Act 1991 s 39C(4) (as so added). For these purposes, 'unpublished information' means confidential information which is provided to the water undertaker by a licensed water supplier under s 39C, relates to the affairs of any individual or to any particular business, and by virtue of s 37B as applied by s 39B(5), is not published: s 39C(5)(a) (as so added). As to the meaning of 'other consolidation Acts' see PARA 133 note 5: definition applied by s 39C(5)(b) (as so added). See also note 15.

20 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39B(6)(a) (as added: see note 1).

21 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39B(6)(b) (as added: see note 1). The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must consult the Environment Agency before giving such a direction: s 39B(11) (as so added). See also note 2.

22 le in accordance with the Water Industry Act 1991 s 37B(8)(a) (see PARA 322) as applied by s 39B(5) (see the text to notes 17-19).

23 Water Industry Act 1991 s 39B(6)(c) (as added: see note 1). Each water undertaker must follow the procedure in s 37B (see PARA 322) as applied by s 39B(5) (see the text to notes 17-19), whether or not the revised plan prepared by the undertaker includes any proposed alterations to the previous plan: s 39B(6) (as so added).

324. Asset management plans.

The water undertakers<sup>1</sup> are required by the conditions of their appointments to prepare asset management plans, which must be kept under review<sup>2</sup>.

325. Standards of performance in connection with water supply.

For the purpose of:

- 642 (1) facilitating the determination of the extent to which breaches of the obligations imposed by the water supply provisions of the Water Industry Act 1991<sup>1</sup> are to amount to breaches of the general duty<sup>2</sup> to maintain a water supply system<sup>3</sup>; and
- 643 (2) supplementing that duty by establishing overall standards of performance in relation to it<sup>4</sup>,

the Secretary of State<sup>5</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>6</sup>, may by regulations<sup>7</sup> provide for contraventions<sup>8</sup> of prescribed<sup>9</sup> requirements to be treated as breaches of that duty<sup>10</sup>. The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may also<sup>11</sup> by regulations prescribe such standards of performance in connection with the provision of supplies of water as ought, in his or their opinion, to be achieved in individual cases<sup>12</sup>; and may provide thereby that if a water undertaker fails to meet a prescribed standard it must pay such amount as may be prescribed to any person who is affected by the failure and is of a prescribed description<sup>13</sup>.

The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may make regulations under the above provisions on an application<sup>14</sup> by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>15</sup>, or otherwise than on such an application<sup>16</sup>. Where the Authority has made to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers a written<sup>17</sup> application complying with the statutory requirements<sup>18</sup>, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may make such regulations if<sup>19</sup>:

- 644 (a) the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers are satisfied that a copy of the application has been served by the Authority<sup>20</sup> on every water undertaker specified in the application<sup>21</sup>; on persons or bodies appearing to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers to be representative of persons likely to be affected by the regulations<sup>22</sup>; on the Consumer Council for Water<sup>23</sup>; and on such other persons or bodies as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may consider appropriate<sup>24</sup>;
- 645 (b) such period as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers consider appropriate has been allowed for the making by the Authority and by any affected water undertaker or person or body on whom a copy of the application has been served under head (a) above, of representations or objections with respect to the Authority's proposals and any modifications proposed by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>25</sup>; and
- 646 (c) the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers have considered the summary of the results of the research submitted by the Authority<sup>26</sup>, the Authority's reasons for its proposals, and every representation or objection which has been duly made with respect to those proposals, or any proposed modifications of those proposals, and has not been withdrawn<sup>27</sup>.

The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must not make any regulations on an application by the Authority except where<sup>28</sup>: (i) the only provisions of the regulations are those which in the opinion of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers give effect to the proposals set out in the Authority's application or to those proposals with such modifications<sup>29</sup> as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers consider appropriate<sup>30</sup>; and (ii) each of the modifications (if any) of the Authority's proposals to which effect is given by the regulations is a modification the proposal to make which has been notified to the Authority<sup>31</sup>, to any water undertaker appearing to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers to be likely to be affected by the modifications<sup>32</sup>, and to any person or body who was served<sup>33</sup> with a copy of the Authority's application<sup>34</sup>.

Where no such application from the Water Services Regulation Authority has been made, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may make regulations under these provisions only if he or they consider: (A) that the regulations will contribute towards the attainment of policies relating to public health or the environment<sup>35</sup>; or (B) if he or they do not consider that the regulations will so contribute, that there are exceptional reasons why it is otherwise in the public interest that the regulations should be made<sup>36</sup>. Before so making regulations, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must give notice<sup>37</sup> of the proposals<sup>38</sup>, consider the results of the research carried out<sup>39</sup>, and consider every representation or objection with respect to the proposals which has been duly made and not withdrawn<sup>40</sup>.

Where the Authority determines any dispute in accordance with regulations under s 38 it must, in such manner as may be specified in the regulations, give its reasons for reaching its decision with respect to the dispute: s 38(5) (added by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 s 56(6), Sch 1 para 18; and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). The notice must be given by serving a copy on the Water Services Regulation Authority, the Consumer Council for Water, every water undertaker to which the regulations apply, persons or bodies appearing to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers to be representative of persons likely to be affected by the regulations, and such other persons or bodies as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may consider appropriate: s 39(8) (as so added). ### 326. Information about levels of performance.

The Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>1</sup> must from time to time collect information<sup>2</sup> with respect<sup>3</sup> to the compensation paid<sup>4</sup> by water undertakers<sup>5</sup>, and with respect to the levels of overall performance achieved by water undertakers in connection with the provision of water supplies<sup>6</sup>. At such times as the Authority may direct, each water undertaker must give to the Authority the following information<sup>7</sup>:

- 647 (1) as respects each prescribed standard of performance in individual cases<sup>8</sup>, the number of cases in which compensation was paid and the aggregate amount or value of that compensation<sup>9</sup>;
- 648 (2) as respects each established standard of overall performance<sup>10</sup>, such information with respect to the level of performance achieved by the undertaker as may be specified<sup>11</sup>.

A water undertaker who without reasonable excuse fails to do anything so required of it is guilty of an offence<sup>12</sup>.

At least once in every year the Authority must arrange for the publication, in such form and in such manner as it considers appropriate, of such of the information collected by or given to it under these provisions as it may appear to the Authority expedient to give to customers or potential customers<sup>13</sup> of water undertakers<sup>14</sup>. In arranging for the publication of any such information, the Authority must have regard to the need for excluding, so far as practicable, any matter which relates to the affairs of an individual or which relates specifically to the affairs of a particular body of persons<sup>15</sup>, whether corporate or unincorporate, where publication of that matter would or might, in the Authority's opinion, seriously and prejudicially affect the interests of that individual or body<sup>16</sup>.

Each water undertaker must<sup>17</sup>, in such form and manner and with such frequency as the Authority may direct, take steps to inform its customers, and, if the direction so specifies, licensed water suppliers<sup>18</sup> using the undertaker's supply system<sup>19</sup> for the purpose of supplying water to the premises of customers or those customers, of<sup>20</sup>: (a) the overall performance standards which have been established<sup>21</sup> and which are applicable to that undertaker<sup>22</sup>; and (b) its level of performance as respects each of those standards<sup>23</sup>. In giving any such direction, the Authority must not specify a frequency of less than once in every period of 12 months<sup>24</sup>. The licensed water suppliers referred to above must, if the Authority so directs, pass on the information about the matters mentioned in heads (a) and (b) above to their customers<sup>25</sup>.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(i) General Duties/327. Customer service standards; in general.

327. Customer service standards; in general.

Customer service standards are set by the Water Supply and Sewerage Services (Customer Service Standards) Regulations 2008<sup>1</sup> in relation to the keeping of appointments<sup>2</sup>, complaints<sup>3</sup>, account queries and requests about payment arrangements<sup>4</sup>, notice of interruption of supply<sup>5</sup>, entitlement to payment or credit where supply not restored as promised<sup>6</sup>, and the maintenance of pressure standard<sup>7</sup>.

A relevant undertaker<sup>8</sup> must, at least once in every financial year<sup>9</sup>, give every customer<sup>10</sup> to whom it sends an account in that year a detailed statement of the rights provided by the regulations<sup>11</sup>. If a relevant undertaker is aware that accounts to a customer cover the supply of water or sewerage services to other customers, it must give the customer enough copies of the statement to enable the customer to give a copy to each of those other customers<sup>12</sup>, or send a copy of the statement to each of those other customers directly<sup>13</sup>.

The making of a payment by a water undertaker to a customer in consequence of a claim or potential claim for a payment under the regulations is not an admission by that undertaker of any liability other than an obligation to comply with the regulations<sup>14</sup>; and the acceptance by a customer of a payment or credit made in consequence of the regulations does not affect any liability of the undertaker to the customer other than its liability under the regulations<sup>15</sup>. Nothing in the regulations requires a relevant undertaker to give notice to more than one person in respect of the same premises<sup>16</sup>, or to make a payment to more than one person in respect of any one claim<sup>17</sup>; and nothing in the regulations, and nothing done by a relevant undertaker in consequence of the regulations, determines who is beneficially entitled to a payment made under the regulations, or in respect of any one act or omission relating to the same premises<sup>18</sup>.

If a dispute arises between a relevant undertaker and a customer as to the right of the customer to a payment or a credit to the customer's account under the regulations relating to customer service standards, either party may refer the matter to the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>19</sup> for determination<sup>20</sup>. The parties to a dispute that has been referred to the Authority must give it any evidence or information<sup>21</sup> that it reasonably requires to enable it to determine the dispute<sup>22</sup>. If the Authority determines the dispute in the customer's favour but the undertaker fails to give effect to the determination, the customer may set off the amount in question against any liability that he has to the undertaker<sup>23</sup>.

7 See the Water Supply and Sewerage Services (Customer Service Standards) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/594, reg 10; and PARA 353. The regulations also make provision as to flooding from sewers in respect of internal flooding of buildings (see reg 11) and external flooding (see reg 12). As to liability for discharges into and from public sewers see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 296.

8 As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8.

9 As to the meaning of 'financial year' see PARA 111 note 2.

10 'Customer' includes: (1) a potential customer; and (2) an occupier of premises whose supply of water or sewerage services is the subject of a separate charge for which a person other than the occupier is liable, but does not include a customer of a licensed water supplier: Water Supply and Sewerage Services (Customer Service Standards) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/594, reg 4(1). For the purposes of the regulations, a licensed water supplier is not a customer of a water undertaker that supplies water to it: reg 4(2). As to the meaning of 'sewerage services' see PARA 129 note 7. As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152. As to the meaning of 'customer or potential customer' see PARA 118 note 7. 15 Water Supply and Sewerage Services (Customer Service Standards) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/594, reg 15(2). A customer who is entitled to payment under the Water Supply and Sewerage Services (Customer Service Standards) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/594, may ask the relevant undertaker concerned to make the payment directly to the customer: reg 14(1). However, if the customer has not asked for direct payment, the undertaker may make the payment directly to the customer or by credit to the customer's account: reg 14(2). If a customer of a relevant undertaker is entitled to a payment under the regulations but owes money to the undertaker, and at the material time, the customer's debt to the undertaker has been outstanding for more than six weeks, the undertaker must make the payment, or so much of it as does not exceed the amount that the customer owes, by credit to the customer's account: reg 14(3). For these purposes, the 'material time' is: (1) if the payment is payable without a written claim being made, the time when it becomes payable (reg 14(4)(a)); or (2) otherwise, the time when the customer makes a written claim for it (reg 14(4)(b)). As to the meaning of 'written' see PARA 22 note 1.

328. Keeping appointments with customers.

If a representative of a relevant undertaker<sup>1</sup> is to visit a customer's<sup>2</sup> premises in connection with the provision of water supply services or sewerage services<sup>3</sup>, then if the representative requires access to the premises, or it would otherwise be reasonable to expect the customer or a person acting on the customer's behalf to be on the premises, the undertaker must consult the customer orally or in writing<sup>4</sup> to try to agree on a day to attend the premises<sup>5</sup>, and give the customer notice, orally or in writing, of when the representative will attend the premises<sup>6</sup>. The undertaker's notice must specify: (1) the premises<sup>7</sup>; (2) the date that the representative will attend them<sup>8</sup>; (3) either if the customer so requests, a period of two hours during which the visit will be made<sup>9</sup>, or otherwise, whether the visit will be made during the morning or the afternoon<sup>10</sup>; and (4) if the notice specifies that the visit will be made during the morning or afternoon, at what times the undertaker regards the morning or the afternoon, as the case requires, as beginning and ending<sup>11</sup>. The representative of an undertaker who attended a customer's premises may make and sign a written record stating that the representative attended the premises and the time and date of attendance<sup>12</sup>; and unless the customer establishes that the record is incorrect, it is taken to confirm that the representative attended the premises as stated in the record<sup>13</sup>.

The undertaker must pay the customer £20<sup>14</sup> if the undertaker gives a notice that is not in accordance with heads (1) to (4) above<sup>15</sup>, a representative does not attend the premises on the date specified in the notice<sup>16</sup>, or a representative does attend the premises on that date but not within the specified time<sup>17</sup>. No application by the customer for the payment is necessary<sup>18</sup>. The undertaker must make the payment within ten working days<sup>19</sup> of its becoming payable<sup>20</sup>; and if the undertaker fails to make that payment, it must pay the customer a further £10 if the customer makes a written claim for payment within three months<sup>21</sup> after the payment becomes payable<sup>22</sup>.

14 However, the undertaker need not pay the customer if: (1) the customer cancels the appointment (Water Supply and Sewerage Services (Customer Service Standards) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/594, reg 6(6)(a)); (2) the undertaker cancels the appointment by giving the customer at least 24 hours' notice, orally or in writing, of the cancellation (reg 6(6)(b)); or (3) it became impracticable, for a specified reason, for the representative to keep the appointment, and the undertaker could not reasonably have so foreseen in time to enable it to cancel the appointment giving 24 hours' notice, or to make other suitable arrangements for a representative to attend the premises at the arranged time (reg 6(6)(c)). The specified reasons are (a) severe weather; (b) industrial action by employees of the undertaker; and (c) the act or default of a person who is not an officer, employee or agent of the undertaker or a person acting on behalf of the undertaker or of an agent of the undertaker: reg 6(7)(a)-(c). As to the making of payments and the effect of the making and acceptance of payments under the regulations see PARA 327. As to the settlement of disputes between a relevant undertaker and a customer as to the right of the customer to a payment see PARA 327.

19 'Working day' means any day that is not a Saturday, a Sunday, Christmas Day, Good Friday or a bank holiday under the Banking and Financial Dealings Act 1971 (see TIME vol 97 (2010) PARA 321): Water Supply and Sewerage Services (Customer Service Standards) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/594, reg 4(1).

20 See the Water Supply and Sewerage Services (Customer Service Standards) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/594, reg 13(1). A payment under reg 6, reg 7 (see PARAS 392, 444), reg 8 (see PARA 355) or reg 9 (see PARA 356) becomes payable: (1) if the customer concerned must make an application for the payment, at the end of the day on which the undertaker receives that application (reg 13(5)(a)); or (2) if no such application is necessary, at the end of the day on which the relevant breach of a service standard occurred (reg 13(5)(b)). If reg 8 (see PARA 355), reg 9 (see PARA 356), or reg 12 (see PARA 327) requires a relevant undertaker to make a payment to a customer, the undertaker must make it within 20 working days of its becoming payable: reg 13(3). If the undertaker fails to make the payment in accordance with reg 13(3), the undertaker must pay the customer: (a) in the case of a payment in relation to the supply of water to domestic premises, a further £20 (reg 13(4)(a)); and (b) in any other case, a further £50 (reg 13(4)(b)).

(ii) Supply Duties

A. BULK SUPPLIES

330. Orders regarding bulk supplies.

Where, on the application of a qualifying person<sup>1</sup>:

- 649 (1) it appears to the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>2</sup> that it is necessary or expedient for the purposes of securing the efficient use of water resources, or the efficient supply of water, that the water undertaker specified in the application (the 'supplier') should give a supply of water in bulk<sup>3</sup> to the applicant<sup>4</sup>; and
- 650 (2) the Authority is satisfied that the giving and taking of such a supply cannot be secured by agreement<sup>5</sup>, the Authority may by order<sup>6</sup> require the supplier to give, and the applicant to take, such a supply for such period, and on such terms and conditions, as may be provided in the order<sup>7</sup>. Such an order has effect as an agreement between the supplier and the applicant<sup>8</sup>.

In exercising its functions under these provisions, the Authority must have regard to the desirability of<sup>9</sup>:

- 651 (a) facilitating effective competition within the water supply industry<sup>10</sup>;
- 652 (b) the supplier's recovering the expenses of complying with its obligations by virtue of these provisions and securing a reasonable return on its capital<sup>11</sup>;
- 653 (c) the supplier's being able to meet its existing obligations, and likely future obligations, to supply water without having to incur unreasonable expenditure in carrying out works<sup>12</sup>;
- 654 (d) not putting at risk the ability of the supplier to meet its existing obligations, or likely future obligations, to supply water<sup>13</sup>.

Where it appears to the Environment Agency that a bulk supply is necessary in order to secure the proper use of water resources<sup>14</sup>, it may, in carrying out its functions in relation to water resources<sup>15</sup>, propose to a qualifying person that he makes an application under the above provisions for a bulk supply of water from a water undertaker<sup>16</sup>. The Agency may include in its proposal the period for which, and terms and conditions on which, the Agency considers it appropriate that the bulk supply should be given<sup>17</sup>.

The incidental functions of the Agency include the provision of supplies of water in bulk<sup>18</sup>, whether or not such supplies are provided for the purposes of, or in connection with, the carrying out of any other function of the Agency<sup>19</sup>.

1 'Qualifying person' means: (1) a water undertaker; or (2) a person who has made an application for an appointment or variation under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 8 (see PARA 139) which has not been determined: s 40(2) (s 40 substituted by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 s 44). This definition is applied for the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991 s 20C (see the text to notes 14-17): see s 20C(1) (s 20C added by the Water Act 2003 s 31(1)). As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109.

3 As to the meaning of 'supply of water in bulk' see PARA 138 note 11.

4 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40(1)(a) (as substituted (see note 1); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40(1)(b) (as substituted (see note 1); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). An agreement may be made between any water undertakers and any other persons, whether water undertakers or not, for the giving by those other persons, and the taking by the undertakers, of a supply of water in bulk for any period and on any terms and conditions, and, where the supply is to be given by persons who are themselves water undertakers, either within or outside the area of supply of those undertakers. Local legislation may contain provisions as to the bulk supply of water. Any agreement made or having effect as if made under the Water Act 1945 s 12 (repealed) (supply of water in bulk) which was in force immediately before the transfer date (ie 1 September 1989: see PARA 108) continues in force on and after that date notwithstanding the repeal of s 12 but subject to the transfer of rights and liabilities under the agreement in accordance with a transfer scheme under the Water Act 1989 s 4(1)(b), Sch 2 (see PARA 108): s 190(2), Sch 26 para 5(1). The Water Act 1945 s 12 (repealed) provided that an order imposing a bulk supply took effect as an agreement; any such orders still in force could presumably therefore be varied under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 40A: see further PARA 331.

6 The Authority must not make such an order unless it has first consulted the Environment Agency: Water Industry Act 1991 s 40(5) (as substituted (see note 1); and amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 99, the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the exercise of the duty to consult see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 627.

7 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40(1) (as substituted (see note 1); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). Orders under these provisions, not being statutory instruments, are not recorded in this work.

8 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40(4) (as substituted: see note 1). Where the application is made by a person who is a qualifying person by virtue of s 40(2)(b) (see head (2) in note 1), an order made in response to that application must be expressed not to come into force until the applicant becomes a water undertaker for the area specified in the order, or for an area which includes that area: s 40(3) (as so substituted). As to water undertakers' areas see PARA 318. As to the variation and termination of bulk supply agreements see PARA 331.

9 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40(6) (as substituted (see note 1); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

11 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40(6)(b) (as substituted: see note 1).

12 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40(6)(c) (as substituted: see note 1). As to the recovery of expenses see PARA 131 note 6.

13 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40(6)(d) (as substituted: see note 1).

14 See the Water Resources Act 1991 s 20C(2) (as added: see note 1).

15 Ie its functions under the Environment Act 1995 s 6(2): see PARA 188.

16 Water Resources Act 1991 s 20C(1) (as added: see note 1). The Agency must not make such a proposal without first consulting the Water Services Regulation Authority: s 20C(3) (as so added).

17 Water Resources Act 1991 s 20C(4) (as added: see note 1).

18 For these purposes, 'supply of water in bulk' means a supply of water for distribution by a water undertaker taking the supply: Environment Act 1995 s 10(6).

19 See the Environment Act 1995 s 10(1), (4). As to the incidental functions of the Agency see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 80.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(ii) Supply Duties/A. BULK SUPPLIES/331. Variation and termination of bulk supply agreements.

331. Variation and termination of bulk supply agreements.

Any party to a bulk supply agreement<sup>1</sup> may apply to the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>2</sup> for the variation or termination of that agreement<sup>3</sup>. If on such an application it appears to the Authority that it is necessary or expedient for the purposes of securing the efficient use of water resources, or the efficient supply of water, to vary the agreement or to terminate it<sup>4</sup>, and the Authority is satisfied that that cannot be achieved by agreement between the parties<sup>5</sup>, the Authority may by order<sup>6</sup>: (1) vary the agreement by varying the period for which the supply of water is to be given<sup>7</sup> or varying any of the terms or conditions on which that supply is to be given<sup>8</sup>; or (2) terminate the agreement<sup>9</sup>.

In exercising its functions under these provisions, the Authority must have regard to the expenses incurred by the supplier<sup>10</sup> in complying with its obligations under the bulk supply agreement and to the desirability of<sup>11</sup>:

- 655 (a) facilitating effective competition within the water supply industry<sup>12</sup>;
- 656 (b) the supplier's recovering the expenses of complying with its obligations by virtue of these provisions and securing a reasonable return on its capital<sup>13</sup>;
- 657 (c) the supplier's being able to meet its existing obligations, and likely future obligations, to supply water without having to incur unreasonable expenditure in carrying out works<sup>14</sup>;
- 658 (d) not putting at risk the ability of the supplier to meet its existing obligations, or likely future obligations, to supply water<sup>15</sup>.

Where an order is made under these provisions, the agreement concerned either has effect subject to the provision made by the order, or, as the case may be, ceases to have effect<sup>16</sup>. An order may require the payment of compensation by any party to the agreement to any other party<sup>17</sup>.

1 'Bulk supply agreement' means an agreement between one or more water undertakers for the supply of water in bulk and includes: (1) an order under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 40 which is deemed to be an agreement by virtue of s 40(4) (see PARA 330); and (2) any agreement which has been varied by an order under s 40A: Water Industry Act 1991 s 40A(8)(a), (b) (s 40A added by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 s 44). As to orders made under the Water Act 1945 s 12 (repealed) and their continuing effect as such agreements see PARA 330 note 5. As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meaning of 'supply of water in bulk' see PARA 138 note 11.

2 As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109.

3 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 40A(1) (as added: see note 1).

4 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40A(1)(a) (as added (see note 1); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40A(1)(b) (as added (see note 1); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

6 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40A(2) (as added (see note 1); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). Before making any such order the Authority must consult the Environment Agency: Water Industry Act 1991 s 40A(3) (as so added and amended; and further amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 100). As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the exercise of the duty to consult see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 627. Orders under these provisions, not being statutory instruments, are not recorded in this work.

- 8 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40A(2)(a)(ii) (as added: see note 1).
- 9 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40A(2)(b) (as added: see note 1).
- 10 'Supplier', in relation to a bulk supply agreement, means any water undertaker which is required by the agreement to provide a bulk supply of water: Water Industry Act 1991 s 40A(8) (as added: see note 1).
- 11 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40A(7) (as added (see note 1); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

- 16 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40A(4) (as added: see note 1).
- 17 Water Industry Act 1991 s 40A(5) (as added: see note 1). The obligations of a water undertaker to pay such compensation are enforceable under s 18 (see PARA 163) by the Water Services Regulation Authority: s 40A(6) (as so added; and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(ii) Supply Duties/B. REQUISITIONS/332. Duty to comply with water main requisition.

B. REQUISITIONS

332. Duty to comply with water main requisition.

It is the duty of a water undertaker<sup>1</sup> to provide a water main<sup>2</sup> to be used for providing such supplies of water to premises in a particular locality in its area<sup>3</sup> as, so far as those premises are concerned, are sufficient for domestic purposes<sup>4</sup> if:

- 659 (1) the undertaker is required to provide the main by a notice served<sup>5</sup> on the undertaker by one or more of the persons<sup>6</sup> who are entitled<sup>7</sup> to require the provision of the main for that locality<sup>8</sup>;
- 660 (2) the premises in that locality to which those supplies would be provided by means of that main are premises consisting in buildings or parts of buildings<sup>9</sup>, or premises which will so consist when proposals made by any person for the erection of buildings or parts of buildings are carried out<sup>10</sup>; and
- 661 (3) certain financial conditions<sup>11</sup> are satisfied in relation to that requirement<sup>12</sup>.

Each of the following persons is entitled to require the provision of a water main for any locality: (a) the owner<sup>13</sup> or occupier of any premises in the locality<sup>14</sup>; (b) any local authority<sup>15</sup> within whose area the whole or any part of that locality is situated<sup>16</sup>; (c) where the whole or any part of that locality is situated in a new town<sup>17</sup>, the new towns residuary body<sup>18</sup> and the development corporation for the new town<sup>19</sup>; and (d) where the whole or any part of that locality is situated within an area designated as an urban development area<sup>20</sup>, the urban development corporation<sup>21</sup>.

This duty of a water undertaker to provide a water main is owed to the person who requires its provision or, as the case may be, to each of the persons who joins in doing so<sup>22</sup>. Where such a duty is owed to any person, any breach of that duty which causes that person to sustain loss or damage<sup>23</sup> is actionable at the suit of that person; but in any proceedings brought against a water undertaker in pursuance of this provision, it is a defence for the undertaker to show that it took all reasonable steps and exercised all due diligence to avoid the breach<sup>24</sup>. Moreover, a water undertaker is not in breach of a duty so imposed in relation to any locality unless the period of three months<sup>25</sup> beginning with the relevant day has expired<sup>26</sup>, and the water undertaker has not, before the end of that period, so laid the water main to be provided as to enable, as the case may be, service pipes to premises in that locality or a water main which is the subject of an agreement as to adoption<sup>27</sup> (the 'self-laid main'), to connect with the main at the place or places<sup>28</sup>:

- 662 (i) determined by agreement between the water undertaker and the person or persons who required the provision of the water main<sup>29</sup>; or
- 663 (ii) in default of agreement, determined by the Authority, on a reference<sup>30</sup>, to be the places at which it is reasonable, in all the circumstances, for service pipes to premises in the locality in question, or (as the case may be) the self-laid main, to connect with the water main<sup>31</sup>.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(ii) Supply Duties/B. REQUISITIONS/333. Financial conditions of compliance with water main requisition.

333. Financial conditions of compliance with water main requisition.

The financial conditions<sup>1</sup> are satisfied in relation to a requirement for the provision of a water main<sup>2</sup> by a water undertaker<sup>3</sup> if: (1) such undertakings as the undertaker may have reasonably required<sup>4</sup> have been given by the person<sup>5</sup> or persons who required the provision of the water main<sup>6</sup>; and (2) such security as the undertaker may have reasonably required has been provided for the discharge of any obligations imposed by those undertakings on any person who may be required to secure his undertakings<sup>7</sup>.

The undertakings which a water undertaker may require for these purposes are undertakings which bind the person or persons mentioned above to pay to the undertaker either (at the election of such person or persons): (a) in respect of each of the 12 years following the provision of the main, an amount not exceeding the relevant deficit<sup>8</sup> (if any) for that year on that main<sup>9</sup>; or (b) following provision of the main, a single amount not exceeding the discounted aggregate deficit<sup>10</sup> on that main<sup>11</sup>. In the case of undertakings binding two or more persons, the undertaking may bind them either jointly and severally or with liability to pay apportioned in such manner as they may agree<sup>12</sup>.

Where any sums have been deposited with a water undertaker for these purposes by way of security for the discharge of any obligation, the undertaker must pay interest<sup>13</sup> on every sum of 50 pence so deposited for every three months<sup>14</sup> during which it remains in the hands of the undertaker<sup>15</sup>.

Any dispute between a water undertaker and any other person as to the undertakings or security required by the undertaker for these purposes<sup>16</sup>, or as to the amount required to be paid in pursuance of any such undertaking<sup>17</sup>, may be referred to the Water Services Regulation Authority for determination<sup>18</sup> by either party to the dispute<sup>19</sup>.

6    Water Industry Act 1991 s 42(1)(a).

7    Water Industry Act 1991 s 42(1)(b). A person may be required to secure his undertakings in relation to the provision of a water main if he required, or joined in requiring, the provision of the main by virtue of his entitlement to do so as an owner or occupier of premises in the locality (ie by virtue of s 41(2)(a) or (b): see PARA 332) (see s 42(3)(a)), and is not a public authority (s 42(3)(b)). As to the meaning of 'owner' see PARA 22 note 9. As to the meaning of 'public authority' see PARA 118 note 17.

8    'Relevant deficit' has the meaning given by the Water Industry Act 1991 s 43: see s 42(7) (substituted by the Water Act 2003, s 90(1), (4)). The relevant deficit for any year on a water main is the amount, if any, by which the relevant revenue in respect of that main for that year is exceeded by the annual borrowing costs of a loan of the amount required for the provision of that main: Water Industry Act 1991 s 43(1) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 14(1), (2)). Any reference for these purposes to the relevant revenue in respect of a main provided by a water undertaker for any year is: (1) in relation to premises connected with the main which are supplied with water by the undertaker, a reference to so much of the aggregate of any charges payable to the undertaker in respect of services provided in the course of that year as represents charges which have been imposed by the undertaker in relation to those premises and are reasonably attributable to the provision of a supply of water (whether or not for domestic purposes) to those premises by means of that main; (2) in relation to premises connected with the main which are supplied with water by a licensed water supplier, a reference to so much of the aggregate of any charges made during the course of that year which are payable by the supplier to the undertaker in respect of the duty under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 66A(2)(b) (see PARA 341), s 66B(3)(b) (see PARA 342) or s 66C(2)(b)(ii) (see PARA 343) and are reasonably attributable to the use of that main for the purpose of the supplier supplying water to those premises: s 43(7) (substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 14(1), (3)). As to the meaning of 'domestic purposes' see PARA 334. As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152.

The annual borrowing costs of a loan of the amount required for the provision of a water main are the aggregate amount which would fall to be paid in any year by way of payments of interest and repayments of capital if an amount equal to so much of the costs reasonably incurred in providing that main as were not incurred in the provision of additional capacity had been borrowed, by the water undertaker providing the main, on terms (a) requiring interest to be paid and capital to be repaid in 12 equal annual instalments; and (b) providing for the amount of the interest to be calculated at such rate, and in accordance with such other provision, as may have been determined for these purposes either by the undertaker with the approval of the Water Services Regulation Authority or, in default of such a determination, by the Authority: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 43(2), (3) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). An approval or determination so given or made by the Authority may be given or made in relation to the provision of a particular water main, of mains of a particular description or of water mains generally, and may be revoked at any time except in relation to a water main in respect of which the conditions referred to in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 42(1) (see the text to notes 1-7) have already been satisfied: s 43(8) (amended by the Water Act 2003 ss 36(2), 91(1)(c)). As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109.

For the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 43, the costs reasonably incurred in providing a water main (the 'new main') include (i) the costs reasonably incurred in providing such other water mains and such tanks, service reservoirs and pumping stations as it is necessary to provide in consequence of the provision of the new main; and (ii) such proportion (if any) as is reasonable of the costs reasonably incurred in providing or procuring the provision of any such additional capacity in an earlier main as falls to be used in consequence of the provision of the new main: s 43(4) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 91(1)(a)). The reference to an earlier main, in relation to the new main, is a reference to any water main which has been provided in pursuance of a water main requisition or has been vested (by virtue of a declaration made under the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt III Ch II (ss 40-66)) in the water undertaker in the period of 12 years immediately before the provision of the new main: s 43(5) (substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 91(1)(b)). 'Water main requisition' means a requirement under (A) the Water Industry Act 1991 s 41 (see PARA 332) (including, by virtue of the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2(2), Sch 2 para 1, a requirement under the Water Act 1989 s 40 (repealed)); (B) the provisions of the Water Act 1945 ss 36, 37 or Sch 3 s 29 (all repealed); or (C) any local statutory provision corresponding to the Water Industry Act 1991 s 41 or to any of the provisions mentioned in head (B) above: s 43(9). As to the meaning of 'local statutory provision' see PARA 14 note 24. Any reference in s 43 to the provision of additional capacity in a water main provided in pursuance of a requirement under any enactment is a reference to such works carried out or other things done in connection with the provision of that main as are carried out or done for the purpose of enabling that main to be used for purposes in addition to those for which it is necessary to provide the main in order to comply with the requirement: s 43(6). As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31. As to the meaning of 'necessary' see Royco Homes Ltd v Southern Water Authority [1979] 3 All ER 803, [1979] 1 WLR 1366, HL; Cherwell District Council v Thames Water Authority [1975] 1 All ER 763, [1975] 1 WLR 448, HL.

9 Water Industry Act 1991 s 42(2)(a)(i) (s 42(2)(a) substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 90(1), (2)).

10 'Discounted aggregate deficit' has the meaning given by the Water Industry Act 1991 s 43A: see s 42(7) (as substituted: see note 8). The discounted aggregate deficit on a water main is the amount equal to the sum of the estimated relevant deficits for each of the 12 years following the provision of the main, in each case discounted in accordance with the Water Industry Act 1991 s 43A(6): s 43A(1) (s 43A added by the Water Act 2003 s 93(2)). The estimated relevant deficit for any year is the amount (if any) by which the estimated revenue in respect of the water main for that year would be exceeded by the annual borrowing costs of a loan of the amount required for the provision of that main: Water Industry Act 1991 s 43A(2) (as so added). Section 43(2)-(6), (8), (9) (see note 8) applies for these purposes as it applies for the purposes s 43: s 43A(3) (as so added). Any reference to the estimated revenue in respect of a water main for any year: (1) in relation to premises expected to be connected with the main and supplied with water by a water undertaker, is a reference to so much of the aggregate of any charges expected to be payable to the undertaker for the provision of services in the course of that year as would represent charges imposed by the undertaker in relation to those premises and reasonably attributable to the provision of a supply of water (whether or not for domestic purposes) to those premises by means of that main; and (2) in relation to premises expected to be connected with the main and supplied with water by a licensed water supplier, is a reference to so much of the aggregate of any charges expected to be made during the course of that year as would be payable by the supplier to the undertaker in respect of the duty under s 66A(2)(b) (see PARA 341), s 66B(3)(b) (see PARA 342) or s 66C(2)(b)(ii) (see PARA 343) and reasonably attributable to the use of that main for the purpose of the supplier's supplying water to those premises: s 43A(4) (as so added). For the purpose of calculating estimated revenue under s 43A(4), a thing is expected to be the case if, at the time the calculation is made, it is reasonably likely to occur: s 43A(5) (as so added). The estimated relevant deficit for a year mentioned in s 43(1) (see note 8) must be discounted in order to determine its net present value by applying such factor, and in accordance with such other provision, as may be determined by the Water Services Regulation Authority: s 43A(6) (as so added). A determination made by the Authority for the purposes of s 43A(6) may be made in relation to the provision of a particular water main or in relation to the provision of water mains generally, and may be revoked at any time except in relation to a water main in respect of which the conditions referred to in s 42(1) (see the text to notes 1-7) have already been satisfied: s 43A(7) (as so added).

11 Water Industry Act 1991 s 42(2)(a)(ii) (as substituted: see note 9).

12 Water Industry Act 1991 s 42(2)(b).

13 Interest must be paid at such rate as may be determined either by the undertaker with the approval of the Water Services Regulation Authority or, in default of such a determination, by the Authority: Water Industry Act 1991 s 42(4)(a), (b) (s 42(4)(a), (b), (5) amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). An approval or determination given or made by the Authority for these purposes may be given or made in relation to the provision of a particular water main, of mains of a particular description or of water mains generally; and may be revoked at any time: Water Industry Act 1991 s 42(5) (as so amended).

C. DOMESTIC CONNECTIONS

334. Meaning of 'domestic purposes'.

References to 'domestic purposes' in the Water Industry Act 1991, in relation to a supply of water to any premises or in relation to any cognate expression, are references to the drinking, washing, cooking, central heating and sanitary purposes for which water supplied to those premises may be used<sup>1</sup>. Where the whole or any part of the premises are, or are to be, occupied as a house<sup>2</sup>, domestic purposes are taken to include:

- 664 (1) the purposes of a profession carried on in that house, or, where that house and another part of the premises are occupied together, and the house comprises the greater part of what is so occupied, in that other part<sup>3</sup>; and
- 665 (2) such purposes outside the house (including the washing of vehicles and the watering of gardens) as are connected with the occupation of the house and may be satisfied by a supply of water from a tap inside the house and without the use of a hosepipe or similar apparatus<sup>4</sup>.

No such reference to domestic purposes is, however, to be taken to include a reference to:

- 666 (a) the use of a bath having a capacity, measured to the centre line of overflow or in such other manner as may be prescribed<sup>5</sup>, of more than 230 litres<sup>6</sup>;
- 667 (b) the purposes of the business of a laundry<sup>7</sup>; or
- 668 (c) any purpose of a business of preparing food or drink for consumption otherwise than on the premises<sup>8</sup>.

5 'Prescribed' means prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1). At the date at which this volume states the law no such regulations had been made. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 218, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

335. Duty to make connections with main.

It is the duty of a water undertaker<sup>1</sup> to make a connection under the following provisions where the owner<sup>2</sup> or occupier of any premises which consist in the whole or any part of a building<sup>3</sup>, or are premises on which any person<sup>4</sup> is proposing to erect any building or part of a building<sup>5</sup>, serves a connection notice<sup>6</sup> on the undertaker requiring it, for the purpose of providing a supply of water for domestic purposes<sup>7</sup> to that building or part of a building, to connect a service pipe<sup>8</sup> to those premises with one of the undertaker's water mains<sup>9</sup>. The notice must be accompanied or supplemented by all such information<sup>10</sup> as the undertaker may reasonably require<sup>11</sup> and must, if it has effect so that a requirement is imposed on the undertaker by virtue of a local authority notice<sup>12</sup>, set out the matters that have given rise to that requirement<sup>13</sup>.

Where a connection notice has been served, the duty imposed on the undertaker is a duty to make the connection required by the notice at the expense of the person serving it<sup>14</sup> if: (1) the main with which the service pipe is required to be connected is neither a trunk main nor a water main which is, or is to be, used solely for the purpose of supplying water otherwise than for domestic purposes<sup>15</sup>; and (2) such conditions as the undertaker may have imposed<sup>16</sup> have been satisfied<sup>17</sup>. The duty arises<sup>18</sup> whether or not the service pipe to which the notice relates has been laid when it is served<sup>19</sup>, and is owed to the person who served the notice by virtue of which the duty arises<sup>20</sup>. Where such a duty is owed to any person, any breach of that duty which causes that person to sustain loss or damage<sup>21</sup> is actionable at his suit; but in any proceedings brought against a water undertaker in pursuance of this provision, it is a defence for the undertaker to show that it took all reasonable steps and exercised all due diligence to avoid the breach<sup>22</sup>. Moreover, a water undertaker is not in breach of a duty imposed by virtue of the service of a connection notice unless:

- 669 (a) in the case of a duty to lay any service pipe or to connect any service pipe to which such a duty relates, it has failed to lay that pipe or to make that connection as soon as reasonably practicable after the relevant day<sup>23</sup>;
- 670 (b) in the case of a duty to connect a service pipe the whole of which has already been laid when the notice is served on the undertaker, it has failed to make the connection before the end of the period of 14 days beginning with the relevant day<sup>24</sup>.

Where: (i) a connection notice is served in respect of any premises<sup>25</sup>; and (ii) at the time when it is served, the customer's part of the service pipe to those premises<sup>26</sup> has not been laid<sup>27</sup>, the undertaker's duty to make the connection<sup>28</sup> and the duty to carry out ancillary works<sup>29</sup> does not arise by virtue of that notice until the person serving it has, at his own expense and after having obtained the necessary consents from the owners and occupiers of any affected land, laid so much of the service pipe as it is necessary, for the purpose of making the connection, to lay otherwise than in a street or in land:

- 671 (A) between the boundary of the street and the main<sup>30</sup> or that boundary and the required stopcock<sup>31</sup>; or
- 672 (B) owned or occupied by a person certified by a local authority<sup>32</sup> to have unreasonably refused his consent or to have sought to make his consent subject to unreasonable conditions<sup>33</sup>.

Nothing in these provisions imposes any duty on a water undertaker to connect a service pipe to any premises with a service pipe to any other premises<sup>34</sup>.

9     Water Industry Act 1991 s 45(1) (amended by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 s 43(1), Sch 2). In relation to service pipes which do not belong to or fall to be laid by the undertaker, the Water Industry Act 1991 s 45(1) is subject to s 51D(1) (see PARA 338), and any such service pipe which is to vest in the undertaker by virtue of an agreement under s 51A (see PARA 338) must be connected to one of the undertaker's water mains subject to and in accordance with the terms of that agreement: s 45(1A) (added by the Water Act 2003 s 92(2)). This provision does not apply in respect of any water main or service pipe the construction of which was begun before 28 May 2004: see the Water Act 2003 s 92(7); and the Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 1 and Transitional Provisions) Order 2004, SI 2004/641, art 4(a). For the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt III (ss 37-93) a service pipe must be treated as connected with a water main other than a trunk main even if the connection is an indirect connection made by virtue of a connection with another service pipe: s 93(3). 10    As to the meaning of 'information' see PARA 117 note 13.

11    Water Industry Act 1991 s 45(3)(a). Without prejudice to the effect, if any, of any other contravention of s 45(3), a failure to provide information in pursuance of the obligation to supplement such a notice does not invalidate that notice: s 45(3). Where, however, (1) a person who has served a connection notice on a water undertaker has failed to comply with his obligation to supplement that notice with information required by the undertaker (s 51(5)(a)); and (2) that requirement was made by the undertaker at such time before the end of the period within which the undertaker is required to comply with the duties imposed by virtue of the notice as gave that person a reasonable opportunity to provide the required information within that period (s 51(5)(b)), the undertaker may delay its compliance with those duties until a reasonable time after the required information is provided (s 51(5)). 14    Where a water undertaker carries out any works which it is its duty under these provisions to carry out at another person's expense, the undertaker is entitled to recover from that person an amount equal to the expenses reasonably incurred by the undertaker in carrying out the works: Water Industry Act 1991 s 45(6). Any dispute between a water undertaker and any other person as to whether the expenses were incurred reasonably may be referred to the Water Services Regulation Authority for determination under s 30A (see PARA 131) by either party to the dispute: s 45(6A) (added by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 s 35(1), (2); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). In any case in which a water undertaker is subject to any such duty, it is to be presumed, unless the contrary is shown in relation to that case, that the period of 21 days beginning with the relevant day is the period within which it is reasonably practicable for a water undertaker to lay so much of any service pipe, and to fit such stopcock, as is necessary to lay or fit in that case for connecting a water main in a street with a service pipe at the boundary of any premises which abut on the part of the street where the main is situated: s 51(2). 'Relevant day', in relation to a duty imposed on a water undertaker by virtue of a connection notice, means the day after whichever is the latest of the following days: (1) the day on which the notice was served on the undertaker; (2) in a case where it is necessary for the person serving the notice to lay any service pipe after serving the notice, the day on which a notice stating that the pipe has been laid is served on the undertaker; (3) the day on which all such conditions are satisfied as the undertaker has, under ss 47-50 (see PARA 337) made conditions of its compliance with that duty: s 51(6). WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(ii) Supply Duties/C. DOMESTIC CONNECTIONS/336. Duty to carry out ancillary works for the purpose of making domestic connection.

336. Duty to carry out ancillary works for the purpose of making domestic connection.

Where a water undertaker<sup>1</sup> is required to make a connection in pursuance of any connection notice<sup>2</sup>, it is also the duty of the undertaker, at the expense of the person serving the notice<sup>3</sup>, to carry out such of the works to which these provisions apply as need to be carried out before the connection can be made<sup>4</sup>. These provisions apply to the laying of so much of the service pipe<sup>5</sup> to be connected with the water main<sup>6</sup> as it is necessary, for the purpose of making that connection, to lay in a street<sup>7</sup>; and the duty imposed by them is a duty owed to the person who served the notice by virtue of which the duty arises<sup>8</sup>, but nothing in them imposes any duty on a water undertaker to connect a service pipe to any premises with a service pipe to any other premises<sup>9</sup>.

In a case where the water main with which the service pipe is to be connected is situated in a street<sup>10</sup>, and:

- 673 (1) the premises consisting in the building or part of a building in question together with any land occupied with it abut on the part of the street where the main is situated<sup>11</sup>; and
- 674 (2) the service pipe to those premises will enter the premises otherwise than through an outer wall of a building abutting on the street and have a stopcock<sup>12</sup> fitted to it by the undertaker in the premises<sup>13</sup>, the undertaker's duty under these provisions applies to the laying of so much of the service pipe as it is necessary, for the purpose of making the required connection, to lay in land between the boundary of the street and that stopcock<sup>14</sup>. In a case where the connection notice is served in compliance with a requirement imposed by a notice by a local authority<sup>15</sup>, the duty under these provisions applies to the laying of so much of the service pipe to be connected with a water main in pursuance of the connection notice as it is necessary, for the purpose of making the connection, to lay in land owned or occupied by a person who is certified by that authority to have unreasonably refused his consent to the laying of the service pipe<sup>16</sup>, or to have sought to make the giving of his consent subject to unreasonable conditions<sup>17</sup>.

It is the duty of any water undertaker making a connection in pursuance of a connection notice to ensure that a stopcock belonging to the undertaker is fitted to the service pipe which is connected<sup>18</sup>.

A water undertaker may comply with any duty under these provisions to lay a service pipe by laying a water main instead; but it is under no duty<sup>19</sup> to lay a water main where it has no power to lay a service pipe<sup>20</sup>. Where an undertaker exercises its power to lay a water main instead of a service pipe, any additional time reasonably required by reason of the laying of the main instead of the service pipe must be included in the time allowed<sup>21</sup> for the laying of the service pipe, but the expenses recoverable by the undertaker<sup>22</sup> may not exceed such amount as it would have been reasonable for the undertaker to have incurred in laying a service pipe instead of the main<sup>23</sup>.

Except in the cases set out in these provisions, the person requiring the connection is responsible for obtaining the necessary consent and it is in that person's interests to obtain an easement for such a pipe. In practice a licence is sometimes obtained, causing problems if the licence is revoked. Note that a local authority's remedial powers under s 80 only apply when a private supply (eg a well) fails, and are not available when a licence to place a service pipe is revoked. Other practical problems arise on the expiration of such a licence, eg should the water undertaker use s 174 (see PARA 486) to prevent the grantor of the licence from interfering with the service pipe? (probably not if the licence has expired); and is the water undertaker able to lay a new service pipe along the route of the existing service pipe using its power under s 159(2)(a) (see PARA 463)? (probably not if the legal right for the existing service pipe to be there has expired).

337. Conditions of connection with water main.

Where the owner<sup>1</sup> or occupier of any premises (the 'relevant premises') serves a connection notice<sup>2</sup> on a water undertaker<sup>3</sup>, the water undertaker may make compliance with one or more of the specified requirements a condition of its complying with the duties to which it is subject by virtue of that notice<sup>4</sup>. The specified requirements are:

- 675 (1) a requirement that such security as the undertaker may reasonably require<sup>5</sup> has been provided for the discharge of any financial obligations<sup>6</sup> imposed on the person who served the connection notice<sup>7</sup>;
- 676 (2) a requirement, in a case where the connection required by the connection notice is necessary as a consequence of a disconnection made by reason of any person's failure to pay any charges<sup>8</sup>, that the person serving the connection notice has paid any amount owed by him to the undertaker in respect of a supply of water to the relevant premises or in respect of expenses reasonably incurred<sup>9</sup> in the making of the disconnection<sup>10</sup>;
- 677 (3) a requirement that a meter<sup>11</sup> for use in determining the amount of any charges which have been or may be fixed in relation to the relevant premises by reference to volume has been installed and connected either by the undertaker or in accordance with specifications<sup>12</sup> approved by the undertaker<sup>13</sup>;
- 678 (4) a requirement that, subject to the statutory requirement as to vesting<sup>14</sup>, so much of the service pipe<sup>15</sup> to the relevant premises as does not belong to, vest in or fall to be laid by the undertaker, and the plumbing of the premises, comply with specifications approved by the undertaker for the purpose of ensuring that it will be reasonably practicable for such a meter as is mentioned in head (3) above to be installed and connected as so mentioned<sup>16</sup>;
- 679 (5) a requirement that a separate service pipe has been provided to each house<sup>17</sup> or building on the relevant premises or, where different parts of a building on the relevant premises are separately occupied, to each of those parts or to any of them<sup>18</sup>;
- 680 (6) a requirement in relation to the relevant premises that such a requirement as may be imposed for maintaining pressure<sup>19</sup> has been complied with or, in a case where such a requirement could be imposed but for there already being a cistern fulfilling the statutory requirements<sup>20</sup>, that the cistern and its float-operated valve are in good repair<sup>21</sup>;
- 681 (7) a requirement that there is no contravention<sup>22</sup> in relation to the water fittings<sup>23</sup> used or to be used in connection with the supply of water to the relevant premises, or the use of water in those premises, of certain prescribed<sup>24</sup> requirements<sup>25</sup>; and
- 682 (8) a requirement that every such step has been taken as has been specified in any waste prevention notice<sup>26</sup> served on any person in relation to the relevant premises<sup>27</sup>.

The above provisions are without prejudice to the water undertaker's statutory powers to impose conditions of supply after individual or corporate insolvency<sup>28</sup>.

2 As to the meaning of 'connection notice' see PARA 335 note 6.

3 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

4 Water Industry Act 1991 s 47(1). However, a condition may not be imposed by a water undertaker under these provisions on a person who has served a connection notice except by a counter-notice served on that person before the end of the period of 14 days beginning with the day after the service of the connection notice: s 47(3). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the service of documents see PARA 22. As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1.

5 Any dispute between a water undertaker and any other person as to whether any security required by a condition so imposed was reasonably required may be referred to the Water Services Regulation Authority for determination under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 30A (see PARA 131) by either party to the dispute, as may any dispute as to whether such a requirement has been complied with: see s 47(3A), (3B)(a) (s 47(3A), (3B) added by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 s 51(1), (4); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109.

6 In any obligations imposed by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 45(6) (see PARA 335) or s 46(7)(b) (see PARA 336).

7 Water Industry Act 1991 s 47(2)(a). Where any sums have been deposited for these purposes with a water undertaker by way of security for the discharge of any obligation, the undertaker must pay interest, at such rate as may be determined either by the undertaker with the approval of the Water Services Regulation Authority or in default of such a determination, by the Authority, on every sum of 50p so deposited for every three months during which it remains in the hands of the undertaker: s 48(1) (s 48(1), (2) amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). An approval or determination by the Authority for these purposes may be given or made in relation to a particular case or description of cases or generally and may be revoked at any time: Water Industry Act 1991 s 48(2) (as so amended). As to the meaning of 'month' see PARA 23 note 10.

8 As to a water undertaker's power to disconnect for non-payment of charges, and premises that are not to be disconnected, see PARAS 357-358.

9 Any dispute between a water undertaker and any other person as to whether those expenses were reasonably incurred may be referred to the Water Services Regulation Authority for determination under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 30A (see PARA 131) by either party to the dispute, as may any dispute as to whether such a requirement has been complied with: see s 47(3A), (3B)(b) (as added and amended: see note 5). As to the recovery of expenses see PARA 131 note 6.

10 Water Industry Act 1991 s 47(2)(b) (amended by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 s 51(1), (2)).

11 'Meter' means any apparatus for measuring or showing the volume of water supplied to, or of effluent discharged from, any premises: Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1). The power conferred on a water undertaker to impose conditions by virtue of s 47(2)(c) or (d) (see head (4) in the text) for the purpose of metering are exercisable in relation to any premises even if the undertaker has no immediate intention, when the power is exercised, of fixing charges in relation to those premises by reference to volume: see s 49(1)(a), (4). This power is not, however, exercisable so as to require the alteration or removal of any pipe laid or plumbing installed before 1 April 1989: s 49(1)(b). Any dispute between a water undertaker and any other person as to the terms of any condition imposed under s 47 for the purposes of metering must be referred to the arbitration of a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the undertaker and that person or, if no agreement is reached, for determination by the Water Services Regulation Authority under s 30A (see PARA 131): s 49(3) (substituted by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 s 35(1), (4); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). References to the fixing of charges in relation to any premises by reference to volume are references to the fixing of those charges by reference to the volume of water supplied to those premises, to the volume of effluent discharged from those premises, to both of those factors or to one or both of those factors taken together with other factors: Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(4). As to the meaning of 'effluent' see PARA 262 note 31. As to the installation of a meter after initial connection see PARA 433.

12 Specifications approved by a water undertaker for the purpose of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 47(2)(c) or (d) (see head (4) in the text) may be approved: (1) in relation to particular premises; or (2) by being published in such manner as the undertaker considers appropriate, in relation to premises generally or to any description of premises: s 49(2).

17 As to the meaning of 'house' see PARA 133 note 5.

18 Water Industry Act 1991 s 47(2)(e). No such condition may be imposed by a water undertaker unless it is reasonable to do so in order to ensure that the undertaker will be able to perform its functions efficiently in relation to the supply of water to the relevant premises or any part of those premises: s 47(2A) (added by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 s 51(1), (3)). Any dispute between a water undertaker and any other person as to whether, in a particular case, a water undertaker is thus prevented from imposing such a requirement may be referred to the Water Services Regulation Authority for determination under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 30A (see PARA 131), as may any dispute as to whether such a requirement has been complied with: see s 47(3A), (3B)(c) (both as added and amended: see note 5). Where the effect of a connection notice served in respect of any house is to require a service pipe to be connected with a water main with which it has previously been connected, the water undertaker on which the connection notice is served is not entitled to make the reconnection subject to any such condition as may otherwise be imposed by virtue of s 47(2)(e) unless the undertaker would have been entitled under s 64 (see PARA 352) to require the provision of a separate service pipe if the reconnection had already been made: see s 50(1), (2). ### 338. Adoption of water mains and service pipes.

Subject to certain exceptions<sup>1</sup>, a water undertaker<sup>2</sup> may agree with any person<sup>3</sup> constructing or proposing to construct any water main<sup>4</sup> or any service pipe that, if the water main or service pipe is constructed in accordance with the terms of the agreement, the undertaker will, upon completion of the work, at some specified date or on the happening of some future event, declare the water main or, as the case may be, so much of the service pipe as the undertaker could otherwise be required to lay<sup>5</sup> to be vested in that undertaker<sup>6</sup>. This does not apply in the case of water mains or service pipes which are to be used (in whole or in part) for the purpose of supplying water other than for domestic purposes<sup>7</sup>. However, a water undertaker is not prevented<sup>8</sup> from otherwise agreeing<sup>9</sup> to declare any such water main or service pipe (or a part of it, as specified in the agreement) to be vested in the undertaker<sup>10</sup>.

A person constructing or proposing to construct a water main or a service pipe to which the statutory power to make an agreement set out above<sup>11</sup> applies may make an application in writing<sup>12</sup> to a water undertaker requesting the undertaker to make such an agreement<sup>13</sup>. Such an application must be accompanied and supplemented by all such information<sup>14</sup> as the undertaker may reasonably require<sup>15</sup>. Where:

- 683 (1) a person who has made such an application to a water undertaker has failed to comply with his obligation to supplement that application with information required by the undertaker<sup>16</sup>; and
- 684 (2) that requirement was made by the undertaker at such a time before the end of the period within which the undertaker is required<sup>17</sup> to respond to the application as gave that person a reasonable opportunity to provide the required information within that period<sup>18</sup>, the undertaker may delay its response to the application until a reasonable time after the required information is provided<sup>19</sup>. Subject to that, and without prejudice to the effect (if any) of any other contravention<sup>20</sup> of the statutory requirements in relation to such an application, a failure to provide information in pursuance of the obligation to supplement such an application does not invalidate the application<sup>21</sup>.

In deciding whether or on what terms to grant such an application, a water undertaker must have regard in particular to any effect or potential effect on the quality of water supplies and to any increased danger to life or health which it considers may result<sup>22</sup>. The terms of an agreement under these provisions relating to a water main may, in particular, include terms:

- 685 (a) for the provision, at the expense of the person constructing or proposing to construct the water main, by that person or by the water undertaker of such associated infrastructure at or downstream of the point of connection with the undertaker's supply system<sup>23</sup> as it is necessary to provide in consequence of incorporating the new water main into that system<sup>24</sup>;
- 686 (b) providing that, if the water main and the associated infrastructure are constructed in accordance with the terms of the agreement, the undertaker will, in addition to declaring the water main to be vested in it, declare the associated infrastructure to be so vested<sup>25</sup>;

- 687 (c) where the undertaker considers that the proposed main is, or is likely to be, needed for the provision of water supply services in addition to those for which the person is proposing to construct the main:
- 59
69. (i) requiring that person to construct the main in a manner differing, as regards material or size of pipes, depth or otherwise, from the manner in which that person proposes, or could otherwise be required by the undertaker, to construct it<sup>26</sup>; and
70. (ii) providing for the repayment by the undertaker of any extra expense reasonably incurred by that person in complying with that requirement<sup>27</sup>;
- 60
- 688 (d) for the connection of the new water main to the undertaker's existing supply system at the point or points specified in the agreement<sup>28</sup>;
- 689 (e) for any service pipes which the person constructing or proposing to construct the new water main proposes to connect to that main to be constructed in accordance with the terms of the agreement and, subject to that, to be vested in the undertaker at the same time as the main<sup>29</sup>.

The terms of such an agreement relating to a service pipe may, in particular, include terms for the connection of the new service pipe to the undertaker's existing supply system at the point or points specified in the agreement<sup>30</sup> and for such specified requirements<sup>31</sup> as may be applicable to be complied with before connection takes place<sup>32</sup>. A water undertaker may not make an agreement with respect to a water main or a service pipe situated within the area of another water undertaker<sup>33</sup>, until either that other undertaker has consented in writing to the making of the agreement<sup>34</sup>, or the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>35</sup>, on an application made to him or them, have dispensed with the necessity for such consent, either unconditionally or subject to such conditions as he or they may think fit to impose<sup>36</sup>.

An agreement made under these provisions by a water undertaker is enforceable against the undertaker by the owner<sup>37</sup> or occupier for the time being of any premises connected or to be connected with the water main or service pipe to which it relates<sup>38</sup>.

Where an agreement is, or is to be, entered into under the above provisions in relation to a water main (the 'adopted main') by, or on behalf of, a water undertaker and a person constructing or proposing to construct that water main, the water undertaker may, as a condition of the undertaker's compliance with the agreement, require that person to pay to it the specified costs<sup>39</sup> and may, for the purposes of any payment so required to be made, require the person to provide such security as it may reasonably request<sup>40</sup>. Where these provisions apply, the water undertaker must pay to that person, upon declaring the water main to be vested in the undertaker, a sum equal to the discounted offset amount<sup>41</sup>. Any dispute between the water undertaker and the other person as to the payments so required to be made or the security so required to be provided may be referred to the Water Services Regulation Authority for determination<sup>42</sup> by either party to the dispute<sup>43</sup>.

Where a person, other than a water undertaker, constructs a water main or service pipe which is to be used, in whole or in part, for supplying water for domestic or food production purposes<sup>44</sup> no water undertaker may permit that water main or service pipe to become connected with its supply system unless it vests, to the relevant extent, in a water undertaker<sup>45</sup>.

A person constructing or proposing to construct a water main or service pipe may appeal to the Water Services Regulation Authority where the water undertaker: (A) has refused an application requesting the undertaker to make an agreement under these provisions<sup>46</sup>; (B) has offered to grant such an application on terms to which that person objects<sup>47</sup>; or (C) has failed, before the end of two months<sup>48</sup> from the making of such an application, either to refuse the application or to give notice to the applicant of the terms on which it is prepared to grant the application<sup>49</sup>. On the hearing of such an appeal, the Authority may uphold the refusal of the undertaker to grant the application or to modify the terms offered, or may, on behalf of the undertaker, refuse the application or enter into any agreement into which the undertaker might have entered on the application<sup>50</sup>. In deciding on such an appeal, the Authority may include such incidental, supplemental and consequential provision, including provision requiring either party to pay a sum in respect of the costs or expenses incurred by the Authority, as the Authority thinks fit; and any such provision as to costs or expenses is enforceable as if it were a judgment of a county court<sup>51</sup>.

4 For the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 51A-51D, the definition of 'water main' in s 219(1) (see PARA 138 note 11) is to be treated as if the words 'not being a pipe for the time being vested in a person other than the undertaker' were omitted: s 51E(1) (ss 51A-51E added by the Water Act 2003 s 92(1)). These provisions do not apply in respect of any water main or service pipe the construction of which was begun before 28 May 2004: see the Water Act 2003 s 92(7); the Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 1 and Transitional Provisions) Order 2004, SI 2004/641, art 4(a). The estimated offset for any year is the lesser of: (1) the estimated revenue (if any) in respect of the adopted main for that year; and (2) the annual borrowing costs of a loan of the amount required for the provision of that main: s 51C(7) (as so added). The amounts referred to in heads (1)-(2) must be calculated in accordance with the provisions of s 43A(3)-(5) (see PARA 333) as if the adopted main had been provided in pursuance of a water main requisition (as defined in s 43: see PARA 333 note 8): s 51C(8) (as so added). The estimated offset for a year must be discounted in order to determine its net present value by applying such factor, and in accordance with such other provision, as may be determined by the Water Services Regulation Authority: s 51C(9) (as so added). A determination made by the Authority for these purposes may be made in relation to a particular water main or in relation to water mains generally and may be revoked at any time except in relation to an adopted main in respect of which the agreement referred to in s 51C(1) has already been made: s 51C(10) (as so added). An agreement so entered into on behalf of a water undertaker is to be deemed, for the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991, to have been entered into under s 51A (see the text to notes 1-38): s 51B(4) (as so added).

D. DOMESTIC SUPPLIES

339. Duty to supply water for domestic purposes.

The domestic supply duty of a water undertaker<sup>1</sup> in relation to any premises is a duty, until there is an interruption of that duty<sup>2</sup>, to provide to those premises such a supply of water as is sufficient, so far as those premises are concerned, for domestic purposes<sup>3</sup>, and to maintain the connection between the undertaker's water main<sup>4</sup> and the service pipe<sup>5</sup> by which that supply is provided to those premises<sup>6</sup>.

A water undertaker owes a domestic supply duty in relation to any premises to which these provisions apply<sup>7</sup> if:

- 690 (1) a demand for a supply for domestic purposes has been made to the undertaker by the occupier<sup>8</sup> of the premises at the time when the demand is made, or by the person who is the owner of the premises at that time and agrees with the undertaker to pay all the undertaker's charges in respect of the supply demanded<sup>9</sup>; or
- 691 (2) those premises are premises to which the duty applies by reason of a supply of water provided before 1 September 1989<sup>10</sup>, and there has been no interruption of the domestic supply duty in relation to those premises since that demand was made or, as the case may be, since the beginning of 1 September 1989<sup>11</sup>.

The domestic supply duty applies to any premises if they consist in the whole or any part of a building and are connected by means of a service pipe to one of the water undertaker's mains<sup>12</sup>, and if the following requirements are satisfied in relation to those premises<sup>13</sup>:

- 692 (a) the pipe by means of which the premises are connected to the water main in question was first connected with that main in pursuance of a connection notice<sup>14</sup> served in respect of those premises<sup>15</sup>;
- 693 (b) that pipe was the means by which a supply of water from that main was being supplied to those premises for domestic purposes immediately before 1 September 1989<sup>16</sup>;
- 694 (c) the condition specified in head (b) above would be satisfied in relation to the premises if any service pipe to those premises had not been temporarily disconnected for the purposes of any necessary works which were being carried out immediately before that date<sup>17</sup>; or
- 695 (d) the condition specified in any of heads (a) to (c) above has been satisfied in relation to the premises at any time on or after that date and would continue to be so satisfied had not the whole or any part of a service pipe to those premises, or the main with which such a pipe had been connected, been renewed on one or more previous occasions<sup>18</sup>.

However, the domestic supply duty does not apply to any premises if they are not in the area of the water undertaker<sup>19</sup>, they are not household premises<sup>20</sup>, and the total quantity of water estimated to be supplied to them annually for the statutory purposes<sup>21</sup> is not less than the specified quantity<sup>22</sup>.

A duty imposed on a water undertaker under these provisions to provide a supply of water to any premises<sup>23</sup>, or to maintain a connection between a water main and a service pipe by which such a supply is provided<sup>24</sup>, is owed to the consumer<sup>25</sup>. Where such a duty is owed to any person, any breach of that duty which causes him to sustain loss or damage<sup>26</sup> is actionable at his suit; but in any proceedings brought against a water undertaker in pursuance of this provision it is a defence for the undertaker to show that it took all reasonable steps and exercised all due diligence to avoid the breach<sup>27</sup>.

Nothing in these provisions imposes any duty on a water undertaker:

- 696 (i) to provide a supply of water directly from, or maintain any connection with, a water main which is a trunk main<sup>28</sup> or is, or is to be, used solely for the purpose of supplying water otherwise than for domestic purposes<sup>29</sup>; or
- 697 (ii) to provide a supply of water to any premises, or maintain the connection between a water main and a service pipe to any premises, during any period when it is reasonable for the supply of water to those premises to be cut off or reduced, or for the pipe to be disconnected, for the purposes of the carrying out of any necessary works<sup>30</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

2 There is an interruption of the domestic supply duty owed by a water undertaker in relation to any premises if that supply is cut off by anything done by the undertaker in the exercise of any of its disconnection powers, other than a disconnection or cutting off for the purposes of the carrying out of any necessary works: Water Industry Act 1991 s 52(6)(a). A domestic supply duty owed in relation to any premises is not, however, treated as interrupted by reason only of a change of the occupier or owner of the premises: s 52(6)(b). There is also an interruption of the domestic supply duty owed by a water undertaker in relation to any premises where a notice is served in respect of those premises under s 63AA (see PARA 393), and the time specified in that notice has passed: s 52(6A) (added by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 15(1), (4)). References to the disconnection powers of a water undertaker are references to the powers conferred on that undertaker by any of the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 60-62 (see PARAS 355, 357-359) and s 75 (see PARA 365): s 52(8). As to the meaning of 'owner' see PARA 22 note 9. 'Necessary works' includes works carried out, in exercise of any power conferred by or under any enactment, by a person other than a water undertaker: s 93(1). As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

7 As to those premises see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 52(3), (4); and see the text to notes 12-18.

8 The meaning of 'occupier' was considered in Woodcock v South Western Electricity Board [1975] 2 All ER 545, [1975] 1 WLR 983 in relation to the electricity supply legislation then in force; the word 'occupier' did not include a person whose original entry onto premises was unlawful and forcible, eg a squatter, and the duty to supply did not apply to such a person. It is submitted that the same reasoning would apply in connection with water supply legislation and a water undertaker is therefore under no duty to give an initial supply of water to a squatter or to continue giving such a supply. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(ii) Supply Duties/D. DOMESTIC SUPPLIES/340. Conditions of compliance with domestic supply duty.

340. Conditions of compliance with domestic supply duty.

Where a demand for a water supply for domestic purposes<sup>1</sup> has been made to a water undertaker<sup>2</sup> in respect of any premises (the 'relevant premises')<sup>3</sup>, the undertaker may make compliance with one or more of the specified requirements a condition of providing its first supply of water in compliance with that demand<sup>4</sup>. The specified requirements are:

- 698 (1) a requirement, in a case where the demand is made as a consequence of a supply having been cut off by reason of any person's<sup>5</sup> failure to pay any charges<sup>6</sup>, that the person making the demand has paid any amount owed by him to the water undertaker in respect of a supply of water to the relevant premises<sup>7</sup>, or in respect of expenses reasonably<sup>8</sup> incurred in cutting off any such supply<sup>9</sup>;
- 699 (2) a requirement, in relation to the relevant premises, that such a requirement as may be imposed for maintaining pressure<sup>10</sup> has been complied with<sup>11</sup> or, in a case where such a requirement could be imposed but for there already being a cistern which fulfils the statutory requirements<sup>12</sup>, that the cistern and its float-operated valve are in good repair<sup>13</sup>;
- 700 (3) a requirement that there is no contravention<sup>14</sup> in relation to the water fittings<sup>15</sup> used, or to be used, in connection with the supply of water to the relevant premises<sup>16</sup>, or the use of water in those premises<sup>17</sup>, of certain prescribed requirements<sup>18</sup>; and
- 701 (4) a requirement that every such step has been taken as has been specified in any waste prevention notice served on any person<sup>19</sup> in relation to the relevant premises<sup>20</sup>.

The above provisions are without prejudice to the water undertaker's statutory powers to impose conditions of supply after individual or corporate insolvency<sup>21</sup>.

E. SUPPLIES TO, AND INTRODUCTIONS OF WATER BY, LICENSED WATER SUPPLIERS

341. Wholesale water supply by primary water undertaker.

The following provisions apply where a licensed water supplier<sup>1</sup> requests its primary water undertaker<sup>2</sup> to provide it with a supply of water for the purpose of supplying water to the premises of its customers<sup>3</sup> in accordance with the retail authorisation<sup>4</sup>, and the premises are in the area of the undertaker<sup>5</sup>. In such a case, it is the duty of the primary water undertaker, in accordance with an agreement or determination for such period and containing such terms and conditions as may be provided for<sup>6</sup>:

- 702 (1) to take any such steps for the purpose of connecting the premises in question with the undertaker's supply system<sup>7</sup>, or in respect of that system<sup>8</sup>, as may be so provided for in order to enable the undertaker to provide the requested supply<sup>9</sup>; and
- 703 (2) having taken any such steps, to provide that supply<sup>10</sup>.

A primary water undertaker is not, however, so required to provide a supply of water to a licensed water supplier, or to take any steps to enable it to provide such a supply, if (a) both of the first and second conditions are satisfied<sup>11</sup>; or (b) the third condition is satisfied<sup>12</sup>. The first condition is that the premises to be supplied by the supplier do not consist in the whole or any part of a building<sup>13</sup>, or the supply to be made by it to those premises is for purposes other than domestic purposes<sup>14</sup>. The second condition is that the provision of the supply by the undertaker would:

- 704 (i) require the undertaker, in order to meet all its existing obligations to supply water for domestic or other purposes, together with its probable future obligations to supply buildings and parts of buildings with water for domestic purposes, to incur unreasonable expenditure in carrying out works<sup>15</sup>; or
- 705 (ii) otherwise put at risk its ability to meet any of the existing or probable future obligations mentioned in head (i) above<sup>16</sup>.

The third condition is that there is a contravention<sup>17</sup> in relation to the water fittings<sup>18</sup> used or to be used in connection with the supply of water to the premises to be supplied by the supplier<sup>19</sup>, or the use of water in those premises<sup>20</sup>, of such of the requirements of relevant regulations<sup>21</sup> as are prescribed for these purposes<sup>22</sup>.

Where a request has been made by a licensed water supplier to its primary water undertaker for these purposes<sup>23</sup>, and the steps which the undertaker is required to take by virtue of that request include steps for the purpose of obtaining any necessary authority for, or agreement to, any exercise by it of any of its powers or the carrying out by it of any works<sup>24</sup>, the failure of the undertaker to acquire the necessary authority or agreement does not affect any liability of the licensed water supplier, under any term or condition in accordance with which those steps are taken, to reimburse the undertaker in respect of some or all of the expenses incurred by it in taking those steps<sup>25</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152.

2 A water undertaker is the 'primary water undertaker' of a licensed water supplier for the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 66A and s 66C (see PARA 343) if the undertaker's supply system is to be used for the purpose of making the supply to premises mentioned in those sections: s 66A(8) (ss 66A, 66D-66F added by the Water Act 2003 s 56, Sch 4 paras 1, 3). In the Water Industry Act 1991 s 66A any reference to the supply system of a water undertaker must be construed in accordance with s 17B(5) (see PARA 152 note 8): see s 66A(9)(a) (as so added). As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

3 As to the meaning of 'customer or potential customer' see PARA 118 note 7.

4 Water Industry Act 1991 s 66A(1)(a) (as added: see note 2). In the Water Industry Act 1991 s 66A, any reference to the 'retail authorisation' is to be construed in accordance with s 17A(2) (see PARA 152): see s 66A(9)(b) (as so added).

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 66A(1)(b) (as added: see note 2). As to water undertakers' areas see PARA 318.

6 The period for which and terms and conditions on which a water undertaker is to perform any duty under the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 66A-66C are, subject to the provisions of s 66D(3)-(10) and to ss 66E, 66F (see below): (1) those which are, in a case falling within s 66A(2) or s 66B(3) (see PARA 342), agreed between the water undertaker and the licensed water supplier in question (s 66D(2)(a)(i) (as added: see note 2)); and (2) in a case falling within s 66C(2) (see PARA 343), agreed between the water undertakers and the licensed water supplier in question (s 66D(2)(a)(ii) (as so added)); or (3) in default of such agreement, those which are determined by the Water Services Regulation Authority, in a case referred to it by the licensed water supplier in question, if they are acceptable to the supplier (s 66D(2)(b) (as so added)). The charges payable by a licensed water supplier to a water undertaker under an agreement under heads (1) or (2) above or a determination under head (3) above must be fixed in accordance with the costs principle set out in s 66E: s 66D(3) (as so added). The Water Services Regulation Authority must issue guidance in accordance with which the terms and conditions of an agreement under head (1) or (2) must be made: s 66D(4) (as so added). Before issuing such guidance, the Authority must consult such persons as it considers appropriate: s 66D(5) (as so added). The guidance issued under s 66D(4) must include guidance with respect to the fixing of charges in accordance with s 66D(3): s 66D(6) (as so added). If it appears to the Authority that an agreement under head (1) or (2) has not been made in accordance with s 66D(3) or the guidance issued under s 66D(4), the Authority may require the parties to the agreement to modify the agreement or to terminate the agreement, and that requirement is enforceable under s 18 (see PARA 163) by the Authority: see s 66D(7), (8) (as so added). Neither the Office of Fair Trading (the 'OFT') nor the Authority may exercise, in respect of an agreement under head (1) or (2), the powers conferred by (a) the Competition Act 1998 s 32 (directions in relation to agreements: see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 135); and (b) s 35(2) (interim directions: see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 135); but head (b) does not apply to the exercise of powers in respect of conduct which is connected with an agreement under head (1) or (2) and in respect of which s 35(1)(b) applies: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 66D(9), (10) (as so added). (Note that the Competition Act 1998 s 35(1) as substituted by SI 2004/1261 no longer contains a subsection (1)(b)). As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the exercise of the duty to consult see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 627. As to the Office of Fair Trading see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 6.

The Water Services Regulation Authority must publish guidance issued under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 66D(4) in such manner as it considers appropriate for the purpose of bringing it to the attention of persons likely to be affected by it: s 66F(5) (as so added). The Authority may from time to time revise the guidance so issued: s 66F(6) (as so added). Before so revising any guidance, the Authority must consult such persons as it considers appropriate: s 66F(7) (as so added). Section 66F(5) applies to guidance so revised as it applies to guidance issued under s 66D(4): s 66F(8) (as so added). Where the period for which and terms and conditions on which a water undertaker is to perform any duty under ss 66A-66C are determined in accordance with s 66D(2)(b), they have effect as if they had been agreed between the parties in question (and references in the subsequent provisions of the Water Industry Act 1991 (ie ss 66G-223) to an agreement under that section are to be construed accordingly): s 66F(10) (as so added). The guidance issued by the Authority is available on the Authority's website at www.ofwat.gov.uk.

The costs principle referred to in s 66D(3) is that the charges payable by a licensed water supplier to a water undertaker, under the agreement or determination mentioned in that subsection, must enable the undertaker to recover from the supplier: (i) any expenses reasonably incurred in performing any duty under ss 66A-66C in accordance with that agreement or determination (s 66E(1)(a) (as so added)); and (ii) the appropriate amount in respect of qualifying expenses and a reasonable return on that amount (s 66E(1)(b) (as so added)), to the extent that those sums exceed any financial benefits which the undertaker receives as a result of the supplier supplying water to the premises of relevant customers (s 66E(1) (as so added)). 'Qualifying expenses' means expenses (whether of a capital nature or otherwise) that the water undertaker has reasonably incurred or will reasonably incur in carrying out its functions (s 66E(2) (as so added)); and for the purposes of head (ii), the appropriate amount is the amount which the water undertaker reasonably expected to recover from relevant customers but is unable to recover from those customers as a result of their premises being supplied with water by the licensed water supplier (s 66E(3) (as so added)). Nothing in s 66E(3) enables a water undertaker to recover any amount to the extent that any expenses can be reduced or avoided or to the extent that any amount is recoverable in some other way (other than from other customers of the undertaker): s 66E(4) (as so added). 'Relevant customers' means customers to whose premises the licensed water supplier is to make any supply of water in connection with which the agreement or determination mentioned in s 66E(1) is made: s 66E(5) (as so added).

10 Water Industry Act 1991 s 66A(2)(b) (as added: see note 2). The Water Services Regulation Authority may determine, in a case referred to it by a licensed water supplier, whether any of the conditions is satisfied, subject to s 66F (see note 6): s 66D(1) (as so added). Unless otherwise directed, the Authority must enter every determination made by it under s 66D(1) in the register kept by it: see s 195(2); and PARA 178.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(ii) Supply Duties/E. SUPPLIES TO, AND INTRODUCTIONS OF WATER BY, LICENSED WATER SUPPLIERS/342. Introduction of water into water undertaker's supply system.

342. Introduction of water into water undertaker's supply system.

The following provisions apply:

- 706 (1) where a qualifying licensed water supplier<sup>1</sup> requests a water undertaker<sup>2</sup> to permit it to introduce water into the undertaker's supply system<sup>3</sup>, by means of which any particular supply of water to any premises in accordance with the retail authorisation<sup>4</sup> is to take place, in connection with that supply<sup>5</sup> and the premises are in the area of the undertaker<sup>6</sup>; and also
- 707 (2) where:
71. (a) a water undertaker agrees to permit a qualifying licensed water supplier to introduce water into the undertaker's treatment works<sup>7</sup>;
72. (b) in connection with that introduction, the supplier requests the undertaker to permit it to introduce water into the undertaker's supply system, by means of which any particular supply of water to any premises in accordance with the retail authorisation is to take place, in connection with that supply<sup>8</sup>; and
73. (c) the premises are in the area of the undertaker<sup>9</sup>.

Where these provisions apply, it is the duty of the water undertaker, in accordance with an agreement or determination for such period and containing such terms and conditions as may be provided for<sup>10</sup>:

- 708 (i) to take any such steps:
- 63
74. (A) for the purpose of connecting the premises in question with the undertaker's supply system<sup>11</sup>;
75. (B) for the purpose of connecting the treatment works of the qualifying licensed water supplier with that system (in a case falling within head (1) above)<sup>12</sup>;
76. (C) for the purpose of connecting with that system any source used by the qualifying licensed water supplier for the purpose of supplying water other than for domestic or food production purposes<sup>13</sup> (in a case falling within head (1) above)<sup>14</sup>; or
77. (D) in respect of that system<sup>15</sup>,
- 64
- 709 as may be so provided for in order to enable the supplier to make the requested introduction of the water into that system<sup>16</sup>; and
- 710 (ii) having taken any such steps, to permit the requested introduction of the water into that system<sup>17</sup>.

A water undertaker is not, however, so required to permit the introduction of water into its supply system, or to take any steps to enable a qualifying water supplier to make such an introduction, if the first or second condition is satisfied<sup>18</sup>. The first condition is that permitting the introduction of the water into the water undertaker's supply system would require the undertaker, in order to meet all its existing obligations to supply water for domestic or other purposes, together with its probable future obligations to supply buildings and parts of buildings with water for domestic purposes, to incur unreasonable expenditure in carrying out works<sup>19</sup>, or otherwise put at risk its ability to meet any such existing or probable future obligations<sup>20</sup>. The second condition is that there is a contravention<sup>21</sup> in relation to the water fittings<sup>22</sup> used or to be used in connection with the supply of water to the premises to be supplied by the supplier<sup>23</sup>, or the use of water in those premises<sup>24</sup>, of such of the requirements of relevant regulations as are prescribed<sup>25</sup> for the statutory purposes<sup>26</sup>.

Where a request has been made by a qualifying licensed water supplier to a water undertaker for the purposes of head (1) or head (2) above<sup>27</sup>, and the steps which the undertaker is required to take by virtue of that request include steps for the purpose of obtaining any necessary authority for, or agreement to, any exercise by it of any of its powers or the carrying out by it of any works<sup>28</sup>, the failure of the undertaker to acquire the necessary authority or agreement does not affect any liability of the supplier, under any term or condition in accordance with which those steps are taken, to reimburse the undertaker in respect of some or all of the expenses incurred by it in taking those steps<sup>29</sup>.

1 In the Water Industry Act 1991 s 66B and s 66C (see PARA 343), references to a 'qualifying licensed water supplier' are references to a licensed water supplier which is the holder of a combined licence (within the meaning of the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt II Ch 1A (ss 17A-17R): see PARA 152): s 66B(12) (ss 66A, 66B, 66D, 66F added by the Water Act 2003 s 56, Sch 4 paras 1, 3). 7 Water Industry Act 1991 s 66B(2)(a) (as added: see note 1). 'Treatment works' (1) in relation to a water undertaker, means the works designated as treatment works by the Secretary of State for the purposes of s 17B(6) (see PARA 152); (2) in relation to a qualifying licensed water supplier, means the works designated from time to time by the Secretary of State as treatment works for these purposes: s 66B(8) (as so added). Before designating any works for the purposes of head (2), the Secretary of State must consult the Welsh Ministers: s 66B(9) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. A list of any works designated for the purposes of head (2) must be published from time to time by the Secretary of State in such manner as he considers appropriate for the purpose of bringing the designations to the attention of persons likely to be affected by them: Water Industry Act 1991 s 66B(10) (as so added). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. Functions under s 66B(9) which were originally vested in the National Assembly for Wales are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers by virtue of the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. Before the Water Services Regulation Authority makes a determination for the purposes of s 66D(2)(b) (see PARA 341 note 6) as to the period for which and terms and conditions on which a water undertaker is to perform any duty under s 66B it must consult the Secretary of State (see s 66F(1)(b) (as added: see note 1)), or if the determination is in relation to premises supplied with water using the supply system of a water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales, the Welsh Ministers (and not the Secretary of State) (see s 66F(3)(a) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32). As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. Functions under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 66F, which were originally vested in the National Assembly for Wales are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers by virtue of the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. The Water Services Regulation Authority may determine, in a case referred to it by a licensed water supplier, whether either of those conditions is satisfied, subject to s 66F: see s 66D(1) (as so added). Before the Authority makes such a determination as to whether any such condition is satisfied, it must consult the Secretary of State (see s 66F(1)(a) (as so added)), or if such a determination is in relation to premises supplied with water using the supply system of a water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales, the Welsh Ministers (and not the Secretary of State) (see s 66F(3)(a) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32). Wholesale water supply by secondary water undertaker.

343. Wholesale water supply by secondary water undertaker.

The following provisions apply where a qualifying licensed water supplier<sup>1</sup>:

- 711 (1) requests a water undertaker<sup>2</sup> other than its primary water undertaker<sup>3</sup> (the 'secondary water undertaker') to provide a supply of water for the purpose of the supplier supplying water, using the primary water undertaker's supply system<sup>4</sup>, to the premises of the supplier's customers<sup>5</sup> in accordance with the retail authorisation<sup>6</sup>; and
- 712 (2) requests its primary water undertaker to permit it to introduce that water into its supply system<sup>7</sup>; and where the premises are in the area of the primary water undertaker<sup>8</sup>. In such a case it is the duty of the secondary water undertaker, in accordance with an agreement or determination for such period and containing such terms and conditions as may be provided for<sup>9</sup>, to take any such steps in respect of its supply system as may be so provided for in order to enable it to provide the requested supply<sup>10</sup> and, having taken any such steps, to provide that supply<sup>11</sup>. Likewise, it is the duty of the primary water undertaker, in accordance with an agreement or determination for such period and containing such terms and conditions as may be provided for<sup>12</sup>, to take any such steps:

- 713 (a) for the purpose of connecting the premises in question with the primary water undertaker's supply system<sup>13</sup>;
- 714 (b) for the purpose of connecting that system with the secondary water undertaker's supply system<sup>14</sup>; or
- 715 (c) in respect of the primary water undertaker's supply system<sup>15</sup>, as may be so provided for in order to enable the licensed water supplier to make the introduction of the requested supply of water into the primary water undertaker's supply system<sup>16</sup> and, having taken any such steps, to permit the introduction of that supply of water into that supply system<sup>17</sup>.

If, however, the first or second condition is satisfied<sup>18</sup>, a secondary water undertaker is not so required to provide a supply of water to a licensed water supplier<sup>19</sup>, and a primary water undertaker is not so required to permit the introduction of water into its supply system, or to take any steps to enable the licensed water supplier to make such an introduction<sup>20</sup>. The first condition is that the provision of the supply or permitting the introduction would:

- 716 (i) require the undertaker in question, in order to meet all its existing obligations to supply water for domestic or other purposes<sup>21</sup>, together with its probable future obligations to supply buildings and parts of buildings with water for domestic purposes, to incur unreasonable expenditure in carrying out works<sup>22</sup>; or
- 717 (ii) otherwise put at risk its ability to meet any of the existing or probable future obligations mentioned in head (i) above<sup>23</sup>.

The second condition is that there is a contravention<sup>24</sup> in relation to the water fittings<sup>25</sup> used or to be used in connection with the supply of water to the premises to be supplied by the supplier<sup>26</sup>, or the use of water in those premises<sup>27</sup>, of such of the requirements of the relevant regulations as are prescribed<sup>28</sup> for the statutory purposes<sup>29</sup>.

Where requests have been made by a licensed water supplier to its primary water undertaker and secondary water undertaker for the purposes of heads (1) and (2) above<sup>30</sup>, and the steps which either of those undertakers is required to take by virtue of the request made to it include steps for the purpose of obtaining any necessary authority for, or agreement to, any exercise by it of any of its powers or the carrying out by it of any works<sup>31</sup>, the undertaker's failure to acquire the necessary authority or agreement does not affect any liability of the licensed water supplier, under any term or condition in accordance with which those steps are taken, to reimburse the undertaker in respect of some or all of the expenses incurred by it in taking those steps<sup>32</sup>.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(ii) Supply Duties/E. SUPPLIES TO, AND INTRODUCTIONS OF WATER BY, LICENSED WATER SUPPLIERS/344. Designation of strategic supply.

344. Designation of strategic supply.

If at any time the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>1</sup> determines that an introduction of water which a water undertaker<sup>2</sup> is required to permit<sup>3</sup> in accordance with an agreement<sup>4</sup> constitutes a strategic supply of water, the Authority must designate the introduction as a strategic supply<sup>5</sup>. For these purposes, an introduction of water is a strategic supply if, without that introduction being made, there is a substantial risk that the water undertaker would be unable to maintain supplies to its own customers<sup>6</sup> as well as supplying customers of the licensed water supplier<sup>7</sup> in question with water for domestic purposes<sup>8</sup>.

If a water undertaker requests the Authority to make a determination that an introduction of water constitutes a strategic supply for these purposes<sup>9</sup>, or if the Authority otherwise proposes to make a determination that an introduction of water constitutes a strategic supply for these purposes<sup>10</sup>, the Authority must give notice<sup>11</sup> of the request or proposed determination to the Secretary of State<sup>12</sup>, the Welsh Ministers<sup>13</sup>, the Environment Agency<sup>14</sup>, the other party or parties, or the parties, to the agreement<sup>15</sup>, and such other persons<sup>16</sup> (if any) as the Authority thinks it appropriate to notify<sup>17</sup>. Any such notice must specify the time, not being less than 28 days from the date on which the notice was given, within which representations or objections with respect to the request or proposed determination may be made<sup>18</sup>. The Authority must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>19</sup>.

If the Authority determines that an introduction designated under these provisions as a strategic supply no longer constitutes such a supply, it must cancel its designation<sup>20</sup>.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(ii) Supply Duties/E. SUPPLIES TO, AND INTRODUCTIONS OF WATER BY, LICENSED WATER SUPPLIERS/345. Designation of collective strategic supply.

345. Designation of collective strategic supply.

If at any time the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>1</sup> determines that two or more introductions of water which are made by a licensed water supplier<sup>2</sup>, and which a water undertaker<sup>3</sup> is required to permit<sup>4</sup> in accordance with agreements<sup>5</sup>, constitute a collective strategic supply of water, the Authority must designate the introductions as a collective strategic supply<sup>6</sup>. For these purposes, introductions of water are a collective strategic supply if, without those introductions being made, there is a substantial risk that the water undertaker would be unable to maintain supplies to its own customers<sup>7</sup> as well as supplying the customers of the licensed water supplier in question with water for domestic purposes<sup>8</sup>.

If a water undertaker requests the Authority to make a determination that two or more introductions of water constitute a collective strategic supply for these purposes<sup>9</sup>, or if the Authority otherwise proposes to make a determination that two or more introductions of water constitute a collective strategic supply for these purposes<sup>10</sup>, the Authority must give notice<sup>11</sup> of the request or proposed determination to the Secretary of State<sup>12</sup>, the Welsh Ministers<sup>13</sup>, the Environment Agency<sup>14</sup>, the other party or parties, or the parties, to the agreements<sup>15</sup>, and such other persons<sup>16</sup> (if any) as the Authority thinks it appropriate to notify<sup>17</sup>. Any such notice must specify the time, not being less than 28 days from the date on which the notice was given, within which representations or objections with respect to the request or proposed determination may be made<sup>18</sup>. The Authority must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>19</sup>.

If the Authority determines that introductions so designated as a collective strategic supply no longer constitute such a supply, it must cancel their designation<sup>20</sup>.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(ii) Supply Duties/E. SUPPLIES TO, AND INTRODUCTIONS OF WATER BY, LICENSED WATER SUPPLIERS/346. Offences relating to unauthorised use of supply systems and unauthorised introduction of water.

346. Offences relating to unauthorised use of supply systems and unauthorised introduction of water.

Subject to certain exceptions<sup>1</sup>, no person<sup>2</sup> may use a water undertaker's supply system<sup>3</sup> for the purpose of supplying water to any premises of a customer<sup>4</sup>; but this does not apply where the supply is made by the water undertaker<sup>5</sup>, or by a licensed water supplier<sup>6</sup> in pursuance of its licence<sup>7</sup>. A person who contravenes<sup>8</sup> this prohibition is guilty of an offence<sup>9</sup>. Any undertaking entered into which involves a contravention of this prohibition is unenforceable<sup>10</sup>.

Also, subject to certain exceptions<sup>11</sup>, no person may introduce water into a water undertaker's supply system, other than the undertaker itself<sup>12</sup>; but this does not apply where the water is introduced by a licensed water supplier in pursuance of its licence<sup>13</sup>, or by another water undertaker under an agreement for a supply of water in bulk<sup>14</sup>. A person who contravenes this prohibition is guilty of an offence<sup>15</sup>. Any undertaking entered into which involves a contravention of this prohibition is unenforceable<sup>16</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, in relation to any supply system of a water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>17</sup> may by order made by statutory instrument<sup>18</sup> grant exemption from either of the above prohibitions to: (1) a person or persons of a class<sup>19</sup>; (2) generally or to such extent as may be specified in the order<sup>20</sup>; and (3) unconditionally or subject to such conditions as may be so specified<sup>21</sup>. Before making such an order the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers must give notice<sup>22</sup>:

- 718 (a) stating that they propose to make such an order and setting out the terms of the proposed order<sup>23</sup>;
- 719 (b) stating the reasons why they propose to make the order in the terms proposed<sup>24</sup>; and
- 720 (c) specifying the time, not being less than 28 days from the date of publication of the notice, within which representations or objections with respect to the proposals may be made<sup>25</sup>, and must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>26</sup>.

An exemption may be granted indefinitely<sup>27</sup>, or for a period specified in, or determined by or under, the exemption<sup>28</sup>. Notice of an exemption granted to a person must be given by serving a copy of the exemption on him<sup>29</sup>, and by publishing the exemption in such manner as the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers consider appropriate for bringing it to the attention of other persons who may be affected by it<sup>30</sup>. Notice of an exemption granted to persons of a class must be given by publishing the exemption in such manner as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers consider appropriate for bringing it to the attention of persons of that class<sup>31</sup>, and other persons who may be affected by it<sup>32</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may by order made by statutory instrument<sup>33</sup> revoke an order by which an exemption was granted to a person<sup>34</sup> or vary an order by which more than one exemption was so granted so as to terminate any of the exemptions: (i) at the person's request<sup>35</sup>; (ii) in accordance with any provision of the order by which the exemption was granted<sup>36</sup>; or (iii) if it appears to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers inappropriate that the exemption should continue to have effect<sup>37</sup>. The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may also, by order made by statutory instrument<sup>38</sup>, revoke an order by which an exemption was granted to persons of a class<sup>39</sup> or vary an order by which more than one exemption was so granted so as to terminate any of the exemptions in accordance with any provision of the order by which the exemption was granted<sup>40</sup>, or if it appears to the Secretary of State or Welsh Ministers inappropriate that the exemption should continue to have effect<sup>41</sup>. Further, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>42</sup> may by direction withdraw an exemption granted to persons of a class<sup>43</sup> from any person of that class: (A) at the person's request<sup>44</sup>; (B) in accordance with any provision of the order by which the exemption was granted<sup>45</sup>; or (C) if it appears to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers inappropriate that the exemption should continue to have effect in the case of the person<sup>46</sup>.

Before making an order under head (ii) or head (iii) above, or an order revoking or varying a class exemption<sup>47</sup>, or giving a direction under head (B) or head (C) above, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers must consult the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>48</sup>. The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must also give notice<sup>49</sup> stating that they propose to make such an order or give such a direction<sup>50</sup>, stating the reasons why it is proposed to make such an order or give such a direction<sup>51</sup>, and specifying the time, not being less than 28 days from the date of publication of the notice, within which representations or objections with respect to the proposals may be made<sup>52</sup>. The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>53</sup>.

The Secretary of State may by regulations specify further circumstances in which s 66I(1) does not apply: s 66I(3) (as so added). The function of making such regulations is exercisable by the Welsh Ministers (and not by the Secretary of State) in relation to any supply system of a water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales: see s 66I(8)(a) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. As to the making of regulations see PARA 21. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2.

The Water Industry Act 1991 s 66I(1) does not apply where: (1) a water undertaker ('A') is using the supply system of another water undertaker ('B') under an agreement for a supply of water in bulk by B to A; (2) A is using B's supply system under any enactment requiring that a supply of water in bulk be made by B to A; or (3) a relevant person ('C') is using the supply system of a water undertaker ('D') pursuant to a relevant undertaking for the purpose of making a private supply to any premises: Water Supply (Exceptions from Supply System Prohibitions) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3075, reg 3(1). However, head (1) above does not apply in so far as (a) A uses B's supply system for the purpose of supplying water to premises within the geographical area to which A's appointment relates; and (b) the water has been introduced into B's supply system for that purpose by A or by any relevant person under an agreement with A: reg 3(2). 'Relevant person' means: (i) in head (3) above, a person who is not a water undertaker or a licensed water supplier; and (ii) in head (b) above, a person other than A or B: reg 3(3)(a). 'Relevant undertaking' means an undertaking entered into by D with C before 31 July 2002 under which a supply of water was made by D to C before that date: reg 3(3)(b). As to the meaning of 'supply of water in bulk' see PARA 138 note 11. As to the meaning of 'private supply' see PARA 373 note 15: definition applied by reg 2. 'Enactment' includes subordinate legislation within the meaning of the Interpretation Act 1978 s 21 (see PARA 21 note 36) but excludes subordinate legislation made by 'A' where head (2) above applies: Water Supply (Exceptions from Supply System Prohibitions) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3075, reg 2.

8 As to the meaning of 'contravene' see PARA 20 note 5.

9 Water Industry Act 1991 s 66I(4) (as added: see note 3). The penalty for such an offence is, on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum or, on conviction on indictment, a fine: s 66I(6) (as so added). As to the statutory maximum see PARA 169 note 20. No proceedings for such an offence may be instituted except by the Secretary of State, or by the Water Services Regulation Authority (s 66I(7)(a), (b) (as so added)); however, the function of the Secretary of State in instituting proceedings is exercisable by the Welsh Ministers (and not by the Secretary of State) in relation to any supply system of a water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales (see s 66I(8)(b) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32). As to offences by bodies corporate see PARA 185.

13 Water Industry Act 1991 s 66J(2)(a) (as added: see note 3).

14 Water Industry Act 1991 s 66J(2)(b) (as added: see note 3). As to the meaning of 'supply of water in bulk' see PARA 138 note 11. The Secretary of State may by regulations specify further circumstances in which s 66J(1) does not apply: s 66J(3) (as so added). The function of making such regulations is exercisable by the Welsh Ministers (and not by the Secretary of State) in relation to any supply system of a water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales: s 66J(9)(a) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32.

The Water Industry Act 1991 s 66J(1) does not apply where: (1) the water is introduced under an agreement with the water undertaker; (2) the water is introduced into the supply system of a water undertaker ('E') by another water undertaker ('F') under any enactment requiring that a supply of water in bulk be made by F to E; or (3) the water is introduced by a secondary water undertaker into a primary water undertaker's supply system pursuant to s 66C (wholesale water supply by secondary undertaker: see PARA 343); Water Supply (Exceptions from Supply System Prohibitions) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3075, reg 4(1). Head (1) above does not apply in so far as the water is introduced by any person for the purpose of supplying water to any premises of a customer of that person: reg 4(2). 'Enactment' includes subordinate legislation within the meaning of the Interpretation Act 1978 s 21 (see PARA 21 note 36) but excludes subordinate legislation made by 'E', where head (2) above applies: Water Supply (Exceptions from Supply System Prohibitions) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3075, reg 2.

15 Water Industry Act 1991 s 66J(4) (as added: see note 3). The penalty for such an offence is, on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding £20,000 or, on conviction on indictment, a fine: s 66J(6) (as so added). For the purposes of s 210 (offences by bodies corporate: see PARA 185), the penalty on conviction on indictment of such an offence is deemed to include imprisonment (in addition to or instead of a fine) for a term not exceeding two years: s 66J(7) (as so added). No proceedings for such an offence may be instituted except by the Secretary of State or by the Water Services Regulation Authority (s 66J(8) (as so added)); but the function of the Secretary of State in instituting proceedings is exercisable by the Welsh Ministers (and not by the Secretary of State) in relation to any supply system of a water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales (see s 66J(9)(b) (as so added)).

Accordingly, s 66L(1)-(5) (see the text to notes 33-53) and s 66K apply in relation to an order made by the Welsh Ministers by virtue of s 66L(7) as they apply in relation to an order made by the Secretary of State: see s 66L(8) (as so added).

18 A statutory instrument containing an order made by the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 66K(1) is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: see s 66L(6) (as added: see note 3). As to the annulment of statutory instruments see STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1516. As to the equivalent procedure in relation to subordinate legislation made by the Welsh Ministers see the Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 paras 33-35; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS. Such orders, being of local effect, are not recorded in this work.

21 Water Industry Act 1991 s 66K(1)(c) (as added: see note 3). Conditions included in an exemption by virtue of s 66K(1)(c) may, in particular, require any person carrying on any activity in pursuance of the exemption: (1) to comply with any direction given by the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers, or the Water Services Regulation Authority as to such matters as are specified in the exemption or are of a description so specified (s 66K(7)(a) (as so added)); (2) except in so far as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, or the Authority consents to his doing or not doing them, not to do or to do such things as are specified in the exemption or are of a description so specified (s 66K(7)(b) (as so added)); and (3) to refer for determination by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, or the Authority such questions arising under the exemption as are specified in the exemption or are of a description so specified (s 66K(7)(c) (as so added)).

22 The notice must be given by serving a copy of it on the Water Services Regulation Authority (Water Industry Act 1991 s 66K(3)(a) (as added: see note 3)); and by publishing it in such manner as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers consider appropriate for bringing it to the attention of those likely to be affected by the proposed order (s 66K(3)(b) (as so added)). The power to make an order under s 66L(1) or (2) (see the text to notes 39-41) is exercisable by the Welsh Ministers (and not by the Secretary of State) in relation to any supply system of a water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales: see s 66L(7)(a) (as added: see note 3); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. Accordingly, the Water Industry Act 1991 s 66L(1)-(5) and s 66K (see the text to notes 17-32) apply in relation to such an order made by the Welsh Ministers as they apply in relation to an order made or direction given by the Secretary of State: s 66L(8) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. ## F. OTHER SUPPLIES

347. Supplies for non-domestic purposes.

The following procedure<sup>1</sup> applies:

- 721 (1) where the owner<sup>2</sup> or occupier<sup>3</sup> of any premises in the area of a water undertaker<sup>4</sup> requests the undertaker to provide a supply of water to those premises and:
- 65
78. (a) the premises are premises which do not consist in the whole or any part of a building<sup>5</sup>; or
79. (b) the requested supply is for purposes other than domestic purposes<sup>6</sup>; and also
- 66
- 722 (2) where:
- 67
80. (a) a water undertaker is requested to provide a supply of water to premises which are not in the undertaker's area by the owner or occupier of the premises<sup>7</sup>;
81. (b) the premises are household premises<sup>8</sup> or the total quantity of water estimated to be supplied to the premises annually<sup>9</sup> is less than the specified quantity<sup>10</sup>; and
82. (c) either head (1) (a) or (b) above applies<sup>11</sup>.

In such cases, it is the duty of the water undertaker, in accordance with such terms and conditions as may be determined<sup>12</sup>, to take any such steps as may be so determined to enable the undertaker to provide the requested supply<sup>13</sup>, and, having taken any such steps, to provide that supply<sup>14</sup>. A water undertaker is not, however, required by these provisions to provide a new supply<sup>15</sup> to any premises, or to take any steps to enable it to provide such a supply, if the provision of that supply or the taking of those steps would:

- 723 (i) require the undertaker, in order to meet all its existing obligations to supply water for domestic or other purposes, together with its probable future obligations to supply buildings and parts of buildings with water for domestic purposes, to incur unreasonable expenditure in carrying out works<sup>16</sup>; or
- 724 (ii) otherwise put at risk the ability of the undertaker to meet any of the existing or probable future obligations mentioned in head (i) above<sup>17</sup>.

Nor is a water undertaker required by these provisions to provide a new supply to any premises, or to take any steps to enable it to provide such a supply, if there is a contravention<sup>18</sup> in relation to the water fittings<sup>19</sup> used, or to be used, in connection with the supply of water to, or the use of water in, those premises, of such of the requirements of regulations<sup>20</sup> as are prescribed for these purposes<sup>21</sup>.

Where a request has been made by any person<sup>22</sup> to a water undertaker for these purposes<sup>23</sup>, and the steps which the undertaker is required to take by virtue of that request include steps for the purpose of obtaining any necessary authority for, or agreement to, any exercise by the undertaker of any of its powers or the carrying out by the undertaker of any works<sup>24</sup>, the failure of the undertaker to acquire the necessary authority or agreement does not affect any liability of that person, under any term or condition in accordance with which those steps are taken, to reimburse the undertaker in respect of some or all of the expenses incurred by the undertaker in taking those steps<sup>25</sup>.

Nothing in these provisions imposes any duty on a water undertaker to provide a supply of water to any premises during any period in which it is reasonable for the supply of water to those premises to be cut off or reduced for the purposes of the carrying out of any necessary works<sup>26</sup>. Except so far as otherwise provided by the terms and conditions determined in relation to any supply, the duties of a water undertaker under these provisions have effect subject to the disconnection provisions<sup>27</sup> and the power<sup>28</sup> of the water undertaker to prevent damage and to take steps to prevent contamination and waste<sup>29</sup>. Further, the duty of a water undertaker under the above provisions to provide a supply of water to any premises ceases to apply if: (A) a notice<sup>30</sup> specifying the time after which a supply of water to the premises by the undertaker will no longer be required in consequence of the premises being supplied by a licensed water supplier<sup>31</sup> has been served on the undertaker by the owner or occupier of the premises<sup>32</sup>; and (B) that time has passed<sup>33</sup>.

Any terms or conditions or other matter falling to be determined for the purposes of a request for a supply under these provisions must be determined by agreement between the person requesting the supply and the water undertaker<sup>34</sup>, or in default of agreement by the Water Services Regulation Authority according to what appears to it to be reasonable<sup>35</sup>. The Authority must also determine any dispute arising between any person and a water undertaker<sup>36</sup> as to whether the requested supply is one that the water undertaker is required to give<sup>37</sup>. The Authority may, however, instead of making a determination itself, refer any such matter submitted to it to the arbitration of such person as the Authority may appoint<sup>38</sup>. For the purposes of any determination by the Authority or by any person appointed by it, it is for the water undertaker to show that it should not be required to comply with a request for a supply<sup>39</sup>.

The charges in respect of a supply provided in compliance with such a request are not to be determined by the Authority or a person appointed by it, except in so far as, at the time of the request<sup>40</sup>, no provision is in force by virtue of a charges scheme<sup>41</sup> in respect of supplies of the applicable description<sup>42</sup>. In so far as such charges do fall to be determined, they are to be determined having regard to the desirability of the undertaker's recovering the expenses of complying with its obligations to provide the supply and securing a reasonable return on its capital<sup>43</sup>. The determination of any matter by the Authority or a person appointed by it is without prejudice to the water undertaker's statutory powers to impose conditions of supply after individual or corporate insolvency<sup>44</sup>.

The duty of a water undertaker to supply water under these provisions at the request of any person, and any terms and conditions determined by the Water Services Regulation Authority or a person appointed by the Authority in default of agreement between the undertaker and that person, have effect as if contained in such an agreement<sup>45</sup>.

1     le the procedure in Water Industry Act 1991 s 55. Note that although the marginal note in the Act reads 'supplies for non-domestic purposes,' this procedure applies both to supplies for non-domestic purposes, and supplies for any purposes to premises other than a building (eg a boat). Particular provision is also made with regard to non-domestic supplies in the London area: see the Metropolitan Water Board (Charges) Act 1907, the Metropolitan Water Board (Charges) Act 1921; and PARA 416; and LONDON GOVERNMENT.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(ii) Supply Duties/F. OTHER SUPPLIES/348. Duty to provide a supply of water etc for fire-fighting.

348. Duty to provide a supply of water etc for fire-fighting.

It is the duty of a water undertaker<sup>1</sup> to allow any person<sup>2</sup> to take water for extinguishing fires from any of its water mains or other pipes<sup>3</sup> on which a fire-hydrant is fixed<sup>4</sup>. At the request of the fire and rescue authority<sup>5</sup> concerned, every water undertaker must fix fire-hydrants<sup>6</sup> on its water mains (other than trunk mains<sup>7</sup>) at such places as are most convenient for affording a supply of water for extinguishing any fire which may break out within the area of the undertaker<sup>8</sup>. It is also the duty of every water undertaker: (1) to keep every fire-hydrant fixed on any of its water mains or other pipes in good working order and to replace any such hydrant when necessary for that purpose<sup>9</sup>; and (2) to ensure that a fire and rescue authority has been supplied by the undertaker with all such keys as the authority may require for the fire-hydrants fixed on the undertaker's mains or other pipes<sup>10</sup>. Where a fire-hydrant is removed, other than at the request of the fire and rescue authority concerned, by a water undertaker in the course of carrying out works in relation to any of its water mains or other pipes, the cost of replacing the fire-hydrant must be borne by the undertaker<sup>11</sup>.

The expenses incurred by a water undertaker in complying with these obligations to provide fire-hydrants, to keep them in working order and replace them when necessary, and to supply keys are to be borne by the fire and rescue authority concerned<sup>12</sup>; but where a fire-hydrant is damaged as the result of any use made of it with the authority of a water undertaker, other than use for the purposes of fire-fighting or for any other purposes of a fire and rescue authority, the fire and rescue authority is not liable for the cost of repairing or replacing the hydrant<sup>13</sup>.

The obligations of a water undertaker under these provisions are enforceable<sup>14</sup> by the Secretary of State, or in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>15</sup>. In addition, where a water undertaker is in breach of any of these obligations, it is guilty of an offence<sup>16</sup>. It is, however, a defence, in any proceedings against any water undertaker for such an offence, for the undertaker to show that it took all reasonable steps and exercised all due diligence to avoid the commission of the offence<sup>17</sup>; and nothing in these provisions requires a water undertaker to do anything which it is unable to do by reason of the carrying out of any necessary works<sup>18</sup>.

A fire and rescue authority must take all reasonable measures for securing that an adequate supply of water will be available for the authority's use in the event of fire<sup>19</sup>, and, for these purposes, may enter into an agreement with a water undertaker<sup>20</sup>. A water undertaker must enter into any such agreement reasonably proposed by a fire and rescue authority<sup>21</sup>. If a fire and rescue authority requests a water undertaker to provide a supply and pressure of water for the purposes of extinguishing a fire that is greater than the undertaker would otherwise provide, the undertaker must take all necessary steps in order to do so<sup>22</sup>; and if, without reasonable excuse, a water undertaker fails to take any such step which it is obliged to take, it is guilty of an offence<sup>23</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

2 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

3 As to the meanings of 'water main' and 'pipe' see PARA 138 note 11.

4 Water Industry Act 1991 s 57(1). A water undertaker may not charge a fire and rescue authority for water used for fire fighting and other emergency purposes: see s 147; and PARA 420. As to fire and rescue authorities see FIRE SERVICES.

5 A person who proposes to carry out works for the purpose of supplying water to any part of the area of a fire and rescue authority must give at least six weeks' notice in writing to the authority: Fire and Rescue Services Act 2004 s 43(1). A person who proposes to carry out works affecting a fire hydrant must give at least seven days' notice in writing to the fire and rescue authority in whose area the hydrant is situated: s 43(2). If it is not practicable for a person to give notice as required by s 43(1) or (2), he is to be regarded as having given the notice so required if he gives notice as soon as practicable: s 43(3). A person commits an offence if, without reasonable excuse, he fails to give notice as required by s 43(1) or (2): s 43(4). A person guilty of such an offence is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale: s 43(5). As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the standard scale see PARA 141 note 18.

6 A person commits an offence if he uses a fire-hydrant otherwise than: (1) for the purposes of fire-fighting or for any other purposes of a fire and rescue authority; or (2) for any purpose authorised by the water undertaker or other person to whom the hydrant belongs: Fire and Rescue Services Act 2004 s 42(6). A person also commits an offence if he damages or obstructs a fire-hydrant, otherwise than in consequence of use for the purposes mentioned in s 42(6): s 42(7). A person guilty of an offence under s 42(6) or (7) is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 2 on the standard scale: s 42(8).

7 As to the meaning of 'trunk main' see PARA 138 note 11.

8 Water Industry Act 1991 s 57(2) (s 57(2), (4), (5) amended by the Fire and Rescue Services Act 2004 s 53(1), Sch 1 paras 75, 76(1)-(3)). A water undertaker must cause the location of every fire-hydrant provided by it to be clearly indicated by a notice or distinguishing mark (Fire and Rescue Services Act 2004 s 42(1)), and may place such a notice or mark on a wall or fence adjoining a highway or public place (s 42(2)). The expenses incurred by a water undertaker under s 42(1) in relation to a fire-hydrant are to be borne by the fire and rescue authority in whose area the hydrant is located: s 42(3). The Secretary of State may make regulations providing for uniformity in fire-hydrants provided by water undertakers and in the notices or marks indicating their location: s 42(4). An obligation of a water undertaker under s 42(1), or regulations under s 42(4), is enforceable by the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 18 (see PARA 163): Fire and Rescue Services Act 2004 s 42(5). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. At the date at which this volume states the law no such regulations had been made.

20 See the Fire and Rescue Services Act 2004 s 39(1). An agreement under s 39(1) may include terms as to payment to be made to the undertaker, subject to the Water Industry Act 1991 s 147 (charging for emergency use of water: see PARA 420): Fire and Rescue Services Act 2004 s 38(2).

21 See the Fire and Rescue Services Act 2004 s 39(3). An obligation of a water undertaker under an agreement under s 39(1) (see the text to note 20), or under s 39(3), is enforceable by the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 18 (see PARA 163): Fire and Rescue Services Act 2004 s 39(4).

22 Fire and Rescue Services Act 2004 s 40(1). For the purposes of complying with this obligation a water undertaker may shut off the water from the mains and pipes in any area: s 40(2). No authority or person is liable to any penalty or claim arising because of anything done by a water undertaker in complying with this obligation: s 40(3).

23 Fire and Rescue Services Act 2004 s 40(4). The penalty for such an offence is, on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale: see s 40(5).

UPDATE

348 Duty to provide a supply of water etc for fire-fighting

NOTES 9, 12, 13--For a hydrant to be in good working order it must be kept in such condition that it is fit for purposes of fire-fighting, does not present risk of contamination to water supply and is not a source of danger to members of the public or potential users: Veolia Water Central Ltd (formerly Three Valleys Water plc) v London Fire and Emergency Planning Authority [2009] EWHC 3109 (QB), [2010] All ER (D) 167 (Feb) (water authority entitled to charge actual costs of carrying out repairs plus amount that represented element of overheads attributable).

349. Specially requested fire-hydrants.

A water undertaker<sup>1</sup> must, at the request of the owner<sup>2</sup> or occupier<sup>3</sup> of any factory<sup>4</sup> or place of business, fix a fire-hydrant, to be used for extinguishing fires and not other purposes, at such place on any suitable water main or other pipe<sup>5</sup> of the undertaker as is as near as conveniently possible to that factory or place of business<sup>6</sup>. Any expenses incurred by a water undertaker in complying with this obligation<sup>7</sup>, or in complying, in relation to a specially requested fire-hydrant<sup>8</sup>, with its obligations to keep it in working order, to replace it when necessary, and to supply keys<sup>9</sup>, are to be borne by the owner or occupier of the factory or place of business in question, according to whether the person who made the original request for the hydrant did so in his capacity as owner or occupier<sup>10</sup>, and are not to be borne by the fire and rescue authority<sup>11</sup>. Where, however, a specially requested fire-hydrant is removed (other than at the request of the owner or occupier of the factory or place of business in question) by a water undertaker in the course of carrying out works in relation to any of its water mains or other pipes, the cost of replacing the fire-hydrant must be borne by the undertaker<sup>12</sup>.

Where a water undertaker is in breach of any of these obligations, it is guilty of an offence<sup>13</sup>. It is, however, a defence, in any proceedings against any water undertaker for such an offence, for the undertaker to show that it took all reasonable steps and exercised all due diligence to avoid the commission of the offence<sup>14</sup>; and nothing in these provisions requires a water undertaker to do anything which it is unable to do by reason of the carrying out of any necessary works<sup>15</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to a water undertakers duties in respect of fire-hydrants generally see PARA 348.

2 As to the meaning of 'owner' see PARA 22 note 9.

3 As to the meaning of 'occupier' see PARA 339 note 8.

4 'Factory' has the same meaning as in the Factories Act 1961 (see HEALTH AND SAFETY AT WORK vol 52 (2009) PARA 318 et seq): Water Industry Act 1991 s 58(6).

5 A water main or other pipe is suitable for these purposes, in relation to a factory or place of business, if it is situated in a street which is in or near to that factory or place of business, and it is of sufficient dimensions to carry a hydrant and it is not a trunk main: Water Industry Act 1991 s 58(2). As to the meanings of 'water main', 'pipe' and 'trunk main' see PARA 138 note 11. As to the meaning of 'street' see PARA 308 note 19. As to the duty of a water undertaker to maintain a constant supply and pressure in pipes on which hydrants are fixed see s 65; and PARA 353.

6 Water Industry Act 1991 s 58(1). This obligation is enforceable under s 18 (see PARA 163) by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers: see s 57(7) (applied by s 58(5)). The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 57, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

7 Water Industry Act 1991 s 58(4)(a). As to the recovery of expenses see PARA 131 note 6.

8 'Specially requested fire-hydrant' means a fire-hydrant which is fixed on a water main or other pipe of a water undertaker and was fixed on that main or pipe (whether before or after it became such a main or pipe under the Water Act 1989) in pursuance of a request made by the owner or occupier of a factory or place of business: Water Industry Act 1991 s 58(6).

350. Supplies for other public purposes.

1 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

2 As to the meaning of 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

3 'Highway authority' has the same meaning as in the Highways Act 1980 (see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 49 et seq): Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1).

4 As to the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 118 note 17.

5 As to the meaning of 'pipe' see PARA 138 note 11.

6 A water main or other pipe of a water undertaker is treated as of an appropriate capacity for these purposes if, and only if, it has a fire-hydrant fixed on it: Water Industry Act 1991 s 59(3). As to the meaning of 'water main' see PARA 138 note 11. As to the provision of fire-hydrants see PARAS 348, 349.

7 As to the meanings of 'sewer' and 'drain' see PARA 138 note 11.

8 'Highway' has the same meaning as in the Highways Act 1980 (see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 7): Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1); Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1).

9 Water Industry Act 1991 s 59(1). These obligations are enforceable by the Water Services Regulation Authority under s 18 (see PARA 163): s 59(5) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109.

10 Water Industry Act 1991 s 59(2). A water undertaker supplying water may supply water to any public baths, washhouse, swimming bath or bathing place, either without charge or on such other favourable terms as it thinks fit: see the Public Health Act 1936 s 229 (amended by the Gas Act 1995 ss 16(1), 17(5), Sch 4 para 3, Sch 6; and by virtue of the Water Act 1989 Sch 25 paras 1(1), 2(ii)).

351. Supplies for which water undertakers are not primarily responsible.

If three or more seamen<sup>1</sup> employed in a United Kingdom ship<sup>2</sup> consider that the water provided for the seamen employed in that ship is not in accordance with the safety regulations containing requirements as to the water to be provided on ships<sup>3</sup>, whether because of bad quality, unfitness for use or deficiency in quantity, they may complain to the master who must investigate the complaint<sup>4</sup>. Water found to be unfit for use or not of the required quality must be replaced within a reasonable time<sup>5</sup>.

Under contracts of tenancy for agricultural holdings, landlords are generally responsible for the repair and replacement of water supply systems which supply water to the tenants<sup>6</sup>.

Where animals are carried by rail or sea, steps must be taken to ensure that they have a proper supply of water<sup>7</sup>.

A local authority, or any person with its consent and subject to any conditions it may impose, may erect and maintain, in proper and convenient situations in streets and public places, drinking fountains for the public and troughs for watering horses or cattle<sup>8</sup>.

1 'Seaman' includes every person, except masters and pilots, employed or engaged in any capacity on board any ship; and 'ship' includes every description of vessel used in navigation: Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 313(1).

2 'United Kingdom ship' means a ship registered in the United Kingdom under the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 Pt II (ss 8-23): s 1(3). As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 22 note 5.

3 I.e. safety regulations under the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 85: s 313(1).

4 See the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 44(1); and SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW vol 93 (2008) PARA 487.

5 See the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 44(4); and SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW vol 93 (2008) PARA 487. Responsibility in this case rests with the master or owner of the ship and not with water undertakers.

6 See AGRICULTURAL LAND vol 1 (2008) PARA 333.

7 See ANIMALS vol 2 (2008) PARAS 868-869. The duties there noted fall primarily upon the persons concerned with the conveyance of the animals and not upon water undertakers.

8 See the Public Health Act 1925 s 14; and HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 560.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(ii) Supply Duties/G. MEANS OF SUPPLY/352. Supply by means of separate service pipes.

G. MEANS OF SUPPLY

352. Supply by means of separate service pipes.

A water undertaker<sup>1</sup> may require the provision of a separate service pipe<sup>2</sup> to any premises which consist in a house<sup>3</sup> or any other building or part of a building (if that part is separately occupied) and are already supplied with water by the undertaker but do not have a separate service pipe<sup>4</sup>. Where, however, the supply of water to two or more houses is provided wholly or partly by the same service pipe, the water undertaker may not require the provision of separate service pipes to those houses until<sup>5</sup>:

- 725 (1) the service pipe, in so far as it belongs to a person<sup>6</sup> other than the undertaker, becomes so defective as to require renewal or is no longer sufficient to meet the requirements of those houses<sup>7</sup>;
- 726 (2) a payment in respect of the supply of water to any of those houses remains unpaid after the end of the period for which it is due<sup>8</sup>;
- 727 (3) the houses are, by structural alterations to one or more of them, converted into a larger number of houses<sup>9</sup>;
- 728 (4) the owner<sup>10</sup> or occupier<sup>11</sup> of any of those houses has interfered with, or allowed another person to interfere with, the existing service pipe and thereby caused the supply of water to any house to be interfered with<sup>12</sup>; or
- 729 (5) the undertaker has reasonable grounds for believing that such interference as is mentioned in head (4) above is likely to take place<sup>13</sup>.

Any dispute between a water undertaker and any other person as to whether any such condition has been complied with may be referred to the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>14</sup> for determination<sup>15</sup> by either party to the dispute<sup>16</sup>.

If, in the case of any such premises as are described above, the water undertaker which provides a supply of water to those premises serves notice<sup>17</sup> on the consumer<sup>18</sup> requiring the provision of a separate service pipe, that consumer must, within three months<sup>19</sup> after the service of the notice, lay so much of the required pipe as the undertaker is not under a duty<sup>20</sup> to lay<sup>21</sup>. If a person on whom such a notice has been served fails to comply with it, the water undertaker may itself carry out the works which that person was required to carry out<sup>22</sup>, and recover the expenses reasonably incurred by the undertaker in doing so from that person<sup>23</sup>.

The consumer on whom such a notice is served is presumed, without prejudice to his power to make further demands and requests:

- 730 (a) in so far as those premises were provided before the service of the notice with a supply of water for domestic purposes<sup>24</sup>, to have made a demand<sup>25</sup> that such a supply is provided by means of the separate service pipe<sup>26</sup>; and
- 731 (b) in so far as those premises were provided before the service of the notice with a supply of water for other purposes, to have requested the undertaker to provide the same supply by means of that pipe as was provided before the service of the notice<sup>27</sup>.

On providing a supply of water to those premises by means of the separate service pipe, the undertaker may cut off any supply replaced by that supply and may make such disconnection of pipes<sup>28</sup> by which the replaced supply was provided as it thinks fit<sup>29</sup>.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(ii) Supply Duties/G. MEANS OF SUPPLY/353. Duties as respects constancy and pressure of supply.

353. Duties as respects constancy and pressure of supply.

It is the duty of a water undertaker<sup>1</sup> to cause the water in such of its water mains and other pipes<sup>2</sup> on which fire-hydrants are fixed<sup>3</sup>, or which are used for providing supplies of water for domestic purposes<sup>4</sup>, to be laid on constantly and at such a pressure as will cause the water to reach the topmost storey of every building within the undertaker's area<sup>5</sup>. This duty does not, however, require a water undertaker to provide a supply of water at a height greater than that to which it will flow by gravitation through its water mains from the service reservoir or tank from which that supply is taken<sup>6</sup>; and for these purposes the undertaker is entitled to choose the service reservoir or tank from which any supply is to be taken<sup>7</sup>. Nor does anything in these provisions impose a duty on any water undertaker to maintain the constancy or pressure of any supply of water during any period in which it is reasonable for that supply to be cut off or reduced for the purposes of the carrying out of any necessary works<sup>8</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>9</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>10</sup> may by order<sup>11</sup> modify the application of the above provisions in relation to any water undertaker<sup>12</sup>, on an application made by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>13</sup> or by the water undertaker in relation to which the order is made<sup>14</sup>. Such an order may require the payment of compensation by a water undertaker to persons affected by the order<sup>15</sup>, and make different provision for different cases, including different provision in relation to different persons, circumstances or localities<sup>16</sup>. At the request of any person, and on payment by that person of such charge, if any, as the applicant may reasonably require, the applicant for such an order must furnish that person with a copy of the draft order submitted<sup>17</sup> to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>18</sup>. On an application for such an order, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may make the order either in the terms of the submitted draft order, or in those terms as modified<sup>19</sup> in such manner as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers think fit, or may refuse to make an order<sup>20</sup>. However, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must not make such a modification of a draft order as he or they consider is likely adversely to affect any persons unless satisfied that the applicant for the order has given and published such additional notices, in such manner, as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may have required<sup>21</sup>. Before making any order on the application, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may, if he or they consider it appropriate to do so, hold a local inquiry<sup>22</sup>.

The obligations of a water undertaker under these provisions are enforceable<sup>23</sup> by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>24</sup>. Additionally, where a water undertaker is in breach of a duty under these provisions, it is guilty of an offence<sup>25</sup>. In any proceedings against any water undertaker for such an offence, it is a defence for that undertaker to show that it took all reasonable steps and exercised all due diligence to avoid the commission of the offence<sup>26</sup>.

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 65(1). As to water undertakers' areas see PARA 318. A water undertaker must maintain, in a communication pipe serving premises supplied with water, a minimum water pressure of seven metres static head: Water Supply and Sewerage Services (Customer Service Standards) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/594, reg 10(1). If in a period of 28 days the pressure in the communication pipe serving a customer's premises falls below seven metres static head on two occasions each lasting one hour or longer, the undertaker must, except in the circumstances described in reg 10(3), pay the customer £25: reg 10(2). Regulation 10(2) does not apply if the pressure falls below seven metres static head in connection with the carrying out of necessary works or because of drought: reg 10(3). No application by the customer for the payment is necessary unless the undertaker could not practicably have identified the customer as having been affected: reg 10(4). However, the undertaker need not pay the customer under reg 10(2) where (1) the undertaker has already made a payment under these provisions to the customer in respect of another such failure in the same financial year (reg 10(5)(a)); (2) if the undertaker could not practicably have identified the customer as having been affected, and the customer does not claim (orally or in writing) a payment under these provisions within the three months following the date of the second relevant occasion on which the pressure fell below seven metres static head for an hour or more (reg 10(5)(b)); or (3) it was impracticable to maintain the pressure referred to in reg 10(1) because of industrial action by employees of the undertaker, or the act or default of a person who is not an officer, employee or agent of the undertaker or a person acting on behalf of the undertaker or an agent of the undertaker (reg 10(5)(c)). 'Communication pipe' means: (a) the part of a service pipe between a water undertaker's water main and the boundary of the street in which the water main is laid; or (b) if the premises supplied with water abut on the part of the street in which the water main is laid, and the service pipe enters those premises otherwise than through the outer wall of a building abutting on the street and has a stopcock in those premises as near to the boundary of the street as reasonably practicable, the part of the service pipe between the water main and that stopcock: reg 10(6). As to the meaning of 'customer' see PARA 327 note 10. As to the effect of the making and acceptance of payments under the Water Supply and Sewerage Services (Customer Service Standards) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/594, and the determination of disputes relating thereto see PARA 327. 9 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

10 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 65 and Sch 5 were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales in relation to any water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

11 The power to make such an order is exercisable by statutory instrument subject, in the case of an order made by the Secretary of State, to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: Water Industry Act 1991 s 65(7). As to the annulment of statutory instruments see STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1516. As to the equivalent procedure in relation to subordinate legislation made by the Welsh Ministers see the Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 paras 33-35; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS. Such orders being local in nature are not recorded in this work.

13 As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109.

14 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 65(6) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). Where the Water Services Regulation Authority or a water undertaker applies for an order, the applicant must submit a draft of the order applied for to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers and publish a notice with respect to the application, at least once in each of two successive weeks, in one or more newspapers circulating in the locality which would be affected by the provision proposed to be made by the order: Sch 5 para 1(1)(a), (b) (Sch 5 para 1 amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). The notice must state the general effect of the order applied for, specify a place where a copy of the draft order and of any relevant map or plan may be inspected by any person free of charge at all reasonable times during the period of 28 days beginning with the date of the first publication of the notice, and state that any person may, within that period, by notice to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers object to the making of the order: Sch 5 para 1(2). Not later than the date on which the notice is first published, the applicant must serve a copy of the notice on every affected local authority and every affected water undertaker; and for these purposes a local authority or a water undertaker which is not the applicant is affected by an application for an order if its area includes the whole or any part of the locality which would be affected by the provision proposed to be made by the order: Sch 5 para 1(1)(c), (3). The applicant must also publish in the London Gazette a notice which states that the draft order has been submitted to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, and the names of every local authority on which a notice is required to be served; and which specifies a place where a copy of the draft order and of any relevant map or plan may be inspected and gives the name of every newspaper in which the required notice was published and the date of an issue containing the notice: Sch 5 para 1(1)(d). As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the service of documents see PARA 22. As to the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 118 note 17.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(ii) Supply Duties/G. MEANS OF SUPPLY/354. Requirements by undertaker for maintaining pressure.

354. Requirements by undertaker for maintaining pressure.

A water undertaker<sup>1</sup> may require that any premises consisting in:

- 732 (1) any building or part of a building the supply of water to which need not, in accordance with provision in or made under the Water Industry Act 1991, be constantly laid on under pressure<sup>2</sup>; or
- 733 (2) any relevant house<sup>3</sup> to which water is required to be delivered at a height greater than a point 10.5 metres below the draw-off level of the service reservoir or tank from which a supply of water is being provided by the undertaker to those premises<sup>4</sup>, must be provided with a cistern which has a float-operated valve and is fitted on the pipe<sup>5</sup> by means of which water is supplied to those premises<sup>6</sup>. In addition, in the case of a house such as is mentioned in head (2) above, the water undertaker may require that the cistern the provision of which is so required is to be capable of holding sufficient water to provide an adequate supply to the house for a period of 24 hours<sup>7</sup>.

If, where a water undertaker provides a supply of water to any premises, the consumer<sup>8</sup>, after having been required to do so by notice<sup>9</sup> served on him by the undertaker, fails before the end of the period specified in the notice<sup>10</sup> to provide a cistern in accordance with a requirement under these provisions<sup>11</sup> or to put any such cistern and its float-operated valve into good repair<sup>12</sup>, the water undertaker may itself provide a cistern or carry out any repairs necessary to prevent waste of water<sup>13</sup>, and may recover the expenses reasonably incurred in doing so from the owner<sup>14</sup> of the premises in question<sup>15</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

2 Water Industry Act 1991 s 66(1)(a). As to the requirement to lay on supplies under pressure see PARA 353.

3 'Relevant house' means any house other than one in relation to which the following two conditions are satisfied: (1) the erection of the house was commenced before 1 September 1989; and (2) no such requirement as is mentioned in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 66(1) or (2) (see heads (1)-(2) in the text and the text to note 7) could have been imposed in relation to the house under any enactment having effect immediately before 1 September 1989 in relation to the pre-transfer supplier: s 66(6). A 'pre-transfer supplier', in relation to a house, means the person who was supplying water to that house immediately before 1 September 1989: s 66(6). As to the meaning of 'house' see PARA 133 note 5. As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

5 As to the meaning of 'pipe' see PARA 138 note 11.

8 As to the meaning of 'consumer' see PARA 122 note 35.

9 As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the service of documents see PARA 22.

10 The period specified in the notice must be a period of not less than 28 days beginning with the day after service of the notice: Water Industry Act 1991 s 66(4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iii) Disconnections/355. Disconnections for the carrying out of necessary works.

(iii) Disconnections

355. Disconnections for the carrying out of necessary works.

A water undertaker<sup>1</sup> may:

- 734 (1) disconnect<sup>2</sup> a service pipe<sup>3</sup> which, for the purposes of providing a supply of water to any premises, is connected with any water main<sup>4</sup> of that undertaker<sup>5</sup>; or if it is reasonable for the disconnection to be made, or the supply to be cut off or reduced, for the purposes of the carrying out of any necessary works<sup>7</sup>. Except in an emergency or in the case of a reduction which is immaterial, the power of a water undertaker to cut off or reduce a supply is exercisable in relation to any premises only after the undertaker has served reasonable notice<sup>8</sup> on the consumer<sup>9</sup> of the proposal for the carrying out of the necessary works<sup>10</sup>.
- 735 (2) otherwise cut off a supply of water to any premises<sup>6</sup>,

Where a water undertaker exercises this power to make any disconnection or to cut off or reduce a supply of water to any premises for the purposes of carrying out any necessary works, it owes a duty to the consumer to secure: (a) that those works are carried out with reasonable dispatch<sup>11</sup>; and (b) that any supply of water to those premises for domestic purposes<sup>12</sup> is interrupted for more than 24 hours for the purposes of the carrying out of those works only if an emergency supply has been made available (whether or not in pipes<sup>13</sup>) within a reasonable distance of the premises<sup>14</sup>. Any breach of this duty by a water undertaker which causes any person<sup>15</sup> to whom it is owed to sustain loss or damage<sup>16</sup> is actionable at the suit of that person<sup>17</sup>.

Where a water undertaker exercises its power under the above provisions of disconnection for the carrying out of necessary works<sup>18</sup>, if the undertaker is required to serve a notice, the undertaker must: (i) specify in the notice the earliest date and time after which the undertaker reasonably expects that the supply will be interrupted or cut off<sup>19</sup> and the latest date and time by which the undertaker reasonably expects that the supply will be restored<sup>20</sup>; and (ii) if the water is to be cut off for more than four hours, give at least 48 hours' notice before the supply is interrupted or cut off<sup>21</sup>. If, because of an emergency, a water undertaker interrupts or cuts off the supply of water to the premises of a customer<sup>22</sup> and is excused from the requirement to serve a notice<sup>23</sup>, the undertaker must, as soon as is reasonably practicable, take all reasonable steps to notify each affected customer that the supply has been interrupted or cut off<sup>24</sup>, where an alternative supply can be obtained<sup>25</sup>, of the time by which it is proposed the supply should be restored<sup>26</sup>, and of the telephone number of an office from which further information may be obtained<sup>27</sup>.

If the undertaker fails to comply with head (ii) above, it must pay<sup>28</sup> each customer whose supply of water was disconnected or cut off, if the supply is to domestic premises, £20<sup>29</sup> and, if the supply is to premises of any other kind, £50<sup>30</sup>. However, the undertaker need not pay the customer: (A) if it was impracticable to give notice by the time required because of industrial action by employees of the undertaker<sup>31</sup> or the act or default of a person who is neither an officer, employee or agent of the undertaker<sup>32</sup>, nor a person acting on behalf of the undertaker or of an agent of the undertaker<sup>33</sup>; or (B) if the undertaker could not practicably have identified the customer as having been affected<sup>34</sup>, and the customer does not claim (orally or in writing<sup>35</sup>) a payment under these provisions within the three months<sup>36</sup> following the date on which the supply was cut off<sup>37</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

2 There is no statutory definition of 'disconnect' or 'cut off'. In practice the disconnection or cut off is made by either turning off a stopcock or physically severing the pipe. As to powers of entry to disconnect a pipe or cut off a supply see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 170; and PARA 480. As to disconnections for non-payment of charges see s 61; and PARA 357. 16 As to the meaning of 'damage' see PARA 129 note 7.

17 Water Industry Act 1991 s 60(5). If the supply is for domestic purposes, or if the supply is for non-domestic purposes and no special terms and conditions apply relating to compensation whilst works are carried out, the water undertaker is only liable to pay compensation if the works are not carried out with 'reasonable dispatch' (which is not defined). If the supply is for non-domestic purposes, the terms on which the supply is given should be examined to see if there is any additional ground on which compensation for such disruption can be claimed. As to determination of the terms and conditions on which a non-domestic supply may be made see PARA 347. As to the sums payable when the supply is not duly restored see PARA 356.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iii) Disconnections/356. Customer's entitlement to payment or credit where supply not duly restored.

356. Customer's entitlement to payment or credit where supply not duly restored.

The following provisions apply if a water undertaker<sup>1</sup> interrupts or cuts off the supply of water to premises in the exercise of its power<sup>2</sup> to make disconnections for the carrying out of necessary works<sup>3</sup>. However, these provisions do not apply if the undertaker interrupts or cuts off the supply because of drought<sup>4</sup>.

Where these provisions apply, the undertaker must restore the supply: (1) by the time and date specified in the notice<sup>5</sup>, if the undertaker has served a notice stating when the supply is to be restored<sup>6</sup>; (2) within 48 hours after it first became aware that the supply was interrupted or cut off, if the supply was interrupted or cut off in an emergency because of a leak or burst in a strategic main<sup>7</sup>; or (3) within 12 hours after it first became aware that the supply was interrupted or cut off, if the supply was interrupted or cut off in an emergency, but not because of a leak or burst in a strategic main<sup>8</sup>.

If the undertaker fails to restore the supply by the time by which the undertaker should, under heads (1) to (3), have done so, the undertaker must pay the customer<sup>9</sup>: (a) where the supply is to domestic premises, £20<sup>10</sup>; (b) where the supply is to premises of any other kind, £50<sup>11</sup>; and (c) for each subsequent full period of 24 hours during which the supply has not been restored, where the supply is to domestic premises, £10<sup>12</sup>, and, where the supply is to premises of any other kind, £25<sup>13</sup>. The undertaker need not pay the customer:

- 736 (i) if (or, as the case may be, so long as) the undertaker was prevented from restoring the supply by: (A) severe weather<sup>14</sup>; (B) industrial action by employees of the undertaker<sup>15</sup>; or (C) the act or default of a person who is not either an officer, employee or agent of the undertaker<sup>16</sup>, or a person acting on behalf of the undertaker or of an agent of the undertaker<sup>17</sup>;
- 737 (ii) in a case described in head (2) or (3) above, if the circumstances are so exceptional that it is unreasonable to expect the supply to be restored within the relevant period<sup>18</sup>; or
- 738 (iii) if the undertaker could not practicably have identified the customer as having been affected<sup>19</sup>, and the customer does not claim (orally or in writing<sup>20</sup>) a payment under these provisions within the three months<sup>21</sup> following the date on which the supply was cut off<sup>22</sup>.

357. Disconnections for non-payment of charges.

Subject to the statutory exceptions<sup>1</sup>, a water undertaker<sup>2</sup> may disconnect<sup>3</sup> a service pipe which is connected with any water main<sup>4</sup> of that undertaker for the purposes of providing a supply of water to any premises, or may otherwise cut off a supply of water to any premises, if the occupier<sup>5</sup> of the premises is liable (whether in his capacity as occupier or under any agreement with the undertaker) to pay charges due to the undertaker in respect of the supply of water to those premises<sup>6</sup>, and has failed to make the payment before the end of the period of seven days beginning with the day after he is served with notice<sup>7</sup> requiring him to do so<sup>8</sup>.

Where a water undertaker has served notice requiring the payment of charges on a person as mentioned above<sup>9</sup>, and within that period of seven days that person serves a counter-notice on the undertaker disputing his liability to pay the charges in question<sup>10</sup>, the undertaker may not exercise its power of disconnection in pursuance of that notice in relation to any premises except at a time when that person is the occupier of the premises and those charges are enforceable against him in a specified manner<sup>11</sup>. Charges are enforceable against a person in a specified manner if:

- 739 (1) the undertaker is able to enforce a judgment against that person for the payment of the charges<sup>12</sup>; or
- 740 (2) that person is in breach of an agreement entered into, since the service of his counter-notice, for the purpose of avoiding or settling proceedings by the undertaker for the recovery of the charges<sup>13</sup>.

A water undertaker which exercises its power under these provisions to disconnect any pipe<sup>14</sup> or otherwise to cut off any supply of water may recover, from the person in respect of whose liability the power is exercised, any expenses reasonably incurred by the undertaker in making the disconnection or in otherwise cutting off the supply<sup>15</sup>.

Where a water undertaker has power under these provisions to disconnect any pipe to any premises, or otherwise to cut off any supply to any premises<sup>16</sup>, and a supply of water is provided to those premises and to other premises wholly or partly by the same service pipe<sup>17</sup>, the undertaker may exercise that power so as to cut off the supply to those other premises if and only if the same person is the occupier of the premises in relation to which the charges are due and of the other premises<sup>18</sup>.

1 The power conferred by the Water Industry Act 1991 s 61(1) is not exercisable in relation to any premises specified in Sch 4A (see PARA 358): s 61(1A) (added by the Water Industry Act 1999 s 1(1)).

2 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

3 There is no statutory definition of 'disconnect' or 'cut off'. In practice the disconnection or cut off is made by either turning off a stopcock or physically severing the pipe. The closure of a valve in a prepayment device because of lack of credit is a disconnection within the meaning of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 61: see R v Director General of Water Services, ex p Oldham Metropolitan Borough Council (1998) 96 LGR 396, 31 HLR 224. As to the prohibition on the use of such devices in relation to certain premises see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 63A; and PARA 361. ### 358. Premises which are not to be disconnected for non-payment of charges.

The power to disconnect for non-payment of charges<sup>1</sup> is not exercisable in relation to any of the following premises<sup>2</sup>:

- 741 (1) any dwelling<sup>3</sup> which is occupied by a person as his only or principal home<sup>4</sup>;
- 742 (2) any house in multiple occupation<sup>5</sup> which does not constitute a dwelling within the meaning of head (1) above and in which any person has his only or principal home<sup>6</sup>;
- 743 (3) accommodation for the elderly<sup>7</sup> in which a person has his only or principal home<sup>8</sup>;
- 744 (4) a hospital<sup>9</sup>;
- 745 (5) premises used for the provision of medical services by a registered medical practitioner<sup>10</sup>;
- 746 (6) premises used for the provision of dental services by a person<sup>11</sup> who is permitted<sup>12</sup> to practise dentistry<sup>13</sup>;
- 747 (7) premises not falling within head (5) or (6) above which are used for the provision<sup>14</sup> of primary medical services or primary dental services<sup>15</sup>;
- 748 (8) a care home<sup>16</sup> or independent hospital<sup>17</sup>;
- 749 (9) a children's home<sup>18</sup>;
- 750 (10) a school<sup>19</sup>;
- 751 (11) premises used by an institution within the further education sector or an institution within the higher education sector<sup>20</sup> for, or in connection with, the provision of education<sup>21</sup>;
- 752 (12) premises in England<sup>22</sup> which are used for the provision of childcare by a person who is registered<sup>23</sup> in respect of the premises<sup>24</sup>; or premises in Wales<sup>25</sup> which are used for the provision of day care for children by a person who is registered<sup>26</sup> in respect of the premises<sup>27</sup>;
- 753 (13) a prison<sup>28</sup> or removal centre<sup>29</sup>;
- 754 (14) premises occupied for the purposes of a police force<sup>30</sup>;
- 755 (15) premises occupied for the purposes of a fire and rescue authority<sup>31</sup>;
- 756 (16) premises occupied for the purposes of the provision of an ambulance service by a National Health Service trust<sup>32</sup> or by an NHS foundation trust<sup>33</sup>.

3 'Dwelling' means: (1) a private dwelling-house (which may be a building or part of a building); (2) a caravan within the meaning of the Caravan Sites and Control of Development Act 1960 Pt I (ss 1-32) (disregarding the amendment made by the Caravan Sites Act 1968 s 13(2) (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1033)); or (3) a boat or similar structure designed or adapted for use as a place of permanent habitation: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 4A para 1(2) (Sch 4A added by the Water Industry Act 1999 s 1(2), Sch 1).

4 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 4A para 1(1) (as added: see note 3). It is only a person's principal home that is protected by these provisions; second homes are still liable to disconnection: see HC Official Report, SC A (Water Industry Bill) col 5, 15 December 1998.

5 'House in multiple occupation' means a house in multiple occupation as defined by the Housing Act 2004 ss 254-259, as they have effect for the purposes of Pt 1 (ss 1-54) of that Act (that is, without the exclusions contained in Sch 14 to that Act) (see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 461): Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 4A para 2(2) (as added (see note 3); and subsequently substituted by the Housing Act 2004 s 265(1), Sch 15 para 36).

6 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 4A para 2(1) (as added: see note 3).

7 'Accommodation for the elderly' means residential accommodation to which the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 4A para 3(3) or (4) applies, but which is not a dwelling within the meaning of head (1) in the text or a house in multiple occupation within the meaning of head (2) in the text: Sch 4A para 3(2) (as added: see note 3). Schedule 4A para 3(3) applies to residential accommodation: (1) which is particularly suitable, having regard to its location, size, design, heating systems and other features, for occupation by elderly persons; (2) which it is the practice of the landlord to let for occupation by persons aged 60 or more; and (3) where the services of a warden are provided: Sch 4A para 3(3) (as so added). Schedule 4A para 3(4) applies to any building or part of a building designed or adapted for use as residential accommodation for elderly persons: Sch 4A para 3(4) (as so added).

359. Disconnections at customer's request.

A water undertaker<sup>1</sup> may disconnect<sup>2</sup> a service pipe which for the purposes of providing a supply of water to any premises is connected with any water main<sup>3</sup> of that undertaker<sup>4</sup>, or otherwise cut off a supply of water to any premises<sup>5</sup>, if notice<sup>6</sup> specifying the time after which a supply of water to those premises will no longer be required has been served on the undertaker by a consumer<sup>7</sup> and that time has passed<sup>8</sup>. No person<sup>9</sup> is liable to a water undertaker for any expenses incurred by the undertaker in exercising this power of disconnection<sup>10</sup>. A person who wishes the supply of water to his premises to be discontinued is, however, still liable for charges for supplies fixed by reference to volume unless the appropriate notice is given to the water undertaker<sup>11</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

2 There is no statutory definition of 'disconnect'. In practice the disconnection is made by either turning off a stopcock or physically severing the pipe. As to powers of entry to disconnect a pipe or cut off a supply see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 170; and PARA 480. As to the general duties of undertakers with respect to disconnections see s 63; and PARA 360.

9 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

10 Water Industry Act 1991 s 62(2).

11 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 144(3); and PARA 422. An occupier who has served a notice under s 62 is not otherwise still liable for charges, except in pursuance of a subsequent demand for a supply, despite the fact that he continues to be the occupier of the premises in question: see s 144(5), (6); and PARA 422.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iii) Disconnections/360. General duties of undertakers with respect to disconnections.

360. General duties of undertakers with respect to disconnections.

Where a water undertaker<sup>1</sup> disconnects a service pipe<sup>2</sup> to any inhabited house<sup>3</sup>, or otherwise cuts off a supply of water to such a house<sup>4</sup>, and does not restore the supply to that house before the end of 24 hours beginning with the time when it is cut off<sup>5</sup>, the undertaker must, not later than 48 hours after that time, serve notice<sup>6</sup> that it has cut off that supply on the local authority<sup>7</sup> in whose area the house is situated<sup>8</sup>. A water undertaker which fails without reasonable excuse to serve such a notice is guilty of an offence<sup>9</sup>.

A water undertaker is also guilty of an offence<sup>10</sup> if:

- 757 (1) it disconnects a service pipe to any premises, or otherwise cuts off a supply of water to any premises, in a case in which it has no statutory power<sup>11</sup> to do so<sup>12</sup>; or
- 758 (2) in disconnecting any such pipe or cutting off any such supply it fails, without reasonable excuse, to comply with any requirement of the provisions in pursuance of which it disconnects the pipe or cuts off the supply<sup>13</sup>.

A water undertaker may be restrained if it threatens improperly to cut off the water supply<sup>14</sup> or if, having done so, it prevents reconnection being made<sup>15</sup>; and an undertaker will be liable for any damage resulting from an ineffective disconnection<sup>16</sup>.

361. Prohibition of use of limiting devices.

A water undertaker<sup>1</sup> is guilty of an offence if it uses a limiting device<sup>2</sup> in relation to any specified premises<sup>3</sup> with the intention of enforcing payment of charges which are or may become due to the undertaker in respect of the supply of water to the premises<sup>4</sup>. An undertaker does not, however, commit an offence under these provisions by disconnecting a service pipe<sup>5</sup> to any premises or otherwise cutting off a supply of water to the premises<sup>6</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

2 A 'limiting device', in relation to any premises, means any device or apparatus which: (1) is fitted to any pipe by which water is supplied to the premises or a part of the premises, whether that pipe belongs to the undertaker or to any other person; and (2) is designed to restrict the use which may be made of water supplied to the premises by the undertaker: Water Industry Act 1991 s 63A(2) (s 63A added by the Water Industry Act 1999 s 2). As to the meaning of 'pipe' see PARA 138 note 11. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

3 Ie any premises specified in the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 4A: see PARA 358.

4 Water Industry Act 1991 s 63A(1) (as added: see note 2). An undertaker guilty of such an offence is liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale: s 63A(4) (as so added). As to the standard scale see PARA 141 note 18. As to offences by bodies corporate see PARA 185. As to charges generally see PARA 419 et seq.

5 As to the meaning of 'service pipe' see PARA 179 note 8.

6 Water Industry Act 1991 s 63A(3) (as added: see note 2). Note, however, that the power to disconnect for non-payment of charges (see PARA 357) is not exercisable in respect of the specified premises: see PARA 358. As to powers of disconnection see PARAS 355-360.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iii) Disconnections/362. Closure of mains.

362. Closure of mains.

There appears to be no statutory procedure<sup>1</sup> by which a water main<sup>2</sup> may be closed by a water undertaker<sup>3</sup>, in contrast with the provision made for the closure of a public sewer by a sewerage undertaker<sup>4</sup>. A water main can, it seems, only be closed with the agreement of customers taking a supply from it<sup>5</sup>.

1 The powers to alter pipes conferred by the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 158, 159 (see PARAS 462-463) include removal, but the wording of those provisions envisages that the main removed will be replaced by a similar main. In certain circumstances the undertaker is under a duty to move pipes (see PARA 489), but again it appears that a replacement is to be provided.

2 As to the meaning of 'water main' see PARA 138 note 11.

3 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

4 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 116; and ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 1036.

5 As to the right of customers to have their service pipes connected with such a main see PARA 335. The more distant the main, the longer the length of service pipe which the customer will be responsible for maintaining. As to the water mains which must be shown on maps of waterworks see PARA 179. As to the meaning of 'service pipe' see PARA 179 note 8.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/A. WASTE, CONTAMINATION AND MISUSE/363. Supply to other persons without undertakers' consent.

(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies

A. WASTE, CONTAMINATION AND MISUSE

363. Supply to other persons without undertakers' consent.

Under the current water supply legislation it is not expressly stated to be a criminal offence for an owner or occupier of premises supplied with water to supply that water to another person<sup>1</sup>; but such a supply from one person to another may be regarded as a misuse<sup>2</sup> of water<sup>3</sup>.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/A. WASTE, CONTAMINATION AND MISUSE/364. Offences of contaminating, wasting and misusing water etc.

364. Offences of contaminating, wasting and misusing water etc.

If any person<sup>1</sup> who is the owner<sup>2</sup> or occupier<sup>3</sup> of any premises to which a supply of water is provided by a water undertaker<sup>4</sup> or licensed water supplier<sup>5</sup> intentionally or negligently causes or suffers any water fitting<sup>6</sup> for which he is responsible<sup>7</sup> to be or remain so out of order, so in need of repair or so constructed or adapted, or to be so used, that:

- 759 (1) water in a water main or other pipe<sup>8</sup> of a water undertaker, or in a pipe connected with such a water main or pipe, is or is likely to be contaminated by the return<sup>9</sup> of any substance from those premises to that main or pipe<sup>10</sup>;
- 760 (2) water that has been supplied by the undertaker or supplier to those premises is, or is likely to be, contaminated before it is used<sup>11</sup>; or
- 761 (3) water so supplied is, or is likely to be, wasted or, having regard to the purposes for which it is supplied, misused<sup>12</sup> or unduly consumed<sup>13</sup>, that person is guilty of an offence<sup>14</sup>.

In any proceedings under the above provisions it is a defence to prove:

- 762 (a) that the contamination or likely contamination, or the wastage, misuse or undue consumption, was caused, wholly or mainly, by the installation, alteration, repair or connection of the water fitting on or after 1 July 1999<sup>15</sup>;
- 763 (b) that the works were carried out by or under the direction of an approved contractor<sup>16</sup>; and
- 764 (c) that the contractor certified to the person who commissioned those works that the water fitting complied with the requirements of the relevant regulations<sup>17</sup>.

Any person who uses any water supplied to any premises by a water undertaker for a purpose other than one for which it is supplied to those premises is, unless the other purpose is the extinguishment of a fire, guilty of an offence<sup>18</sup>. Where a person has committed such an offence, the water undertaker in question is entitled to recover from that person such amount as may be reasonable in respect of any water wasted, misused or improperly consumed in consequence of the commission of the offence<sup>19</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 As to the meaning of 'owner' see PARA 22 note 9.

3 As to the meaning of 'occupier' see PARA 339 note 8.

4 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

5 As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152.

6 As to the meaning of 'water fittings' see PARA 134 note 6.

7 For these purposes, the owner or occupier of any premises is regarded as responsible for every water fitting on the premises which is not a water fitting which a person other than the owner or, as the case may be, occupier is liable to maintain: Water Industry Act 1991 s 73(4). In the absence of evidence to the contrary, fittings which the undertakers are liable to maintain include any let for hire by the undertakers and marked as being their property: see PARA 464.

8 As to the meanings of 'water main' and 'pipe' see PARA 138 note 11.

9 If there is a heavy use of water elsewhere on the same system of water mains (eg when water is used for fire-fighting) the pressure in the main may drop, and this may result in water being returned from premises supplied into the water main. Water in the premises may be contaminated if the relevant regulations are not complied with: see PARA 367. Hosepipe connectors cause a particular problem in practice as they are fitted and refitted so that it is difficult to ascertain whether they were lawfully installed at the time the regulations came into force.

11 Water Industry Act 1991 s 73(1)(b) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 22(b)).

12 As to misuse of water see also PARA 363, PARA 365 et seq. There is no express control on the use of hosepipes and sprinklers in the legislation; the 'misuse' provisions in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 73(1)(c) need to be looked at in conjunction with the definition of 'domestic purposes' in s 218 (see PARA 334). The use of water drawn from a tap inside a house, without the use of a hosepipe, for gardening purposes connected with the occupation of that house, is a domestic use of water; use of water drawn from an inside tap using a hosepipe or from an external tap regardless of whether or not a hosepipe is used is not a domestic use of water: see s 218(2)(b); and PARA 334. A water undertaker may impose conditions under ss 55-56 when water is used for other than domestic purposes: see PARA 347. There is no consistent approach amongst water undertakers in the conditions imposed for the use of water for gardening purposes. Some water undertakers may require a meter to be installed before water is used for 'non-domestic' gardening purposes, others may require a licence to be held before such use is allowed; some water undertakers differentiate between handheld hosepipes and sprinklers in setting out their requirements.

14 Water Industry Act 1991 s 73(1) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 22(a)). The penalty for such an offence is, on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale: see s 73(1). As to the standard scale see PARA 141 note 18. As to offences by bodies corporate see PARA 185.

15 Water Industry Act 1991 s 73(1A)(a) (s 73(1A) added by SI 1999/1148).

16 Water Industry Act 1991 s 73(1A)(b) (as added: see note 15). An approved contractor is one within the meaning of the Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148: Water Industry Act 1991 s 73(1A)(b) (as so added). 'Approved contractor' means a person who: (1) has been approved by the water undertaker for the area where a water fitting is installed or used; or (2) has been certified as an approved contractor by an organisation specified in writing by the regulator: Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 1(2). As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1. 'Regulator' means: (a) in relation to any water undertakers whose area of appointment is wholly or mainly in Wales and their area of appointment, the Welsh Ministers; (b) in relation to all other water undertakers and their area of appointment, the Secretary of State: reg 1(2); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. As to water undertakers' areas see PARA 318. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. Functions under the Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, which were originally vested in the National Assembly for Wales are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers by virtue of the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2.

17 Water Industry Act 1991 s 73(1A)(b) (as added: see note 15). The relevant regulations are the Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 73(1A)(c) (as so added); and PARA 367.

18 Water Industry Act 1991 s 73(2). The penalty for such an offence is, on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale: s 73(2). Under the earlier legislation there was an express offence of supplying water to other persons without the undertaker's consent: see PARA 363. This provision is not contained in the consolidation legislation; it was removed after concern expressed during the debate on the 1989 Water Bill that a person supplying water to a neighbour whose supply had been disconnected because of non-payment of water charges was liable to a fine. However such a supply would still appear to be an offence under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 73(2). As to the restrictions on disconnections for non-payment of charges see PARA 358.

See further Evans v Gornall (1892) 8 TLR 602, DC, where water already used for domestic purposes was properly re-used for flushing a water closet; Cambridge University and Town Waterworks Co v Hancock (1910) 74 JP 477, DC, where an offence was committed by a dairyman using water supplied for domestic purposes to wash a yard and milk float; Great Northern Ry Co v Bradford Corp (1918) 83 JP 33, where a railway company receiving a supply at one station was not entitled to use it at another. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/A. WASTE, CONTAMINATION AND MISUSE/365. Power to prevent damage and to take steps to prevent contamination, waste etc.

365. Power to prevent damage and to take steps to prevent contamination, waste etc.

Without prejudice to any power conferred on water undertakers<sup>1</sup> by regulations<sup>2</sup>, where a water undertaker which provides a supply of water to any premises has reason for believing that:

- 765 (1) damage<sup>3</sup> to persons<sup>4</sup> or property is being, or is likely to be, caused by any damage to, or defect in, any water fitting<sup>5</sup> used in connection with the supply of water to those premises which is not a service pipe<sup>6</sup> belonging to the undertaker<sup>7</sup>;
- 766 (2) water in a water main or other pipe<sup>8</sup> of the undertaker is being, or is likely to be, contaminated by the return of any substance from those premises to that main or pipe<sup>9</sup>;
- 767 (3) water which is in any pipe connected with any such main or other pipe or which has been supplied by the undertaker to those premises is being, or is likely to be, contaminated before it is used<sup>10</sup>; or
- 768 (4) water which has been or is to be so supplied is being, or is likely to be, wasted or, having regard to the purposes for which it is supplied, misused or unduly consumed<sup>11</sup>, the water undertaker may: (a) in an emergency<sup>12</sup> disconnect the service pipe or otherwise cut off the supply of water to those premises<sup>13</sup>; and (b) in any other case serve notice<sup>14</sup> on the consumer<sup>15</sup> requiring him to take such steps as are specified in the notice as necessary to secure that the damage, contamination, waste, misuse or undue consumption ceases, or, as the case may be, does not occur<sup>16</sup>.

Similarly, without prejudice to any power conferred on water undertakers by such regulations, where a water undertaker whose supply system<sup>17</sup> is used for the purpose of a licensed water supplier<sup>18</sup> making a supply of water to any premises has reason for believing:

- 769 (i) that damage to persons or property is being or is likely to be caused by any damage to, or defect in, any water fitting used in connection with the supply of water to those premises which is not a service pipe belonging to the water undertaker<sup>19</sup>;
- 770 (ii) that water in a water main or other pipe of the undertaker is being or is likely to be contaminated by the return of any substance from those premises to that pipe or main<sup>20</sup>;
- 771 (iii) that water which is in any pipe connected with any such main or other pipe or which has been supplied by the supplier to those premises is being or is likely to be contaminated before it is used<sup>21</sup>; or
- 772 (iv) that water which has been or is to be so supplied is being or is likely to be wasted or, having regard to the purposes for which it is supplied, misused or unduly consumed<sup>22</sup>, the undertaker may exercise the emergency disconnection and other powers set out above<sup>23</sup> in relation to those premises<sup>24</sup>.

Where a water undertaker, in exercise of the power of emergency disconnection conferred by head (a) above, disconnects a service pipe to any premises or otherwise cuts off any supply of water to any premises, the undertaker must, as soon as reasonably practicable after the supply is disconnected or cut off, serve a notice on the consumer specifying the steps which that person is required to take before the undertaker will restore the supply<sup>25</sup>. A water undertaker which fails without reasonable excuse to serve such a notice is guilty of an offence<sup>26</sup>.

Where a water undertaker has served a notice for the purposes of head (b) above, and the case becomes an emergency<sup>27</sup> or the premises appear to be unoccupied and the steps specified in the notice are not taken before the end of the specified period<sup>28</sup>, the water undertaker may disconnect the service pipe to those premises or otherwise cut off the supply of water to those premises<sup>29</sup>. In any other case, where any steps specified in the notice served for those purposes have not been taken by the end of the specified period, the water undertaker has power to take those steps itself<sup>30</sup>, and to recover any expenses reasonably incurred by the undertaker in taking those steps from the person on whom the notice was served<sup>31</sup>.

Where any steps are taken by virtue of these provisions and it is shown that in the circumstances of the case those steps were not necessary<sup>32</sup>, the water undertaker in question is not entitled to recover any expenses incurred by it in taking those steps<sup>33</sup>, and is liable to pay to any other person who took any of those steps an amount equal to any expenses reasonably incurred by that person in any of them<sup>34</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> may by regulations<sup>3</sup> make such provision as he or they consider appropriate for any of the following purposes:

- 773 (1) for securing that water in a water main<sup>4</sup> or other pipe<sup>5</sup> of a water undertaker is not contaminated, and that its quality and suitability for particular purposes is not prejudiced, by the return of any substance from any premises to that main or pipe<sup>6</sup>;
- 774 (2) for securing that water which is in any pipe connected<sup>7</sup> with any such main or other pipe or which has been supplied to any premises by a water undertaker or licensed water supplier is not contaminated, and that its quality and suitability for particular purposes is not prejudiced, before it is used<sup>8</sup>;
- 775 (3) for preventing the waste, undue consumption and misuse of any water at any time after it has left the pipes of a water undertaker for the purpose of being supplied by that undertaker or a licensed water supplier to any premises<sup>9</sup>; and
- 776 (4) for securing that water fittings<sup>10</sup> installed and used by persons<sup>11</sup> to whom water is, or is to be, supplied by a water undertaker or licensed water supplier are safe<sup>12</sup> and do not cause or contribute to the erroneous measurement of any water or the reverberation of any pipes<sup>13</sup>.

Without prejudice to the generality of this power to make regulations, such regulations may, for any of the above purposes, make provision in relation to any such water fittings as may be prescribed<sup>14</sup>:

- 777 (a) for forbidding the installation, connection or use of the fittings if they have not been approved under the regulations or if they contravene<sup>15</sup> the regulations<sup>16</sup>;
- 778 (b) for requiring the fittings, for the purposes of provision made by virtue of head (a) above, to be of such a size, nature, strength or workmanship, to be made of such materials or in such a manner or to conform to such standards as may be prescribed by or approved under the regulations<sup>17</sup>;
- 779 (c) for imposing such other requirements as may be prescribed with respect to the installation, arrangement, connection, testing, disconnection, alteration, and repair of the fittings and with respect to the materials used in their manufacture<sup>18</sup>;
- 780 (d) for the giving, refusal and revocation, by prescribed persons, of approvals required for the purposes of the regulations<sup>19</sup>; and
- 781 (e) for such approvals to be capable of being made subject to such conditions as may be prescribed and for the modification and revocation of any such condition<sup>20</sup>.

The regulations may also:

- 782 (i) impose separate or concurrent duties with respect to the enforcement of the regulations on water undertakers, local authorities<sup>21</sup> and such other persons as may be prescribed<sup>22</sup>;

- 783 (ii) confer powers on a water undertaker or local authority to carry out works and take other steps in prescribed circumstances for remedying any contravention of the regulations<sup>23</sup>, and provide for the recovery by a water undertaker or local authority of expenses reasonably incurred in the exercise of any such power<sup>24</sup>;
- 784 (iii) repeal or modify the statutory provisions relating to offences of contaminating, wasting and misusing water<sup>25</sup>, and the power<sup>26</sup> to prevent damage and to take steps to prevent contamination and waste<sup>27</sup>;
- 785 (iv) provide for a contravention of the regulations to constitute a summary offence<sup>28</sup>;
- 786 (v) require prescribed charges to be paid to persons carrying out functions<sup>29</sup> under the regulations<sup>30</sup>;
- 787 (vi) enable the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers to authorise such relaxations of and departures from such of the requirements of the regulations as may be prescribed, to make any such authorisation subject to such conditions as may be prescribed and to modify or revoke any such authorisation or condition<sup>31</sup>; and enable the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers to authorise a water undertaker or local authority (either instead of, or concurrently with, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers) to exercise any power so conferred on the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>32</sup>; and
- 788 (vii) require disputes arising under the regulations to be referred to arbitration and for determinations under the regulations to be subject to such rights of appeal as may be prescribed<sup>33</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 74, so far as exercisable in relation to any water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales (but not in relation to any licensed water supplier), were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to water undertakers' areas see PARA 318. As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/A. WASTE, CONTAMINATION AND MISUSE/367. Prescribed requirements for preventing waste, misuse or contamination.

367. Prescribed requirements for preventing waste, misuse or contamination.

The Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999<sup>1</sup> apply, subject to certain exceptions<sup>2</sup>, to any water fitting<sup>3</sup> installed or used, or to be installed or used, in premises to which water is or is to be supplied by a water undertaker<sup>4</sup> or licensed water supplier<sup>5</sup>. They do not, however, apply to a water fitting installed or used, or to be installed or used, in connection with water supplied for purposes other than domestic or food production purposes<sup>6</sup>, provided that:

- 789 (1) the water is metered<sup>7</sup>;
- 790 (2) the supply of the water is for a period not exceeding one month, or, with the written consent of the water undertaker whose supply system is used for the purposes of that supply, three months<sup>8</sup>; and
- 791 (3) no water can return through the meter to any pipe vested in a water undertaker or licensed water supplier<sup>9</sup>.

Nor, except for the purposes of prevention of cross connection to unwholesome water<sup>10</sup>, do they apply to water fittings which are not connected or to be connected to water supplied by a water undertaker or licensed water supplier<sup>11</sup>. Further, nothing in the regulations requires any person<sup>12</sup> to remove, replace, alter, disconnect or cease to use any water fitting which was lawfully installed or used, or capable of being used, before 1 July 1999<sup>13</sup>.

No person may install a water fitting to convey or receive water supplied by a water undertaker or licensed water supplier, or alter, disconnect or use such a water fitting, or cause or permit such a water fitting to be installed, altered, disconnected or used, in contravention<sup>14</sup> of the following provisions<sup>15</sup>. No water fitting must be installed, connected, arranged or used:

- 792 (a) in such a manner that it causes or is likely to cause waste, misuse, undue consumption or contamination of water supplied by a water undertaker or licensed water supplier, or the erroneous measurement of water supplied by a water undertaker or licensed water supplier<sup>16</sup>;
- 793 (b) which by reason of being damaged, worn or otherwise faulty, causes or is likely to cause waste, misuse, undue consumption or contamination of water supplied by a water undertaker or licensed water supplier, or the erroneous measurement of water supplied by a water undertaker or licensed water supplier<sup>17</sup>.

Every water fitting must be of an appropriate quality and standard<sup>18</sup>, and be suitable for the circumstances in which it is used<sup>19</sup>; and must be installed, connected, altered, repaired or disconnected in a workmanlike manner<sup>20</sup>.

Any person who proposes to install a water fitting in connection with any of the specified operations<sup>21</sup> must give notice to the water undertaker that he proposes to begin work<sup>22</sup>, must not begin that work without the consent of that undertaker (which must not be withheld unreasonably<sup>23</sup>), and must comply with any conditions to which the undertaker's consent is subject<sup>24</sup>.

Where a water fitting is installed, altered, connected or disconnected by an approved contractor, the contractor must upon completion of the work furnish a signed certificate stating whether the water fitting complies with the prescribed requirements<sup>25</sup> to the person who commissioned the work<sup>26</sup>. In the case of a fitting for which notice is required<sup>27</sup>, the contractor must send a copy of the certificate to the water undertaker<sup>28</sup>.

A person who:

- 794 (i) contravenes any of the specified provisions<sup>29</sup>;
- 795 (ii) commences a specified operation<sup>30</sup> without giving the required notice<sup>31</sup> or without the required consent<sup>32</sup>; or
- 796 (iii) carries out a specified operation<sup>33</sup> in breach of a condition imposed<sup>34</sup> in relation to it<sup>35</sup>, is guilty of an offence<sup>36</sup>. In any proceedings against an owner<sup>37</sup> or occupier for such an offence which is based on the installation, alteration, repair, connection or disconnection of a water fitting, it is, however, a defence to prove that the work in question was carried out by or under the direction of an approved contractor and that the contractor certified to the person who commissioned that work that the water fitting complied with the requirements of the regulations<sup>38</sup>.

Any person designated in writing for the statutory purposes<sup>39</sup> may carry out such inspections, measurements and tests on premises entered by that person or on water fittings or other articles found on any such premises, and take away such samples of water or of any land<sup>40</sup>, and such water fittings and other articles, as that person may consider necessary for the purposes for which those premises were entered<sup>41</sup>.

A water undertaker must enforce these requirements in relation to the area for which it holds<sup>42</sup> an appointment<sup>43</sup>; and this duty is enforceable<sup>44</sup> by the regulator, or with the consent of or in accordance with a general authorisation given by the regulator, by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>45</sup>.

Any dispute between a water undertaker and a person who has installed or proposes to install a water fitting:

- 797 (A) as to whether the water undertaker has unreasonably withheld consent, or attached<sup>46</sup> unreasonable conditions<sup>47</sup>; or
- 798 (B) as to whether the water undertaker has unreasonably refused to apply to the regulator for a relaxation of the requirements of the regulations<sup>48</sup>, must be referred to arbitration by a single arbitrator to be appointed by agreement between the parties or, in default of agreement, by the regulator<sup>49</sup>.

12 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

13 Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 2(4).

14 As to the meaning of 'contravention' see PARA 20 note 5.

15 Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 3(1) (as amended: see note 5).

17 Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 3(3) (as amended: see note 5).

18 Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 4(1)(a). For these purposes, a water fitting is of an appropriate quality or standard only if: (1) it bears an appropriate CE marking in accordance with EC Council Directive 89/106 (OJ L40, 11.02.89, p 12) on the approximation of laws, regulations and administrative provisions of the member states relating to construction products; (2) it conforms to an appropriate harmonised standard or European technical approval; (3) it conforms to an appropriate British Standard or some other national specification of an EEA state which provides an equivalent level of protection and performance; or (4) it conforms to a specification approved by the regulator: regs 1(2), 4(2). 'EEA state' means a state which is a contracting party to the EEA Agreement; and 'EEA Agreement' means the Agreement on the European Economic Area (Oporto, 2 May 1992; EC 7 (1992); Cm 2183) as adjusted by the Protocol (Brussels, 17 March 1993; EC 2 (1993); Cm 2183): Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 1(2). 'Harmonised standard' means a standard established as mentioned in EC Council Directive 89/106 (OJ L40, 11.02.89, p 12) by the European Standards Organisation on the basis of a mandate given by the Commission of the European Community and published by the Commission in the Official Journal of the European Community: Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 1(2). 'European technical approval' means a favourable technical assessment of the fitness for use of a construction product for an intended use, issued for the purposes of EC Council Directive 89/106 (OJ L40, 11.02.89, p 12) by a body authorised by an EEA state to issue European technical approvals for those purposes and notified by that state to the European Commission: Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 1(2). As to the meaning of 'regulator' see PARA 364 note 16.

Every water fitting must comply with the prescribed requirements as they apply to that fitting: see reg 4(3). As to the prescribed requirements see Sch 2 (amended by SI 1999/1506; SI 2005/2035). Where any requirement of the Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, Sch 2 relates to a water system, every water fitting which forms part of that system must be fitted or, as the case may be, altered or replaced so as to comply with that requirement: reg 4(4). Where a water undertaker considers that any requirement of Sch 2 would be inappropriate in relation to a particular case, the undertaker may apply to the regulator to authorise a relaxation of that requirement: reg 11(1). The water undertaker must give notice of any proposed relaxation in such manner and to such persons as the regulator may direct: reg 11(2). The regulator may grant the authorisation applied for with such modifications and subject to such conditions as he thinks fit (reg 11(3)), but may not grant such an authorisation before the expiration of one month from the giving of the notice, and must take into consideration any objection which may have been received by him (reg 11(4)). A water undertaker to whom an authorisation is so granted in a particular case may relax the requirements of Sch 2 in that case in accordance with the terms of that authorisation: reg 11(5). As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1.

Before approving a specification under reg 4 or under Sch 2, the regulator must consult: (a) every water undertaker; (b) every licensed water supplier; (c) such trade associations as he considers appropriate; and (d) such organisations appearing to him to be concerned with the interests of water users as he considers appropriate: reg 12(1) (amended by SI 2005/2035). Where the regulator approves such a specification, he must give notice of the approval to all persons who were so consulted and must publish it in such manner as he considers appropriate: Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 12(2). Regulation 12 applies to the revocation or modification of an approval as it applies to the giving of that approval: reg 12(4). As to the exercise of the duty to consult see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 627.

19 Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 4(1)(b).

20 Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 4(5). For these purposes, a water fitting is installed, connected, altered, repaired or disconnected in a workmanlike manner only if the work is carried out so as to conform: (1) to an appropriate British Standard, a European technical approval or some other national specification of an EEA state which provides an equivalent level of protection and performance; (2) to a specification approved by the regulator; or (3) to a method of installation approved by the water undertaker: reg 4(6). Where the water undertaker approves a method of installation under reg 4, the undertaker must give notice of the approval to the regulator and must publish it in such manner as the undertaker considers appropriate: reg 12(3). Regulation 12 applies to the revocation or modification of an approval as it applies to the giving of that approval: reg 12(4). As to the approval of a specification by the regulator see note 18.

21 The specified operations are: (1) the erection of a building or other structure, not being a pond or swimming pool; (2) the extension or alteration of a water system on any premises other than a house; (3) a material change of use of any premises; (4) the installation of (a) a bath having a capacity, as measured to the centre line of overflow, of more than 230 litres; (b) a bidet with an ascending spray or flexible hose; (c) a single shower unit (which may consist of one or more shower heads within a single unit), not being a drench shower installed for reasons of safety or health, connected directly or indirectly to a supply pipe which is of a type specified by the regulator; (d) a pump or booster drawing more than 12 litres per minute, connected directly or indirectly to a supply pipe; (e) a unit which incorporates reverse osmosis; (f) a water treatment unit which produces a waste water discharge or which requires the use of water for regeneration or cleaning; (g) a reduced pressure zone valve assembly or other mechanical device for protection against a fluid which is in fluid category 4 or 5; (h) a garden watering system unless designed to be operated by hand; or (i) any water system laid outside a building and either less than 750mm or more than 1350mm below ground level; (5) the construction of a pond or swimming pool with a capacity greater than 10,000 litres which is designed to be replenished by automatic means and is to be filled with water supplied by a water undertaker or licensed water supplier: reg 5(1), Table (amended by SI 2005/2035). As to the meaning of 'house' see PARA 133 note 5. The Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 5(1) does not apply to the installation by an approved contractor of a water fitting falling within Table paras 2, 4(b) or 4(g) (see heads (2), (4)(b), (g) above): reg 5(2). As to the meaning of 'approved contractor' see PARA 364 note 16.

'Fluid category' means a category of fluid described in the Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, Sch 1: reg 1(2). 'Material change of use' means a change in the purpose for which, or the circumstances in which, premises are used, such that after that change the premises are used (where previously they were not so used) (i) as a dwelling; (ii) as an institution; (iii) as a public building; or (iv) for the purposes of the storage or use of substances which if mixed with water result in a fluid which is classified as either fluid category 4 or 5: reg 1(2). 'Supply pipe' means so much of any service pipe as is not vested in the water undertaker: reg 1(2). As to the meaning of 'service pipe' see PARA 179 note 8. 'Substance' includes micro-organisms and any natural or artificial substance or other matter, whether it is in solid or liquid form or in the form of a gas or vapour: Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1); Interpretation Act 1978 s 11. The definition of 'substance' is the same in the Water Resources Act 1991: see s 221(1).

22 Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 5(1)(a). The notice must include or be accompanied by: (1) the name and address of the person giving the notice, and (if different) the name and address of the person on whom notice may be served under reg 5(4) (see note 23); (2) a description of the proposed work or material change of use; and (3) particulars of the location of the premises to which the proposal relates, and the use or intended use of those premises; (4) except in the case of a fitting falling within reg 5(1), Table para 4(a), (c), (h) or Table para 5 (see note 21 heads (4)(a), (c), (h), (5)), a plan of those parts of the premises to which the proposal relates, and a diagram showing the pipework and fitting to be installed; and (5) where the work is to be carried out by an approved contractor, the name of the contractor: reg 5(3) (amended by SI 1999/1506).

23 Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 5(1)(b). The water undertaker may withhold consent so required, or grant it subject to conditions, by a notice given before the expiry of the period of ten working days commencing with the day on which notice under reg 5(1) was given: reg 5(4). If no notice is given by the water undertaker within that period, the consent so required is deemed to have been granted unconditionally: reg 5(5).

25 It complies with the requirements of the Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148.

26 Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 6(1).

27 It is under the Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 5(1): see the text to notes 21-24.

- 28 Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 6(2) (amended by SI 1999/1506).
- 29 Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 7(1)(a). The specified provisions are those of reg 3(1), (2) or (3) (see the text to notes 14-17) or reg 6(1) or (2) (see the text to notes 25-28).
- 30 Is an operation listed in the Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 5(1) Table: see note 21.
- 31 Is the notice required by the Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 5: see the text to note 22.
- 32 Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 7(1)(b). The required consent is that required by reg 5: see the text to notes 23-24.
- 33 Is an operation listed in the Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 5(1) Table: see note 21.
- 34 Is under the Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 5(4): see note 23.

368. Powers of entry with respect to water fittings and waste or misuse of water.

Without prejudice to certain other statutory provisions<sup>1</sup>, any person<sup>2</sup> designated in writing<sup>3</sup> for the purposes mentioned below in such manner as may be prescribed<sup>4</sup> may:

- 799 (1) enter any premises for the purpose of:
- 69
83. (a) ascertaining whether any provision contained in or made or having effect under the Water Industry Act 1991 with respect to any water fittings<sup>5</sup> or with respect to the waste or misuse of water is being or has been contravened<sup>6</sup>;
84. (b) determining whether, and if so in what manner, any power or duty conferred or imposed on any person by regulations<sup>7</sup> should be exercised or performed<sup>8</sup>; or
85. (c) exercising any such power or performing any such duty<sup>9</sup>; or
- 70
- 800 (2) carry out such inspections, measurements and tests on premises entered by that person or on water fittings or other articles found on any such premises, and take away such samples of water or of any land and such water fittings and other articles, as that person has been authorised<sup>10</sup> to carry out or take away<sup>11</sup>.

1 le without prejudice to the Water Industry Act 1991 s 84 (see PARA 408) and s 170 (see PARA 480).

2 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

3 As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1.

4 'Prescribed' means prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers: see Water Industry Act 1991 ss 74(1), 219(1). As to the provision made see the Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 9; and PARA 367.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/A. WASTE, CONTAMINATION AND MISUSE/369. Contamination of water sources.

369. Contamination of water sources.

A person<sup>1</sup> is guilty of an offence<sup>2</sup> if he is guilty of any act or neglect<sup>3</sup> by which the water in any waterworks<sup>4</sup> which is used, or likely to be used, for human consumption or domestic purposes<sup>5</sup>, or for manufacturing food or drink for human consumption<sup>6</sup>, is polluted or likely to be polluted<sup>7</sup>. Nothing in this provision is, however, to be construed as restricting or prohibiting: (1) any method of cultivation of land<sup>8</sup> which is in accordance with the principles of good husbandry<sup>9</sup>; or (2) the reasonable use of oil or tar on any highway maintainable at the public expense<sup>10</sup>, so long as the highway authority<sup>11</sup> takes all reasonable steps for preventing the oil or tar, or any liquid or matter resulting from its use, from polluting the water in any such waterworks<sup>12</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 A person who is guilty of such an offence is liable: (1) on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum and, in the case of a continuing offence, to a further fine not exceeding £50 for every day during which the offence is continued after conviction (Water Industry Act 1991 s 72(4)(a)); (2) on conviction on indictment, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or to a fine or to both (s 72(4)(b)). As to the statutory maximum see PARA 169 note 20. As to offences by bodies corporate see PARA 185.

3 As to what may be construed as neglect see generally NEGLIGENCE; and as to escapes of substances see NUISANCE vol 78 (2010) PARAS 141, 150.

4 'Waterworks' includes any spring, well, adit, borehole, service reservoir or tank; and any main or other pipe or conduit of a water undertaker; and any pipe or conduit of a licensed water supplier: Water Industry Act 1991 s 72(5) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 21). As to the meaning of 'pipe' see PARA 138 note 11. As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/A. WASTE, CONTAMINATION AND MISUSE/370. Waste from water sources.

370. Waste from water sources.

A person<sup>1</sup> is guilty of an offence<sup>2</sup> if: (1) he causes or allows any underground water to run to waste from any well, borehole or other work<sup>3</sup>; or (2) he abstracts from any well, borehole or other work water in excess of his reasonable requirements<sup>4</sup>. However, where underground water interferes, or threatens to interfere, with the carrying out or operation of any underground works, whether waterworks or not, it is not an offence under these provisions to cause or allow the water to run to waste so far as may be necessary for enabling the works to be carried out or operated, if no other method of disposing of the water is reasonably practicable<sup>5</sup>. Also, a person is not guilty of an offence by virtue of head (1) above in respect of anything done for the purpose of testing the extent or quality of the supply<sup>6</sup>, or of cleaning, sterilising, examining or repairing the well, borehole or other work in question<sup>7</sup>.

On the conviction of a person under these provisions, the court may order that the well, borehole or other work to which the offence relates is to be effectively sealed<sup>8</sup>, or may make such other order as appears to the court to be necessary to prevent waste of water<sup>9</sup>. If any person fails to comply with such an order, then, without prejudice to any penalty for contempt of court<sup>10</sup>, the court may, on the application of the Environment Agency<sup>11</sup>, authorise the Agency to take such steps as may be necessary to execute the order<sup>12</sup>.

Any person designated for the purpose by the Environment Agency has, on producing some duly authenticated document showing his authority, a right at all reasonable times: (a) to enter any premises for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is, or has been, any contravention<sup>13</sup> of these provisions on or in connection with the premises<sup>14</sup>; (b) to enter any premises for the purpose of executing any order of the court under these provisions which the Agency has been authorised to execute in those premises<sup>15</sup>.

Apart from the operation of the controls on the abstraction and impounding of water<sup>16</sup> and of other provisions for the protection of water resources<sup>17</sup>, express provision for the protection of wells is sometimes found in local Acts<sup>18</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 A person who is guilty of an offence under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 71 is liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale: s 71(4). As to the standard scale see PARA 141 note 18. As to offences by bodies corporate see PARA 185.

18 See eg the Staffordshire Potteries Water Board Act 1937 s 16. These provisions may limit the amount of abstraction from an underground source, and sometimes provide that where an owner of a well within a certain distance (often about 2 miles) from a water undertaker's well proves that the amount of water obtainable from his well has been affected by the undertaker's pumping, the undertaker must give a supply of water to make good the diminution, or alternatively deepen the owner's well or compensate him in money: see eg the Warrington Corporation Water Act 1938 s 25(2), (5). Such provisions may also protect the undertaker's wells or resources either by preventing the water being pumped from the area in the vicinity of the wells, or by restricting the rights of landowners within a certain distance from the undertaker's wells to sink or enlarge new wells or to install septic tanks: see eg s 28 (repealed). These powers are not normally now granted, being supplanted by the licensing powers in the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72): see PARA 214 et seq. As to local legislation see generally PARA 14.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/(A) In general/371. European Community legislation.

B. WATER QUALITY

(A) IN GENERAL

371. European Community legislation.

The Drinking Water Directive<sup>1</sup> is concerned with the quality of water intended for human consumption<sup>2</sup>, with the objective of protecting human health from the adverse effects of any contamination of water intended for human consumption by ensuring that it is wholesome and clean<sup>3</sup>. The Directive does not apply to natural mineral waters<sup>4</sup> or waters which are medicinal products<sup>5</sup>, and member states may provide for other exemptions<sup>6</sup>. Without prejudice to their obligations under other Community provisions, member states must take the measures necessary to ensure that water intended for human consumption is wholesome and clean. For the purposes of the minimum requirements of the Drinking Water Directive, water intended for human consumption is wholesome and clean if it:

801 (1) is free from any micro-organisms and parasites and from any substances which, in numbers or concentrations, constitute a potential danger to human health; and

and if member states take all other measures<sup>7</sup> necessary to ensure that water intended for human consumption complies with the requirements of the Directive<sup>8</sup>. Member states must ensure that the measures taken to implement the Directive in no circumstances have the effect of allowing, directly or indirectly, either any deterioration of the present quality of water intended for human consumption so far as that is relevant for the protection of human health, or any increase in the pollution of waters used for the production of drinking water<sup>9</sup>.

Regulations have been made for the purpose of implementing the Drinking Water Directive and these are discussed below<sup>10</sup>.

The Water Framework Directive<sup>11</sup> requires member states to identify and monitor bodies of water which are used for the abstraction of drinking water; to ensure that after treatment the resulting water will meet the requirements of the Drinking Water Directive; and to ensure the necessary protection for the bodies of water identified with the aim of avoiding deterioration in their quality in order to reduce the level of purification treatment required in the production of drinking water<sup>12</sup>.

2 EC Council Directive 98/83 (OJ L330, 05.12.98, p 32) art 1(1). 'Water intended for human consumption' means: (1) all water either in its original state or after treatment, intended for drinking, cooking, food preparation or other domestic purposes, regardless of its origin and whether it is supplied from a distribution network, from a tanker, or in bottles or containers; (2) all water used in any food-production undertaking for the manufacture, processing, preservation or marketing of products or substances intended for human consumption unless the competent national authorities are satisfied that the quality of the water cannot affect the wholesomeness of the foodstuff in its finished form: see art 2(1).

3 See EC Council Directive 98/83 (OJ L330, 05.12.98, p 32) art 1(2).

4 Such waters are regulated by EC Council Directive 80/777 (OJ L229, 30.8.80, p 1) on the approximation of the laws of the member states relating to the exploitation and marketing of natural mineral waters. See further PARA 447.

5 See EC Council Directive 98/83 (OJ L330, 05.12.98, p 32) art 3(1).

6 See EC Council Directive 98/83 (OJ L330, 05.12.98, p 32) art 3(2), (3).

7 In accordance with the relevant provisions of EC Council Directive 98/83 (OJ L330, 05.12.98, p 32) arts 5-8 and 10 and in accordance with the EC Treaty. EC Council Directive 98/83 (OJ L330, 05.12.98, p 32) art 5 is concerned with quality standards and the setting of values for specified parameters; art 6 is concerned with the point of compliance; art 7 is concerned with monitoring; art 8 is concerned with remedial action and restrictions in use; and art 10 is concerned with quality assurance of treatment, equipment and materials. As to possible derogations see art 9.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/(A) In general/372. The Drinking Water Inspectorate.

372. The Drinking Water Inspectorate.

The Drinking Water Inspectorate<sup>1</sup> consists of persons appointed by the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup>, to act on his or their behalf in relation to some or all of:

- 803 (1) the powers and duties conferred or imposed on him or them in respect of the wholesomeness of water supplies<sup>4</sup>, the offence of supplying water unfit for human consumption<sup>5</sup>, local authority functions in relation to water supplies and quality<sup>6</sup> and private supplies<sup>7</sup>; and
- 804 (2) such other powers and duties in relation to the quality and sufficiency of water supplied using a water undertaker's supply system<sup>8</sup> as are conferred or imposed on him or them by or under any other enactments<sup>9</sup>.

The inspectorate must carry out such investigations and make such reports as the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may require it to carry out for the purpose of: (a) ascertaining whether any duty or other requirement as to water quality imposed on that undertaker or a licensed water supplier<sup>10</sup> or imposed on a relevant person<sup>11</sup> is being, has been or is likely to be contravened<sup>12</sup>; or (b) advising the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers as to whether, and if so in what manner, any of the powers of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers in relation to such a contravention, or any of the powers which are conferred on him or them by or under the specified statutory provisions relating to water quality<sup>13</sup> (including the powers to make regulations) should be exercised<sup>14</sup>.

A water undertaker, licensed water supplier or other relevant person must give the inspectorate all such assistance, and provide all such information, as it may reasonably require for the purpose of carrying out any investigations<sup>15</sup>; and a failure to do so is an offence<sup>16</sup>. The inspectorate has powers to enter premises, to carry out inspections, measurements and tests, to take samples, and to require the supply of records<sup>17</sup>.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/(A) In general/373. Standards of wholesomeness.

373. Standards of wholesomeness.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup>, may by regulations<sup>3</sup> make provision that water supplied to any premises is, or is not, to be regarded as wholesome<sup>4</sup> for the purposes of the statutory provisions relating to quality and sufficiency of supplies<sup>5</sup> if it satisfies or, as the case may be, fails to satisfy such requirements as may be prescribed by the regulations<sup>6</sup>. Such regulations may, for the purpose of determining the wholesomeness of any water:

- 805 (1) prescribe general requirements as to the purposes for which the water is to be suitable<sup>7</sup>;
- 806 (2) prescribe specific requirements as to the substances<sup>8</sup> that are to be present in or absent from the water and as to the concentrations of substances which are, or are required to be, present in the water<sup>9</sup>;
- 807 (3) prescribe specific requirements as to other characteristics of the water<sup>10</sup>;
- 808 (4) provide that the question whether prescribed requirements are satisfied may be determined by reference to such samples as may be prescribed<sup>11</sup>;
- 809 (5) enable the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers to authorise such relaxations of and departures from the prescribed requirements, or from any of them, as may be prescribed, to make any such authorisation subject to such conditions as may be prescribed and to modify<sup>12</sup> or revoke any such authorisation or condition<sup>13</sup>; and
- 810 (6) enable the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers to authorise a local authority<sup>14</sup>, either instead of or concurrently with the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, to exercise in relation to a private supply<sup>15</sup> any power conferred on the Secretary of State or Welsh Ministers by regulations made by virtue of head (5) above<sup>16</sup>.

Such regulations may impose more stringent requirements than those required under the Drinking Water Directive<sup>17</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 67 were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales as follows: (1) for the making of regulations concerning water supplied using the supply system of a water undertaker, the function was transferred in relation to the supply system of any water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales; (2) for the making of regulations concerning water supplied other than using the supply system of a water undertaker, the function was transferred in relation to Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1 (amended by the Water Act 2003, s 100(2)(e)). These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. 14 As to the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 118 note 17.

15 'Private supply' means, subject to the Water Industry Act 1991 s 93(2) below, a supply of water provided otherwise than by a water undertaker or by a licensed water supplier in accordance with Pt II Ch 1A (ss 17A-17R: see PARA 152 et seq) (including a supply provided for the purposes of the bottling of water), and cognate expressions must be construed accordingly: s 93(1) (definition amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 28). For the purposes of any reference to a private supply, or to supplying water by means of a private supply, water must be treated as supplied to any premises not only where it is supplied from outside those premises, but also where it is abstracted, for the purpose of being used or consumed on those premises, from a source which is situated on the premises themselves; and for these purposes water must be treated as used on any premises where it is bottled on those premises for use or consumption elsewhere: Water Industry Act 1991 s 93(2). As to the sale and supply of bottled water see further PARA 447 et seq. As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152.

Duties of water undertakers and licensed water suppliers with respect to water quality.

374. Duties of water undertakers and licensed water suppliers with respect to water quality.

It is the duty of a water undertaker<sup>1</sup>, where its supply system<sup>2</sup> is used for the purpose of supplying water to any premises for domestic or food production purposes<sup>3</sup>:

811 (1) to ensure that any water so supplied is wholesome<sup>4</sup> at the time of supply<sup>5</sup>; and

812 (2) so far as reasonably practicable, to ensure, in relation to each source or combination of sources from which water is so supplied, that there is, in general, no deterioration in the quality of the water which is supplied from time to time from that source or combination of sources<sup>6</sup>; and these provisions<sup>7</sup> and the provisions relating to the making of regulations for preserving water quality<sup>8</sup> apply, in relation to the duty of an undertaker, whether or not the water supplied using the undertaker's supply system is supplied by the undertaker<sup>9</sup>.

It is the duty of a licensed water supplier<sup>10</sup>:

813 (a) when supplying water to any premises for domestic or food production purposes, in accordance with its retail authorisation<sup>11</sup>, to ensure that the water is wholesome at the time of supply<sup>12</sup>; and

814 (b) so far as reasonably practicable, to ensure, in relation to each source or combination of sources from which that supplier supplies water to premises for domestic or food production purposes, in accordance with its retail authorisation, that there is, in general, no deterioration in the quality of the water which is supplied from time to time from that source or combination of sources<sup>13</sup>.

These provisions apply in relation to water which is supplied by a water undertaker whether or not the water is water which the undertaker is required to supply by virtue of any provision of the Water Industry Act 1991<sup>14</sup>. The duties of a water undertaker and licensed water supplier under these provisions are enforceable<sup>15</sup> by the Secretary of State<sup>16</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>17</sup>.

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 68(1)(a) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 18(1), (2)(b)). For these purposes and the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 69 (see PARA 375) and subject to s 68(3), where a water undertaker's supply system is used for the purpose of supplying water to any premises, any water so supplied to any premises must not be regarded as unwholesome at the time of supply where it has ceased to be wholesome only after leaving the undertaker's pipes: s 68(2) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 18(1), (4)). For the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 68(1), however, where a water undertaker's supply system is used for the purpose of supplying water to any premises, and the water so supplied would not otherwise be regarded as unwholesome at the time of supply, that water must be regarded as unwholesome at that time if: (1) it has ceased to be wholesome after leaving the undertaker's pipes but while in a pipe which is subject to water pressure from a water main or which would be so subject but for the closing of some valve; and (2) it has so ceased in consequence of the failure of the undertaker, before the water is supplied, to ensure that such steps are taken as may be prescribed for the purpose of securing the elimination, or reduction to a minimum, of any prescribed risk that the water would cease to be wholesome after leaving the undertaker's pipes: s 68(3) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8, paras 2, 18(1), (5)). As to the meanings of 'pipe' and 'water main' see PARA 138 note 11. As to vesting of pipes in the undertaker see PARA 464. 12 Water Industry Act 1991 s 68(1A)(a) (as added: see note 11). For these purposes, where water supplied by a licensed water supplier to any premises would not otherwise be regarded as unwholesome at the time of supply, that water must be regarded as unwholesome at that time if: (1) it has ceased to be wholesome after leaving the relevant pipes but while in a pipe which is subject to water pressure from a water main or which would be so subject but for the closing of some valve; and (2) it has so ceased in consequence of the failure of the supplier, before supplying the water, to ensure that such steps are taken as may be prescribed for the purpose of securing the elimination, or reduction to a minimum, of any prescribed risk that the water would cease to be wholesome after leaving the relevant pipes: s 68(3A) (s 68(3A), (3B) added by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 18(1), (6)). In the Water Industry Act 1991 s 68(3A), 'relevant pipes' means the pipes of the water undertaker whose supply system is used for the purpose of the supply made by the licensed water supplier: s 68(3B) (as so added).

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/(A) In general/375. Power to make regulations for preserving water quality.

375. Power to make regulations for preserving water quality.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> may by regulations<sup>3</sup> require a water undertaker or a licensed water supplier to ensure that such steps are taken as may be prescribed<sup>4</sup> for the purpose of securing compliance with their duties<sup>5</sup> as to water quality<sup>6</sup>. Such regulations may impose an obligation on a water undertaker or licensed water supplier:

- 815 (1) to ensure that all such steps are taken as may be prescribed for monitoring and recording whether the water used for relevant supplies<sup>7</sup> to premises for domestic or food production purposes<sup>8</sup> is wholesome at the time of supply<sup>9</sup>;
- 816 (2) to ensure that all such steps are taken as may be prescribed for monitoring and recording the quality of the water from any source, or combination of sources, which is used or is proposed to be used for making relevant supplies to any premises for domestic or food production purposes<sup>10</sup>;
- 817 (3) to ensure that a source which is used or proposed to be used for making relevant supplies for domestic or food production purposes is not so used until prescribed requirements for establishing the quality of water which may be supplied from that source have been complied with<sup>11</sup>;
- 818 (4) to ensure that records<sup>12</sup> are kept of the localities within which all the premises receiving relevant supplies for domestic or food production purposes are normally supplied from the same source or combination of sources<sup>13</sup>;
- 819 (5) to ensure that prescribed requirements are complied with with respect to the analysis<sup>14</sup> of water samples or with respect to internal reporting or organisational arrangements<sup>15</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may by regulations make provision imposing obligations on water undertakers or licensed water suppliers with respect to the use for the purposes of or in connection with making relevant supplies of such processes and substances<sup>16</sup>, and of products that contain or are made with such substances or materials, as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers consider might affect the quality of any water<sup>17</sup>. Such regulations may:

- 820 (a) require water undertakers or licensed water suppliers to ensure that processes, substances and products which have not been approved under the regulations or which contravene<sup>18</sup> the regulations are not used for the purposes of or in connection with relevant supplies<sup>19</sup>;
- 821 (b) for the purposes of provision made by virtue of head (a) above, require water undertakers and licensed water suppliers to ensure that processes, substances and products used for the purposes of or in connection with relevant supplies conform to such standards as may be prescribed by or approved under the regulations<sup>20</sup>;
- 822 (c) impose such other requirements as may be prescribed with respect to the use for the purposes of or in connection with relevant supplies of prescribed processes, substances and products<sup>21</sup>;
- 823 (d) provide for the giving, refusal and revocation by prescribed persons<sup>22</sup> of approvals required for the purposes of the regulations, for such approvals to be

- capable of being made subject to such conditions as may be prescribed, and for the modification and revocation of any such condition<sup>23</sup>;
- 824 (e) impose obligations to furnish prescribed persons with information<sup>24</sup> reasonably required by such persons for the purpose of carrying out functions under the regulations<sup>25</sup>;
- 825 (f) provide for contravention of the regulations to constitute a criminal offence<sup>26</sup>; and
- 826 (g) require prescribed charges to be paid to persons carrying out functions under the regulations<sup>27</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may by regulations<sup>28</sup>:

- 827 (i) require a water undertaker to publish information about the quality of water supplied for domestic or food production purposes to any premises using that undertaker's supply system<sup>29</sup>;
- 828 (ii) require a licensed water supplier to publish information about the quality of water supplied for domestic or food production purposes to any premises by that supplier<sup>30</sup>;
- 829 (iii) require any such undertaker or supplier to provide information to prescribed persons about the quality of water supplied as referred to in head (i) or head (ii) above, as the case may be<sup>31</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 69 were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales in relation to (1) any water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales; and (2) any licensed water supplier so far as relating to licensed activities using the supply system of any such water undertaker: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1 (amended by the Water Act 2003, s 100(2)(d)). These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/(B) Prescribed Standards of Wholesomeness/376. Wholesomeness of supplies by water undertakers.

(B) PRESCRIBED STANDARDS OF WHOLESOMENESS

376. Wholesomeness of supplies by water undertakers.

Before the beginning of each year<sup>1</sup> in which it intends to supply water for the prescribed purposes<sup>2</sup>, a water undertaker must designate the names and areas within its area of supply that are to be its water supply zones<sup>3</sup> for that year<sup>4</sup>. A water supply zone may not comprise an area whose population immediately before the beginning of the year in question is estimated by the water undertaker to exceed 100,000<sup>5</sup>. A water undertaker may not vary such a designation after the beginning of the year in relation to which the designation has effect<sup>6</sup>. The water quality within a water supply zone must be approximately uniform<sup>7</sup>.

Water supplied for such domestic purposes as consist in or include, cooking, drinking, food preparation or washing, or supplied to premises in which food is produced, is, subject to certain exceptions<sup>8</sup>, to be regarded as wholesome<sup>9</sup> if the following requirements are satisfied<sup>10</sup>. Those requirements are:

- 830 (1) that the water does not contain any micro-organism (other than a specified parameter<sup>11</sup>) or parasite or any substance (other than a specified parameter) at a concentration or value which would constitute a potential danger to human health<sup>12</sup>;
- 831 (2) that the water does not contain any substance (whether or not a parameter) at a concentration or value which, in conjunction with any other substance it contains (whether or not a parameter) would constitute a potential danger to human health<sup>13</sup>;
- 832 (3) that the water does not contain concentrations or values of the specified parameters<sup>14</sup> in excess of or, as the case may be, less than, the prescribed concentrations or values<sup>15</sup>;
- 833 (4) that the water satisfies the prescribed formula<sup>16</sup> for nitrate concentrations<sup>17</sup>.

The point at which the requirements of heads (1) to (4) above, in so far as they relate to the specified parameters<sup>18</sup>, are to be complied with is:

- 834 (a) in the case of water supplied from a tanker, the point at which the water emerges from the tanker<sup>19</sup>;
- 835 (b) in the case of water supplied in bottles or containers, the point at which the water first emerges from any bottle or container collected from a local distribution point<sup>20</sup>;
- 836 (c) in any other case, the consumer's tap<sup>21</sup>.

Water transferred from a service reservoir<sup>22</sup> for supply for these purposes is not be regarded as unwholesome<sup>23</sup> because the maximum concentration for the coliform bacteria parameter is exceeded if, as regards the samples taken in any year in which the reservoir in question is in use, the results of analysis for that parameter establish that in at least 95 per cent of those samples coliforms were absent<sup>24</sup>.

- 1 'Year' means a calendar year: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 2(1); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 2(1). The Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, apply in relation to the supply of water by every: (1) water undertaker whose area is not wholly or mainly in Wales; and (2) licensed water supplier so far as relating to licensed activities not using the supply system of any water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales: reg 1(6) (substituted by SI 2007/2734). The Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, apply in relation to the supply of water by every: (a) water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales; and (b) licensed water supplier so far as relating to licensed activities using the supply system of any water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales: reg 1(6) (substituted by SI 2007/3374). As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to water undertakers' areas see PARA 318. As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152. As to the meaning of 'water undertaker's supply system' see PARA 152 note 8: definition applied by the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 2(1); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 2(1) (both amended by SI 2005/2035). As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2.
- 2 le for regulation 4(1) purposes. 'Regulation 4(1) purposes', in relation to the supply of water, means a supply: (1) for such domestic purposes as consist in or include, cooking, drinking, food preparation or washing; or (2) for any of those domestic purposes, to premises in which food is produced: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 2(1); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 2(1). As to the meaning of 'domestic purposes' see PARA 334.
- 3 'Water supply zone', in relation to a water undertaker and a year, means an area designated for that year by the water undertaker in accordance with regulation 3 of the appropriate regulations: see the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 2(1); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 2(1).

- 8 le subject to the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 4(4), (5); the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 4(4), (5): see note 9.
- 9 le for the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt III Ch III (ss 67-86A). As to the meaning of 'wholesome' see PARA 373 note 4. As to when water is treated as wholesome at the time of supply see PARA 373 notes 5, 12. Water supplied for regulation 4(1) purposes is not be regarded as wholesome for such purposes if, on transfer from a treatment works for supply for those purposes (1) it contains a concentration of the coliform bacteria or E coli parameter in excess of the prescribed concentrations; or (2) it contains a concentration of nitrite in excess of 0.1mgNO<sub>2</sub>/l: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 4(4); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 4(4). Nor, subject to reg 4(6) (see the text to notes 22-24), is water supplied for regulation 4(1) purposes to be regarded as wholesome for such purposes if, on transfer from a service reservoir for supply for those purposes, it contains a concentration of the coliform bacteria or E coli parameter in excess of the prescribed concentrations: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 4(5); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 4(5). As to the meaning of 'service reservoir' see note 22. 'Parameter' means a property, element, organism or substance listed in Sch 1 Table A second column or Table B, or in Sch 2, as read, where appropriate, with the notes to Sch 2 and those Tables; and 'prescribed concentration or value', in relation to any parameter, means the maximum or minimum concentration or value specified in relation to that parameter in Table A or Table B in Sch 1 as measured by reference to the unit of measurement so specified, and as read, where appropriate, with the notes to those Tables: see the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 2(1); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 2(1). ### 377. Wholesomeness of private supplies.

Water supplied to any premises from a private supply<sup>1</sup> for such domestic purposes<sup>2</sup> as consist in or include drinking, washing or cooking or for food production purposes<sup>3</sup> is to be regarded as wholesome<sup>4</sup> if the following requirements are satisfied and, where the water has been softened or desalinated and is supplied for drinking or cooking or for food production purposes, if the water's hardness and its alkalinity are not below the prescribed relevant minimum concentrations<sup>5</sup>. The requirements are:

- 837 (1) that the water does not contain any element, organism or substance (other than a parameter)<sup>6</sup> at a concentration or value which would be detrimental to public health<sup>7</sup>;
- 838 (2) that the water does not contain any element, organism or substance (whether or not a parameter) at a concentration or value which in conjunction with any other element, organism or substance it contains (whether or not a parameter) would be detrimental to public health<sup>8</sup>;
- 839 (3) that the water does not have a concentration or value of any specified parameter<sup>9</sup> in excess of the prescribed concentration or value<sup>10</sup>;
- 840 (4) in respect of any of certain parameters<sup>11</sup> that:
  - 71 86. (a) samples taken over the preceding 12 months<sup>12</sup> in relation to that parameter have established that the average concentration or value did not exceed the prescribed concentration or value<sup>13</sup>;
  - 87. (b) where only one sample is taken in that period in relation to that parameter, the concentration or value did not exceed the prescribed concentration or value<sup>14</sup>; or
  - 88. (c) where no sample is taken in that period in relation to that parameter, the concentration or value for any sample taken in relation to that parameter in the current year does not exceed the prescribed concentration or value<sup>15</sup>;
  - 72
- 841 (5) that the prescribed requirements in respect of trihalomethanes<sup>16</sup> are satisfied<sup>17</sup>.

TEXT AND NOTES--SI 1991/2790 replaced, in relation to England, by the Private Water Supplies Regulations 2009, SI 2009/3101, and in relation to Wales, by the Private Water Supplies (Wales) Regulations 2010, SI 2010/66 (amended by SI 2010/147, SI 2010/1384).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/(B) Prescribed Standards of Wholesomeness/378. Authorisation of temporary supply of water that is not wholesome.

378. Authorisation of temporary supply of water that is not wholesome.

- 842 (1) that the authorisation is necessary to maintain in that zone a supply of water for the prescribed purposes<sup>9</sup>;
- 843 (2) that a supply of water for those purposes cannot be maintained in that zone by any other reasonable means<sup>10</sup>; and
- 844 (3) that the supply of water in accordance with the authorisation does not constitute a potential danger to human health<sup>11</sup>.

At the same time as it makes an application for such an authorisation, the water undertaker or combined licensee must serve on the prescribed bodies<sup>12</sup> a copy of the application and of the statement, scheme and summary provided with its application<sup>13</sup>. A body on whom documents have been so served may make representations to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers in connection with the application<sup>14</sup>.

A departure may be authorised for such period as is in the opinion of Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers reasonably required for securing a supply of water for the prescribed purposes<sup>15</sup> that fully satisfies the statutory requirements<sup>16</sup> (the 'departure period')<sup>17</sup>; but no departure period may exceed three years<sup>18</sup>. Where it appears to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers that a supply of water that fully satisfies the statutory requirements cannot be restored by the end of the departure period, he or they may authorise a further departure<sup>19</sup>; and where it appears to the Secretary of State or to the Welsh Ministers that a supply of water that fully satisfies those requirements cannot be restored by the end of the departure period relevant to such an authorisation, he or they may<sup>20</sup> authorise a third departure<sup>21</sup>.

An authorisation under the above provisions may be limited to water supplied from particular sources or classes of source, to particular water supply zones or to zones of particular descriptions<sup>22</sup>. As soon as reasonably practicable after a departure has been authorised, the specified relevant suppliers<sup>23</sup> must publicise the departure<sup>24</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may at any time modify or revoke an authorisation upon giving the appropriate notice<sup>25</sup>; but the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may revoke or modify an authorisation without notice if it appears to him or them that immediate revocation or modification is required in the interests of public health<sup>26</sup>. A relevant supplier on whose application a departure has been authorised under these provisions must notify the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers as soon as the circumstances which gave rise to the application cease to exist; and the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must thereupon revoke the authorisation without the need for prior notice<sup>27</sup>.

Any duty or requirement imposed by these provisions on a relevant supplier is enforceable<sup>28</sup> by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers, or the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>29</sup>, whether or not it constitutes an offence<sup>30</sup>.

12 le (1) under the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, every appropriate local authority; the Health Protection Agency; where the water supply zone is wholly or partly in Wales, the National Public Health Service for Wales; and the Consumer Council for Water (reg 20(4) (amended by SI 2002/2469; SI 2005/2035; SI 2007/2734)); and (2) under the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, every appropriate local authority; the National Public Health Service for Wales; where the water supply zone is wholly or partly in England, the Health Protection Agency; and the Consumer Council for Water (reg 20(4) (amended by SI 2005/2035; SI 2007/2734)). 'Appropriate local authority', in relation to (a) a departure authorised under the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 20 or the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 20; (b) an application for any such authorisation; or (c) an event specified in the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 35(6) or the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 35(6) (see PARA 390), means a local authority whose area contains any part of the water supply zone to which the authorisation relates or, in the case of an application, would relate if a departure were authorised in the terms sought, or whose area is affected or is likely to be affected by the event: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 2(1); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 2(1) (definition in each case added by SI 2007/2734). In the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, 'local authority' means any of the following: the Common Council of the City of London, a London borough council, a district council, the council of a county in which there are no district councils: reg 2(1). In the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, 'local authority' means any of the following: in Wales, the council of a county or county borough; and in England, a district council or the council of a county in which there are no district councils: reg 2(1). As to the Health Protection Agency see HEALTH SERVICES vol 54 (2008) PARA 213. 'National Public Health Service for Wales' means an NHS trust within the meaning of the National Health Service (Wales) Act 2006 if, and in so far as, it has the function of providing services in relation to public health in Wales: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 2(1); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 2(1) (definition added in each case by SI 2007/3374). As to NHS trusts see HEALTH SERVICES vol 54 (2008) PARA 155 et seq. As to the Consumer Council for Water see PARA 115. As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. 14 Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 20(5); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 20(5). Any such representations must be made not later than the end of the period of 30 days beginning with the date on which the application for the authorisation is made: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 20(5); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 20(5).

16 le the requirements of the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, Pt III (reg 4) or of the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, Pt III (reg 4): see PARA 376.

17 Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 21(1); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 21(1). An authorisation: (1) must specify (a) the grounds on which it is granted; (b) every water supply zone in respect of which it is granted; (c) the extent to which a departure from the prescribed concentration or value of any parameter is authorised; (d) in respect of each parameter to which head (c) applies, the results of the analysis of the samples taken in each water supply zone in question during the 12 months immediately preceding the first day on which the prescribed concentration or value could not be met; (e) in respect of each parameter to which head (c) applies, the results of the analysis of the samples (if any) taken in each water supply zone in question between the first day on which the prescribed concentration or value could not be met and the date of the application; (f) the average daily quantity of water supplied from each of those zones or, if that quantity cannot readily be ascertained, the average daily quantity of water supplied from the treatment works that supplies water to that zone; (g) the estimated population of each of those zones; (h) whether or not any relevant food-production undertaking would be affected; and (i) the departure period; and (2) must require the implementation of a scheme for monitoring the quality of water supplied in each of those zones during the departure period (which may be, but need not be, the scheme submitted in accordance with reg 20(3)(b) of the appropriate regulations (see head (2) in note 4)); and (3) must require the carrying out of the steps which, in the Secretary of State's or the Welsh Ministers' opinion, are reasonably required in order to secure that the supply fully satisfies the requirements of Pt III of the appropriate regulations (whether or not the steps are those proposed in the summary submitted in accordance with reg 20(3)(c) thereof); and (4) must specify, in relation to those steps (a) the timetable for the work; (b) an estimate of the cost of the work; and (c) provisions for reviewing the progress of the work and for reporting to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers the result of the review; and (5) must require the taking of such steps as may be specified to give to the population within the water supply zones to which the authorisation applies and, in particular, to those groups of that population for which the supply of water in accordance with the authorisation could present a special risk, advice as to the measures (if any) that it would be advisable in the interests of their health for persons within that population or those groups to take for the whole or any part of the departure period: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 21(3)(a)-(e); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 21(3)(a)-(e). Where the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers are of the opinion that the extent of the contravention of the requirements of Pt III of the appropriate regulations as respects any parameter is trivial and that the prescribed concentration or value as respects that parameter is likely to be achieved within the period of 30 days beginning with the day on which the prescribed concentration or value in respect of that parameter was contravened, the particulars to be specified in the authorisation are those required by head (1)(c), (i) above, and heads (2)-(5) above do not apply: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 21(4); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 21(4).

Regulation 21(1)-(4) (see the text to notes 15-18) applies to a further departure as it applies to a departure authorised under reg 20: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 21(6); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 21(6).

20 In accordance with EC Council Directive 98/83 (OJ L330, 05.12.98, p 12) art 9(2). In exceptional circumstances, a member state may ask the Commission for a third derogation for a period not exceeding three years. The Commission must take a decision on any such request within three months: art 9(2).

21 Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 21(7); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 21(7). Regulation 21(3) (see note 17) applies to a departure so authorised as it applies to a departure authorised under reg 20, but with the substitution for the words 'subject to paragraph (4)' of the words 'subject to any direction of the Commission': Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 21(8); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 21(8).

22 Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 22; Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 22.

23 'Specified relevant suppliers' means relevant suppliers: (1) who use the same water supply zone for the purposes of supplying water to consumers; and (2) for the purposes of that supply, rely on an authorised departure relating to the same facts: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 23(2); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 23(2) (reg 23 in each case substituted by SI 2007/2734).

24 As soon as reasonably practicable after a departure has been authorised, the specified relevant suppliers must: (1) separately publish, by making accessible, free of charge, on their websites via a hyperlink maintained on their respective homepages for at least 14 days (a) except in a case to which the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 21(4) or the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 21(4) (see note 17) applies, a notice containing a statement of the matters specified in reg 21(3)(a)(ii), (iii), (viii) and (ix) of the appropriate regulations (see heads (1)(b), (c), (h) and (i) in note 17); and (b) in a case to which reg 21(4) applies, a notice containing a statement of the matters specified in reg 21(3)(a)(ii), (iii) and (ix) of the appropriate regulations (see heads (1)(b), (c), and (i) in note 17); and (2) jointly give such other public notice of the authorisation and of its terms and conditions as the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may, by notice served on the specified relevant suppliers, reasonably require: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 23(1)(a), (b); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 23(1)(a), (b) (both as substituted: see note 23).

The Secretary of State must not revoke or modify an authorisation under the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 20 without giving at least six months' notice in writing of his intention to do so to: (1) the relevant supplier to which the authorisation relates; (2) any other relevant supplier which, for the purposes of supplying water to consumers, uses the water supply zone in respect of which the authorised departure has been given; (3) every appropriate local authority; (4) the Health Protection Agency; (4) where the authorisation relates to a water supply zone which is wholly or partly in Wales, the National Public Health Service for Wales; and (5) the Consumer Council for Water: reg 24(2) (amended by SI 2002/2469; SI 2005/2035; SI 2007/2734). The Welsh Ministers must not revoke or modify an authorisation under the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 20 without giving at least six months' notice in writing of their intention to do so to: (a) the relevant supplier to which the authorisation relates; (b) any other relevant supplier which, for the purposes of supplying water to consumers, uses the water supply zone in respect of which the authorised departure has been given; (c) every appropriate local authority; (d) the National Public Health Service for Wales; (e) where the authorisation relates to a water supply zone which is wholly or partly in England, the Health Protection Agency; and (f) the Consumer Council for Water: reg 24(2) (amended by SI 2005/2035; SI 2007/2734).

378 Authorisation of temporary supply of water that is not wholesome

NOTE 12--For 'National Public Health Service for Wales' substitute 'Public Health Wales National Health Service Trust'; 'Public Health Wales National Health Service Trust' means a National Health Service Trust within the meaning of the National Health Service (Wales) Act 2006 if, and in so far as, it has the function of providing services in relation to public health in Wales: SI 2001/3911 reg 2(1) (amended by SI 2009/1824).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/(B) Prescribed Standards of Wholesomeness/379. Relaxation of wholesomeness requirements with regard to a private supply.

379. Relaxation of wholesomeness requirements with regard to a private supply.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup>, or a local authority<sup>3</sup> may, upon the written<sup>4</sup> application of a relevant person<sup>5</sup>, authorise a relaxation of the requirements relating to wholesomeness of a private supply of water<sup>6</sup> as respects a private supply if the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers or, as the case may be, the authority is satisfied:

- 845 (1) that the authorisation is necessary, as an emergency measure, to maintain a supply for human consumption<sup>7</sup>;
- 846 (2) that the authorisation is called for by reason of exceptional meteorological conditions<sup>8</sup>;
- 847 (3) that the authorisation is called for by reason of the nature and structure of the ground in the area from which the supply emanates<sup>9</sup>; or
- 848 (4) that the supply is, or is to be used, solely for food production purposes<sup>10</sup>.

In the circumstances mentioned in head (3) above, such a relaxation may be authorised as respects a private supply notwithstanding that no application for such authorisation has been made<sup>11</sup>.

A relevant person must, if there are any other relevant persons in relation to the private supply in question, at the same time as he makes an application for an authorisation, serve a notice of the application on all those persons or publish a notice of the application at least once in each of two successive weeks in one or more newspapers circulating in the locality of the supply<sup>12</sup>.

A local authority must consult<sup>13</sup> the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers before exercising any such power of relaxation in relation to a specified class<sup>14</sup> of private supply<sup>15</sup>. Authorisations granted under the above provisions relating to private supplies are subject to other prescribed restrictions<sup>16</sup>, may include prescribed conditions<sup>17</sup> and may be modified or revoked<sup>18</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 As to the transfer of the functions of the Secretary of State under the Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 373 note 2, the position there stated applying by virtue of the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 3.

3 As to the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 118 note 17.

4 As to the meaning of 'written' see PARA 22 note 1.

5 The relevant persons, in relation to a private supply of water to any premises in the area of a local authority are: (1) the owners and occupiers of those premises; and (2) whether or not the source of the private supply is in that authority's area, the owners and occupiers of the premises where that source is situated and any other person who exercises powers of management or control in relation to that source: Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 2(2). As to the meaning of 'private supply' see PARA 377 note 1. As to the meaning of 'owner' see PARA 22 note 9. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

10 Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 4(1)(d). As to the meaning of 'food production purposes' see PARA 338 note 44.

13 As to the exercise of the duty to consult see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 627.

14 le a class A, B, 1 or 2 supply. Any reference to a class followed by: (1) a letter, is a reference to a class of a category one supply; (2) a number, is a reference to a class of a category two supply: Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 2(3)(a). 'Category one supply' has the meaning given by reg 9 (see PARA 407); and 'category two supply' has the meaning given by reg 10 (see PARA 407): reg 2(1).

15 Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 4(4). A local authority which is so required to consult the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must comply with such directions as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may give in relation to the supply in question as to: (1) the transmission to him or to the Welsh Ministers for determination of any application made to the authority; (2) the imposition of conditions on the grant of an authorisation; (3) the refusal of an application; or (4) the revocation or modification of an authorisation: reg 4(5). A local authority which grants an authorisation under reg 4(1)(a) (see head (1) in the text), under reg 4(1)(b) or (c) (see head (2) or (3) in the text) in relation to a class A or 1 supply, or under reg 4(1)(d) (see head (4) in the text) must forthwith send a copy of that authorisation to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers: reg 4(6). A local authority may exercise the powers conferred by reg 4(1) or (2) (see the text to notes 1-11) only if some or all of the premises served by the private supply are within its area; and, where only some of those premises are within its area, only if the powers are exercised jointly with, or with the consent of, any other local authority in whose area the rest of those premises are situated: reg 4(7). As to the meaning of 'modifications' see PARA 141 note 20.

16 An authorisation: (1) granted under the Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 4(1) (a) (see head (1) in the text) must not so relax the provisions of Pt II (reg 3) (see PARA 377) as to give rise to a risk to public health which the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers or, as the case may be, the local authority considers unacceptable; (2) granted under reg 4(1)(b) or (c) (see head (2) or (3) in the text) must not relax the provisions of that Part so far as they relate to parameters mentioned in Sch 2 Table B or C or Sch 2 Table D item 7, or so as to give rise to a public health hazard; (3) granted under reg 4(1)(d) (see head (4) in the text) must not relax the provisions of that Part so as to affect the fitness for human consumption of food or drink in its finished form: reg 5(1). An authorisation must specify the extent to which the prescribed concentration or value for any parameter is authorised to be contravened: reg 5(2). An authorisation granted under reg 4(1)(a) or (b) must specify the date on which it ceases to have effect, and an authorisation granted under reg 4(1)(c) or (d) may specify such a date: reg 5(3). As to the meaning of 'parameter' see PARA 377 note 6. As to the meaning of 'prescribed concentration or value' see PARA 377 note 10.

17 An authorisation may include conditions relating to: (1) the quality of water to which the authorisation applies; (2) the steps to be taken to improve the quality of the water; (3) the monitoring of the quality of the water; and (4) the giving of notice of such matters concerning the water as are mentioned in the authorisation to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, the local authority or any other person named in the authorisation: Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 6.

18 Subject to the Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 7(2)-(5), the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, or a local authority, may at any time modify or revoke an authorisation (whether or not the authorisation is expressed to be granted for a specified period); and regs 4-6 (see the text to notes 1-17) apply with suitable adaptations in relation to the modification of an authorisation: reg 7(1). The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, or a local authority may not revoke or modify an authorisation without giving at least six months' notice of the intention to do so by: (1) serving notice of the revocation or modification on any relevant person on whose application the authorisation was granted; (2) publishing a notice of the revocation or modification in such manner as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers or, as the case may be, the authority, considers appropriate for bringing it to the attention of relevant persons; and (3) in the case of a modification or revocation by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, by serving a copy of the notice on the appropriate local authority; but the Secretary of State, Welsh Ministers or local authority may revoke or modify an authorisation without notice if it appears to him or them that the immediate revocation or modification of the authorisation is required in the interests of public health: reg 7(2). For these purposes, 'appropriate local authority' means any local authority whose area includes any premises in relation to which the authorisation applies: reg 7(3). A person on whose application an authorisation has been granted must notify the Secretary of State, Welsh Ministers or local authority as soon as he is aware that the circumstances which gave rise to the application for the authorisation cease to exist; and, notwithstanding reg 7(2), the Secretary of State, Welsh Ministers or local authority must thereupon revoke the authorisation: reg 7(4). Nothing in reg 7 permits a local authority to modify or revoke an authorisation granted by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers: reg 7(5). As to the meaning of 'month' see PARA 23 note 10. As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1.

379 Relaxation of wholesomeness requirements with regard to a private supply

TEXT AND NOTES--SI 1991/2790 replaced, in relation to England, by the Private Water Supplies Regulations 2009, SI 2009/3101, and in relation to Wales, by the Private Water Supplies (Wales) Regulations 2010, SI 2010/66 (amended by SI 2010/147, SI 2010/1384).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/(B) Prescribed Standards of Wholesomeness/380. Investigations and remedial action by water undertaker.

380. Investigations and remedial action by water undertaker.

Where a water undertaker<sup>1</sup> or combined licensee<sup>2</sup> has reason to believe that water of a relevant description<sup>3</sup>:

- 849 (1) fails, or is likely to fail, to satisfy a prescribed requirement<sup>4</sup> with regard to wholesomeness of water supply<sup>5</sup>; or
- 850 (2) is to be regarded<sup>6</sup> as unwholesome<sup>7</sup>; or
- 851 (3) would, if the prescribed exception<sup>8</sup> were ignored, be regarded<sup>9</sup> as unwholesome<sup>10</sup>, the water undertaker or combined licensee must immediately take such steps as are necessary to identify the following matters<sup>11</sup>. Those matters are: (a) the cause and extent of the failure or, as the case may be, the apprehended failure<sup>12</sup>; (b) the Schedule 1 parameters<sup>13</sup> in respect of which the prescribed concentration or value<sup>14</sup> has not been, or is unlikely to be, achieved<sup>15</sup>; and (c) in relation to each parameter so identified, whether the failure, or apprehended failure, to achieve the prescribed concentration or value is attributable to the domestic distribution system<sup>16</sup>, to the maintenance of that system or to neither of those matters<sup>17</sup>.

Where a departure from the requirements with regard to wholesomeness of water supply has been authorised<sup>18</sup>, the above requirements apply only in respect of the Schedule 1 parameters (if any) that are not specified in the authorisation<sup>19</sup>; and every water undertaker or combined licensee which has reason to believe that water of a relevant description fails, or is likely to fail, to satisfy the concentration or value required by the authorisation in relation to any Schedule 1 parameter, must immediately take such steps as are necessary to identify the following matters<sup>20</sup>. Those matters are: (i) the cause and extent of the failure or, as the case may be, the apprehended failure<sup>21</sup>; (ii) the Schedule 1 parameters in respect of which the required concentration or value has not been, or is unlikely to be, achieved<sup>22</sup>; and (iii) in relation to each parameter so identified, whether the failure, or apprehended failure, to achieve that concentration or value is attributable to the domestic distribution system, to the maintenance of that system or to neither of those matters<sup>23</sup>.

As soon as may be after the matters specified in heads (a) to (c) or heads (i) to (iii) above, as the case may be, have been identified, the water undertaker or combined licensee must notify the Secretary of State<sup>24</sup>, or in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>25</sup> of the specified matters<sup>26</sup> and send a copy of that notice to any other relevant supplier which uses the supply system for the purposes of supplying water to consumers who are likely to be affected by the failure<sup>27</sup>. Where the water undertaker or combined licensee has identified a failure attributable to the domestic distribution system or to the maintenance of such a system, it must, at the same time as such notification is given, by notice in writing to those of its consumers who are likely to be affected by the failure, and to any other relevant supplier which uses the supply system for the purposes of supplying water to consumers who are likely to be affected by the failure, inform them of the nature of the failure and provide details of the steps (if any) that, in its opinion, it is necessary or desirable for those consumers to take in the interests of their health<sup>28</sup>. It must also send a copy of that notice to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, to the Welsh Ministers and to each appropriate local authority<sup>29</sup>.

Where a notification given in accordance with the above provisions in the circumstances mentioned in heads (1) to (3) above<sup>30</sup> discloses a failure in respect of a specified parameter<sup>31</sup> and that the failure is not attributable to the domestic distribution system or the maintenance of that system,<sup>32</sup> and it appears to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers that the failure is not trivial and is likely to recur<sup>33</sup>, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may, by notice in writing to any relevant supplier which uses the supply system for the purposes of supplying water to consumers in respect of which the notification was given, require that relevant supplier to seek<sup>34</sup> a departure from the requirements as to wholesomeness of supply<sup>35</sup>. Similarly, where a notification given in accordance with the above provisions in the circumstances where a departure from the requirements as to wholesomeness of supply has been authorised<sup>36</sup> discloses a failure in relation to any specified parameter<sup>37</sup> and that the failure is not attributable to the domestic distribution system or the maintenance of that system<sup>38</sup>, and it appears to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers that the failure in respect of that parameter is not trivial and is likely to recur<sup>39</sup>, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must consider whether the terms of the authorisation should be modified<sup>40</sup>.

Where a water undertaker or combined licensee has reason to believe that water of a relevant description<sup>41</sup> does not meet the specifications for indicator parameters<sup>42</sup>, it must take such steps as are necessary to identify:

- 852 (A) the reason why the specifications are not met<sup>43</sup>;
- 853 (B) the indicator parameters in respect of which the specifications are not met<sup>44</sup>; and
- 854 (C) if the specification for the coliform bacteria or colony count parameter<sup>45</sup> is not met, whether the inability to meet that specification is attributable to the domestic distribution system, to the maintenance of that system or to neither of those matters<sup>46</sup>.

As soon as may be after the matters specified in heads (A) to (C) above have been identified, the water undertaker or combined licensee must notify the Secretary of State, or as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers of those matters, and whether it is its opinion that, in relation to each parameter identified in accordance with head (B), a recurrence of the inability to meet the specification in respect of that parameter is likely<sup>47</sup>. The water undertaker or combined licensee must also send a copy of that notice to any other relevant supplier which uses the supply system for the purposes of supplying water to consumers who are likely to be affected by the failure<sup>48</sup>. Where, in a case to which head (C) above applies, the inability to meet the specification has been identified as attributable to the domestic distribution system or to the maintenance of that system, the water undertaker or combined licensee must, at the same time as such notification is given, by notice in writing to those of its consumers who are likely to be affected by the failure, and to any other relevant supplier which uses the supply system for the purposes of supplying water to consumers who are likely to be affected by the failure, inform them of the nature of the failure and provide details of the steps (if any) that, in its opinion, it is necessary or desirable for those consumers to take in the interests of their health<sup>49</sup>. A copy of that notice must also be sent to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers and to each appropriate local authority<sup>50</sup>. Where such an inability<sup>51</sup> is, in the opinion of the water undertaker or combined licensee, likely to affect the supply of water to the public in premises in which water is so supplied, it must, at the same time as notice is given to its consumers, notify such persons as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may from time to time determine for these purposes of the matters of which notice is so given to consumers<sup>52</sup>.

Any duty or requirement imposed by these provisions on a relevant supplier is enforceable<sup>53</sup> by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers, or the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>54</sup>, whether or not it constitutes an offence<sup>55</sup>.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/(B) Prescribed Standards of Wholesomeness/381. Monitoring of supplies.

381. Monitoring of supplies.

For the purpose of determining whether water<sup>1</sup> satisfies the requirements as to wholesomeness of supply<sup>2</sup> or, if a departure has been authorised<sup>3</sup> in relation to that supply, those requirements as read with the terms of that authorisation, a water undertaker<sup>4</sup> must take, or cause to be taken, and analyse<sup>5</sup>, or cause to be analysed, not less than the specified number<sup>6</sup> of samples of the water within each of the water supply zones<sup>7</sup> which it supplies<sup>8</sup>.

Where the distribution of water in any part of a water supply zone is by tanker and is or is likely to be an intermittent short-term supply, samples of water from each tanker from which water is distributed must be taken 48 hours after the commencement of the distribution from that tanker and every 48 hours thereafter until the distribution is discontinued<sup>9</sup>. Except in such a case, the specified Schedule 1 parameters<sup>10</sup> and the indicator parameters<sup>11</sup> must be subject either to check monitoring<sup>12</sup> or to audit monitoring<sup>13</sup>. The copper, lead and nickel parameters and the parameters relevant to radioactivity (total indicative dose and tritium), must be monitored in such manner as the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may determine from time to time and specify by notice in writing<sup>14</sup> given to each water undertaker<sup>15</sup>.

Except in relation to water supplied from a tanker, sampling points<sup>16</sup> in respect of every parameter, other than a parameter for which samples are taken from an authorised supply point, must be selected at random unless, by notice in writing to a water undertaker (whether or not on the application of the undertaker), the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers otherwise determines<sup>17</sup>. Provision is made in relation to the number of samples to be taken<sup>18</sup>. As soon as a relevant supplier has reasonable grounds for believing that any element, organism or substance, other than residual disinfectant or a parameter, whether alone or in combination with a parameter or any other element, organism or substance, may cause the supply within any of the water supply zones which it supplies to be a supply which does not satisfy the requirements for wholesomeness of supply<sup>19</sup> or, if a departure has been authorised<sup>20</sup>, those provisions as read with the terms of that authorisation, it must take, or cause to be taken, sufficient samples from water within that zone, whether from a service reservoir, a treatment works or otherwise, in respect of that element, organism or substance, in order to establish whether that water is wholesome<sup>21</sup>.

For the purposes of establishing the quality of water to be supplied to any of its water supply zones, a water undertaker must take, or cause to be taken, and analyse, or cause to be analysed, not less than the specified number of samples<sup>22</sup>; and for the purposes of establishing the quality of water to be supplied in any supply system<sup>23</sup> into which a combined licensee introduces water, a combined licensee must take, or cause to be taken, and analyse, or cause to be analysed, not less than the specified number of samples<sup>24</sup>. Separate provision is made with regard to sampling at treatment works<sup>25</sup>, at service reservoirs<sup>26</sup> and at new sources<sup>27</sup>.

Every water undertaker or combined licensee must secure, so far as is reasonably practicable, that in taking, handling, transporting, storing and analysing any sample required to be taken under these provisions, or causing any such sample to be taken, handled, transported, stored and analysed, the appropriate requirements are satisfied<sup>28</sup>. Every water undertaker or combined licensee must maintain such records as are sufficient to enable it to establish, in relation to each such sample taken, that such of the appropriate requirements as are applicable to that sample have been satisfied<sup>29</sup>.

Every water undertaker or combined licensee must identify every point from which it abstracts water<sup>30</sup> for supply<sup>31</sup>; and at every such abstraction point, the relevant water undertaker or combined licensee must take, or cause to be taken such samples, and analyse, or cause to be analysed, those samples for such properties, organisms and substances as it considers necessary in order to comply with the provisions relating to water treatment<sup>32</sup>. In relation to any abstraction point, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may, by notice served on the relevant water undertaker or combined licensee, require the relevant water undertaker or combined licensee to take, or cause to be taken such numbers of samples of water per year as may be specified, and to analyse, or cause to be analysed, those samples for such concentrations or values of such properties, organisms and substances as may be specified and at such frequencies as may be specified<sup>33</sup>. Specific provision is made as to the frequency at which analysis is to take place<sup>34</sup>.

Any duty or requirement imposed by these provisions on a relevant supplier is enforceable<sup>35</sup> by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers, or the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>36</sup>, whether or not it constitutes an offence<sup>37</sup>.

The monitoring of private supplies is the duty of the local authority<sup>38</sup>.

1 The Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, Pt IV (regs 5-10) and the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, Pt IV (regs 5-10) (see the text to notes 2-21) apply to water supplied for regulation 4(1) purposes by a relevant supplier in the performance of its duties under the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt III Ch III (ss 67-86A) (quality and sufficiency of supplies): Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 5(3); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 5(3) (in both cases reg 5(3) substituted, (4) added by SI 2005/2035). As to the meaning of 'regulation 4(1) purposes' see PARA 376 note 2. As to the meaning of 'relevant supplier' see PARA 376 note 21.

As to the application of the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, and the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, see PARA 376 note 1.

2 Ie the requirements of the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, Pt III (reg 4) or, as the case may be, the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, Pt III (reg 4): see PARA 376.

Regulations 5-9 of the appropriate regulations apply to a combined licensee in relation to samples taken from supply points as they apply to a water undertaker, but only in so far as the combined licensee is introducing water into a water supply zone in which the water undertaker takes samples under Pt IV (regs 5-10) (to the extent authorised by or under reg 8: see note 17) from supply points: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 5(4); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 5(4) (both as added: see note 1). As to the meaning of 'combined licensee' see PARA 378 note 4. 'Supply point' means a blending point, service reservoir, treatment works or other point, not being a sampling point, which the Secretary of State in relation to the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, or the Welsh Ministers in relation to the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, authorise for the purposes of reg 6 of the appropriate regulations: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 2(1); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 2(1). 'Blending point' means a point at which waters originating from two or more sources and treated for the purposes of their supply for regulation 4(1) purposes are combined under conditions that are designed to secure that, after such combination, the requirements of reg 4(2) (see PARA 376) of the appropriate regulations are met: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 2(1); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 2(1). As to the meaning of 'service reservoir' see PARA 376 note 22. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. Functions under the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, which were originally vested in the National Assembly for Wales are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers by virtue of the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

11 As to the meaning of 'indicator parameter' see PARA 380 note 42.

12 'Check monitoring' means monitoring for the purpose of obtaining information at regular intervals: (1) as to the organoleptic and microbiological quality of water; and (2) where relevant, as to the effectiveness of drinking-water treatment (particularly of disinfection), for the purpose of determining (a) as regards the parameters listed in Tables A and B in Sch 1 to the appropriate regulations, whether water supplied for regulation 4(1) purposes satisfies the provisions of Pt III of the appropriate regulations or, if a departure has been authorised under Pt VI of the appropriate regulations in relation to that supply, those provisions as read with the terms of that departure; and (b) as regards indicator parameters, whether water supplied for regulation 4(1) purposes meets the specifications for those parameters: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 5(2); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 5(2). 'Disinfection' means a process of water treatment to remove, or to render harmless to human health, every pathogenic micro-organism and pathogenic parasite that would otherwise be present in the water; and 'disinfected' is to be construed accordingly: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 2(1); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 2(1) (in each case definition substituted by SI 2007/2734).

13 See the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 6(2), (5); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 6(2), (5). 'Audit monitoring' means monitoring for the purpose of obtaining information from which it may be established: (1) as regards the parameters listed in Tables A and B in Sch 1 to the appropriate regulations, whether water supplied for regulation 4(1) purposes satisfies the provisions of Pt III of those regulations or, if a departure has been authorised under Pt VI of those regulations in relation to that supply, those provisions as read with the terms of that departure; and (2) as regards indicator parameters, whether water supplied for regulation 4(1) purposes meets the specifications for those parameters: see the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 5(1); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 5(1).

14 As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1.

15 Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 6(6); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 6(6). In certain cases, however, water need not be monitored in relation to radioactivity: see the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 6(7)-(9); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 6(7)-(9) (in each case reg 6(9) amended by SI 2005/2035).

16 'Sampling point': (1) in relation to water supplied from a distribution network, means a point, being a consumer's tap, that is selected for the purposes of Pt IV (regs 5-10) of the appropriate regulations; (2) in relation to water supplied from a tanker, means the point at which the water emerges from the tanker: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 2(1); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 2(1). ### 381 Monitoring of supplies

NOTE 38--SI 1991/2790 replaced, in relation to England, by the Private Water Supplies Regulations 2009, SI 2009/3101, and in relation to Wales, by the Private Water Supplies (Wales) Regulations 2010, SI 2010/66 (amended by SI 2010/147, SI 2010/1384).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/ (C) Water Treatment/382. Disinfection and other treatment arrangements.

(C) WATER TREATMENT

382. Disinfection and other treatment arrangements.

Unless the statutory conditions are satisfied, before supplying water for the specified purposes<sup>1</sup>, a water undertaker<sup>2</sup> or combined licensee<sup>3</sup> must disinfect<sup>4</sup> the water<sup>5</sup> and, where necessary, subject the water to sufficient preliminary treatment<sup>6</sup> to prepare it for disinfection<sup>7</sup>. When any property, organism or substance is present in a water source at a level that may constitute a potential danger to human health<sup>8</sup>, then, unless the statutory conditions are satisfied, before supplying water for the specified purposes using water from any source, a water undertaker or combined licensee must design and continuously operate an adequate treatment process<sup>9</sup> for water from the source<sup>10</sup>.

The statutory conditions are that the water undertaker or combined licensee: (1) must supply water from the treatment works as a matter of urgency in order to prevent an unexpected interruption in piped supply to consumers<sup>11</sup>; and (2) before the supply is made, has taken all necessary steps to inform consumers that the water is not disinfected or adequately treated<sup>12</sup>.

1     le for regulation 4(1) purposes. For the purposes of reg 26 in the appropriate regulations, water is supplied for regulation 4(1) purposes when it leaves a treatment works: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 26(5)(c); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 26(5)(b)(iii) (in each case reg 26 substituted by SI 2007/3374). As to the meaning of 'regulation 4(1) purposes' see PARA 376 note 2. As to the application of the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, and the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, see PARA 376 note 1.

6     'Sufficient preliminary treatment' means the treatment necessary: (1) to remove, or to reduce the value or concentration of, any property or substance which would interfere with disinfection; and (2) to reduce turbidity to less than one Nephelometric Turbidity Unit: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 26(5)(b); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 26(5)(b) (both as substituted: see note 1). 9     'Adequate treatment process' means a process of blending or purification treatment which removes, or renders harmless the value or concentration of, any property of, organism or substance in, water, so that supplies do not constitute a potential danger to human health: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 26(5)(a); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 26(5)(a) (both as substituted: see note 1).

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/ (C) Water Treatment/383. Risk assessment.

383. Risk assessment.

In relation to every treatment works and supply system<sup>1</sup> from which water is supplied for the specified<sup>2</sup> purposes<sup>3</sup>, every water undertaker<sup>4</sup> or combined licensee<sup>5</sup> must carry out a risk assessment of each of its treatment works and connected supply system in order to establish whether there is a significant risk of supplying water from those works or supply system that would constitute a potential danger to human health<sup>6</sup>. Every water undertaker or combined licensee must keep its risk assessments under review<sup>7</sup>. Where a water undertaker or combined licensee becomes aware of any factors which make it likely that a risk assessment under these provisions would establish that there is a significant risk of supplying water that would constitute a potential danger to human health, it must serve a notice on the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers specifying the relevant factors<sup>8</sup>.

As soon as reasonably practicable after a water undertaker or combined licensee has carried out a risk assessment or review of such assessment under the above provisions, it must submit to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers a report of the assessment or review<sup>9</sup>. The report must contain: (1) a description of the methods used to carry out the assessment or review<sup>10</sup>; (2) where the assessment or review establishes that there is no significant risk of supplying water that would constitute a potential danger to human health, a statement confirming this<sup>11</sup>; and (3) where the assessment or review establishes that measures have been taken to remove a significant risk of supplying water that would constitute a potential danger to human health monitoring data which verifies this and details of those measures<sup>12</sup>. Where the assessment or review establishes that there is a significant risk of supplying water that would constitute a potential danger to human health, the report must: (a) contain a full explanation including details of every property, organism or substance<sup>13</sup> that has been identified as contributing to the risk<sup>14</sup>; and (b) specify the measures that the water undertaker or combined licensee has made operational as at the date of the report, and intends to make operational, to mitigate the risk<sup>15</sup>.

Where the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers receive a report which states that there is or has been a significant risk of supplying water that would constitute a potential danger to human health, he or they may, by notice served on the water undertaker or combined licensee, require the water undertaker or combined licensee:

- 855 (i) to maintain such specified<sup>16</sup> measures for such period of time as the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers consider appropriate to mitigate the risk<sup>17</sup>;
- 856 (ii) to review, revise or make operational such specified measures by such date as the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers consider appropriate to mitigate the risk<sup>18</sup>;
- 857 (iii) to audit whether the measures have been effective by such means as may be specified<sup>19</sup>;
- 858 (iv) not to supply water<sup>20</sup> from specified treatment works or supply systems, or not to so supply unless specified conditions are satisfied<sup>21</sup>; and
- 859 (v) to give the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers such information as he or they may require to monitor progress towards mitigation of that risk<sup>22</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may, by notice served on the relevant water undertaker or combined licensee, revoke or amend such a notice<sup>23</sup>.

Any duty or requirement imposed by these provisions on a relevant supplier<sup>24</sup> is enforceable<sup>25</sup> by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers<sup>26</sup>, or the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>27</sup>, whether or not it constitutes an offence<sup>28</sup>.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/ (C) Water Treatment/384. Contamination from pipes.

384. Contamination from pipes.

Where there is a risk (the 'prescribed risk') that water supplied by a relevant supplier<sup>1</sup> would:

- 860 (1) for the reason that there is the presence in the water of a concentration of copper or lead which is attributable to the fact that copper or lead is the major component of a pipe<sup>2</sup> which is subject to pressure from a water main<sup>3</sup> or which would be so subject but for the closing of some valve, or its associated fittings<sup>4</sup>; and
- 861 (2) after leaving the relevant supplier's pipes, contain a concentration of copper or lead which exceeds the prescribed concentration<sup>5</sup>;

every water undertaker<sup>6</sup> or combined licensee<sup>7</sup> which introduces water into the supply system<sup>8</sup> used by the relevant supplier must treat the water in such a way as will, in its opinion, eliminate the prescribed risk or reduce it to a minimum<sup>9</sup>. These provisions do not, however, require a water undertaker or combined licensee to treat water if the treatment is unlikely to achieve a significant reduction in the concentration of copper or lead<sup>10</sup>, or if treatment is not reasonably practicable<sup>11</sup>.

Where at any time in the period beginning with 25 December 2003 and ending immediately before 25 December 2013, a relevant supplier has reason to believe that water supplied by it for the prescribed purposes<sup>12</sup> from a pipe:

- 862 (a) of which the major component is lead<sup>13</sup>;
- 863 (b) which is subject to water pressure from a water main or would be so subject but for the closing of some valve<sup>14</sup>; and
- 864 (c) which belongs, as to part, to a relevant supplier and, as to the remainder, to the owner<sup>15</sup> of any premises to which the relevant supplier supplies water for the prescribed purposes<sup>16</sup>, contains, at the consumer's<sup>17</sup> tap, a concentration of lead which exceeds the lower but does not exceed the higher prescribed concentration<sup>18</sup>, and the undertaker has received from the owner of premises to which water is so supplied notice in writing<sup>19</sup> of the owner's intention to replace so much of the pipe as belongs to him and of his desire that the relevant supplier replaces the remainder of the pipe<sup>20</sup>, the relevant supplier must modify or replace its part of the pipe<sup>21</sup>.

Any duty or requirement imposed by these provisions on a relevant supplier is enforceable<sup>22</sup> by the Secretary of State<sup>23</sup> or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers<sup>24</sup>, or the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>25</sup>, whether or not it constitutes an offence<sup>26</sup>.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/ (C) Water Treatment/385. Application and introduction of substances and products.

385. Application and introduction of substances and products.

Subject to certain exceptions<sup>1</sup>, a water undertaker<sup>2</sup> or combined licensee<sup>3</sup> must not apply any substance or product to, or introduce any substance or product into, water which is to be supplied for the prescribed purposes<sup>4</sup> unless one of the following requirements is satisfied<sup>5</sup>. The requirements are:

- 865 (1) that the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers have for the time being approved the application or introduction of that substance or product and it is applied or introduced in accordance with any conditions attaching to that approval<sup>6</sup>;
- 866 (2) that the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers are satisfied that the substance or product either alone or in combination with any other substance or product in the water is unlikely to affect adversely the quality of the water supplied<sup>7</sup>;
- 867 (3) that the substance or product is to be applied or introduced solely for the purposes of testing or research, and the water undertaker or combined licensee has given to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers not less than three months<sup>8</sup> notice in writing of its intention so to apply or introduce the substance or product<sup>9</sup>.

Where substances or products are applied or introduced in any case in which the requirement mentioned in head (3) above is satisfied, their application or introduction must be discontinued within 12 months of the date on which they were first applied or introduced or, if the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers by notice given in writing to the water undertaker or combined licensee so direct, within such other period, whether longer or shorter, as may be specified in the notice<sup>10</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may, by notice given in writing to any water undertaker or combined licensee, prohibit it from applying to, or introducing into, water intended to be supplied for the prescribed purposes any substance or product which the undertaker or combined licensee would otherwise be authorised<sup>11</sup> to apply or introduce<sup>12</sup>. Such a prohibition may be without limitation as to time or for such period as is specified in the notice<sup>13</sup>. The Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may:

- 868 (a) revoke by an instrument in writing any approval given under head (1) above<sup>14</sup>;
- 869 (b) modify any such approval by an instrument in writing by including conditions or varying existing conditions<sup>15</sup>;
- 870 (c) give any such prohibition notice<sup>16</sup>;

but may not, unless satisfied that it is necessary to do so in the interests of public health without notice, do any of those things without giving all such persons as are, in the opinion of the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers likely to be affected by the revocation or modification of the approval or by the giving of the notice at least six months' notice in writing of his or their intention<sup>17</sup>.

At least once in each year beginning with the year 2004, the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers must issue a list of all the substances and products in relation to which:

- 871 (i) an approval under head (1) above has been granted or refused<sup>18</sup>;
- 872 (ii) such an approval has been revoked or modified<sup>19</sup>;
- 873 (iii) a prohibition notice<sup>20</sup> has been given<sup>21</sup>, with particulars of the action taken<sup>22</sup>.

Any duty or requirement imposed by these provisions on a relevant supplier<sup>23</sup> is enforceable<sup>24</sup> by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers, or the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>25</sup>, whether or not it constitutes an offence<sup>26</sup>.

1 A substance or product which, at the time of its application or introduction, bears an appropriate CE marking in accordance with the Directive, or conforms to: (1) an appropriate harmonised standard or European technical approval; or (2) an appropriate British Standard or some other national standard of a relevant state which provides an equivalent level of protection and performance, may, however, be applied or introduced, notwithstanding that none of the requirements of heads (1)-(3) in the text is satisfied; but any such application or introduction is subject to: (a) such national conditions of use restricting the dosing concentration as are for the time being in force in relation to such substances and products pursuant to a determination of the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers, by an instrument in writing; and (b) such other requirements, within the meaning of European Parliament and EC Council Directive 98/34 (OJ L204, 21.07.98, p 37) (which lays down a procedure for the provision of information in the field of technical standards and regulations and of rules on Information Society Services) as amended from time to time, in relation to such substances and products, as have been communicated to the Commission in the form of a draft technical regulation in accordance with art 8 of that Directive, and whose adoption by a member state has also been communicated to the Commission: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 31(3); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 31(3) (both amended by SI 2007/2734). As to the meaning of 'substance' see PARA 367 note 21. As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. Functions under the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, were originally vested in the National Assembly for Wales and are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers by virtue of the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. An application for such an approval may be made by any person: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 31(5); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 31(5). If the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers decides to issue such an approval, he or they may include in the approval such conditions as he or they consider appropriate and, subject to reg 31(10) of the appropriate regulations (see the text to notes 14-17), may at any time revoke or vary any approval previously given: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 31(6); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 31(6). The Secretary of State or, as the case may be, Welsh Ministers may, by notice served on the person who makes such an application for approval, require the person to pay a charge which reflects the administrative expenses incurred or likely to be incurred by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers in connection with the application; and in determining the amount of any such charge, may adopt such methods and principles for its calculation as appear to him or them to be appropriate: Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/3184, reg 31(13); Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/3911, reg 31(13) (both added by SI 2007/3374). WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/ (C) Water Treatment/386. Use of processes.

386. Use of processes.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> may at any time by notice in writing<sup>3</sup> given to a water undertaker<sup>4</sup> or combined licensee<sup>5</sup> require it to make an application to him or them for approval of the use of any process; and may prohibit it for such period as may be specified in the notice from using any such process in connection with the supply by it of water for the prescribed<sup>6</sup> purposes<sup>7</sup>. The Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may refuse the application or impose on any approval given for these purposes such conditions as he or they think fit, and may at any time by notice in writing to the water undertaker or combined licensee revoke an approval so given or modify or revoke any condition imposed by virtue of this provision<sup>8</sup>. However, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may not revoke any approval given for these purposes, modify any condition so imposed, or prohibit a water undertaker or combined licensee from using any process, unless he or they have given to the water undertaker or combined licensee at least six months<sup>9</sup> notice in writing of the intention to revoke, modify or prohibit, as the case may be<sup>10</sup>; but this does not apply in any case in which the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers are of the opinion that the immediate revocation, modification or prohibition is necessary in the interests of public health<sup>11</sup>.

At least once in each year beginning with the year 2004, the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers must issue a list of all the processes in relation to which:

- 874 (1) an approval under the above provisions has been granted or refused;
- 875 (2) such an approval has been revoked or modified;
- 876 (3) a notice<sup>12</sup> has been given,

with particulars of the action taken<sup>13</sup>.

(D) OFFENCES

387. Offences in relation to water treatment.

A water undertaker or combined licensee which applies or introduces any substance or product in contravention of the prescribed restrictions<sup>8</sup> or of a prohibition notice given with respect thereto<sup>9</sup>, or which uses any process in contravention of a prohibition imposed<sup>10</sup> or without complying with a condition imposed with respect thereto<sup>11</sup>, is guilty of an offence<sup>12</sup>.

If any person<sup>13</sup>, in furnishing any information<sup>14</sup> or making any application in respect of the provisions relating to the contamination of pipes or the introduction of substances and products<sup>15</sup>, makes any statement which he knows to be false in a material particular, or recklessly makes any statement which is false in a material particular, he is guilty of an offence<sup>16</sup>. Proceedings for this offence may not be instituted except by or with the consent of the Secretary of State<sup>17</sup> or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers<sup>18</sup>, or of the Director of Public Prosecutions<sup>19</sup>.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/(D) Offences/388. Offence of supplying water unfit for human consumption.

388. Offence of supplying water unfit for human consumption.

Where a water undertaker's supply system<sup>1</sup> is used for the purposes of supplying water to any premises and that water is unfit for human consumption<sup>2</sup>, the relevant persons<sup>3</sup> are guilty of an offence<sup>4</sup>. In any proceedings against any relevant person for such an offence it is a defence for that person to show that it:

877 (1) had no reasonable grounds for suspecting that the water would be used for human consumption<sup>5</sup>; or

878 (2) took all reasonable steps and exercised all due diligence<sup>6</sup> for securing that the water was fit for human consumption on leaving the primary water undertaker's pipes or was not used for human consumption<sup>7</sup>.

Proceedings for an offence under these provisions may not be instituted except by the Secretary of State<sup>8</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>9</sup>, or by the Director of Public Prosecutions<sup>10</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'supply system of a water undertaker' see PARA 319 note 8. As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

2 There is no statutory definition of 'unfit for human consumption.' It would appear that a standard below that of 'wholesome' is envisaged. As to the prescribed standards of wholesomeness see PARA 376 et seq.

3 The relevant persons are: (1) the water undertaker whose supply system is used for the purposes of supplying the water (referred to as the 'primary water undertaker'); and (2) any employer of persons, or any self-employed person, who is concerned in the supply of the water: Water Industry Act 1991 s 70(1A) (added by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 20(1), (3)). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

4 Water Industry Act 1991 s 70(1) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 20(1), (2)). The penalty for such an offence is, on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding £20,000; or, on conviction on indictment, a fine: Water Industry Act 1991 s 70(1)(a), (b) (s 70(1)(a) amended by the Water Act 2003 s 61(1)). For the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 210 (see PARA 185) and any other enactment under which an individual is guilty of an offence by virtue of s 70(1) the penalty on conviction on indictment of an offence under s 70 is deemed to include imprisonment (in addition to or instead of a fine) for a term not exceeding two years: s 70(2). As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31. As to the factors to be considered by the court when determining the level of fine for such an offence in the case of a conviction on indictment see R v Yorkshire Water Services Ltd [2001] EWCA Crim 2635, [2002] 2 Cr App Rep (S) 37, [2001] All ER (D) 250 (Nov); considered in R v Anglian Water Services Ltd [2003] EWCA Crim 2243, [2004] 1 Cr App Rep (S) 374, sub nom Hart v Anglian Water Services Ltd [2003] All ER (D) 551 (Jul).

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 70(3)(a).

6 For these purposes: (1) in the case of proceedings against a primary water undertaker, showing that the undertaker took all reasonable steps and exercised all due diligence includes (among other things) showing that the relevant arrangements were reasonable in all the circumstances; and (2) in the case of proceedings against any other relevant person, showing that the person took all reasonable steps and exercised all due diligence includes (among other things) showing that it took all reasonable steps and exercised all due diligence for securing that all aspects of the relevant arrangements for which it was responsible were properly carried out: Water Industry Act 1991 s 70(3A) (s 70(3A), (3B): added by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 20(1), (5)). 'Relevant arrangements' means arrangements made by the primary water undertaker to ensure that all other relevant persons were required to take all reasonable steps and exercise all due diligence for securing that the water was fit for human consumption on leaving the undertaker's pipes or was not used for human consumption: Water Industry Act 1991 s 70(3B) (as so added). As to the meaning of 'pipe' see PARA 138 note 11. As to the vesting of pipes in the undertaker see PARA 464.

7 Water Industry Act 1991 s 70(3)(b) (s 70(3) amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 20(1), (4)(c)). In practice the undertaker would issue a warning to the effect that the water was not fit for human consumption.

8 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. The Drinking Water Inspectorate must carry out such investigations as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may require it to carry out for the purpose of ascertaining whether any duty or other requirement as to water quality imposed on a relevant person under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 70 is being, has been or is likely to be contravened, or advising the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers as to whether, and if so in what manner, any of the powers of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers in relation to such a contravention should be exercised: see s 86(2); and PARA 126. The Inspectorate's prosecution policy is available on the Inspectorate's website at www.dwi.gov.uk.

9 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 70 were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: (1) in relation to any water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales; (2) in relation to any licensed water supplier so far as relating to licensed activities using the supply system of any such water undertaker; and (3) in relation to any other person who is a relevant person in relation to any such undertaker or licensed water supplier: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1 (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 100(2)(d)). These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

(E) RECORDS AND INFORMATION

389. Maintenance of records.

Every water undertaker<sup>1</sup> or combined licensee<sup>2</sup> must, in respect of each of the water supply zones<sup>3</sup> which it uses for the purposes of supplying water to consumers<sup>4</sup>, prepare and maintain a record containing<sup>5</sup>:

- 879 (1) the name of the zone<sup>6</sup>;
- 880 (2) the name of every water treatment works, service reservoir<sup>7</sup> and other supply point<sup>8</sup> from which water is supplied to premises within the zone<sup>9</sup>;
- 881 (3) an estimate of the population of the zone<sup>10</sup>;
- 882 (4) particulars of any departure from the requirements as to wholesomeness of supply which is authorised<sup>11</sup> and which applies to water supplied in the zone<sup>12</sup>;
- 883 (5) particulars of the action taken or required to be taken by the water undertaker or combined licensee to comply with (a) any enforcement order<sup>13</sup>; (b) any departure from the requirements as to wholesomeness of supply authorised<sup>14</sup>; and (c) any notice<sup>15</sup> requiring steps to remedy an inability to meet the specification applicable to an indicator parameter<sup>16</sup>;
- 884 (6) particulars of the result of any analysis of samples<sup>17</sup> taken<sup>18</sup>; and
- 885 (7) such other particulars as the water undertaker or combined licensee may determine<sup>19</sup>.

A water undertaker or combined licensee must make: (i) initial entries in the record in respect of the matters mentioned in heads (1) to (4) and (5)(b) above before 1 March 2004 or, in the case of a combined licensee, no later than three months<sup>20</sup> after the day on which it first introduces water into a supply system<sup>21</sup> for the purposes of supplying water to consumers<sup>22</sup>; (ii) entries in respect of the matters mentioned in head (5)(a) and (c) above within 28 days of the date of the order and notice respectively<sup>23</sup>; and (iii) entries relating to the results of the analysis of samples within 28 days of the day on which the result is first known to the water undertaker or combined licensee<sup>24</sup>.

A retail licensee<sup>25</sup> must, in respect of each of the water supply zones which it uses for the purposes of supplying water to consumers, prepare and maintain a record containing:

- 886 (A) the name of the zone<sup>26</sup>;
- 887 (B) particulars of any departure from the requirements as to wholesomeness of supply authorised<sup>27</sup> which applies to water supplied in the zone<sup>28</sup>;
- 888 (C) particulars of the action taken or required to be taken by the retail licensee to comply with (aa) any enforcement order made<sup>29</sup>; (bb) any departure from the requirements as to wholesomeness of supply authorised<sup>30</sup>; and (cc) any notice<sup>31</sup> requiring steps to remedy an inability to meet the specification applicable to an indicator parameter<sup>32</sup>; and
- 889 (D) such other particulars as the retail licensee may determine<sup>33</sup>.

A retail licensee must make initial entries in the record in respect of the matters mentioned in heads (A), (B) and (C)(bb) above no later than three months after the day on which it first uses a supply system for the purposes of supplying water to consumers<sup>34</sup>; and entries in respect of the matters mentioned in head (C)(aa) and (cc) above within 28 days of the date of the order and notice respectively<sup>35</sup>.

The relevant supplier<sup>36</sup> must at least once in each year review and bring up to date the record required to be kept by heads (1) to (7) or heads (A) to (D) above (as the case may be)<sup>37</sup>.

Nothing in these provisions requires a relevant supplier to retain a record: (AA) of information mentioned in any of heads (1), (2) and (6) or in head (A) above at any time more than 30 years after the date on which the information was first entered in the record<sup>38</sup>; (BB) of information mentioned in any other of heads (3) to (5) or (7), or heads (B) to (D) above at any time more than five years after the date on which the information was first entered in the record<sup>39</sup>.

Any duty or requirement imposed by these provisions on a relevant supplier is enforceable<sup>40</sup> by the Secretary of State<sup>41</sup> or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers<sup>42</sup>, or the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>43</sup>, whether or not it constitutes an offence<sup>44</sup>.

WATER SUPPLY/(2) DUTIES OF WATER UNDERTAKERS IN RELATION TO SUPPLY/(iv) Quality and Sufficiency of Supplies/B. WATER QUALITY/(E) Records and Information/390. Provision of information.

390. Provision of information.

Subject as set out below<sup>1</sup>, any person<sup>2</sup> may request a relevant supplier<sup>3</sup> to send him a copy of any record maintained by the relevant supplier<sup>4</sup>, and the relevant supplier must, within seven days of the receipt of the request, send a copy of the record requested to the person<sup>5</sup>. A relevant supplier must comply with such a request: (1) in the case of a request relating to a water supply zone<sup>6</sup>, free of charge if the person receives a supply of water in the zone<sup>7</sup>; or (2) in any other case, on payment of such reasonable charge as the relevant supplier may determine<sup>8</sup>. A relevant supplier is not obliged to comply with a request which is vexatious<sup>9</sup>; nor, where a relevant supplier has previously complied with a request which was made by any person, is it obliged to comply with a subsequent identical or substantially similar request from that person unless a reasonable interval has elapsed between compliance with the previous request and the making of the subsequent request<sup>10</sup>.

A water undertaker<sup>11</sup> must include in, or append to, at least one of the accounts<sup>12</sup> sent to each customer<sup>13</sup> in any year a statement informing him of his right<sup>14</sup> to request a copy of any record maintained by the undertaker<sup>15</sup>. As soon as possible after an event which, by reason of its effect or likely effect on the water supplied by a relevant supplier, gives rise or is likely to give rise to a significant risk to human health, the relevant supplier must notify the specified persons<sup>16</sup>. Where a person has received such a notification, he may require the relevant supplier to provide him with such further information relating to the event and its consequences as he may reasonably require<sup>17</sup>.

(v) Complaints Procedures

391. Duty to establish procedure for dealing with complaints.

Each water undertaker<sup>1</sup> must establish a procedure for dealing with complaints made by its customers or potential customers<sup>2</sup> in connection with the supply of water<sup>3</sup>. No such procedure may be established, and no modification<sup>4</sup> of such a procedure may be made, unless the water undertaker has consulted<sup>5</sup> the regional committee<sup>6</sup> to which it has been allocated<sup>7</sup>, and the proposed procedure or modification has been approved by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>8</sup>. The water undertaker must publicise the procedure in such manner as may be approved by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>9</sup>, and send a description of the procedure, free of charge, to any person<sup>10</sup> who asks for one<sup>11</sup>.

The Water Services Regulation Authority may give a direction to a water undertaker requiring the undertaker to review its procedure or the manner in which the procedure operates<sup>12</sup>. The direction may specify the manner in which the review is to be conducted<sup>13</sup>, and must require a written<sup>14</sup> report of the review to be made to the Authority<sup>15</sup>. Where the Authority receives such a report, it may, after consulting the water undertaker, direct that undertaker to make such modifications of the procedure, or the manner in which the procedure operates, as may be specified in the direction<sup>16</sup>.

The duty of a water undertaker to comply with this requirement to establish a procedure for dealing with complaints, and to comply with any direction given to it under these provisions, is enforceable<sup>17</sup> by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>18</sup>.

12 Water Industry Act 1991 s 86A(4) (as added (see note 3); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). Where the Authority is considering whether to exercise its powers under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 86A(4) or (6) (see the text to note 16) in relation to a water undertaker, it is the duty of that undertaker to give it such information as it may reasonably require for the purpose of assisting it in coming to a decision: s 86A(9) (as so added and amended). Section 202 (see PARA 182) has effect with the necessary modifications in relation to information which the Authority requires for that purpose as it has effect in relation to information which the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers require for the purposes mentioned in s 202(1): s 86A(10) (as so added and amended). ### 392. Complaints about water services.

Where a customer<sup>1</sup> of a relevant undertaker<sup>2</sup> complains in writing<sup>3</sup> about the supply of water or the provision of sewerage services<sup>4</sup> by the undertaker<sup>5</sup>, the undertaker must provide a substantive reply to the customer within ten working days<sup>6</sup>. If the undertaker does not comply with this requirement, it must pay the customer £20<sup>7</sup>; and no application by the customer for the payment is necessary<sup>8</sup>. However, the undertaker need not pay the customer if:

- 890 (1) the address that the customer wrote to was not a notified address of the undertaker for a complaint of that kind<sup>9</sup>;
- 891 (2) the customer does not wish to pursue the complaint and has so informed the undertaker<sup>10</sup>;
- 892 (3) it was impracticable for the undertaker to send a reply within the required period because of: (a) industrial action by employees of the undertaker<sup>11</sup>; or (b) the act or default of a person<sup>12</sup> who is neither an officer, employee or agent of the undertaker<sup>13</sup>, nor a person acting on behalf of the undertaker or of an agent of the undertaker<sup>14</sup>; or
- 893 (4) the complaint was frivolous or vexatious<sup>15</sup>, or the undertaker reasonably considered that a visit was necessary before replying, and severe weather made that visit impracticable<sup>16</sup>.

(3) SUPPLY BY LICENSED WATER SUPPLIERS

393. Domestic supply and non-domestic supply.

The owner<sup>1</sup> or occupier<sup>2</sup> of any premises may serve a notice<sup>3</sup> on a water undertaker<sup>4</sup> informing the undertaker that the premises are to be supplied by a licensed water supplier<sup>5</sup>, and specifying the time after which a supply of water to the premises by the undertaker will no longer be required<sup>6</sup>. Where the charges for the water supplied by the undertaker are fixed in relation to the premises by reference to volume<sup>7</sup>, the time specified in the notice must fall at least two working days<sup>8</sup> after the notice is served<sup>9</sup>.

A notice may similarly be served in respect of non-domestic supplies<sup>10</sup>.

2 As to the meaning of 'occupier' see PARA 339 note 8.

3 As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the service of documents see PARA 22.

8 Any reference to two working days is a reference to a period of 48 hours calculated after disregarding any time falling on a Saturday or Sunday, or Christmas Day, Good Friday or any day which is a bank holiday in England and Wales under the Banking and Financial Dealings Act 1971 (see TIME vol 97 (2010) PARA 321): Water Industry Act 1991 s 63AA(3) (as added: see note 5).

394. Interim duty of water undertaker.

Where a licensed water supplier<sup>1</sup> ceases to supply any premises with water<sup>2</sup>, and the owner<sup>3</sup> or occupier<sup>4</sup> of the premises has not notified the water undertaker<sup>5</sup> in whose area<sup>6</sup> the premises are that he has made arrangements for the continuation of the supply of water to the premises<sup>7</sup>, or that he intends any supply of water to the premises to cease<sup>8</sup>, it is the duty of the water undertaker to continue the supply of water to the premises which was made by the licensed water supplier<sup>9</sup>. Where a supply is so made, the charges payable in respect of the supply must be fixed from time to time by a charges scheme<sup>10</sup>, and the supply must be made until:

894 (1) a supply is made under the undertaker's domestic or non-domestic supply duties<sup>11</sup>; or whichever is earlier<sup>14</sup>; but such a notice may not be served before the end of the period of three months<sup>15</sup> beginning with the day on which the supply by the supplier ceased<sup>16</sup>.

However, a water undertaker is not required by virtue of these provisions to provide a supply of water to any premises if the provision of the supply would:

896 (a) require the undertaker, in order to meet all its existing obligations to supply water for domestic or other purposes<sup>17</sup>, together with its probable future obligations to supply buildings and parts of buildings with water for domestic purposes, to incur unreasonable expenditure in carrying out works<sup>18</sup>; or 897 (b) otherwise put at risk its ability to meet any of the existing or probable future obligations mentioned in head (a) above<sup>19</sup>.

The supply of water to any premises by a water undertaker under these provisions does not prevent a proposed supply to those premises by that undertaker under the non-domestic supply duty<sup>20</sup> from being regarded as a new supply for the purposes of that duty<sup>21</sup>.

Where a duty is imposed by the above provisions in respect of any premises, any breach of the duty which causes the owner or occupier of the premises to sustain loss or damage<sup>22</sup> is actionable at the suit of that owner or occupier; but, in any proceedings brought against a water undertaker in pursuance of this provision, it is a defence for the undertaker to show that it took all reasonable steps and exercised all due diligence to avoid the breach<sup>23</sup>.

The statutory provisions relating to disconnections<sup>24</sup> apply as they apply where a supply of water is made<sup>25</sup> under the domestic or non-domestic supply duties<sup>26</sup>.

(4) POWERS AND DUTIES OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES IN RELATION TO WATER SUPPLIES

(i) In general

395. General functions of local authorities in relation to water quality.

It is the duty of every local authority<sup>1</sup> to take all such steps as it considers appropriate for keeping itself informed about the wholesomeness<sup>2</sup> and sufficiency of water supplies provided to premises in its area, including every private supply<sup>3</sup> to any such premises<sup>4</sup>. It is also the duty of a local authority to comply with any direction given by the Secretary of State<sup>5</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>6</sup> to that authority, to authorities of a description applicable to that authority or to local authorities generally as to the cases and circumstances in which they are or are not to exercise any of their statutory powers<sup>7</sup> in relation to private supplies<sup>8</sup>, and the manner in which those powers are to be exercised<sup>9</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may by regulations<sup>10</sup> make such supplementary provision<sup>11</sup> as he or they consider appropriate for imposing duties and conferring powers on local authorities with respect to the acquisition of information<sup>12</sup> about the quality and sufficiency of water supplies provided to premises in their areas<sup>13</sup>, and regulating the performance of any statutory duty imposed<sup>14</sup> on local authorities in relation to water quality<sup>15</sup>. Such regulations may in particular:

- 898 (1) prescribe the matters to be taken into account by a local authority in determining what is appropriate for the purposes of keeping itself informed as mentioned above<sup>16</sup>;
- 899 (2) provide<sup>17</sup> for such samples of water to be taken and analysed at such times and in such manner as may be prescribed<sup>18</sup>;
- 900 (3) authorise local authorities to exercise or perform any statutory power or duty relating to water quality<sup>19</sup> through prescribed persons<sup>20</sup>; and
- 901 (4) provide for the recovery by a local authority from prescribed persons of such amounts as may be prescribed in respect of expenses reasonably incurred by the authority in the exercise of any such power or the performance of any such duty<sup>21</sup>.

395 General functions of local authorities in relation to water quality

NOTE 10--SI 1991/2790 replaced, in relation to England, by the Private Water Supplies Regulations 2009, SI 2009/3101, and in relation to Wales, by the Private Water Supplies (Wales) Regulations 2010, SI 2010/66 (amended by SI 2010/147, SI 2010/1384).

WATER SUPPLY/(4) POWERS AND DUTIES OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES IN RELATION TO WATER SUPPLIES/(i) In general/396. Local authority functions in relation to undertakers' supplies.

396. Local authority functions in relation to undertakers' supplies.

It is the duty of a local authority<sup>1</sup> to notify any water undertaker<sup>2</sup> of anything appearing to the authority to suggest:

- 902 (1) that any supply by that undertaker, or by a licensed water supplier<sup>3</sup> using that undertaker's supply system<sup>4</sup>, of water for domestic or food production purposes<sup>5</sup> to any premises in the area of that authority is, has been or is likely to become unwholesome<sup>6</sup> or, so far as any such premises are concerned, insufficient for domestic purposes<sup>7</sup>;
- 903 (2) that the unwholesomeness or insufficiency of any such supply is, was or is likely to be such as to cause a danger to life or health<sup>8</sup>; or
- 904 (3) that the duty imposed on that undertaker to ensure there is no deterioration in water quality<sup>9</sup> is being, has been or is likely to be so contravened<sup>10</sup> as to affect any supply of water to premises in that area<sup>11</sup>.

Where a local authority has notified a water undertaker of any such matter, it is that authority's duty, if it is not satisfied that all such remedial action as is appropriate will be taken by the undertaker, to inform the Secretary of State<sup>12</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>13</sup> about the contents of the notification<sup>14</sup>.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(4) POWERS AND DUTIES OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES IN RELATION TO WATER SUPPLIES/(i) In general/397. Local authority functions where piped supplies insufficient or unwholesome.

397. Local authority functions where piped supplies insufficient or unwholesome.

The following provisions apply to a case in which it is not practicable at reasonable cost for a water undertaker<sup>1</sup>, by supplying water in pipes<sup>2</sup>, to provide or maintain such a supply of wholesome<sup>3</sup> water to any particular premises in its area<sup>4</sup> as is sufficient, so far as those premises are concerned, for domestic purposes<sup>5</sup>.

In any such case, it is the duty of the local authority<sup>6</sup> in whose area the premises in question are situated to require the undertaker to provide a supply of water to those premises otherwise than in pipes<sup>7</sup>. In order to impose such a requirement the local authority must be satisfied that the insufficiency or unwholesomeness of the supply of water for domestic purposes to those premises is such as to cause a danger to life or health<sup>8</sup>, and that it is practicable at reasonable cost for the water undertaker, by providing it otherwise than in pipes, to provide to those premises such a supply of wholesome water as is sufficient for those purposes<sup>9</sup>.

Where, in a case to which these provisions apply:

- 905 (1) the insufficiency or unwholesomeness of the supply of water for domestic purposes to the premises in question is such as to cause a danger to life or health<sup>10</sup>;
- 906 (2) it is practicable at reasonable cost for the water undertaker, by providing it otherwise than in pipes, to provide to those premises such a supply of wholesome water as, so far as those premises are concerned, is sufficient for domestic purposes<sup>11</sup>; and
- 907 (3) the local authority in whose area those premises are situated notifies the undertaker of the danger to life or health and requires the undertaker to provide a supply otherwise than in pipes<sup>12</sup>, it is the undertaker's duty, for such period as may be required by the local authority, to provide any supply to those premises which it is practicable at reasonable cost to provide otherwise than in pipes and which it is required to provide by that authority<sup>13</sup>. This duty of the water undertaker is enforceable<sup>14</sup> by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>15</sup>.

Where, under these provisions, a local authority requires the provision by a water undertaker of a supply of water to any premises, that authority is liable to the undertaker for any charges payable<sup>16</sup> in respect of the provision of that supply<sup>17</sup>, but has power to recover the whole or any part of any charges so paid from the owner<sup>18</sup> or occupier<sup>19</sup> of the premises to which the supply is provided<sup>20</sup>.

398. Duty in respect of new houses.

A local authority must reject any plans of a house deposited with it in accordance with building regulations, unless a proposal is put before it that appears to it to be satisfactory for providing the occupants of the house with a supply of wholesome water sufficient for their domestic purposes<sup>1</sup>. This duty is discussed in detail elsewhere in this work<sup>2</sup>.

WATER SUPPLY/(4) POWERS AND DUTIES OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES IN RELATION TO WATER SUPPLIES/(i) In general/399. Assistance with provision of separate service pipes.

399. Assistance with provision of separate service pipes.

If it thinks fit, a local housing authority<sup>1</sup> may give assistance in respect of the provision of a separate service pipe for a house which has a piped supply of water from a water main but no separate service pipe<sup>2</sup>, by way of making a grant in respect of all or any part of the expenses incurred in the provision of the separate service pipe<sup>3</sup>. Where all or any part of the works required for the provision of the separate service pipe are carried out by water undertakers<sup>4</sup> (whether in exercise of default powers<sup>5</sup> or in any other case) those expenses include the sums payable by the owner of the house, or any other person<sup>6</sup>, to the water undertakers for carrying out the works<sup>7</sup>.

400. Powers of parish or community councils.

A parish or community council<sup>1</sup> has power to utilise any well, spring or stream within its parish or community<sup>2</sup> and to provide facilities for obtaining water from it, and may execute any works, including works of maintenance or improvement, incidental to or consequential on any exercise of this power<sup>3</sup>. Such a council may contribute towards the expenses incurred by any such council, or by any other person<sup>4</sup>, in doing anything authorised by this provision<sup>5</sup>; but these powers are not to be construed as authorising such a council to interfere with the rights of any person, or as restricting, in the case of a public well or other works, any powers of the local authority<sup>6</sup> relating to public pumps, wells and cisterns<sup>7</sup>. A parish or community council has no power to take proceedings in its own name to enforce a right of the inhabitants of the parish to the use of the well or spring<sup>8</sup>.

1 As to parish councils in England see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 27 et seq. As to community councils in Wales see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 41 et seq.

2 'Parish' in relation to a common parish council acting for two or more grouped parishes, means those parishes: Public Health Act 1936 s 1(2) (s 1 substituted by the Local Government Act 1972 s 180, Sch 14 para 1). 'Community', in relation to a common community council acting for two or more grouped communities, means those communities: Public Health Act 1936 s 1(2) (as so substituted).

401. Vesting of wells etc in local authority.

All public pumps, wells, cisterns, reservoirs<sup>1</sup> conduits and other works used for the gratuitous supply<sup>2</sup> of water to the inhabitants of any part of the district<sup>3</sup> of a local authority<sup>4</sup> vest in and are under the control of that authority<sup>5</sup>, whether they are on private property or not<sup>6</sup>. The local authority may cause the works to be maintained and supplied with wholesome water<sup>7</sup>, or may substitute, maintain and supply with wholesome water other such works equally convenient<sup>8</sup>. By reason of the vesting in it of the relevant works, the local authority is entitled to bring civil proceedings in respect of interference with them<sup>9</sup>, but the vesting does not entitle the authority to grant a licence to persons to bottle and sell the water<sup>10</sup>. The liability of a local authority for flooding from these works may cease if the works have become vested in a water undertaker<sup>11</sup>. The inhabitants of a district may acquire the right of drawing water<sup>12</sup>, and if a landowner properly draws away the water, the local authority may not trespass in order to obtain a supply for a well vested in it<sup>13</sup>.

1 For these purposes, 'reservoir' may include a natural pond: Leadgate Local Board v Bland (1881) 45 JP 526.

3 'District', in relation to a local authority in Greater London, means a London borough, the City of London, the Inner Temple or the Middle Temple, as the case may be, and in relation to a local authority in Wales, means a county or, as the case may be, a county borough: Public Health Act 1936 s 1(2) (s 1 substituted by the Local Government Act 1972 s 180, Sch 14 para 1; definition amended by the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 22(3), Sch 9 para 3(2)(a)). WATER SUPPLY/(4) POWERS AND DUTIES OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES IN RELATION TO WATER SUPPLIES/(i) In general/402. Local authority powers in relation to pollution and contamination of wells etc.

402. Local authority powers in relation to pollution and contamination of wells etc.

If a local authority<sup>1</sup> is satisfied that any public pump, well, cistern, reservoir, conduit or other works used for the gratuitous supply of water vested in the authority<sup>2</sup> is no longer required, or that the water obtained from those works is polluted and that it is not reasonably practicable to remedy the cause of the pollution, it may close the works or restrict the use of the water obtained from them<sup>3</sup>.

If a local authority is of opinion that the water in or obtained from any well, tank or other source of supply not vested in the authority, being water which is, or is likely to be, used for domestic purposes<sup>4</sup> or in the preparation of food or drink for human consumption, is, or is likely to become, so polluted as to be prejudicial to health<sup>5</sup>, the authority may apply to a magistrates' court<sup>6</sup>. Thereupon a summons may be issued to the owner<sup>7</sup> or occupier of the premises to which the source of supply belongs, or to any other person alleged in the application to be in control of them<sup>8</sup>. The court must hear any user of the water with a claim to be heard, and may cause the water to be analysed at the cost of the local authority<sup>9</sup>. The court may make an order directing the source of supply to be permanently or temporarily closed or cut off or the water to be used for certain purposes only, or such other order as appears to the court to be necessary to prevent injury or danger to the health of persons using the water or consuming food or drink prepared with or from it; and if a person on whom the order is made fails to comply with it, the court, on the application of the local authority, may authorise the authority to do whatever may be necessary for giving effect to the order, and any expenses reasonably incurred by the authority in so doing may be recovered by it from the person in default<sup>10</sup>.

Any well, tank, cistern or water butt used for the supply of water for domestic purposes which is so placed, constructed or kept as to render the water in it liable to contamination prejudicial to health is a statutory nuisance<sup>11</sup>.

The Local Better Regulation Office has the objective of securing that local authorities in England and Wales exercise their functions under the Public Health Act 1936 effectively, in a way which does not give rise to unnecessary burdens, and in a way which conforms with the statutory principles: see the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 ss 4(2), 5, Sch 3; and LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 733.

2 As to the vesting of such works in the local authority see PARA 401.

3 Public Health Act 1936 s 124(2).

4 'Domestic purposes' is not defined for these purposes. As to the definition of 'domestic purposes' in the Water Industry Act 1991 see PARA 334.

5 'Prejudicial to health' means injurious, or likely to cause injury, to health: Public Health Act 1936 s 343(1). See further NUISANCE vol 78 (2010) PARA 158.

6 Public Health Act 1936 s 140(1). As to magistrates' courts see MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 583 et seq.

7 'Owner' means the person for the time being receiving the rackrent of the premises in connection with which the word is used, whether on his own account or as agent or trustee for any other person, or who would so receive it if those premises were let at a rackrent; and 'premises' includes messuages, buildings, land, easements and hereditaments of any tenure: Public Health Act 1936 s 343(1). 10 Public Health Act 1936 s 140(2), (3). A person who wilfully obstructs any person acting in the execution of the Public Health Act 1936 or of any order made or issued under it is, in any case for which no other provision is made by the Act, liable to a fine not exceeding level 1 on the standard scale: s 288 (amended by the Public Health Act 1961 ss 5(3), 11(2), Sch 1; the Criminal Justice Act 1982 ss 35, 37, 38, 46). #### 403. Power to supply steam and hot water to houses.

A local authority<sup>1</sup> may enter into and carry out agreements for the supply, to premises within or outside its area, of heat, steam and hot water<sup>2</sup>, may construct, lay and maintain pipes and associated works<sup>3</sup> for that purpose<sup>4</sup>, and may contribute towards the cost incurred by another person<sup>5</sup> in providing or maintaining such works<sup>6</sup>. Certain provisions of the former water supply legislation<sup>7</sup> are applied, with modifications, to such works<sup>8</sup>, and local authorities may make byelaws with respect to the works and the supply<sup>9</sup>.

1 'Local authority' means a county council, a county borough council, a district council, a London borough council, the Common Council of the City of London, and the Council of the Isles of Scilly: Local Government (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1976 s 44(1) (definition substituted by the Local Government Act 1985 s 84, Sch 14 para 53(b); and amended by s 102(2), Sch 17, SI 1996/3071). 3 'Associated works', in relation to pipes, means any of the following connected with the pipes, ie any valve, filter, stopcock, pump, meter, inspection chamber and manhole and any other prescribed works: Local Government (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1976 s 11(7). 'Prescribed' means prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers: see s 11(7). The functions of the Secretary of State under the Local Government (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1976 s 11, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. At the date at which this volume states the law no such regulations had been made.

NOTE 1--Definition of 'local authority' in Local Government (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1976 s 44(1) further amended: Local Democracy, Economic Development and Construction Act 2009 Sch 6 para 43.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(4) POWERS AND DUTIES OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES IN RELATION TO WATER SUPPLIES/ (ii) Powers and Duties in relation to Private Supplies/404. Remedial powers of local authorities in relation to private supplies.

(ii) Powers and Duties in relation to Private Supplies

404. Remedial powers of local authorities in relation to private supplies.

Where a local authority<sup>1</sup> is satisfied, in relation to any premises in its area which are supplied with water for domestic or food production purposes<sup>2</sup> by means of a private supply<sup>3</sup>, that:

- 908 (1) any water which is being, has been or is likely to be supplied for those purposes to those premises by means of that private supply is not, was not or is likely not to be wholesome<sup>4</sup>; or
- 909 (2) that private supply is failing, has failed or is likely to fail to provide to any house<sup>5</sup> on those premises such a supply of wholesome water as is sufficient, so far as that house is concerned, for domestic purposes<sup>6</sup>, the authority may serve a notice (a 'private supply notice')<sup>7</sup> in relation to that private supply on any one or more of the relevant persons<sup>8</sup>. The notice must:

- 910 (a) give particulars of the matters mentioned in heads (1) and (2) above in respect of which it is served<sup>9</sup>;
- 911 (b) specify the steps which, in the opinion of the authority serving the notice, are required to be taken for ensuring that there is a supply of water to those premises which is both wholesome and, so far as any house on those premises is concerned, sufficient for domestic purposes<sup>10</sup>; and
- 912 (c) specify a period, ending not less than 28 days after the day on which the notice is served, within which any representations or objections with respect to the notice must be received by that authority<sup>11</sup>; and
- 913 (d) state the effect of the statutory provisions relating to the confirmation of private supply notices<sup>12</sup> in relation to the notice<sup>13</sup>.

Where a local authority serves such a notice on any relevant person, then subject to the procedure for confirmation and variation of the notice<sup>14</sup>, it may do one or more of the following by that notice:

- 914 (i) designate as steps to be taken by the authority itself such of the steps specified in the notice as it considers it appropriate so to designate<sup>15</sup>;
- 915 (ii) require that person, within such reasonable period as may be specified in the notice, to take one or more of the specified steps<sup>16</sup>;
- 916 (iii) require that person, at such times as may be determined in accordance with provision contained in the notice, to make to another relevant person or to that authority such payments as may be so determined in respect of expenses reasonably incurred by that other person or that authority in taking any step specified in the notice<sup>17</sup>;
- 917 (iv) undertake from time to time to make such payments to that person as may be so determined in respect of expenses reasonably incurred by that person in taking any step specified in the notice<sup>18</sup>.

The power of a local authority to serve a private supply notice specifying the steps which are required to be taken in relation to any source from which a private supply is provided both to premises in the area of that authority and to premises in the area of another local authority, is exercisable only where the other authority consents to the service of the notice<sup>19</sup>, or the authorities act jointly in exercising their respective powers under these provisions in relation to that source<sup>20</sup>. The powers conferred by a private supply notice<sup>21</sup> must be so exercised in relation to a private supply of water to any premises where there is no house as to secure that no local authority is required to bear any of the expenses incurred, whether by the authority or by any other person, in taking any of the steps for ensuring that the supply is wholesome which are specified in the notice<sup>22</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 118 note 17. The Local Better Regulation Office has the objective of securing that local authorities in England and Wales exercise their functions under the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 77-85 effectively, in a way which does not give rise to unnecessary burdens, and in a way which conforms with the statutory principles: see the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 ss 4(2), 5, Sch 3; and LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 733.

15 Water Industry Act 1991 s 80(3)(a). For the purposes of the taking of any steps falling to be taken by a local authority by virtue of a designation under s 80(3)(a), the provisions of Pt VI (ss 155-192) (see PARA 453 et seq) have effect: (1) as if the relevant works powers, so far as conferred on a water undertaker for the purpose of carrying out its functions, were also conferred on a local authority for the purpose of ensuring that a supply of water provided by means of a private supply to any premises in the authority's area is both wholesome and, so far as any house on those premises is concerned, sufficient for domestic purposes (s 83(1)(a)); (2) as if any such power, so far as it is conferred on a water undertaker in relation to things belonging to or operated or used by the undertaker for the purposes of its functions were conferred by virtue of head (1) above on a local authority in relation to things belonging to or operated or used by that authority, or a relevant person, in connection with the provision of water by means of a private supply (s 83(1)(b)); (3) as if references to a water undertaker in any provision of Pt VI relating to a relevant works powers, except the references in s 181 (see PARA 474) and s 182 (see PARA 475), included references to a local authority (s 83(1)(c)); and (4) as if the making by any person in pursuance of a private supply notice of any payment in respect of sums incurred in the laying of any pipe entitled that person, for the purposes of s 179(1) (see PARA 464), to an interest in the pipe (s 83(1) (d)). Where by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991 a local authority has power under the Local Government Act 1972 Pt VII (ss 111-146A) (miscellaneous powers of a local authority: see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 425 et seq) to acquire, whether compulsorily or otherwise, any land or right over land for the purpose of ensuring that private supplies of water to premises in its area are both wholesome and, so far as houses on those premises are concerned, sufficient for domestic purposes, that power includes power to acquire land or any interest or right in or over land in order, for that purpose, to dispose of the land or the interest or right to a person who is a relevant person in relation to such a private supply: Water Industry Act 1991 s 83(2). 'Relevant works powers' means the powers conferred on water undertakers by s 158 (see PARA 462), s 159 (see PARA 463), s 161 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 329), s 163 (see PARA 463) and s 165 (see PARA 466): s 83(3). 16 Water Industry Act 1991 s 80(3)(b). The steps that a relevant person may be required to take by a private supply notice in relation to any premises include: (1) requiring a supply of water to be provided to those premises by a water undertaker or by any other person (s 80(6)(a)); and (2) taking such steps for the purpose of securing that such a requirement is complied with, and of enabling such a supply to be so provided, as may be specified in the notice (s 80(6)(b)). WATER SUPPLY/(4) POWERS AND DUTIES OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES IN RELATION TO WATER SUPPLIES/ (ii) Powers and Duties in relation to Private Supplies/405. Confirmation of private supply notices.

405. Confirmation of private supply notices.

A private supply notice<sup>1</sup> served by a local authority<sup>2</sup> does not take effect until the end of the period specified in it as the period within which representations or objections with respect to the notice must be received by that authority<sup>3</sup>. Where any written<sup>4</sup> representation or objection with respect to a private supply notice served by a local authority is received by that authority, before the end of the specified period, from a person<sup>5</sup> on whom the notice was served, that notice does not take effect unless: (1) it is submitted by the authority to the Secretary of State<sup>6</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>7</sup> and is confirmed by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers either with or without modifications<sup>8</sup>; or (2) the representation or objection is withdrawn<sup>9</sup>.

If a local authority submits a private supply notice to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers for confirmation, the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers:

- 918 (a) must consider whether the notice should be confirmed and whether, if it is confirmed, it should be confirmed with or without modifications<sup>10</sup>;
- 919 (b) may, with respect to the matters specified in the notice or any proposed modification of it, direct the local authority to serve<sup>11</sup> a private supply notice, in such terms as may be specified in the direction, on any relevant person<sup>12</sup> who has not previously been served with such a notice<sup>13</sup>;
- 920 (c) may, for either of those purposes, cause a local inquiry<sup>14</sup> to be held or may afford to the local authority and to every person who has made representations or objections with respect to the notice, or to any proposed direction under head (b) above, an opportunity of appearing before and being heard by a person appointed by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers for the purpose<sup>15</sup>; and
- 921 (d) if satisfied that the person on whom any notice to be served in pursuance of a direction under head (b) above has had a proper opportunity of having his representations or objections with respect to the proposal for the direction considered, may dispense, in relation to the notice so served, with certain procedural requirements<sup>16</sup>.

Where the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers confirms a private supply notice, whether with or without modifications, he or they, or if he or they so directs the local authority concerned, must serve notice of that confirmation on every person originally served with the notice<sup>17</sup>, and the private supply notice takes effect, with any modifications made by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, at the time specified in the notice of confirmation<sup>18</sup>.

WATER SUPPLY/(4) POWERS AND DUTIES OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES IN RELATION TO WATER SUPPLIES/ (ii) Powers and Duties in relation to Private Supplies/406. Enforcement and variation of private supply notice.

406. Enforcement and variation of private supply notice.

Where any relevant person<sup>1</sup> who is required by virtue of a private supply notice<sup>2</sup> to take any step in relation to any premises fails to take that step within the period specified in the notice, the local authority<sup>3</sup> which served the notice may<sup>4</sup> take that step itself<sup>5</sup>, and may recover from the person<sup>6</sup> who failed to take that step within the specified period any expenses reasonably incurred<sup>7</sup> in taking that step<sup>8</sup>.

Nothing in the Water Industry Act 1991 confers any right of action on any person in respect of any loss or damage<sup>9</sup> sustained by that person in consequence of the failure by any other person to take any step specified in a private supply notice<sup>10</sup>.

Any sum required to be paid to any person by virtue of any requirement or undertaking contained in a private supply notice is recoverable by that person from the person who is required to pay it<sup>11</sup>. Any requirement which is imposed by virtue of a private supply notice on the owner<sup>12</sup> or occupier<sup>13</sup> of any premises<sup>14</sup>, and is expressed to bind those premises in relation to the owners or occupiers from time to time, binds successive owners or occupiers of those premises and is a local land charge<sup>15</sup>.

A local authority may by notice served<sup>16</sup> on any person modify<sup>17</sup> or revoke the effect in relation to that person of any private supply notice or any notice previously served under this provision, including a notice which has been confirmed, with or without modifications, by the Secretary of State<sup>18</sup> or, in relation to Wales<sup>19</sup>, the Welsh Ministers<sup>20</sup>.

20 Water Industry Act 1991 s 82(6). Section 80(2)(c), (d) (see PARA 404) and s 81 (see PARA 405) apply in relation to any notice so served on any person as they apply in relation to a private supply notice, except where the notice: (1) extends the period within which any step is required to be taken by that person (s 82(7)(a)); or (2) discharges, postpones or abates any obligation of that person to make a payment to the local authority (s 82(7)(b)).

WATER SUPPLY/(4) POWERS AND DUTIES OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES IN RELATION TO WATER SUPPLIES/ (ii) Powers and Duties in relation to Private Supplies/407. Monitoring of private supplies.

407. Monitoring of private supplies.

It is the duty of every local authority<sup>1</sup> to take and analyse<sup>2</sup> samples of water from every category one and category two private supply<sup>3</sup> serving premises in its area<sup>4</sup>. Samples must be taken, in relation to premises supplied with water for food production purposes, from a point immediately before the point where the supply is so used, and in relation to all other premises, at a tap used for supplying water for drinking or cooking<sup>5</sup>. Where a local authority is required<sup>6</sup> to take more than one sample within a specified period, the samples must be taken at regular intervals<sup>7</sup>. At the request of a person who is a relevant person<sup>8</sup> in relation to a private supply serving premises in its area, a local authority must take and analyse a sample from the supply for compliance of the parameters<sup>9</sup> specified by that person with the prescribed concentrations or values<sup>10</sup> for those parameters<sup>11</sup>. A local authority must comply with the prescribed standard, reduced or increased sampling frequencies<sup>12</sup> and with certain additional monitoring provisions<sup>13</sup>.

A local authority must secure, so far as is reasonably practicable, that in taking, handling, transporting, storing and analysing or causing to be analysed any sample taken in the performance of these duties, the appropriate requirements are satisfied<sup>14</sup>. Within 28 days of the results of analysis of any sample of any private supply taken from any premises being available to the local authority which took the sample, the authority must notify the owner<sup>15</sup> of those premises of the results of that analysis and any other relevant person who is to be charged for the taking and analysis of the sample from those premises<sup>16</sup>. A local authority may, in respect of a private supply serving premises in its area, charge any relevant person<sup>17</sup> for expenses reasonably incurred by the authority for (1) sampling a supply, subject to a maximum charge of £50 per visit to any premises for that purpose; and (2) the analysis of samples, subject to the maximum prescribed charges<sup>18</sup>.

A local authority may enter into arrangements with a relevant person for the taking and analysis of samples in accordance with the monitoring provisions<sup>19</sup> on behalf of, but at no expense to, the authority<sup>20</sup>, or with any other person for the analysis of samples in accordance with those provisions on behalf of the authority, whether or not involving the authority in expense<sup>21</sup>. It may, however, enter into such arrangements only if it is satisfied that the tasks will be carried out by, or under the supervision of, a person competent to perform them and otherwise in accordance with the monitoring provisions<sup>22</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 118 note 17.

2 As to the meaning of 'analyse' see PARA 375 note 14.

3 A private supply is a category one supply if any water from the supply is supplied for domestic purposes and the supply is not a category two supply: Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 9(1). Category one supplies are divided into classes A-F by reference to the number of persons supplied with water for domestic purposes and the relevant average daily volume of water supplied, with a category one supply which only serves a single dwelling classified as a class F supply and a supply which serves more than 5,000 people classified as a class A supply: see reg 9(2)-(4). As to the meaning of 'private supply' see PARA 377 note 1. As to the meaning of 'domestic purposes' see PARA 334. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

A private supply is a category two supply if any water from the supply is used for food production purposes or is supplied for domestic purposes to premises used: (1) as a staff canteen or for the purposes of a business involving the preparation of food or drink for consumption on the premises; (2) as a hospital, nursing home, residential home, hostel, boarding school or other similar institution; or (3) as a camp site or a site for touring caravans or for the purposes of a business involving the provision of holiday or other short term accommodation: reg 10(1). A private supply is not, however, a category two supply where it is used for cleansing or cooling operations in connection with the processing of milk and, if it were not for that use, would be classified as a category one supply, unless it would fall within class E (supplies to less than 25 people) in which case it is classified as a class 5 supply: reg 10(2). Category two supplies are divided into classes by reference to the average daily volume of water supplied for domestic or food production purposes, with special provision in relation to supplies used solely for cleansing or cooling operations in connection with the processing of milk (which are all class 5 supplies), or for washing crops (which are all either class 4 or class 5 supplies): see reg 10(3)-(6). As to the meaning of 'food production purposes' see PARA 338 note 44.

As to the classification of new or restored supplies see reg 11. The local authority has a duty to review, at least once in each year, the classification of all the private supplies serving premises in its area: reg 12.

5 Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 13(2). A local authority must: (1) determine the times of the year and of the day when samples of water from a private supply are to be taken; (2) if a private supply serves a number of premises, select at random the premises at which samples are to be taken, so as to ensure that, so far as is reasonably practicable, analysis of the samples will produce data which is representative of the quality of water from that supply: reg 13(1).

6 Under the provisions of the Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, regs 14-18, Schs 3, 4 (sampling frequencies: see the text to notes 12-13): reg 13(3).

7 Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 13(3). As to sampling of new or restored supplies see reg 13(4), (5); and as to the duty to take samples from private supplies of classes C-E and 3-5 serving premises in the authority's area to ascertain and record the extent to which any pesticides or related products are present see reg 13(6).

8 As to the meaning of 'relevant person' see PARA 379 note 5.

9 As to the meaning of 'parameter' for these purposes see PARA 377 note 6.

10 As to the meaning of 'prescribed concentrations or values' see PARA 377 note 10.

11 Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 13(7).

12 See the Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, regs 14-16, Sch 3.

13 See the Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, regs 17, 18, Sch 4.

14 Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 19(1). 'Appropriate requirements' means such of the following requirements as are applicable: (1) that the sample is representative of the quality of the water at the time of sampling; (2) that the sample is not contaminated when being taken or subsequently; (3) that the sample is kept at such temperature and in such conditions as will secure that there is no material alteration of the concentration or value for the measurement or observation of which the sample is intended; (4) that the sample is analysed as soon as may be after the time it has been taken (a) by, or under the supervision of, a person who is competent to perform that task; (b) with the use of such equipment as is suitable for the purpose; (c) by applying such analytical systems and methods as are capable of establishing, within acceptable limits of deviation and detection, whether the sample contains concentrations or values which contravene the prescribed concentrations or values; and (5) that any laboratory at which samples are analysed has a system of analytical quality control that is subject from time to time to checking by a person who is (a) not under the control of either the laboratory or the authority; or (b) approved by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers for that purpose: see reg 19(2). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, arts 2, 3, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

15 As to the meaning of 'owner' see PARA 22 note 9.

17 Where there is more than one relevant person, the local authority must, in determining who is to be charged and any apportionment of the charge, have regard to the terms, if any, on which the water is supplied and the purposes for which it is used: Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 20(3).

18 Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 20(1). For the maximum prescribed charges see Sch 5. The power to charge includes a power to charge, whether or not any notice under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 80 (see PARA 404) has been served, for the sampling and analysis of samples following the taking of remedial action in relation to any private supply; but does not include a power to charge for the taking and analysis of any sample taken solely in order to confirm or clarify the results of the analysis of a previous sample, or, in the case of a class C-E or class 3-5 supply, for the taking and analysis of any sample taken pursuant to the Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 13(6) (recording extent to which pesticides etc present: see note 7): reg 20(2).

19 le in accordance with the Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790.

20 The arrangements in this case must include a requirement for the results of any analysis to be sent to the local authority as soon as they are available: Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790, reg 21(3).

(iii) Rights of Entry and Power to Obtain Information

408. Local authority rights of entry etc.

Any person designated for the purpose by a local authority<sup>1</sup> within whose area any waterworks<sup>2</sup> are situated has a right, on producing some duly authenticated document showing his authority, at all reasonable hours to enter any premises for the purpose of ascertaining where there is or has been any contravention<sup>3</sup> of the provisions prohibiting contamination of water sources<sup>4</sup> in relation to those waterworks<sup>5</sup>.

Any person designated in writing<sup>6</sup> for the purpose by a local authority may<sup>7</sup>:

- 922 (1) enter any premises for the purpose of:
73
  89. (a) ascertaining whether any provision contained in or made or having effect under the Water Industry Act 1991 with respect to any water fittings<sup>8</sup>, or with respect to the waste or misuse of water, is being or has been contravened<sup>9</sup>;
  90. (b) determining whether, and if so in what manner, any power or duty conferred or imposed on any person<sup>10</sup> by regulations for preventing contamination and waste and in respect of water fittings<sup>11</sup> should be exercised or performed<sup>12</sup>; or
  91. (c) exercising any such power or performing any such duty<sup>13</sup>;
- 74
923 (2) carry out such inspections, measurements and tests on premises entered by him, or on water fittings or other articles found on any such premises, and take away such samples of water or of land<sup>14</sup> and such water fittings and other articles, as that person has been authorised<sup>15</sup> to carry out or take away<sup>16</sup>;
- 924 (3) enter any premises for the purpose, in relation to any private supply<sup>17</sup>, of determining whether, and if so in what manner, any statutory power or duty conferred or imposed on that authority<sup>18</sup> should be exercised or performed<sup>19</sup>, or exercising any such power or performing any such duty<sup>20</sup>;
- 925 (4) enter any premises to which a supply of water is provided by a water undertaker for the purpose, in relation to a supply so provided, of determining whether, and if so in what manner, any such power should be exercised or any such duty performed<sup>21</sup>, or exercising any such power or performing any such duty<sup>22</sup>; or
- 926 (5) carry out such inspections, measurements and tests on premises entered by that person or of articles found on any such premises, and take away such samples of water or of any land or articles, as the local authority considers appropriate for the purposes of any such power or duty<sup>23</sup> and has authorised that person to carry out or take away<sup>24</sup>.

1 For the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 84(1), the reference to a local authority includes a reference to a county council in England and to the Sub-treasurer of the Inner Temple and the Under Treasurer of the Middle Temple; and any expenses incurred by the Common Council of the City of London in the exercise of its functions under that provision is to be defrayed as part of its general expenses: s 84(6). WATER SUPPLY/(4) POWERS AND DUTIES OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES IN RELATION TO WATER SUPPLIES/ (iii) Rights of Entry and Power to Obtain Information/409. Local authority power to obtain information.

409. Local authority power to obtain information.

A local authority<sup>1</sup> may serve on any person<sup>2</sup> a notice<sup>3</sup> requiring him to furnish that authority, within a period or at times specified in the notice and in a form and manner so specified, with such information<sup>4</sup> as is reasonably required by that authority for the purpose of exercising or performing any statutory power or duty conferred or imposed on that authority<sup>5</sup> in relation to water supply<sup>6</sup>. The Secretary of State<sup>7</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>8</sup> may, however, by regulations<sup>9</sup> make provision for restricting the information which may be so required and for determining the form in which the information is to be so required<sup>10</sup>.

A person who fails without reasonable excuse to comply with the requirements of a notice served on him under these provisions is guilty of an offence<sup>11</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 118 note 17. The Local Better Regulation Office has the objective of securing that local authorities in England and Wales exercise their functions under the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 77-85 effectively, in a way which does not give rise to unnecessary burdens, and in a way which conforms with the statutory principles: see the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 ss 4(2), 5, Sch 3; and LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 733.

2 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

3 As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the service of documents see PARA 22.

4 As to the meaning of 'information' see PARA 117 note 13.

6 Water Industry Act 1991 s 85(1).

7 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

8 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 85, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

9 As to the making of regulations see PARA 21. At the date at which this volume states the law no such regulations had been made.

(5) FLUORIDATION

410. Early fluoridation schemes.

The first express authorisation of fluoridation schemes was contained in the Water (Fluoridation) Act 1985<sup>1</sup>, although prior to that there were in existence numerous agreements between water authorities and health authorities relating to fluoridation. At the date at which this title states the law<sup>2</sup>, a water undertaker may continue to operate a scheme for increasing the fluoride content of water which was first entered into before 20 December 1984 as arrangements by a former water authority<sup>3</sup> or a statutory water company<sup>4</sup> but which now has effect as if entered into by the water undertaker<sup>5</sup>, if it was in operation immediately before that date or work had been begun before that date for enabling it to be brought into operation<sup>6</sup>. This is subject to the condition that the arrangements require fluoridation to be effected only by the addition of one or more of the specified compounds of fluorine<sup>7</sup> and that the concentrations of fluoride in the water supplied to consumers<sup>8</sup> are maintained, so far as reasonably practicable, at one milligram per litre<sup>9</sup>. The statutory power to supply water to which fluoride has been added to consumers in another area<sup>10</sup> applies in relation to such a scheme<sup>11</sup>.

The arrangements under which such a scheme is operated may be varied to take account of any statutory amendment<sup>12</sup> changing the specified compounds of fluorine<sup>13</sup>. A pre-1985 scheme ceases to have effect upon the appropriate authority<sup>14</sup> giving to the undertaker reasonable notice of the authority's desire to terminate it<sup>15</sup>.

1     I.e. the Water (Fluoridation) Act 1985 (repealed in relation to England and Wales by the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 3(1), Sch 3 (but still in force in relation to Scotland)). See now the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt III Ch IV (ss 87-91); and PARAS 411-415.

2     Until the coming into force of the Water Act 2003 s 58(7) (pre-1985 fluoridation schemes: see the text to notes 17-24), notwithstanding the commencement of s 58(2), (3), (5) and (6) (see PARAS 411-415), the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 87, 88, 89, 90 (all as originally enacted) continue to apply to pre-1985 arrangements and are saved for the purposes of s 91 and Sch 7 (pre-1985 Fluoridation Schemes): see the Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 9 and Saving Provisions) (England) Order 2009, SI 2009/359, art 3, Schedule para 1. In addition, any provision of any subordinate legislation that refers to the Water Industry Act 1991 s 87, 88, 89 or 90 (as originally enacted) is saved with references to the relevant provision for the purposes of pre-1985 arrangements notwithstanding that for all other purposes the references to those sections will be read as a reference to the new s 87, 88, 89 or 90 (in accordance with the Interpretation Act 1978 s 17): Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 9 and Saving Provisions) (England) Order 2009, SI 2009/359, Schedule para 2. 'Pre-1985 arrangements' means arrangements in pursuance of which a scheme for increasing fluoride content of water was being operated by a water undertaker by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 7 para 1 (see the text to notes 3-9) immediately before 25 February 2009 (i.e. the date of the coming into force of the Water Act 2003 s 58(2) (see PARA 413)): Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 9 and Saving Provisions) (England) Order 2009, SI 2009/359, art 1(3). The Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 9 and Saving Provisions) (England) Order 2009, SI 2009/359, applies in relation to England only: see art 1(2). - 13 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 7 para 2(1)(c).
- 14 'Appropriate authority', in relation to a fluoridation scheme which is operated under the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 7, means the strategic health authority or health authority to which the water undertaker concerned is answerable in accordance with the arrangements under which the scheme is operated: Sch 7 para 2(2) (Sch 7 paras 2, 3 amended by the Health Authorities Act 1995 s 2(1), Sch 1 para 120(1), (4); and SI 2002/2469). References in the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt III Ch IV (ss 87-91, Sch 7) (as originally enacted) to a 'strategic health authority' or a 'health authority' are references to any such authority established under the National Health Service Act 1977 s 8 (repealed): Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(9) (as originally enacted; amended by the Health Authorities Act 1995 Sch 1 para 120(1), (2), and SI 2002/2469). As to strategic health authorities see now the National Health Act 2006 s 13; and HEALTH SERVICES vol 54 (2008) PARA 94. The functions of health authorities in Wales are transferred to local health boards: see HEALTH SERVICES vol 54 (2008) PARA 449 note 1.
- 15 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 7 para 2(1)(b). Section 89 (as originally enacted) (publicity and consultation, including the Secretary of State's power to dispense with the other requirements of that provision: see PARA 412) applies where a strategic health authority or a health authority proposes to terminate such a scheme as it applies where a health authority proposes to withdraw an application under s 87 (as originally enacted); and accordingly, in s 89(7) (as originally enacted), the reference to whether an application should be withdrawn is to be treated as a reference to whether such a scheme should be terminated: Sch 7 para 3(1), (2) (as amended: see note 14).
- 16 As from a day to be appointed, the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 7 ceases to have effect and s 91 is substituted: see the Water Act 2003 ss 58(7), (9), 105(3), (6). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.
- 17 Ie the day on which the Water Act 2003 s 58 comes into force: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 91(6) (s 91 prospectively substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 58(1), (7)).
- 18 'Relevant pre-1985 arrangements' means arrangements in pursuance of which a scheme for increasing the fluoride content of water was being operated by a water undertaker by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 7 para 1 (see the text to notes 1-9) immediately before the appointed day: s 91(6) (as prospectively substituted: see note 17).

- 20 Ie under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(1): see PARA 413.
- 21 Water Industry Act 1991 s 91(1) (as prospectively substituted: see note 17). For the purposes of Pt III Ch IV (ss 87-91), references to a 'relevant authority': (1) in relation to areas in England, are to a strategic health authority established under the National Health Service Act 2006 s 13 (see HEALTH SERVICES vol 54 (2008) PARA 94); (2) in relation to areas in Wales, are to the Welsh Ministers: s 87(3)(a) (substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 58(1), (2); amended by the National Health Service (Consequential Provisions) Act 2006 s 2, Sch 1, paras 137, 138). Functions under the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 87, 91 were originally vested in the National Assembly for Wales and will now be exercisable by the Welsh Ministers by virtue of the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2.
- 22 As to the meaning of 'modifications' see PARA 141 note 20.

23 Eg to insert the terms mentioned in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(6) (see PARA 413): s 91(2) (as prospectively substituted: see note 17).

24 Water Industry Act 1991 s 91(2) (as prospectively substituted: see note 17). If the relevant authority and the water undertaker fail to agree the modifications requested by the authority: (1) s 87B(2), (3) or, as the case may be, s 87B(4) (see PARA 413) apply as if the parties had failed to agree the terms of arrangements requested under s 87(1); and (2) following determination of the modifications (a) the relevant authority must give notice of the determination to the water undertaker; and (b) the arrangements are deemed to have been modified as so determined with effect from the day after the date of the notice: s 91(3) (as so prospectively substituted). Sections 87(11) (see PARA 413) and 89(1) (see PARA 411) (which relate to consultation) do not apply to the deemed entry into, and modification of, arrangements by virtue of s 91: s 91(4) (as so prospectively substituted).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(5) FLUORIDATION/411. Publicity and consultation as to fluoridation.

411. Publicity and consultation as to fluoridation.

At the date at which this volume states the law the following provisions have effect in relation to England only<sup>1</sup>.

Before taking any of the following steps a relevant authority<sup>2</sup> must: (1) consult and ascertain opinion in accordance with regulations<sup>3</sup> made by the appropriate authority<sup>4</sup>; and (2) comply with the requirements set out in regulations made by the appropriate authority<sup>5</sup>. Those steps are:

- 927 (a) requesting a water undertaker<sup>6</sup> to enter into arrangements<sup>7</sup> to increase the fluoride content of the water it supplies<sup>8</sup>;
- 928 (b) requesting a water undertaker to vary any such arrangements in, or except in, prescribed circumstances or cases<sup>9</sup>;
- 929 (c) giving notice to a water undertaker<sup>10</sup> to terminate any such arrangements<sup>11</sup>;
- 930 (d) maintaining any such arrangements in prescribed circumstances<sup>12</sup>.

Heads (1) and (2) above do not, however, apply in relation to a proposal by a relevant authority to take the step mentioned in head (c) above if the appropriate authority so directs by an instrument in writing<sup>13</sup>; and such a direction may apply either generally or in relation to a particular proposal<sup>14</sup>. Further, before carrying out the required consultation in relation to a step mentioned in head (a), (b) or (c) above, a relevant authority must consult the water undertaker in question as to whether the arrangements which would result from taking that step would be operable and efficient or, where it is proposed to terminate the arrangements, as to whether it would be reasonably practicable to do so<sup>15</sup>.

1 At the date at which this volume states the law the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 87(11), 89 (both as substituted) apply in relation to England only: see the Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 3) (England) Order 2005, SI 2005/344, art 2; Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 8) Order 2008, SI 2008/1922, art 2(b)-(d). Until such day as the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 87(11), 89 (both as substituted) are brought into force in relation to Wales, s 89 (as originally enacted and amended by the Health Authorities Act 1995 s 2(1), Sch 1 para 120(1), (3); SI 2002/2469) (see PARA 412) continues to apply in relation to Wales. As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2.

2 As to the meaning of 'relevant authority' see PARA 410 note 21.

3 Such regulations must include provision about the process which relevant authorities are to follow for those purposes: Water Industry Act 1991 s 89(3)(a) (s 89 substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 58(1), (5)). On the occasion of the first exercise by the Secretary of State of the power to make regulations under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 89, the instrument containing the regulations may not be made unless a draft of the instrument has been laid before, and approved by a resolution of, each House of Parliament: s 213(1A) (added by the Water Act 2003 s 58(1), (8)). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the laying of documents before Parliament see PARLIAMENT vol 34 (Reissue) PARA 941. As from a day to be appointed, the power of the Welsh Ministers to make regulations under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 89 (as so substituted) is exercisable by statutory instrument: s 213(1B) (prospectively added by the Water Act 2003 s 58(1), (8)); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 30. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

In order to consult and ascertain opinion before taking any step concerning fluoridation arrangements that falls within the Water Industry Act 1991 s 89(2) (see heads (a)-(d) in the text), a strategic health authority must: (1) publish details of the step it proposes to take, and the manner in which individuals who would be affected by it and bodies with an interest can make representations regarding the proposal in one or more newspapers circulating within the area to which the arrangements relate and in such other media accessible within that area as the Authority considers appropriate for the purpose of bringing the proposal to the attention of individuals affected and bodies with an interest; (2) give notice of the proposal to every local authority whose area falls wholly or partly within the area to which the arrangements relate: Water Fluoridation (Consultation) (England) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/921, reg 3(1)(a). The details so published must include: (a) the nature of the step the authority proposes to take; (b) the reasons for the proposal; (c) the area affected by the proposal; and (d) the period, being a period of not less than three months from the date on which the details are first published, within which representations can be made to the authority: reg 3(1)(b). The Water Fluoridation (Consultation) (England) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/921, apply in respect of fluoridation arrangements relating to water supplied to premises within an area which is wholly in England other than in a case to which the Water Industry Act 1991 s 89(5)(a) (see note 4) applies: Water Fluoridation (Consultation) (England) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/921, reg 1(2). As to strategic health authorities see HEALTH SERVICES vol 54 (2008) PARA 94. As to the meaning of 'month' see PARA 23 note 10. 'Fluoridation arrangements' means arrangements under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(1) (see PARA 413): Water Fluoridation (Consultation) (England) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/921, reg 2(1). References to individuals who would be affected by a step concerning fluoridation arrangements are to those individuals who live in the area to which the arrangements relate, or work in that area on a regular basis: reg 2(2). 'Local authority' means a county council, a district council, the Greater London Authority, a London borough council or the Common Council of the City of London: reg 2(1). As to local government areas and authorities in England see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 22 et seq. As to the Greater London Authority see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARAS 34, 79 et seq. As to the London boroughs and their councils see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 35 et seq. As to the Common Council of the City of London see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARAS 51-55.

4 Water Industry Act 1991 s 89(1)(a) (as substituted: see note 3). 'Appropriate authority': (1) in a case where two or more relevant authorities (one of which is the Welsh Ministers) propose to request a particular water undertaker to take a step mentioned in s 89(2)(a), (b) or (c) (see heads (a)-(c) in the text) in respect of arrangements in adjoining areas, means the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers acting jointly (s 89(5)(a) (as so substituted)); (2) in relation to England (except in a case to which head (1) applies), means the Secretary of State (s 89(5)(b) (as so substituted)); and (3) in relation to Wales (except in a case to which head (1) applies), means the Welsh Ministers (s 89(5)(c) (as so substituted)).

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 89(1)(b) (as substituted: see note 3). Regulations under this provision must include provision about the requirements which must be satisfied (with respect to the outcome of that process or otherwise) before a step mentioned in s 89(2) (see heads (a)-(d) in the text) may be taken: s 89(3)(b) (as so substituted). A strategic health authority must not proceed with any step regarding fluoridation arrangements that falls within s 89(2) unless, having regard to the extent of support for the proposal and the cogency of the arguments advanced, the authority is satisfied that the health arguments in favour of proceeding with the proposal outweigh all arguments against proceeding: Water Fluoridation (Consultation) (England) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/921, reg 5.

6 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

7 In arrangements under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(1): see PARA 413.

8 Water Industry Act 1991 s 89(2)(a) (as substituted: see note 3).

9 Water Industry Act 1991 s 89(2)(b) (as substituted: see note 3). 'Prescribed' means prescribed by regulations: see s 219(1). Requesting a water undertaker to vary fluoridation arrangements is a step falling within s 89(2) if the variation concerns the boundary of the area to which the arrangements relate, and the number of houses that would be affected by the variation, either by being brought within the area or by being excluded from it, exceeds 20% of the number of houses within the area at the time that the request is made: Water Fluoridation (Consultation) (England) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/921, reg 4(1). 'House' means any building or part of a building which is occupied as a dwelling-house, whether or not a private dwelling-house, or which, if unoccupied, is likely to be so occupied: reg 2(1).

10 In under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 87C(7): see PARA 413.

11 Water Industry Act 1991 s 89(2)(c) (as substituted: see note 3).

12 Water Industry Act 1991 s 89(2)(d) (as substituted: see note 3). Maintaining fluoridation arrangements is a step falling within s 89(2) if it involves the upgrading or replacement of fluoridation plant, otherwise than for the purpose of meeting operational or health and safety standards: Water Fluoridation (Consultation) (England) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/921, reg 4(2).

13 As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1.

14 Water Industry Act 1991 s 89(4) (as substituted: see note 3).

15 Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(11) (substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 58(1) (2)).

412. Fluoridation of water supplies at request of health authorities.

Until a day to be appointed the following provisions continue to have effect in relation to Wales only<sup>1</sup>.

Where a health authority<sup>2</sup> has applied in writing<sup>3</sup> to a water undertaker<sup>4</sup> for the water supplied within an area<sup>5</sup> specified in the application to be fluoridated, that undertaker may, while the application remains in force<sup>6</sup>, increase the fluoride content<sup>7</sup> of the water supplied by the undertaker within that area<sup>8</sup>. Any health authority making arrangements with a water undertaker following such an application to fluoridate must ensure that those arrangements include provisions designed to ensure that the concentration of fluoride in the water supplied to consumers<sup>9</sup> in the area in question is, so far as reasonably practicable, maintained at one milligram per litre<sup>10</sup>. Water to which fluoride has been added by a water undertaker in exercise of the power so conferred<sup>11</sup>, with a view to its supply in any area, may be supplied by that or any other undertaker to consumers in any other area if the undertaker or undertakers concerned<sup>12</sup> consider that it is necessary to do so for the purpose of dealing with any serious deficiency in supply<sup>13</sup>, or in connection with the carrying out of any works, including cleaning or maintenance, by the undertaker or any of the undertakers concerned<sup>14</sup>.

Where a health authority proposes to make or withdraw an application under the above provisions it must publicise the proposals and consult certain bodies in relation thereto<sup>15</sup>.

1 At the date at which this volume states the law, the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 87, 89 are substituted in relation to England only: see the Water Act 2003, ss 58(1), (2), (5), 105(3), (6); Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 3) (England) Order 2005, SI 2005/344, art 2; Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 8) Order 2008, SI 2008/1922, art 2(b)-(d); Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 9 and Saving Provisions) (England) Order 2009, SI 2009/359, arts 1(2), 2(a); and PARAS 411, 413. The Water Industry Act 1991 ss 87, 89 (as originally enacted) continue to apply in relation to Wales. As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2.

2 As to the meaning of 'health authority', and as to the transfer of functions of health authorities to local health boards, see PARA 410 note 14.

3 As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1.

4 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

5 The area specified in the application may be the whole, or any part of, the area of the authority making the application: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(3) (as originally enacted; s 87(1)-(3), (5) amended by the Health Authorities Act 1995 s 2(1), Sch 1 para 120(1), (2); and SI 2002/2469).

6 An application remains in force until the health authority, after giving reasonable notice to the water undertaker, withdraws it: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(2) (as originally enacted and amended: see note 5). As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the service of documents see PARA 22.

7 Where under this power the fluoride content of any water is increased, the increase may be effected only by the addition of one or more of the following compounds of fluorine: hexafluorosilicic acid (H<sub>2</sub>SiF<sub>6</sub>) or disodium hexafluorosilicate (Na<sub>2</sub>SiF<sub>6</sub>): Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(4) (as originally enacted). The Welsh Ministers may by order amend s 87(4) by adding a reference to another compound of fluorine, or removing any reference to a compound of fluorine: see s 88(1). At the date at which this title states the law, no such order had been made. Functions under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 88, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

8 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(1) (as originally enacted and amended: see note 5). Note that, in contrast to the position once the Water Act 2003 s 58 is brought into force (see PARA 413) the undertaker has a discretion whether to comply with a fluoridation request. In making its decision whether or not to do so, the undertaker must exercise its powers in accordance with its commercial obligation to its shareholders and in compliance with any statutory duties: R v Northumbrian Water Ltd, ex p Newcastle and North Tyneside Health Authority [1999] JPL 704. As to indemnities in respect of fluoridation see PARA 414.

9 As to the meaning of 'consumer' see PARA 122 note 35.

10 Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(5) (as originally enacted and amended: see note 5).

11 This reference to water to which fluoride has been added by a water undertaker includes water to which fluoride has been added by a water authority (within the meaning of the Water (Scotland) Act 1980) in exercise of the power conferred by the Water (Fluoridation) Act 1985 s 1 (amended in relation to Scotland and repealed in relation to England and Wales by the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 ss 2(1), 3(1), Sch 1 para 42, Sch 3 Pt I): Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(7)(a) (as originally enacted).

12 In relation to a supply of water by a water undertaker of water to which fluoride has been added by a water authority in Scotland, references to the water undertakers concerned have effect as references to the water undertaker and the water authority concerned: Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(7)(b) (as originally enacted).

13 Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(6)(a) (as originally enacted). 'Serious deficiency in supply' means any existing or threatened serious deficiency in the supply of water (whether in quantity or quality) caused by an exceptional lack of rain or by any accident or unforeseen circumstances: s 87(8) (as originally enacted).

14 Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(6)(b) (as originally enacted).

15 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 89 (as originally enacted; and amended by the Health Authorities Act 1995 s 2(1), Sch 1 para 120; SI 2002/2469).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(5) FLUORIDATION/413. Fluoridation of water supplies at request of relevant authorities.

413. Fluoridation of water supplies at request of relevant authorities.

If requested in writing<sup>2</sup> to do so by a relevant authority<sup>3</sup>, a water undertaker<sup>4</sup> must enter into arrangements with the relevant authority to increase the fluoride content<sup>5</sup> of the water supplied by that undertaker<sup>6</sup> to premises within the area specified in the arrangements<sup>7</sup>. A water undertaker is not, however, required to enter into any such arrangements until an indemnity with respect to the arrangements has been given<sup>8</sup> to the water undertaker and to any licensed water supplier which is entitled to one<sup>9</sup>.

The relevant authority must consult the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>10</sup> in relation to the terms to be included in any such arrangements, in particular terms which affect the operation of the water undertaker's supply system<sup>11</sup>. The arrangements must be on such terms as may be agreed between the relevant authority and the water undertaker or, in the absence of agreement, determined<sup>12</sup> in accordance with the provisions set out below<sup>13</sup>. Those terms must include provision: (1) requiring the relevant authority to meet the reasonable capital and operating costs incurred by the water undertaker in giving effect to the arrangements<sup>14</sup>; (2) specifying circumstances in which the requirement to increase the fluoride content may be temporarily suspended<sup>15</sup>; and (3) for the variation of the arrangements at the request of the relevant authority<sup>16</sup>.

If two or more relevant authorities request a particular water undertaker to enter into arrangements in respect of adjoining areas, the authorities must co-operate with each other so as to secure that the arrangements, taken together, are operable and efficient<sup>17</sup>; and if suitable terms are not agreed for all the arrangements, a combined reference may be made by the relevant authorities<sup>18</sup> to enable the terms of each set of arrangements to be determined so that they are consistent<sup>19</sup>. If a relevant authority requests a water undertaker to vary arrangements, the authority must co-operate with any relevant authority for an adjoining area which has entered into arrangements with the same water undertaker so as to secure that following the variation the arrangements, taken together, will be operable and efficient<sup>20</sup>; and if suitable terms are not agreed for such a variation, a combined reference may be made by the relevant authorities<sup>21</sup> to enable the terms of the variation to be determined so that, following the variation, both sets of arrangements are consistent<sup>22</sup>.

If a relevant authority and a water undertaker fail to agree the terms of arrangements requested by the relevant authority<sup>23</sup>, or a variation in the terms of those arrangements following a request by the relevant authority pursuant to head (3) above, the following provisions apply<sup>24</sup>. Except where the Welsh Ministers are one of the relevant authorities which has made a combined reference<sup>25</sup>:

931 (a) in relation to areas in England, the relevant authority may refer the matter to the Secretary of State for determination<sup>26</sup> and following such a reference, the Secretary of State may:

92. (i) determine the terms of the arrangements as he sees fit<sup>27</sup>; or

93. (ii) refer the matter for determination by such other person<sup>28</sup> as he considers appropriate<sup>29</sup>;

932 and the determination of the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the other person is final<sup>30</sup>;

933 (b) in relation to areas in Wales, the Welsh Ministers may determine the terms of the arrangements themselves as they see fit<sup>31</sup>, or refer the matter for determination by such other person as they consider appropriate<sup>32</sup>; and the determination of the Welsh Ministers or, as the case may be, the other person is final<sup>33</sup>.

Where the Welsh Ministers are one of the relevant authorities which has made a combined reference<sup>34</sup>, the terms of the arrangements must be determined by a person appointed by the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers acting jointly<sup>35</sup>, and the determination of that person is final<sup>36</sup>. Following determination of the terms to be included in any arrangements, the relevant authority must give notice<sup>37</sup> of the determination to the water undertaker in question<sup>38</sup>, and the undertaker is deemed to have entered into the arrangements on the terms so determined with effect from the day after the date of the notice<sup>39</sup>.

It is the duty of each water undertaker to comply with any arrangements entered into by it under the above provisions<sup>40</sup>. Arrangements so entered into remain in force until the relevant authority, after giving reasonable notice to the water undertaker, terminates them<sup>41</sup>; but, except where it is reasonably practicable to terminate the arrangements separately, arrangements entered into in respect of adjoining areas at the request of two or more relevant authorities<sup>42</sup> may only be terminated by the relevant authorities acting jointly<sup>43</sup>.

Where, pursuant to any such arrangements, the fluoride content of any water is increased, the increase may be effected only by the addition of one or more of the specified compounds of fluorine<sup>44</sup>. Water to which fluoride has been added pursuant to any such arrangements<sup>45</sup> entered into by a water undertaker, with a view to its supply in an area, may be supplied by that or any other undertaker to premises in any other area, whether or not that other area is the subject of such arrangements<sup>46</sup>; but this applies if, and only if, the undertaker or undertakers concerned<sup>47</sup> consider that it is necessary for the water to be supplied in the other area for the purpose of dealing with any serious deficiency in supply<sup>48</sup>, or in connection with the carrying out of any works, including cleaning and maintenance, by the undertaker concerned or, as the case may be, by the undertakers concerned, or by a licensed water supplier supplying water using its or their supply system<sup>49</sup>.

1 The Water Industry Act 1991 s 87 is substituted, and ss 87A-87C, 88A are added, by the Water Act 2003 s 58(1), (2), (4): see s 105(3), (5), (6). At the date at which this volume states the law these provisions as substituted and added apply in relation to England only: see the Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 8) Order 2008, SI 2008/1922, art 2(a), (d); Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 9 and Saving Provisions) (England) Order 2009, SI 2009/359, art 1(2). Until a day to be appointed the Water Industry Act 1991 s 87 (as originally enacted) (see PARA 412) continues to apply in relation to Wales. As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2.

2 As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1. As to publicity and consultation prior to the making of a request see PARA 411.

3 As to the meaning of 'relevant authority' see PARA 410 note 21.

4 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

5 Note that the reference is to increasing the fluoride content as fluoride occurs naturally in some water. Arrangements under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(1) must include provision for securing that, so far as reasonably practicable, the concentration of fluoride in the water supplied to premises in the specified area is maintained at the general target concentration of one milligram per litre (s 87A(1) (as added: see note 1)); but the arrangements may provide for the concentration in the specified area (or any part of it) to be lower than that if the relevant authority considers that it is not reasonably practicable to achieve the general target concentration in the specified area (or that part of it) (s 87A(2) (as so added)). Any such lower concentration must still be as high as is reasonably practicable in the circumstances: s 87A(3) (as so added). If, in relation to any area ('area A'), an order under s 88A(1) (see below) specifies a general target concentration lower than that for which any arrangements effective there provide (or, by the previous operation of this provision, are taken to provide), the arrangements have effect from the coming into force of the order as if they provided for the general target concentration specified in the order (subject to the operation again of s 87A(2), (3)): s 87A(4) (as so added). If the result of the operation of s 87A(4) in relation to arrangements in area A is that in an area adjoining area A ('area B') it is not reasonably practicable to maintain the concentration of fluoride in the water supplied by virtue of arrangements made in area B with the same water undertaker, the order must be taken to extend also to area B so far as those arrangements are concerned, and s 87A(4) applies accordingly: s 87A(5) (as so added). An order under s 88A(1) which in relation to any area specifies a general target concentration higher than that for which any arrangements effective there provide (or are taken to provide by virtue of s 87A(4) or (5)) does not have effect to increase the concentration for which the arrangements provide (or are taken to provide): s 87A(6) (as so added). 'Specified area' means the area specified in arrangements under s 87(1): s 87A(7) (as so added).

The appropriate authority may by order made by statutory instrument provide that s 87A(1) is to have effect as if for 'one milligram per litre' there were substituted a lower concentration specified in the order: s 88A(1) (as added: see note 1). Such an order may make different provision for different geographical areas, or for some such areas and not others: s 88A(2) (as so added). For these purposes, 'appropriate authority' (1) in relation to an area which is partly in England and partly in Wales, means the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers acting jointly; (2) in relation to an area which is wholly in England, means the Secretary of State; and (3) in relation to an area which is wholly in Wales, means the Welsh Ministers: s 88A(4) (as so added). A statutory instrument containing an order under s 88A(1) must not be made by the Secretary of State (or by the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers acting jointly) unless a draft of the instrument has been laid before, and approved by a resolution of, each House of Parliament: s 88A(3) (as so added). An order amending or revoking an order under s 88A(1) made by virtue of s 88A(4)(a) (see head (1) above) must also be made by the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers acting jointly: s 88A(5) (as so added). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. Functions under the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 87, 87B, 88A were originally vested in the National Assembly for Wales and are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers by virtue of the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

6 For the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt III Ch IV (ss 87-91), references to water supplied by a water undertaker are to water supplied, whether by a water undertaker or a licensed water supplier, to premises using the supply system of that undertaker: s 87(3)(b) (as substituted: see note 1). As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152. As to the meaning of 'supply system of a water undertaker' see PARA 319 note 8.

7 Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(1) (as substituted: see note 1). The area specified in such arrangements may be: (1) in relation to England, the whole or any part of the area of the strategic health authority in question; (2) in relation to Wales, such area comprising the whole or any part of Wales as the Welsh Ministers may determine: s 87(4) (as so substituted); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. References in Pt III Ch IV (ss 87-91) to arrangements entered into under s 87(1) include: (a) arrangements deemed to have been entered into under s 87 by virtue of s 87B(5)(b) (see the text to note 39) (s 87B(6) (as so substituted)); (b) arrangements treated as entered into by a water undertaker by virtue of s 91(1) (see PARA 410) (s 91(5)). As to the review of fluoridation arrangements see PARA 415.

With effect from the commencement day, any relevant application will have effect for these purposes as a request made by a relevant authority under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 87(1), and any other application made before the commencement day will cease to have effect on that day: Water Act 2003 s 58(11), (12). 'Commencement day' means the day when s 58 comes into force; and 'relevant application' means an application which was made before the passing of the Water Act 2003 (ie 20 November 2003), has not been withdrawn and has not been rejected in writing by the water undertaker to which it was made: s 58(13). In s 58(12), (13) 'application' means an application made under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 87 (see PARA 412) as it was in force at the time when the application was made (and includes an application made under the Water (Fluoridation) Act 1985 s 1 (repealed) and having effect as if made under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 87): Water Act 2003 s 58(14). Section 58(11)-(14) are in force except in relation to pre-1985 arrangements: see the Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 9 and Saving Provisions) (England) Order 2009, SI 2009/359, art 2(e). As to the meaning of 'pre-1985 arrangements' see PARA 410 note 2.

Those compounds are hexafluorosilicic acid ( $\text{H}_2\text{SiF}_6$ ) or disodium hexafluorosilicate ( $\text{Na}_2\text{SiF}_6$ ): s 87C(2) (as so added). The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers may by order amend s 87C(2) by adding a reference to another compound of fluorine or removing any reference to a compound of fluorine: s 88(1) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 58(1), (3)). At the date at which this volume states the law such amendment applies in relation to England only: see the Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 9 and Saving Provisions) (England) Order 2009, SI 2009/359, arts 1(2), 2(b). The power of the Secretary of State to make such an order is exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: Water Industry Act 1991 s 88(2). The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 88, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions will now be exercisable by the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the procedure in relation to subordinate legislation made by the Welsh Ministers see the Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 paras 33-35; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

45 This reference to water to which fluoride has been added pursuant to arrangements includes a reference to water to which fluoride has been added by Scottish Water in exercise of the power conferred by the Water (Fluoridation) Act 1985 s 1 (repealed in relation to England and Wales): Water Industry Act 1991 s 87C(5)(a) (as added: see note 1).

414. Indemnities in respect of fluoridation.

Until a day to be appointed the following provisions have effect<sup>1</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup> may, with the consent of the Treasury<sup>4</sup>, agree to indemnify any water undertaker<sup>5</sup> in respect of such of any of the following as the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers think fit, that is to say:

- 934 (1) liabilities incurred by the undertaker in connection with anything done by the undertaker for the purpose of increasing the fluoride content of any water supplied by the undertaker<sup>6</sup>;
- 935 (2) costs or expenses which are incurred by the undertaker, or for which the undertaker is liable, in connection with any proceedings which have been or may be brought by any person<sup>7</sup> with respect to (a) things done for the purpose of increasing the fluoride content of any water<sup>8</sup>; or (b) a proposal to increase the fluoride content of any water<sup>9</sup>;
- 936 (3) expenditure incurred by the undertaker in complying with an order made in any such proceedings<sup>10</sup>;
- 937 (4) liabilities transferred to the undertaker<sup>11</sup> which, in relation to the person from whom they were transferred, were liabilities falling within head (1) above or liabilities in respect of costs, expenses or other expenditure mentioned in head (3) or (4) above<sup>12</sup>.

As from a day to be appointed the above provisions are replaced by the following provisions<sup>13</sup>.

The Secretary of State, or in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>14</sup> may, with the consent of the Treasury, agree to indemnify any water undertaker in respect of liabilities which it may incur in complying with arrangements entered into by it<sup>15</sup> for increasing the fluoride content of water<sup>16</sup>. The Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may also, with the consent of the Treasury, agree to indemnify any licensed water supplier<sup>17</sup> in respect of liabilities which it may incur: (i) in supplying water to which fluoride has been added by a water undertaker by virtue of any such arrangements<sup>18</sup>; (ii) if the licensee is introducing water into the water undertaker's supply system<sup>19</sup>, in complying with any obligation imposed on it by the undertaker in consequence of the arrangements<sup>20</sup>. The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may by regulations<sup>21</sup> make provision with respect to: (A) the matters in respect of which an indemnity may be so given<sup>22</sup>; (B) the form and terms of any such indemnity<sup>23</sup>; and (C) such ancillary matters as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers see fit<sup>24</sup>.

1 As from a day to be appointed the Water Industry Act 1991 s 90 is substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 58(1), (6): see s 105(3), (5), (6). At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed. As to the provisions as prospectively substituted see the text to notes 13-24.

Where the Secretary of State agrees to indemnify a licensed water supplier under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 90(2) (see the text to notes 17-20), the form of the indemnity and its terms must be those set out in the Water Supply (Fluoridation Indemnities) (England) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/920, Sch 1, subject to the modifications set out in Sch 2: reg 2(2). The Water Supply (Fluoridation Indemnities) (England) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/920, apply to agreements to indemnify water undertakers and licensed water suppliers whose areas are situated wholly in England: reg 1(2). #### 415. Review of fluoridation.

A relevant authority<sup>2</sup> which has entered into arrangements<sup>3</sup> to increase the fluoride content of water must: (1) monitor the effects of the arrangements on the health of persons living in the area specified in the arrangements<sup>4</sup>; and (2) publish reports containing an analysis of those effects<sup>5</sup>. The relevant authority must make available any information<sup>6</sup> collected by it for these purposes<sup>7</sup>, or summaries of that information<sup>8</sup>.

These provisions cease to apply in relation to any such arrangements if those arrangements are terminated<sup>9</sup>.

1 As from a day to be appointed, the Water Industry Act 1991 s 90A is added by the Water Act 2003 s 58(1), (6): see s 105(3), (5), (6). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

The relevant authority must publish such a report within the period of four years beginning with the date on which the arrangements come into force (unless s 91(1) (see PARA 410) applies in relation to the arrangements): s 90A(3) (as so added). Where s 91(1) applies in relation to the arrangements, the relevant authority must publish such a report within the period of four years beginning with the date on which the Water Act 2003 s 58 came into force: Water Industry Act 1991 s 90A(4) (as so added). The relevant authority must publish a further report under s 90A(1)(b) within each period of four years beginning with the date on which its last such report was published: s 90A(5) (as so added).

(6) WATER SUPPLY IN THE LONDON AREA

416. In general.

Statutory water undertakers<sup>1</sup> are generally regulated by the Water Industry Act 1991<sup>2</sup>, but local statutory provisions<sup>3</sup> having effect in the metropolitan area<sup>4</sup> before 1 April 1974 may continue to apply to the statutory undertaker<sup>5</sup>. Such local provisions are particularly relevant in determining the required pressure of the water supply, and the ownership of service pipes<sup>6</sup>. Local provisions also apply to the laying of pipes and mains in streets, domestic and non-domestic supplies and the expenses of disconnections<sup>7</sup>.

Whilst many local statutory provisions applied to the former metropolitan water companies generally, the special legislation of each of the former companies, where it continues to apply, applies only in relation to the limits of supply of the company concerned. In so far as they have not been superseded by later enactments, the Waterworks Clauses Acts 1847 and 1863 continue to have effect in the metropolitan area to the extent that they are incorporated in unrepealed special Acts<sup>8</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

2 See PARA 137 et seq. Subject to any provision to the contrary which is contained in the Water Act 1989 Sch 26 or in the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991, nothing in any local statutory provision passed or made before 1 September 1989 is to be construed as relieving the undertaker from any liability arising by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991 in respect of any act or omission occurring on or after that date: Water Industry Act 1991 s 220. As to the meaning of 'local statutory provision' see PARA 14 note 24.

3 As to the power to amend or repeal such provisions in order to bring them into line with general legislation see PARA 14.

4 The metropolitan area is the area comprising the limits of supply of the former Metropolitan Water Board: see the Metropolis Water Act 1902 s 1(1), Sch 2.

5 See the Water Act 1973 s 34(2), Sch 6 Pt II (prospectively repealed by the Water Act 1989 s 190(3), Sch 27 Pt II); and the Water (Local Statutory Provisions) (Consequential Amendments) Order 1989, SI 1989/1380. Local statutory provisions which are continued, continue to apply only to the area to which they applied before 1 April 1974.

6 See eg the Metropolis Water Act 1871 s 7 (amended by the Statute Law Revision (No 2) Act 1893); the Metropolitan Water Board Act 1932; and LONDON GOVERNMENT.

7 See note 6. See also the Metropolitan Water Board Act 1927 ss 16, 18; and LONDON GOVERNMENT.

8 The Waterworks Clauses Acts 1847 and 1863 were repealed by the Water Act 1945 s 62, Sch 5 (repealed). The special Acts of the former metropolitan water companies incorporated provisions of the Waterworks Clauses Act 1847 and extended those provisions to the whole of their undertakings. The Waterworks Clauses Act 1863 was applied and extended to the undertaking of the former Metropolitan Water Board by the Metropolitan Water Board Act 1913 s 4. See further LONDON GOVERNMENT.

(7) WATER CHARGES AND METERING

(i) In general

417. Powers to make charges.

Relevant undertakers<sup>1</sup> have power to make charges for any services provided in the course of carrying out their statutory functions in relation to water<sup>2</sup>. Charges made by persons who make private supplies of water and are not appointed as relevant undertakers are not regulated by specific statutory provisions and would appear to be entirely a matter for agreement between the persons concerned and their consumers<sup>3</sup>.

<sup>2</sup> See PARA 419 et seq. For the purposes of the charge to value added tax, the supply of water is treated as a supply of goods and not as a supply of services, in so far as it would not otherwise be a supply of goods: see the Value Added Tax Act (Water) Order 1989, SI 1989/1114, art 2; and VALUE ADDED TAX vol 49(1) (2005 Reissue) PARA 27. Supplies of domestic sewerage services and most supplies of water are zero-rated supplies for VAT purposes: see the Value Added Tax Act 1994 s 30(2), Sch 8 Pt II Group 2; and VALUE ADDED TAX vol 49(1) (2005 Reissue) PARA 176.

<sup>3</sup> The quality of private water supplies is, however, subject to statutory regulation: see the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 80-83 (PARAS 404-406); and the Private Water Supplies Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2790; and PARAS 377, 379, 407.

418. Free water or fixed price agreements.

In the past a water authority or undertaker<sup>1</sup> sometimes agreed to give a free or fixed price water supply to a particular customer or group of customers, often by way of compensation<sup>2</sup>. Generally if the supply was granted free of charge the relevant undertaker must continue providing the supply subject to the terms of the agreement<sup>3</sup>. If the agreement provides for a fixed price water supply in perpetuity a term may be implied into the agreement to the effect that the agreement is terminable by either side on reasonable notice<sup>4</sup>.

(ii) Charges for Services Provided by Water Undertakers

A. INTRODUCTION

419. Undertakers' powers to charge.

The powers of every relevant undertaker<sup>1</sup> include power to fix charges for any services<sup>2</sup> provided in the course of carrying out its functions<sup>3</sup>, and to demand and recover charges so fixed from any persons<sup>4</sup> to whom the undertaker provides services<sup>5</sup>. These powers are exercisable:

- 938 (1) by or in accordance with a charges scheme<sup>6</sup>; or
- 939 (2) except in relation to charges for the supply of water to a dwelling<sup>7</sup>, or charges for the provision of sewerage services in respect of a dwelling<sup>8</sup>, by or in accordance with agreements<sup>9</sup> with the persons to be charged<sup>10</sup>.

Except as otherwise provided<sup>11</sup>, a relevant undertaker may fix such charges by reference to such matters, and may adopt such methods and principles for the calculation and imposition of the charges, as appear to the undertaker to be appropriate<sup>12</sup>; but these charging powers may not be exercised so as to contravene<sup>13</sup> any local statutory provision<sup>14</sup> which expressly provides that no charge may be made for a particular service<sup>15</sup>.

The use of limiting devices in relation to a person's principal dwelling and certain other specified premises with the intention of enforcing payment of charges is expressly prohibited<sup>16</sup>.

Where a temporary hosepipe ban is imposed by a water undertaker, charges made by the undertaker for the use of a hosepipe or similar apparatus are subject to a reasonable reduction, and, in the case of a charge paid in advance, the undertaker must make any necessary repayment or adjustment<sup>17</sup>.

1 Nothing in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 142(1)-(5) or in any charges scheme under s 143 (see PARA 421) affects any power of a relevant undertaker to fix charges under any power conferred otherwise than by virtue of Pt V Ch I (ss 142-150B): s 142(6). As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8.

2 As to the meaning of 'services' see PARA 129 note 7. See also, for the interpretation of the expression 'services provided' in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 142(1), Ministry of Defence v Thames Water Utilities Ltd [2006] EWCA Civ 1620, [2006] All ER (D) 391 (Nov).

3 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 142(1)(a). As to the meaning of 'functions' see PARA 133 note 5. In the case of a sewerage undertaker, it also has power to fix charges to be paid in connection with the carrying out of its trade effluent functions (ie its functions under Pt IV Ch III (ss 118-141) (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 1047 et seq)): s 142(1)(a), (7).

4 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

8 Water Industry Act 1991 s 142(2A)(b) (as added: see note 7). As to charges for sewerage services see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 1038.

9 A sewerage undertaker's power to make such agreements is subject to further statutory restrictions: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 142(3), (3A) (s 143(3A) added by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 114(1), (3)); and ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 1038.

420. General restrictions on charging.

A relevant undertaker<sup>1</sup> is not entitled<sup>2</sup> to fix, demand or recover an initial charge for becoming, or for taking steps for the purpose of becoming, the provider of a supply of water for domestic purposes<sup>3</sup> to any premises<sup>4</sup>, or the provider of sewerage services<sup>5</sup> for the purposes of the drainage for domestic sewerage purposes<sup>6</sup> of any premises<sup>7</sup>. Nothing in this provision, however, or in any other enactment is to be construed as prohibiting the fixing, demand or recovery by a relevant undertaker of:

- 940 (1) a charge for connection to a water supply of premises which have never at any previous time been connected to a supply of water provided for domestic purposes by a water undertaker<sup>8</sup> or by any other authority or body which at that time provided supplies of water in the course of carrying out functions under any enactment<sup>9</sup>; or
- 941 (2) a charge for the connection to a public sewer<sup>10</sup> of premises which have never at any previous time whatsoever been connected to a sewer used for the drainage for domestic sewerage purposes of those premises by a sewerage undertaker<sup>11</sup> or by any other authority or body which at that time provided sewerage services in the course of carrying out functions under any enactment<sup>12</sup>.

So far as these provisions restrict the making of certain charges, they are without prejudice to enactments by virtue of which a relevant undertaker may recover expenses incurred by it in carrying out works<sup>13</sup>, and to the power of the undertaker<sup>14</sup> to fix the amount of any of its other charges by reference to such matters as it thinks appropriate<sup>15</sup>.

Notwithstanding anything in the statutory provision for compensation to be paid by a fire and rescue authority<sup>16</sup>, or anything in the general powers to charge<sup>17</sup> or in any charges scheme<sup>18</sup>, or anything in any agreement as to charges in respect of any supply of water, no charge may be made by any water undertaker in respect of:

- 942 (a) water taken for the purpose of extinguishing fires or taken by a fire and rescue authority for any other emergency purpose<sup>19</sup>;
- 943 (b) water taken for the purpose of testing apparatus installed or equipment used for extinguishing fires or for the purpose of training persons for fire-fighting<sup>20</sup>; or
- 944 (c) the availability of water for any such purpose<sup>21</sup>.

These restrictions on charging do not prevent the making of charges in respect of work carried out at the request of, or for the benefit of, any person<sup>22</sup> receiving a supply of water for the purposes mentioned in head (a) or head (b) above<sup>23</sup>; nor do they have the effect, where any water is used or made available for any of those purposes, of requiring a reduction in the charges imposed in respect of the provision for other purposes of the supply from which that water is taken<sup>24</sup>.

2 le by virtue of anything in the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt V Ch I (ss 142-150B) (see PARA 419, PARA 421 et seq) or in any other enactment. As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31.

8 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

9 Water Industry Act 1991 s 146(2)(a). These are the charges usually referred to as 'infrastructure charges' and were introduced for the first time by the Water Act 1989: see s 79 (repealed).

Generally, three types of charges need to be distinguished: (1) charges payable in respect of a requisitioned water main (see PARA 332) which are only payable if a main is requisitioned or if capacity in an earlier oversized main (requisitioned in the previous 12 years) is used; (2) charges payable for connection to a water main (see PARA 335) which are in respect of the physical connection of the customer's pipe to the water main; and (3) charges under head (1) in the text in respect of the relevant undertaker's infrastructure costs in supplying the new connection. The Water Industry Act 1991 s 146(2) is concerned with the connection to the water and sewerage systems of premises which have not previously been so connected, and includes new premises which are likely to place an additional burden on the system as a whole; where existing buildings are converted, it is a question of fact and degree whether the result is, or includes, the construction and connection of premises which have never previously been connected, or whether the conversion retains the identity of premises which existed and were connected before the conversion took place: see Thames Water Utilities Ltd v Hampstead Homes (London) Ltd [2002] EWCA Civ 1487, [2003] 3 All ER 1304, [2003] 1 WLR 198.

11 As to the meaning of 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

12 Water Industry Act 1991 s 146(2)(b). A sewerage undertaker is not, however, authorised to require any payment to be made to it in respect of its making any declaration of vesting under Pt IV Ch II (ss 98-117) or in respect of any agreement to make such a declaration; nor is a sewerage undertaker authorised to require any payment to be made to it by a highway authority in respect of the drainage of any highway or the disposal of the contents of any drain or sewer used for draining any highway: see s 146(3), (4); and ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 1039. 23 Water Industry Act 1991 s 147(2).

24 Water Industry Act 1991 s 147(3). In practice, if the supply is for purposes other than domestic purposes, the conditions of supply may require water used for fire-fighting to be taken from a separate system of pipes from that used for other purposes. As to the power to impose conditions on a supply for non-domestic purposes see PARA 347.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(7) WATER CHARGES AND METERING/(ii) Charges for Services Provided by Water Undertakers/B. CHARGES SCHEMES/421. Charges schemes.

B. CHARGES SCHEMES

421. Charges schemes.

A relevant undertaker<sup>1</sup> may make a charges scheme which has effect in relation to a specified period of 12 months<sup>2</sup> and fixes the charges to be paid for any services provided by the undertaker in the course of carrying out its functions<sup>3</sup>, and which also, or alternatively, makes provision with respect to the times and methods of payment of the charges fixed by the scheme<sup>4</sup>. A charges scheme may make different provision for different cases, including different provision in relation to different circumstances or localities, and contain supplemental, consequential and transitional provision for the purposes of the scheme, and may revoke or amend a previous charges scheme<sup>5</sup>. Nothing in any charges scheme, however, affects any power of a relevant undertaker, in a case other than the supply of water or sewerage services to a dwelling<sup>6</sup>, to enter into such an agreement with any person<sup>7</sup> in any particular case as determines the charges to be made for the services provided to that person by the undertaker<sup>8</sup>.

A charges scheme does not take effect unless it has been approved by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>9</sup>. The Authority may not exercise this power for the purpose of limiting the total revenues of relevant undertakers from charges fixed by or in accordance with charges schemes<sup>10</sup>. The Secretary of State<sup>11</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>12</sup> may give guidance to the Authority on the exercise of this power and the Authority must have regard to that guidance in the exercise of the power<sup>13</sup>. The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must arrange for any such guidance to be published in such manner as he or they consider appropriate<sup>14</sup>.

The provisions of any charges scheme must comply with any requirements prescribed by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers by regulations<sup>15</sup>. Such regulations may<sup>16</sup>:

- 945 (1) prescribe items with respect to which a consumer<sup>17</sup> is, or is not, to be liable to pay a charge<sup>18</sup>;
- 946 (2) make provision as to the matters by reference to which charges may be fixed and as to methods and principles to be adopted in calculating and imposing charges<sup>19</sup>;
- 947 (3) require alternative bases of charging to be made available to consumers<sup>20</sup>; and
- 948 (4) require special provision, including exemption from specified charges, to be made for the purpose of assisting individuals who are or would be liable to pay any charges and who fall within any class of individuals appearing to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers to require special provision<sup>21</sup>.

Regulations imposing requirements for the purpose mentioned in head (4) above may:

- 949 (a) prescribe the classes of persons for whom special provision is to be made in relation to any premises by reference to matters such as age, ill-health or disability, the age, ill-health or disability of any of their dependants or of any other persons who have their homes in the premises, or their financial circumstances<sup>22</sup>;

- 950 (b) make provision as to the method by which a person may establish his entitlement to assistance under the regulations<sup>23</sup>; and
- 951 (c) make provision as to responsibility for costs incurred for the purpose of establishing that entitlement<sup>24</sup>.

This power to make regulations may not be exercised for the purpose of limiting the total revenues of relevant undertakers from charges fixed by or in accordance with charges schemes<sup>25</sup>.

In addition to these statutory provisions, the conditions of a water undertaker's appointment will make further provision with regard to charges; and detailed provision is made in all such appointments to allow the Water Services Regulation Authority to limit increases in charges<sup>26</sup>.

- 2 As to the meaning of 'month' see PARA 23 note 10.
- 3 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 143(1)(a) (s 143(1) amended by the Water Industry Act 1999 s 4(1), (2)). As to the meaning of 'functions' see PARA 133 note 5.
- 4 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 143(1)(c). As to the additional provision which may be made in such a scheme by a sewerage undertaker see s 143(1)(b), (2), (3), (3A) (s 143(3A) added by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 115); and ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 1038. A water undertaker is required under the conditions of its appointment to have a charges scheme which fixes the charges to be paid for supplies of water for domestic purposes and infrastructure charges. As to conditions of appointment see PARA 142. #### 422. Occupier's liability for charges.

Subject as set out below, and except in so far as provision to the contrary is made by any agreement to which the undertaker is a party, supplies of water provided by a water undertaker<sup>1</sup> are treated<sup>2</sup> as services provided to the occupiers<sup>3</sup> for the time being of any premises supplied<sup>4</sup>. Sewerage services<sup>5</sup> provided by a sewerage undertaker<sup>6</sup> are treated as provided to the occupiers for the time being of any premises which are drained by a sewer or drain<sup>7</sup> connecting, either directly or through an intermediate sewer or drain, with such a public sewer<sup>8</sup> of the sewerage undertaker as is provided for foul water or surface water<sup>9</sup> or both<sup>10</sup>, or are premises the occupiers of which have the benefit of facilities which drain to a drain or sewer so connecting<sup>11</sup>.

Charges which are fixed<sup>12</sup> in relation to any premises by reference to volume<sup>13</sup>, may be imposed so that a person is made liable, in relation to those premises, to pay charges for services provided by a relevant undertaker<sup>14</sup> after that person has ceased to be the occupier of the premises<sup>15</sup>. A person may not, however, be made liable by virtue of this provision for any charges fixed in relation to any premises by any relevant undertaker, except where he fails to inform the undertaker of the ending of his occupation of the premises at least two working days<sup>16</sup> before he ceases to occupy them<sup>17</sup>, and the charges are in respect of a period ending no later than with the first relevant day<sup>18</sup>.

Where any person who is the occupier of any premises to which a supply of water is provided by a water undertaker has served notice<sup>19</sup> on the undertaker requesting disconnection<sup>20</sup>, and that notice is given otherwise than in connection with that person's ceasing to be the occupier of the premises in a case in which provision is made<sup>21</sup> for him to be liable for charges fixed in relation to volume as mentioned above<sup>22</sup>, then, notwithstanding that that person continues to be the occupier of those premises, he is not liable to the undertaker, otherwise than in pursuance of a demand for a supply made since the service of the notice, for any charges in respect of any supply of water to those premises after the appropriate time<sup>23</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

2 Ie for the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt V Ch I (ss 142-150B): see PARAS 419-421, 423 et seq.

3 Where, in the case of any premises: (1) the person who was liable, immediately before 1 September 1989, to pay charges in respect of a supply of water to those premises was the owner of those premises rather than the occupier; (2) that person was so liable, under the Water Act 1945 Sch 3 s 54 (repealed) or any other local statutory provision, otherwise than by virtue of an agreement; and (3) the person who was in fact the occupier of the premises on that date has not ceased to be the occupier before 1 December 1991, then the person who is the owner from time to time of those premises continues, until the person mentioned in head (3) does cease to be the occupier of the premises, to be the person liable and, accordingly, is treated for these purposes as if he were the occupier of the premises: Water Industry Act 1991 s 144(8). 17 Water Industry Act 1991 s 144(3)(a).

18 Water Industry Act 1991 s 144(3)(b). 'First relevant day', in relation to a case in which a person has ceased to be the occupier of any premises in relation to which charges are fixed by a relevant undertaker, means whichever of the following first occurs after he ceases to occupy the premises, ie: (1) where that person informs the undertaker of the ending of his occupation of the premises less than two working days before, or at any time after, he ceases to occupy them, the twenty-eighth day after he so informs the undertaker (s 144(4)(a)); (2) any day on which any meter would normally have been read in order for the amount of the charges to be determined (s 144(4)(b)); (3) any day on which any other person informs the undertaker that he has become the new occupier of the premises (s 144(4)(c)). WATER SUPPLY/(7) WATER CHARGES AND METERING/(ii) Charges for Services Provided by Water Undertakers/B. CHARGES SCHEMES/423. Maximum charges for services provided by others with the help of undertakers' services.

423. Maximum charges for services provided by others with the help of undertakers' services.

The Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>1</sup> may from time to time by order<sup>2</sup> fix maximum charges which a person who is not a relevant undertaker<sup>3</sup> may recover from another such person in respect of water supplies or sewerage services<sup>4</sup> provided to that other person with the help of services provided by a relevant undertaker<sup>5</sup>. However, this provision does not apply to water supplies provided<sup>6</sup> by a licensed water supplier<sup>7</sup> to premises of customers<sup>8</sup>.

Such an order may require the person providing the supplies or services to furnish the person who is provided with them with such information<sup>9</sup> as may be specified or described in the order<sup>10</sup>; and an order containing such a requirement may also provide that, in the event of the failure of the person providing the supplies or services to furnish that information, the maximum charges he is entitled to recover from the person provided with them in respect of those supplies or services is to be such as may be fixed by the order<sup>11</sup>.

It is the duty of the Water Services Regulation Authority to publish any order under these provisions in such manner as it considers appropriate for the purpose of bringing it to the attention of persons likely to be affected by the order<sup>12</sup>.

Where a person pays a charge in respect of anything to which such an order relates and the amount paid exceeds the maximum charge fixed by the order, the amount of the excess<sup>13</sup> and, if the order so provides, interest on that amount at a rate specified or described in the order<sup>14</sup>, is recoverable by that person from the person to whom he paid the charge<sup>15</sup>.

1 As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109.

2 Such an order may make different provision for different cases, including different provision in relation to different persons, circumstances or localities, and may fix a maximum charge either by specifying the maximum amount of the charge or by specifying a method of calculating that amount: Water Industry Act 1991 s 150(4). Such orders, not being required to be made by statutory instrument, are not recorded in this work. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

3 As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8.

4 As to the meaning of 'sewerage services' see PARA 129 note 7.

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 150(1) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). For these purposes, water supplies or sewerage services are provided to a person with the help of services provided by a relevant undertaker if: (1) a facility for that person to have access to a supply of water provided by a relevant undertaker in pipes, or to make use of sewerage services provided by a sewerage undertaker, is made available to that person otherwise than by the undertaker (Water Industry Act 1991 s 150(2)(a)); (2) that person is provided with a supply of water in pipes by a person to whom the water is supplied, directly or indirectly, by a water undertaker (s 150(2)(b)); or (3) that person is provided with sewerage services by a person who, for the purpose of providing those services, makes use of sewerage services provided, directly or indirectly, by a sewerage undertaker (s 150(2)(c)). In practice, orders under this provision would be designed to prevent owners of eg rented property or caravan sites who pay water charges direct to the relevant undertaker overcharging the occupants of those premises for water supplies. As to the meaning of 'pipe' see PARA 138 note 11. As to the meanings of 'water undertaker' and 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the Water Services Regulation Authority's general control over price increases by a relevant undertaker see PARA 421.

Provision was made in the Public Utility Transfers and Water Charges Act 1988<sup>1</sup> for metering trials. That provision was later repealed<sup>2</sup>, but transitional provisions in relation to metering trials are still in force<sup>3</sup> whereby those 1988 provisions continue to apply, with the necessary modifications, to so much of any charges scheme made by a water undertaker<sup>4</sup> as amends or revokes any metering trial scheme which was made before 1 September 1989 and which was either in force immediately before that date or due to come into force after that date and which continues in force as a charges scheme<sup>5</sup> by virtue of those transitional provisions<sup>6</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> may by regulations<sup>3</sup> make such provision supplementing the statutory provisions relating to charges<sup>4</sup> and, so far as they relate to works for purposes connected with the fixing of charges in relation to any premises by reference to volume<sup>5</sup>, the statutory provisions as to works powers<sup>6</sup>, as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers consider appropriate with respect to the installation of meters<sup>7</sup>, the connection, disconnection, use, maintenance, authentication and testing of meters and with respect to any related matters<sup>8</sup>. Such regulations may<sup>9</sup>:

- 952 (1) regulate the positioning, whether inside or outside the building or other premises to which the meter relates, of any meter or of any pipes<sup>10</sup> or apparatus appearing to any relevant undertaker<sup>11</sup> to be required for the purpose of facilitating the use of any meter<sup>12</sup>;
- 953 (2) require a relevant undertaker who, for the purposes of meeting the needs of a disabled person, alters the position of any meter, installs an additional meter or does any other work in connection with any meter, to bear any expenses incurred by the undertaker in doing so<sup>13</sup>;
- 954 (3) make any other provision which appears to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers to be appropriate with respect to any such pipes or apparatus<sup>14</sup>;
- 955 (4) provide for a reading from a meter to be proved in the prescribed<sup>15</sup> manner and for a reading from a meter to be such evidence as may be prescribed of the volume of water supplied to, or of effluent<sup>16</sup> discharged from, any premises<sup>17</sup>;
- 956 (5) fix the method of determining the amount of the charges to be paid where it appears that a meter has, or may have, given an incorrect reading<sup>18</sup>;
- 957 (6) require a person<sup>19</sup> who is not a relevant undertaker to pay the expenses incurred by such an undertaker in doing anything under the regulations or to pay contributions towards those expenses<sup>20</sup>;
- 958 (7) provide for the payment of compensation in respect of anything done by a relevant undertaker under the regulations<sup>21</sup>;
- 959 (8) require disputes arising under the regulations to be referred to arbitration<sup>22</sup>;
- 960 (9) repeal or amend any local statutory provision<sup>23</sup>.

Where water is supplied by a water undertaker<sup>1</sup> to premises in which, or in any part of which, a person has his home<sup>2</sup>, and charges in respect of those premises are fixed by virtue of any charges scheme<sup>3</sup> without reference to the volume of water supplied<sup>4</sup>, the consumer<sup>5</sup> may at any time give the undertaker a notice (a 'measured charges notice')<sup>6</sup> requiring the undertaker to fix charges in respect of the supply by reference to the volume of water supplied<sup>7</sup>. A water undertaker must give effect to a measured charges notice before the end of a period determined in accordance with the undertaker's charges scheme<sup>8</sup>; but it is not obliged to give effect to a measured charges notice if: (1) it is not reasonably practicable to fix charges in respect of the premises by reference to the volume of water supplied<sup>9</sup>; or (2) to do so would involve the incurring by the undertaker of unreasonable expense<sup>10</sup>. Any dispute between a water undertaker and a consumer as to the application of head (1) or head (2) above may be referred to the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>11</sup> for determination<sup>12</sup> by either party to the dispute<sup>13</sup>.

Where either the conditions specified in heads (a) and (b) below, or the conditions specified in heads (i) to (iii) below are satisfied in relation to premises in respect of which a measured charges notice has been given<sup>14</sup>, and such other conditions as may be prescribed<sup>15</sup> are also satisfied in relation to the premises<sup>16</sup>, the consumer may, at any time before the end of the period of 12 months<sup>17</sup> beginning with the day on which the supply began to be measured by volume for charging purposes, revoke the measured charges notice by notice to the water undertaker<sup>18</sup>. The first such specified conditions are:

- 961 (a) that the person who gave the measured charges notice had not given any previous measured charges notice in relation to the premises<sup>19</sup>; and
- 962 (b) that he remains the consumer in respect of the premises<sup>20</sup>.

The second such specified conditions are:

- 963 (i) that the person who gave the measured charges notice has, since the notice was given, ceased to be the consumer in respect of the premises<sup>21</sup>;
- 964 (ii) that neither he nor the person who has become the consumer had given any previous measured charges notice in respect of the premises<sup>22</sup>; and
- 965 (iii) that any person who was in occupation of the premises when the measured charges notice was given remains in occupation<sup>23</sup>.

Where a measured charges notice has been so revoked, the water undertaker must, if reasonably practicable, before the end of the period of 12 months referred to above<sup>24</sup>, or in any other case, as soon as reasonably practicable after the end of that period<sup>25</sup>, revert to fixing the charges for the supply in respect of the premises without reference to the volume of water supplied<sup>26</sup>.

If and so long as a water undertaker is obliged under the above provisions to fix charges for the supply of water in respect of any premises by reference to the volume of water supplied, a sewerage undertaker is under a corresponding obligation to fix charges in respect of foul water drainage provided by the sewerage undertaker in respect of those premises by reference to that volume<sup>27</sup>; and if a water undertaker is obliged under the above provisions to fix charges without reference to volume, a sewerage undertaker is under a corresponding obligation in respect of charges for services provided by it<sup>28</sup>.

Any charges scheme<sup>29</sup> has effect subject to these provisions<sup>30</sup>.

15 'Prescribed' means prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers: see Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1). As to the making of regulations see PARA 21. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 144A, so far as exercisable in relation to any water or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales (but not in relation to any licensed water suppliers), were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1 (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 100(2)(b)(x)). These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the meaning of 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

16 Water Industry Act 1991 s 144A(5)(b) (as added: see note 2). The prescribed conditions for these purposes, and for the purposes of s 144B(1)(c) (see PARA 428) are that: (1) in the case of premises which are not used solely as a person's home, that other use is not the principal use of the premises; (2) the water supplied to the premises is not used (a) for watering a garden, other than by hand, by means of any apparatus; (b) for automatically replenishing a pond, or a swimming pool, with a capacity greater than 10,000 litres; (c) in a bath with a capacity (measured to the centre line of overflow) greater than 230 litres; (d) in a shower unit of a type specified under the Water Supply (Water Fittings) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1148, reg 5, Table para 4(c) (see PARA 367); or (e) in a unit which incorporates reverse osmosis; (3) the premises are not in an area which has been determined by the Secretary of State to be an area of water scarcity for these purposes; and (4) the premises are not (a) in an area which has been determined by the Secretary of State to be an area of serious water stress for these purposes; and (b) subject to a programme for the fixing of charges by reference to volume, as specified in the water resources management plan of the relevant water undertaker published under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 37B(8)(a) (see PARA 322): Water Industry (Prescribed Conditions) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/3442, reg 2 (amended by SI 2007/2457).

The Secretary of State may, on the application of a water undertaker, determine an area to be an area of water scarcity for these purposes if he considers it appropriate to do so having regard to (i) the likely demand for water in that area over the period of ten years following the application; (ii) the water resources which are, or could be made, available for meeting that demand; and (iii) the measures that the undertaker could take for meeting or managing that demand; and such a determination has effect for such period as may be specified by the Secretary of State and may be revoked by him: Water Industry (Prescribed Conditions) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/3442, reg 3(1), (2). Before making or revoking such a determination, the Secretary of State must consult the Water Services Regulation Authority, the Environment Agency and bodies appearing to him to be representative of the customers of water and sewerage services in the relevant area: reg 3(3) (amended by SI 2005/2035). The Secretary of State may, after consulting the Environment Agency, determine the whole or any part of a water undertaker's area to be an area of serious water stress for these purposes, where the Secretary of State considers that: (A) the current household demand for water in that area is a high proportion of the current effective rainfall which is available to meet that demand; or (B) the future household demand for water in that area is likely to be a high proportion of the effective rainfall which is likely to be available to meet that demand: Water Industry (Prescribed Conditions) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/3442, reg 4(1) (reg 4 added by SI 2007/2457). The Secretary of State may revoke or modify any such determination at any time; but any revocation or modification must not have the effect that the condition in head (4) above is satisfied in relation to premises that previously fell outside the scope of that condition: Water Industry (Prescribed Conditions) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/3442, reg 4(2), (3) (as so added). As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the meaning of 'customer' see PARA 118 note 7. As to the meaning of 'sewerage services' see PARA 129 note 7. As to the exercise of the duty to consult see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 627. As to water undertakers' areas see PARA 318.

The Water Industry (Prescribed Conditions) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/3442, do not apply to any water or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales: reg 1(2). As to the equivalent provisions in relation to Wales see the Water Industry (Prescribed Conditions) (Undertakers Wholly or Mainly in Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/701, which apply to any water or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales (see reg 1(2)).

Where:

- 966 (1) water is supplied to any premises in which, or in any part of which, a person has his home<sup>1</sup>;
- 967 (2) charges in respect of those premises have previously been fixed without reference to volume<sup>2</sup>; and
- 968 (3) such conditions as may be prescribed<sup>3</sup> are satisfied in relation to the premises<sup>4</sup>, a relevant undertaker<sup>5</sup> may not by virtue of any charges scheme<sup>6</sup> begin to fix the charges in respect of those premises by reference to volume<sup>7</sup> unless either:

- 969 (a) the consumer<sup>8</sup> has given the undertaker a measured charges notice<sup>9</sup> which has not<sup>10</sup> been revoked<sup>11</sup>, or has consented to the charges in respect of the premises being so fixed and has not revoked<sup>12</sup> that consent<sup>13</sup>; or
- 970 (b) there has been a change in the occupation of the premises and no charges have yet been demanded from the person who has become the consumer<sup>14</sup>.

A change in the persons occupying any premises does not, however, constitute a change in the occupation of the premises for the purposes of head (b) above if any person who was in occupation of the premises before the change remains in occupation after the change<sup>15</sup>.

Except where the tenancy is a fixed term tenancy<sup>1</sup> for a term of less than six months<sup>2</sup>, no express or implied term of any tenancy<sup>3</sup> is to be regarded:

- 971 (1) as excluding or restricting the exercise by the tenant of any right to give a measured charges notice<sup>4</sup> or any consent<sup>5</sup> which will be treated as the giving of such a notice<sup>6</sup>;
- 972 (2) as preventing the installation or connection, in pursuance of such a notice or consent given by the tenant, of a meter<sup>7</sup> for use in determining the charges which may be fixed in relation to water supplied to the premises comprised in the tenancy<sup>8</sup>; or
- 973 (3) as requiring any consent to be obtained in relation to such installation or connection<sup>9</sup>.

(B) TYPES OF METER

431. European Community requirements.

The European Directive on measuring instruments<sup>1</sup> applies to devices and systems with a measuring function including water meters<sup>2</sup>. Member states may prescribe the use of measuring instruments (including water meters) for measuring tasks for reasons of public interest, public health, public safety, public order, protection of the environment, protection of consumers, levying of taxes and duties and fair trading, where they consider it justified<sup>3</sup>. The Directive establishes the requirements that such devices and systems have to satisfy with a view to their being placed on the market<sup>4</sup> and/or put into use<sup>5</sup> for those tasks<sup>6</sup>.

A water meter must meet the requirements laid down in the Directive<sup>7</sup>. Those requirements apply to water meters intended for the measurement of volumes of clean, cold or heated water in residential, commercial and light industrial use<sup>8</sup>. The conformity of a meter with the requirements of the Directive must be indicated by an approved marking<sup>9</sup>, and member states must take all appropriate measures to ensure that meters are placed on the market and/or put into use only if they satisfy the requirements of the Directive<sup>10</sup>.

1    The European Parliament and Council Directive 2004/22 (OJ L135, 30.04.2004, p 01) on measuring instruments.

2    See European Parliament and Council Directive 2004/22 (OJ L135, 30.04.2004, p 01) art 1. A 'water meter' is an instrument designed to measure, memorise and display the volume at metering conditions of water passing through the measurement transducer: Annex M1-001.

3    See European Parliament and Council Directive 2004/22 (OJ L135, 30.04.2004, p 01) art 2(1). Where member states do not prescribe such use, they must communicate the reasons therefor to the Commission and the other member states: art 2(2). The Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, have been made for the purpose of implementing the Directive: see PARA 432.

4    'Placing on the market' means making available for the first time in the Community an instrument intended for an end user, whether for reward or free of charge: European Parliament and Council Directive 2004/22 (OJ L135, 30.04.2004, p 01) art 4.

5    'Putting into use' means the first use of an instrument intended for the end user for the purposes for which it was intended: European Parliament and Council Directive 2004/22 (OJ L135, 30.04.2004, p 01) art 4.

6    See European Parliament and Council Directive 2004/22 (OJ L135, 30.04.2004, p 01) art 3.

7    See European Parliament and Council Directive 2004/22 (OJ L135, 30.04.2004, p 01) art 6(1). The requirements are those laid down in Annex 1 (essential requirements), and Annex M1-001 (water meters).

8    See European Parliament and Council Directive 2004/22 (OJ L135, 30.04.2004, p 01) Annex M1-001.

9    See European Parliament and Council Directive 2004/22 (OJ L135, 30.04.2004, p 01) arts 7, 17.

10   See European Parliament and Council Directive 2004/22 (OJ L135, 30.04.2004, p 01) art 8(2). By way of derogation from art 8(2), member states must permit, for measurement tasks for which they have prescribed the use of a legally controlled measuring instrument, the placing on the market and putting into use of measuring instruments that satisfy the rules applicable before 30 October 2006 until the expiry of the validity of the type approval of those measuring instruments or, in the case of a type approval of indefinite validity, for a period of a maximum of ten years from 30 October 2006: art 23. The rules applicable before 30 October 2006 were those under EC Council Directive 75/33 (OJ L14, 20.01.75, p 01) for the purpose of implementing which the Measuring Equipment (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/997, were made: see PARA 432 note 4. EC Council Directive 75/33 (OJ L14, 20.01.75, p 01) was repealed as from 30 October 2006 as concerns the meters defined in European Parliament and Council Directive 2004/22 (OJ L135, 30.04.2004, p 01) Annex MI-001: see art 22.

UPDATE

431 European Community requirements

NOTES 2, 7, 8--Directive 2004/22 Annex M1-001 amended: EC Commission Directive 2009/137 (OJ L294, 11.11.2009, p 7).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(7) WATER CHARGES AND METERING/(ii) Charges for Services Provided by Water Undertakers/C. METERING/(B) Types of Meter/432. Compliance with United Kingdom requirements.

432. Compliance with United Kingdom requirements.

- 974 (1) the instrument<sup>6</sup> is compliant with the essential requirements<sup>7</sup>;
- 975 (2) the manufacturer has demonstrated its compliance with the essential requirements<sup>8</sup>; and
- 976 (3) the instrument has affixed to it the CE marking, the M marking<sup>9</sup> and the identification number of the notified body<sup>10</sup> which carried out the conformity assessment procedure<sup>11</sup> in respect of the instrument<sup>12</sup>.

A person who fails to comply with these requirements is guilty of an offence<sup>13</sup> and any cold-water meter to which the offence relates is liable to be forfeited<sup>14</sup>.

No person must use for trade a cold-water meter unless it is compliant with the essential requirements other than the provisions relating to maximum permissible errors<sup>15</sup>, it operates within the maximum permissible errors<sup>16</sup>, and the requirements as to manner of use<sup>17</sup> are complied with<sup>18</sup>.

It is the duty of every local weights and measures authority<sup>19</sup> to enforce these provisions within its area<sup>20</sup>. The Secretary of State may enforce the provisions relating to placing on the market and the putting into use of cold-water meters<sup>21</sup> and for that purpose may appoint any person to act on his behalf<sup>22</sup>. No proceedings for an offence may be instituted in England and Wales<sup>23</sup> except by or on behalf of an enforcement authority<sup>24</sup>. Where an enforcement authority establishes that, in the case of a cold-water meter that has been placed on the market or put into use, the CE marking or the M marking has, or both have, been affixed unduly, it may serve a compliance notice<sup>25</sup>; and provision is made for immediate enforcement action in certain circumstances<sup>26</sup>. Inspectors of weights and measures<sup>27</sup> are given powers to test cold-water meters<sup>28</sup> and to disqualify non-compliant meters for use for trade<sup>29</sup>. An enforcement officer<sup>30</sup> may inspect and test any cold-water meter in such manner as he considers appropriate, inspect and take copies of any document relating to a cold-water meter, and enter any premises at which he has reasonable cause to believe there to be a cold-water meter, not being premises used only as a private dwelling house<sup>31</sup>. An enforcement officer may also seize and detain a cold-water meter which he has reasonable cause to believe is liable to be forfeited under these provisions, and any document or goods which he has reason to believe may be required as evidence in proceedings for an offence thereunder<sup>32</sup>. It is an offence to obstruct an enforcement officer in the execution of any of his functions, or to fail to give that officer any assistance or information which he reasonably requires<sup>33</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 'Place on the market' means making available for the first time in a member state an instrument intended for an end user, whether for reward or free of charge: Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, reg 2(1). A reference to a member state includes Norway, Iceland and Liechtenstein: reg 2(3). As to the meaning of 'member state' see the Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1; European Communities Act 1972 s 1(2), Sch 1 Pt II.

3 'Put into use' means the first use of an instrument intended for the end user for the purposes for which it was intended: Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, reg 2(1).

4 'Cold-water meter' means equipment designed to measure, memorise and display the volume at metering conditions of cold water passing through the measurement transducer; and 'cold water' means potable water in the temperature range from 0.1°C to and including 30°C: Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, reg 2(1). Subject to reg 3(2), (3) and (4) below, the Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, apply to a cold-water meter which is for use for trade for the supply of cold water to domestic premises and first placed on the market or put into use on or after 30 October 2006: reg 3(1). The regulations do not apply to a cold-water meter:

- 49 (1) in respect of which a certificate of approval has been granted before 30 October 2006 and is in force, and which is first passed as fit for use for trade and stamped under the Measuring Equipment (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/997 (Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268 reg 3(2));
- 50 (2) in respect of a pattern of which EEC pattern approval was granted before 30 October 2006 and is in force, and which bears a mark of EEC initial verification or of EEC partial verification (reg 3(3));
- 51 (3) which is not compliant with the essential requirements and which is displayed or presented at a trade fair, exhibition or demonstration, if a sign displayed visibly on or near the instrument clearly indicates that the instrument (a) is not compliant with those requirements; and (b) cannot be acquired or used until it is made compliant with those requirements by the manufacturer (reg 3(4)).

For the purposes of head (1) above, 'domestic premises' means premises which are used for the purposes of living accommodation notwithstanding that such premises are used for other purposes as well as living accommodation: reg 3(5). For the purposes of head (3) above: (i) a grant of EEC pattern approval or the affixing of a mark of EEC initial verification must be in accordance with the Measuring Instruments (EEC Requirements) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/186 (the '1988 regulations') or, in the case of any other member state, in accordance with the measures in force which implement EC Council Directive 75/33 (OJ L14, 20.01.1975, p 01); and (ii) the affixing of a mark of EEC partial verification must be in accordance with the 1988 regulations or, in the case of any other member state, in accordance with the measures in force which implement EC Council Directive 71/316 (OJ L202, 6.9.1971, p 1) as amended by EC Council Directive 72/427 (OJ L291, 28.12.1972, p 156), EC Council Directive 83/575 (OJ L332, 28.11.1983, p 43), EC Council Directive 87/354 (OJ L192, 11.7.1987, p 43), EC Council Directive 87/355 (OJ L192, 11.7.1987, p 46) and EC Council Directive 88/665 (OJ L382, 31.12.1988, p 42): Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, reg 3(6). 'Essential requirements' means the requirements set out in the Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268 Sch 1: reg 2(1). 'Manufacturer' means a person responsible for the conformity of a cold-water meter with the Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, with a view to either placing it on the market under his own name or putting it into use for his own purposes, or both: reg 2(1).

The Measuring Equipment (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/997, and the Measuring Instruments (EEC Requirements) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/186, were made for the purpose of implementing the provisions of EC Council Directive 75/33 (OJ L14, 20.01.1975, p 01) on the approximation of the laws of the member states relating to cold-water meters. This Directive was repealed as concerns meters defined in European Parliament and Council Directive 2004/22 (OJ L135, 30.04.2004, p 01): see art 22; and PARA 431. However the regulations remain relevant in relation to meters approved prior to 30 October 2006.

5 le European Parliament and Council Directive 2004/22 (OJ L135, 30.04.2004, p 01): see PARA 431.

6 'Instrument' has the same meaning as cold-water meter (see note 4): Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, reg 2(1).

7 Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, reg 4(1)(a).

8 Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, reg 4(1)(b). As to compliance with the essential requirements see reg 5.

9 As to the 'CE marking' and the 'M marking' see the Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, regs 12, 13.

10 'Notified body' means the: (1) Secretary of State; or (2) a United Kingdom notified body; and (3) for the purposes of the Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, regs 4(1)(c), 19(1)(b), 21(1)(c) and 24(6), a person designated by another member state, who has been notified to the European Commission and the other member states pursuant to the European Parliament and Council Directive 2004/22

(OJ L135, 30.04.2004, p 01) art 11.1: Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, reg 2(1). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. 'United Kingdom notified body' means a person designated as such: see reg 2(1). As to the designation of such bodies see regs 7-10.

11 As to the 'conformity assessment procedure' see the Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, reg 6. As to fees in relation to such assessments see reg 11.

12 Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, reg 4(1)(c).

13 A person guilty of an offence under the Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268 Pt II (regs 4-13) or Pt IV (regs 17-29) is liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale: reg 27. As to the standard scale see PARA 141 note 18. Subject to certain exceptions, in proceedings against a person for an offence under the Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, it is a defence for that person to show that he took all reasonable steps and exercised all due diligence to avoid committing the offence: see reg 28. Where the commission by a person of an offence under the regulations is due to the act or default of another person in the course of any business of his, that other person is guilty of the offence and may be proceeded against and punished, whether or not proceedings are taken against the first person: reg 29(1). Where a body corporate commits an offence and it is proved that the offence was committed with the consent or connivance of an officer of the body corporate, or as a result of the negligence of an officer of the body corporate, the officer, as well as the body corporate, is guilty of the offence: reg 29(2). A reference to an officer of a body corporate includes a reference to (1) a director, manager, secretary or other similar officer of the body corporate; (2) a person purporting to act as a director, manager, secretary or other similar officer; and (3) if the affairs of the body corporate are managed by its members, a member: reg 29(3). References to a 'body corporate' include references to a partnership in Scotland, and in relation to such partnership, any reference to a director, manager, secretary or other similar officer of a body corporate is a reference to a partner: reg 29(4).

24 Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, reg 17(3). 'Enforcement authority' means any person who is, pursuant to reg 17, authorised to enforce the Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268: reg 2(1). Nothing in the Measuring Instruments (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/1268, authorises an enforcement authority to bring proceedings in Scotland for an offence: reg 17(4).

UPDATE

432 Compliance with United Kingdom requirements

NOTE 4--Head (ii). Directive 71/316 replaced: European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2009/34 (OJ L106, 28.4.2009, p 7); references to the repealed directive should be construed as references to Directive 2009/34: art 20, Annex IV.

(C) METERING WORKS

433. Power to carry out works in connection with metering.

Where, in respect of any premises<sup>1</sup>:

- 977 (1) any relevant undertaker<sup>2</sup> has fixed any charges in relation to those premises by reference to volume<sup>3</sup>; or
- 978 (2) the undertaker is entitled so to fix any charges because the person<sup>4</sup> who is the consumer<sup>5</sup> in relation to the premises for the statutory purposes<sup>6</sup> has exercised his right to give a measured charges notice<sup>7</sup> or any consent which is treated as the giving of such a notice<sup>8</sup>, and has not revoked<sup>9</sup> the measured charges notice or that consent<sup>10</sup>; or
- 979 (3) the undertaker has given notice<sup>11</sup> of its intention of so fixing any charges within the period specified in the notice, or in a case where it is not for the time being entitled so to fix the charges, if and when it becomes entitled to do so<sup>12</sup>; or
- 980 (4) a licensed water supplier<sup>13</sup> supplies water to those premises using the undertaker's supply system<sup>14</sup>, and there is either (a) a service pipe<sup>15</sup> which is connected with a water undertaker's water main<sup>16</sup> and by which a supply of water is or could be provided to those premises or to any building in which those premises are contained<sup>17</sup>; or (b) a drain or private sewer<sup>18</sup> which connects those premises with a public sewer<sup>19</sup>, the undertaker has power<sup>20</sup> to carry out any of the following works<sup>21</sup>. The works are, in relation to any premises:

- 981 (i) works consisting in the installation and connection of any meter<sup>22</sup> for use in determining the amount of any charges which have been or may be fixed in relation to the premises<sup>23</sup>;
- 982 (ii) where the premises comprise a house<sup>24</sup> which is one of two or more houses to which the supply of water is wholly or partly by the same service pipe, works consisting in the installation and connection, for any purpose connected with the installation or connection of such a meter, of a separate service pipe for that house<sup>25</sup>;
- 983 (iii) works for the purpose of maintaining, repairing, disconnecting or removing any meter which has been installed for use in determining the amount of any charges which have been or may be fixed in relation to the premises, or any pipes<sup>26</sup> or apparatus installed in the course of any specified works<sup>27</sup>; and
- 984 (iv) any other works appearing to the undertaker to be necessary or expedient for any purpose connected with the carrying out of any works specified in head (i), (ii) or (iii) above, including the installation and connection of any pipes or other apparatus on the premises and the alteration or removal of any of the plumbing of the premises<sup>28</sup>.

Nothing in these provisions prevents the exercise by a water undertaker of its statutory power<sup>29</sup> to impose a condition relating to the installation and connection of a meter<sup>30</sup> in a case where it has required the provision of a separate service pipe to any premises<sup>31</sup>.

Any dispute between a relevant undertaker and any other person (including another such undertaker) as to the exercise of any power under the above provisions to carry out any works on any premises must be referred to arbitration<sup>32</sup>.

Where, in relation to a relevant undertaker, the powers conferred on it under the above provisions are in relation to streets<sup>33</sup>, it is the duty of every relevant undertaker to do as little damage as possible in the exercise of those powers<sup>34</sup>, and to pay compensation for any loss caused or damage done in the exercise of those powers<sup>35</sup>. Where a person authorised by any relevant undertaker carries out any works by virtue of the above provisions on any premises, the undertaker must make good, or pay compensation for, any damage caused by that person or by any person accompanying him by or in connection with the carrying out of the works<sup>36</sup>.

Water meters that are let on hire by a relevant undertaker and are suitably marked belong to that relevant undertaker<sup>37</sup>.

Without prejudice to s 162(2), however, nothing in s 158, s 159 (see PARA 463) or s 161 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 329) authorises the installation of any apparatus for measuring or showing the volume of water supplied to, or of effluent discharged from, any premises where that apparatus is to be used for the purpose only of determining the amount of any charges fixed, or to be fixed, in relation to those premises wholly or partly by reference to the volume of that water or effluent: s 162(9). As to the meaning of 'street' see PARA 308 note 19. As to the meaning of 'effluent' see PARA 262 note 31. Subject to s 162(6) (see the text to notes 29-31), any works carried out by a water undertaker by virtue of s 162 are necessary works for the purposes of Pt III Ch II (ss 40-66) (see PARA 330 et seq): s 162(5). Any dispute as to whether compensation should be so paid, or as to the amount of any such compensation, must be referred to the arbitration of a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the parties to the dispute or, in default of agreement, by the Water Services Regulation Authority: Sch 12 para 1(3) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109. The provisions of the Arbitration Act 1996 Pt I (ss 1-84) apply to any such arbitration: see s 94; and ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARA 1209.
- 36 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 12 para 5(1). This provision is expressed to be without prejudice to s 148 (see PARA 436), Sch 6 para 11 (see PARA 485) or Sch 12 para 1 (see the text to notes 33-35): Sch 12 para 5(1). Any dispute between a relevant undertaker and any other person, including another such undertaker, as to whether the undertaker should pay any such compensation or as to its amount must be referred to the arbitration of a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the undertaker and that person or, in default of agreement, by the Water Services Regulation Authority: Sch 12 para 5(2) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). The provisions of the Arbitration Act 1996 Pt I (ss 1-84) apply to any such arbitration: see note 35.
- 37 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 179(4); and PARA 464. Customers may have their own sub-meters; these belong to the customer. In practice, sub-meters are not generally used by a relevant undertaker for calculating water supply charges, but where two or more properties are supplied through one meter there may be (but need not necessarily be, as all charges schemes are different) provision in the undertaker's charges scheme that the reading on the sub-meter should be taken into account. As to charges schemes see PARA 421.

434. Entry for metering purposes.

Where the statutory conditions<sup>1</sup> are satisfied in relation to any premises, any person designated in writing<sup>2</sup> for the purpose by the relevant undertaker<sup>3</sup> in question may enter those premises, or any land<sup>4</sup> occupied with those premises, for any of the following purposes<sup>5</sup>:

- 985 (1) the carrying out of any survey or tests for the purpose of determining (a) whether the carrying out of works for the installation and connection of a meter<sup>6</sup> or a separate service pipe<sup>7</sup> is practicable<sup>8</sup>; (b) whether it is necessary or expedient for any purpose connected with the carrying out of any such works for any other works to be carried out<sup>9</sup>; or (c) how any specified works<sup>10</sup> should be carried out<sup>11</sup>;
- 986 (2) the carrying out of any works so specified<sup>12</sup>;
- 987 (3) the inspection, examination or testing of any meter which is on those premises or any pipes<sup>13</sup> or apparatus installed in the course of any works which were carried out for any purpose that is connected with the installation, connection, testing, maintenance or repair of any such meter<sup>14</sup>;
- 988 (4) the ascertainment from any meter of the volume of water supplied to, or of effluent<sup>15</sup> discharged from, those premises<sup>16</sup>.

WATER SUPPLY/(7) WATER CHARGES AND METERING/(ii) Charges for Services Provided by Water Undertakers/C. METERING/(C) Metering Works/435. Installation and positioning of meters and outreading apparatus.

435. Installation and positioning of meters and outreading apparatus.

Subject to the following requirements, the undertakers<sup>1</sup> may determine where any meter<sup>2</sup> or outreading apparatus should be positioned in relation to any premises<sup>3</sup>. Meters must be so installed<sup>4</sup> as to ensure that they are reasonably accessible for reading, inspection, testing and maintenance<sup>5</sup>. A meter installed outside a building: (1) must be installed as near as is reasonably practicable either to the boundary of the premises to which it relates or to the point where the supply pipe<sup>6</sup> enters the building<sup>7</sup>; and (2) must, together with any associated pipes and fittings, be adequately protected against damage from frost<sup>8</sup>. A meter installed inside a building must be installed as near as is reasonably practicable to the point where the supply pipe enters the building or to the stop-tap<sup>9</sup>.

Outreading apparatus must be installed in a position in which it is reasonably accessible for inspection, testing and maintenance, and must, so far as reasonably practicable, be in an unobtrusive position<sup>10</sup>. Such apparatus, other than apparatus designed to transmit signals to other premises, must be installed either in a position where it can be read by or on behalf of the undertakers without entering a building or, where a number of meters are installed inside a building, in an entrance hall or lobby to which all the customers<sup>11</sup> in that building have access<sup>12</sup>.

The undertakers must notify<sup>13</sup> the occupier<sup>14</sup> of the location in which it proposes to install a meter or outreading apparatus<sup>15</sup>. The occupier may request<sup>16</sup> the undertakers to install the meter or outreading apparatus in a position other than that proposed by the undertakers<sup>17</sup> or, where the meter or outreading apparatus has already been installed, to reposition the meter or outreading apparatus<sup>18</sup>. Where the undertakers agree to the occupier's request, they must notify the occupier in writing of the effect of the statutory provision<sup>19</sup> requiring him to bear the expenses of complying with the request, and give an estimate of the expenses likely to be borne by the occupier under that provision<sup>20</sup>. Where the undertakers do not agree with the occupier's request, they must notify him in writing of their reasons<sup>21</sup>.

Planning permission for meters placed underground is given by the appropriate general development order<sup>22</sup>.

1 'Undertakers' means water undertakers: Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 1(3). As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. The Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, have effect, by virtue of the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2(2), Sch 2 para 1(1), (2), as if made under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 149: see PARA 425.

2 'Meter' means any apparatus for measuring and showing the volume of water supplied to any premises, but does not include outreading apparatus; and 'outreading apparatus' means any apparatus connected to a meter for the purpose of showing or transmitting signals showing the volume measured by that meter and installed on or adjoining premises to which that meter relates: Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 1(3).

3 Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 5(1).

4 In practice a water meter may be combined in the same unit as a stopcock. As to the positioning of stopcocks see PARA 463.

5 Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 3(1). Nothing in Pt II (regs 2-5) applies to the repositioning or replacement of a meter or outreading apparatus installed before 11 July 1988: reg 2(2).

6 'Supply pipe' is not a term used in the Water Industry Act 1991; the Act refers instead to a 'service pipe'. As to the meaning of 'service pipe' see PARA 179 note 8.

7 Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 3(2).

8 Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 3(4).

9 Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 3(3). 'Stop-tap' means a tap fitted on a supply pipe inside a building to permit the flow of water in that pipe to be stopped: reg 1(3).

10 Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 4(1).

11 'Customer' in relation to a supply of water provided by an undertaker to any premises, means the person on whom liability to pay charges to the undertaker in respect of that supply of water would fall: Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 1(3) (definition substituted by SI 2005/2035). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to charges see PARA 417 et seq.

12 Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 4(2).

13 'Notify' is not defined for these purposes, and except where expressly stated does not necessarily imply notification in writing.

14 As to the meaning of 'occupier' see PARA 339 note 8.

15 Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 5(2).

16 The request must be in writing and giving reasons for the request: Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 5(4). As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1.

17 Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 5(3)(a).

WATER SUPPLY/(7) WATER CHARGES AND METERING/(ii) Charges for Services Provided by Water Undertakers/C. METERING/(C) Metering Works/436. Restriction on charging for metering works.

436. Restriction on charging for metering works.

Subject to certain exceptions<sup>1</sup>, where any meter<sup>2</sup> capable of being used in determining the amount of any charges is installed by or at the request of any relevant undertaker<sup>3</sup> then, notwithstanding the provisions of any enactment<sup>4</sup> or any agreement to the contrary between the undertaker and any other person<sup>5</sup>, the undertaker must bear<sup>6</sup>:

- 989 (1) the expenses<sup>7</sup> of installing and connecting the meter<sup>8</sup>;
- 990 (2) any expenses incurred in maintaining, repairing, disconnecting or removing the meter in accordance with any requirements of the undertaker<sup>9</sup>; and
- 991 (3) any expenses incurred in carrying out any works for purposes connected with the installation and connection of the meter or with the maintenance, repair, disconnection or removal of the meter in accordance with any such requirements<sup>10</sup>.

These provisions do not, however, require any relevant undertaker to bear, or prevent that undertaker from recovering from any other person<sup>11</sup>:

- 992 (a) any expenses incurred for the purpose of enabling a condition relating to the installation and connection of a meter<sup>12</sup> to be satisfied<sup>13</sup>;
- 993 (b) any sums which it is entitled to recover under any terms or conditions determined<sup>14</sup> in respect of a supply of water for non-domestic purposes<sup>15</sup>;
- 994 (c) in the case of premises which do not consist of or include any building or part of a building which is occupied as a private dwelling-house, any sums which it is entitled to recover<sup>16</sup> from that person<sup>17</sup>;
- 995 (d) any sums which it is entitled to recover under an agreement<sup>18</sup> with a licensed water supplier<sup>19</sup>;
- 996 (e) any expenses incurred in relation to a meter which is or is to be used in determining the amount of trade effluent charges<sup>20</sup>;
- 997 (f) in the case of premises which do not consist of or include any building or part of a building which is occupied as a private dwelling-house, any expenses incurred in consequence of the exercise by the consumer<sup>21</sup> of any option to be charged by the undertaker in relation to those premises by reference to volume<sup>22</sup> rather than by reference to other matters<sup>23</sup>.

Moreover, the occupier of any premises where any relevant undertaker installs or has installed a meter must in all cases<sup>24</sup> bear so much of the expenses referred to in heads (1) to (3) above as is attributable to compliance with a request made by him<sup>25</sup> for the positioning, in a place other than that reasonably proposed by the undertaker, either of the meter or of any pipe<sup>26</sup> or other apparatus installed for the purpose of facilitating the use of the meter<sup>27</sup>.

(D) TESTING AND READING OF METERS

437. Meter tests.

The undertakers<sup>1</sup> or any person<sup>2</sup> duly authorised by them may at any time, and must if so requested in writing<sup>3</sup> by the customer<sup>4</sup>, test the accuracy of any meter<sup>5</sup> which has been installed<sup>6</sup>. The undertakers or any person duly authorised by them may remove a meter from premises where it is necessary to do so for the purpose of testing<sup>7</sup>. The undertakers must provide the customer with a copy of the results of the test<sup>8</sup>.

Where a test is carried out in accordance with these provisions at the request of the customer, and the meter on being tested falls within the prescribed limits of error, the undertakers may recover from the customer the expenses reasonably incurred by them in carrying out the test<sup>9</sup>. In the case of a meter which is connected to a supply of water to a house<sup>10</sup>, however, the expenses so recoverable may not exceed £70 where the test is carried out by removing the meter from the premises<sup>11</sup>, and £20 in any other case<sup>12</sup>.

6 Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 6(1). The meter must be tested in accordance with the Measuring Equipment (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/997, reg 6(2), (4) (see PARA 432) in order to determine whether it falls within the prescribed limits of error, whether or not the meter is one to which those regulations apply: Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 6(2). The equipment used for testing must comply with BS 5750: Pt 3 clause 4.6 (29 May 1987; ISBN 0 580 15946 0): Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 6(4). 'Prescribed limits of error' means the prescribed limits of error in relation to the obliteration of the stamp or mark set out in the Measuring Equipment (Cold-water Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/997, reg 10, Schedule: Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 1(3).

438. Method of proof and effect of meter reading.

2 As to the meaning of 'customer' see PARA 435 note 11.

3 As to the meaning of 'fixing charges in relation to any premises by reference to volume' see PARA 337 note 11.

4 A reading from a meter may be proved by producing the certificate of a person duly authorised by the undertakers to read the meter and certify the reading: Water (Meters) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/1048, reg 8(2). As to the meaning of 'meter' see PARA 435 note 2. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

439. Adjustment of charges following testing.

An account must be taken of the sums payable by the undertakers<sup>1</sup> to the customer<sup>2</sup> or by the customer for any period during which the meter<sup>3</sup> has or is deemed to have registered incorrectly<sup>4</sup>; and the balance must be paid or allowed by the undertakers or paid by the customer, as the case may be<sup>5</sup>.

Where, however, a meter which is connected to a supply of water to a house<sup>6</sup> is proved to have registered less than the volume of water supplied to that house, the balance payable by the customer must not exceed an amount reflecting the charge for the volume of water which would ordinarily have been supplied to the house during the six months<sup>7</sup> preceding the last occasion on which the undertakers or any person<sup>8</sup> duly authorised by the undertakers last read the meter for the purpose of ascertaining the volume of water supplied to the house, less any sums already paid in respect of that period<sup>9</sup>.

(E) OFFENCES IN RELATION TO METERING

442. Tampering with meter.

If any person<sup>1</sup>, without the appropriate consent<sup>2</sup>:

1002 (1) so interferes with a meter used by any relevant undertaker or licensed water supplier in determining the amount of any charges fixed in relation to any premises<sup>3</sup> as intentionally or recklessly to prevent the meter from showing, or from accurately showing, the volume of water supplied to, or of effluent<sup>4</sup> discharged from, those premises<sup>5</sup>; or

he is guilty of an offence<sup>7</sup>.

Where an application is made to any relevant undertaker for a consent for the purposes of the above provisions, the undertaker must give notice<sup>8</sup> of its decision with respect to the application as soon as reasonably practicable after receiving it<sup>9</sup>; and may make it a condition of giving any consent that the undertaker itself should carry out so much of any works to which the application relates as is specified in the notice of its decision<sup>10</sup>. On such an application a relevant undertaker must not refuse its consent, or impose any such condition, unless it is reasonable to do so<sup>11</sup>.

A person who sustains any loss or damage in consequence of any failure by any relevant undertaker to comply with any obligation imposed on it by the provisions above<sup>12</sup> relating to consent<sup>13</sup>, or to exercise reasonable care in carrying out works<sup>14</sup> it has decided to carry out itself<sup>15</sup>, is entitled to recover compensation from the undertaker<sup>16</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 A person is not guilty of an offence under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 175 in respect of anything done by him with the appropriate consent: s 175(2) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 40(1), (3)). 'Appropriate consent' means: (1) if the meter is used by one relevant undertaker, the consent of that undertaker; (2) if the meter is used by one licensed water supplier, the consent of that supplier; (3) if the meter is used by two or more of the following persons, ie (a) a relevant undertaker; (b) a licensed water supplier, the consent of each of those persons: Water Industry Act 1991 s 175(3) (s 175(3), (4) added by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 40(1), (4)). References to the consent of a relevant undertaker are references to consent under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 176 (see the text to notes 8-11): s 175(4) (as so added). As to the standard scale see PARA 141 note 18. A relevant undertaker which carries out any works made necessary by the commission of such an offence is entitled to recover any expenses reasonably incurred in carrying out those works from the person who committed the offence: s 177(1). As to the resolution of disputes as to liability for or the amount of such expenses see PARA 445. As to the recovery of expenses generally see PARA 131 note 6.

Section 176(3) does not apply where the person who was given the notice notifies the undertaker that the carrying out of the works to which the condition relates is no longer required: s 176(5). ## D. DISPUTES AND QUERIES RELATING TO CHARGES AND METERING

443. Billing disputes.

As from a day to be appointed the following provisions have effect<sup>1</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup> may by regulations<sup>4</sup> make provision for billing disputes<sup>5</sup> to be referred to the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>6</sup> for determination in accordance with the regulations<sup>7</sup>. Such regulations may only be made after consulting<sup>8</sup> the Water Services Regulation Authority and persons or bodies appearing to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers to be representative of persons likely to be affected by the regulations<sup>9</sup>. The regulations may provide that:

- 1004 (1) where a billing dispute is referred to the Authority, it may either determine the dispute or appoint an arbitrator to determine it<sup>10</sup>;
- 1005 (2) disputes may be referred to the Authority only by prescribed<sup>11</sup> persons<sup>12</sup>; and
- 1006 (3) any determination is to be final and enforceable as if it were a judgment of a county court<sup>13</sup>.

Except in such circumstances, if any, as may be prescribed, the Authority or an arbitrator appointed by it must not determine any billing dispute which is the subject of proceedings before, or with respect to which judgment has been given, by, any court<sup>14</sup>; and neither party to any billing dispute which has been referred to the Authority for determination in accordance with regulations made under these provisions may commence proceedings before any court in respect of that dispute pending its determination in accordance with the regulations<sup>15</sup>. Any person determining any billing dispute in accordance with the regulations must, in such manner as may be specified in the regulations, give his reasons for reaching his decision with respect to the dispute<sup>16</sup>.

No relevant undertaker may commence proceedings before any court in respect of any charge in connection with the supply of water for domestic purposes or, as the case may be, the provision of sewerage services other than by the carrying out of trade effluent functions, unless, not less than 28 days before doing so, the customer concerned was informed by it, in such form and manner as may be prescribed, of its intention to commence proceedings, of the customer's rights by virtue of these provisions, and of such other matters, if any, as may be prescribed<sup>17</sup>. Where a dispute is referred to the Authority in accordance with the regulations, it is the duty of the undertaker concerned to give the Authority such information<sup>18</sup> as the Authority may reasonably require for the purpose of assisting it in determining the dispute<sup>19</sup>.

1 The Water Industry Act 1991 s 150A is added by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 s 36 as from a day to be appointed: see s 56(2). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

2 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

3 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 150A, so far as exercisable in relation to any water or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales (but not in relation to any licensed water supplier), were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1 (amended by SI 2000/253). These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16. As to the meanings of 'water undertaker' and 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152.

4 As to the making of regulations see PARA 21. At the date at which this volume states the law no such regulations had been made.

5 'Billing dispute' means a dispute between a relevant undertaker and a customer concerning the amount of the charge which the undertaker is entitled to recover from the customer in connection with the supply of water for domestic purposes, in the case of a water undertaker; and the provision of sewerage services other than by the carrying out of trade effluent functions, in the case of a sewerage undertaker: Water Industry Act 1991 s 150A(2) (as added: see note 1). 'Charge' means any charge fixed by a scheme made under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 143 (see PARA 421); and 'customer' means any person to whom the relevant undertaker provides services: s 150A(11) (as so added). References to a sewerage undertaker's trade effluent functions are references to its functions under Pt IV Ch III (ss 118-141) (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 1047 et seq): s 150A(11) (as so added). As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8. As to the meaning of 'domestic purposes' see PARA 334. As to the meaning of 'sewerage services' see PARA 129 note 7. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

6 As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109.

7 Water Industry Act 1991 s 150A(1) (as added (see note 1); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

8 As to the exercise of the duty to consult see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 627.

9 Water Industry Act 1991 s 150A(3) (as added (see note 1); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

10 Water Industry Act 1991 s 150A(4) (as added (see note 1); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

11 'Prescribed' means prescribed by the regulations: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1).

12 Water Industry Act 1991 s 150A(6)(a) (as added (see note 1); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

13 Water Industry Act 1991 s 150A(6)(b) (as added: see note 1). As to county courts see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 701 et seq.

14 Water Industry Act 1991 s 150A(7)(a) (as added (see note 1); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

15 Water Industry Act 1991 s 150A(7)(b) (as added (see note 1); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

16 Water Industry Act 1991 s 150A(5) (as added: see note 1).

17 Water Industry Act 1991 s 150A(8) (as added: see note 1).

18 As to the meaning of 'information' see PARA 117 note 13.

19 Water Industry Act 1991 s 150A(9) (as added (see note 1); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). The Water Industry Act 1991 s 202 (see PARA 182) has effect, with the necessary modifications, in relation to information which the Authority requires for that purpose as it has effect in relation to information which the Secretary of State requires for purposes mentioned in s 202(1): s 150A(10) (as so added and amended). As to the meaning of 'modifications' see PARA 141 note 20.

444. Account queries and requests about payment arrangements.

Where a customer<sup>1</sup> of a relevant undertaker<sup>2</sup>: (1) queries, in writing<sup>3</sup>, the correctness of an account for the supply of water or the provision of sewerage services<sup>4</sup>; or (2) asks, in writing, for a change to payment arrangements<sup>5</sup>, the undertaker must provide a substantive reply to the customer in the case of a reply to a query, within ten working days<sup>6</sup>, or if the request is for a change to payment arrangements and the request cannot be met, within five working days<sup>7</sup>. If the undertaker does not comply these requirements, it must pay the customer £20<sup>8</sup>; and no application by the customer for the payment is necessary<sup>9</sup>. However, the undertaker need not pay the customer if:

- 1007 (a) the address that the customer wrote to was not a notified address of the undertaker for a query or request of that kind<sup>10</sup>;
- 1008 (b) the customer does not wish to pursue the query or request and has so informed the undertaker<sup>11</sup>;
- 1009 (c) it was impracticable for the undertaker to send a reply within the required period because of: (i) industrial action by employees of the undertaker<sup>12</sup>; or (ii) the act or default of a person<sup>13</sup> who is neither an officer, employee or agent of the undertaker<sup>14</sup>, nor a person acting on behalf of the undertaker or of an agent of the undertaker<sup>15</sup>; or
- 1010 (d) in the case of a reply to a query, the query was frivolous or vexatious<sup>16</sup>, or the undertaker reasonably considered that a visit was necessary before replying, and severe weather made that visit impracticable<sup>17</sup>.

Disputes in relation to metering to be referred to arbitration.

445. Disputes in relation to metering to be referred to arbitration.

The following disputes are to be referred to the arbitration of a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the parties:

- 1011 (1) any dispute between a relevant undertaker<sup>1</sup> and any other person<sup>2</sup> (including another such undertaker) as to the exercise of any power<sup>3</sup> to carry out metering works on any premises<sup>4</sup>;
- 1012 (2) any dispute between a relevant undertaker and any other person (including another such undertaker) as to whether the undertaker or that other person should bear any expenses for metering works<sup>5</sup>, or as to the amount of any such expenses to be borne by any person<sup>6</sup>;
- 1013 (3) any dispute between a relevant undertaker and any other person (including another such undertaker) as to whether the undertaker or that other person should bear any expenses in relation to works interfering with a meter<sup>7</sup> or as to the amount of any such expenses to be borne by that person<sup>8</sup>;
- 1014 (4) any dispute between a relevant undertaker and any other person (including another such undertaker) as to whether the undertaker or that other person should bear any expenses as a result of an offender having interfered with a meter<sup>9</sup> or as to the amount of any such expenses to be borne by any person<sup>10</sup>;
- 1015 (5) any dispute between a relevant undertaker and any other person (including another such undertaker) as to whether the undertaker or that other person should pay any compensation in relation to works interfering with a meter<sup>11</sup> and as to the amount of any such compensation<sup>12</sup>;
- 1016 (6) any dispute between a service provider<sup>13</sup> and any other person (including another such provider) as to the terms to be contained in any agreement for the purposes of exchanging metering information<sup>14</sup> or as to the amount of any expenses to be borne by any person under any such agreement<sup>15</sup>;
- 1017 (7) any dispute between an undertaker<sup>16</sup> and the customer<sup>17</sup> arising under the provisions relating to the positioning of meters and outreading apparatus<sup>18</sup>, the testing and reading of meters<sup>19</sup>, and information relating to meters to be provided<sup>20</sup> with bills<sup>21</sup>.

In default of agreement between the parties as to the appointment of the arbitrator, he must, in the case of a dispute falling within heads (1) to (6) above, be appointed by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>22</sup>; and in the case of a dispute falling within head (7) above, be appointed by the Secretary of State<sup>23</sup> or, in the case of an undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>24</sup>.

The provisions of the Arbitration Act 1996<sup>25</sup> apply to any such arbitration<sup>26</sup>.

E. RECOVERY OF CHARGES

446. In general.

The water charge<sup>1</sup> payable by any person may be recovered from him by the water undertaker<sup>2</sup> as a civil debt<sup>3</sup>. There is no longer any express statutory provision relating to discount for prompt payment<sup>4</sup>, but a charges scheme<sup>5</sup> may contain provision for discount<sup>6</sup>.

Where there is an interruption or diminution of the supply of water during a drought, nothing in any drought order or drought permit<sup>7</sup> affects an undertaker's right to recover any fixed or minimum charge which might have been recovered from any person if there had been no such interruption or diminution<sup>8</sup>. Where a temporary hosepipe ban is imposed by a water undertaker, charges made by the undertaker for the use of a hosepipe or similar apparatus are subject to a reasonable reduction, and, in the case of a charge paid in advance, the undertaker must make any necessary repayment or adjustment<sup>9</sup>.

Water charges owing to a water undertaker which is a subsidiary of a company which supplies electricity may not be recovered through the latter's prepayment meter for electricity charges<sup>10</sup>.

1 Under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 61(1) the power of disconnection is only available when charges are due in respect of water supply charges: see PARA 357. As to premises that are not to be disconnected under this power see PARA 358.

2 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. The statutory powers of recovery applying to the former water authorities were repealed and not replaced by the Water Act 1989, such powers and restrictions not being appropriate to the companies at present appointed as water undertakers. As to the appointment of water undertakers see PARA 137 et seq.

3 A bankruptcy notice can be issued on the failure to pay even though the order provides for distress in default of payment (Re A Debtor (No 48 of 1952), ex p Amptill RDC v Debtor [1953] Ch 335, [1953] 1 All ER 545, CA) but water charges, being a payment for a commodity or service and not a matter of taxation, do not have priority in bankruptcy (see Re Baker, ex p Eastbourne Waterworks Co v Official Receiver [1954] 2 All ER 790, [1954] 1 WLR 1144). As to the debts upon which a bankruptcy petition may be based, and their priority, see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 124 et seq.

4 Under the Water Act 1945 Sch 3 s 57(1) (repealed), statutory provision was made for discounts or rebates in consideration of prompt payment of water charges, but these discounts or rebates were to be at the same rate under like circumstances to all persons, and were not in any case to exceed 5%.

(8) SALE AND SUPPLY OF BOTTLED WATER

447. European Community requirements.

The European Directive on the approximation of the laws of the member states relating to the exploitation and marketing of natural mineral waters<sup>1</sup> provides for the recognition of natural mineral waters by the responsible authorities of the member states<sup>2</sup> and for the conditions that must be satisfied for such recognition<sup>3</sup>. Member states must take the measures necessary to ensure that only the waters recognised by the responsible authority as waters satisfying those conditions are marketed as natural mineral waters<sup>4</sup>; and natural mineral water springs may be exploited and their waters bottled only in accordance with the conditions laid down in the Directive<sup>5</sup>. The Directive also makes provision as to the packaging and labelling of such mineral waters<sup>6</sup>, their treatment<sup>7</sup> and wholesomeness<sup>8</sup>. The Directive does not apply to natural mineral waters intended for export outside the European Economic Area<sup>9</sup>.

A further Directive<sup>10</sup> establishes the list of constituents of natural mineral waters which may present a risk to public health, the limits for admissible levels of those constituents, the deadlines for application of those limits and the labelling requirements for certain constituents<sup>11</sup>. Those constituents must be present in the water naturally and may not result from contamination at source<sup>12</sup>. The Directive also defines the conditions for using ozone-enriched air for separating compounds of iron, manganese, sulphur and arsenic from natural mineral waters or spring waters, and the labelling requirements for waters which have undergone such treatment<sup>13</sup>. Natural mineral waters must, at the time of packaging, comply with the maximum concentration limits set out in the Directive<sup>14</sup>. For the purposes of official controls, the member states must comply with the listed specifications for analysing the harmful constituents<sup>15</sup>. Provision is made for the labelling of natural mineral waters with a fluoride concentration higher than that suitable for infants and young children<sup>16</sup>, for the conditions applying to the ozone-enriched air treatment of natural mineral waters<sup>17</sup> and for the labelling of such mineral waters<sup>18</sup>, and for such treatment and labelling of spring waters<sup>19</sup>. The member states must take the necessary measures to permit the marketing of products complying with the Directive<sup>20</sup>.

Of relevance also, in relation to spring water and bottled drinking water, is the Drinking Water Directive<sup>21</sup>.

Regulations have been made for the purpose of implementing these Directives. These are, in relation to England, the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007<sup>22</sup> and, in relation to Wales, the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (Wales) Regulations 2007<sup>23</sup>.

TEXT AND NOTES 1-9--Directive 80/777 replaced: European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2009/54 on the exploitation and marketing of natural mineral waters.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(8) SALE AND SUPPLY OF BOTTLED WATER/448. Recognition of water as natural mineral water.

448. Recognition of water as natural mineral water.

Water is recognised as natural mineral water<sup>1</sup> where:

- 1018 (1) in the case of water extracted from the ground in England, recognition is granted<sup>2</sup> by the relevant authority<sup>3</sup>;
- 1019 (2) in the case of water extracted from the ground in another part of the United Kingdom<sup>4</sup>, it is recognised there pursuant to the European Directive on the approximation of the laws of the member states relating to the exploitation and marketing of natural mineral waters<sup>5</sup> by a responsible authority of that part of the United Kingdom<sup>6</sup>;
- 1020 (3) in the case of water extracted from the ground in an EEA state other than the United Kingdom, it is recognised there pursuant to that Directive by a responsible authority of that EEA state<sup>7</sup>; and
- 1021 (4) in the case of water extracted from the ground in a country other than an EEA state (a) it is recognised<sup>8</sup> by the Food Standards Agency<sup>9</sup>; or (b) it has an equivalent recognition, given by a responsible authority of another part of the United Kingdom or an EEA state other than the United Kingdom<sup>10</sup>.

The relevant authority or, as the case may be, the Food Standards Agency, may withdraw recognition under head (1) or (4)(a) above if certain requirements are not met<sup>11</sup>; and a person<sup>12</sup> who exploits a spring from which there is extracted water which is recognised as a natural mineral water in accordance with those heads, may apply to the relevant authority or the Agency, as appropriate, to have that recognition withdrawn<sup>13</sup>. Where the relevant authority declines to grant or withdraws recognition of a water, or the Agency declines to grant or withdraws recognition of a water, the person who exploits or wishes to exploit the spring from which that water emerges or, if different, the person who owns the land<sup>14</sup> on which that spring is situated, may apply to the Agency for a review of that decision<sup>15</sup>.

Where the relevant authority: (i) grants, restores or withdraws recognition, it must immediately inform the Agency of that fact<sup>16</sup>; (ii) is notified of any change to the trade description of a natural mineral water or to the name of a spring from which natural mineral water has been extracted, it must immediately inform the Agency of that change<sup>17</sup>; or (iii) is directed by the Agency<sup>18</sup> to grant or restore recognition, it must immediately comply with that direction<sup>19</sup>.

1 'Natural mineral water' means water which: (1) is microbiologically wholesome; (2) originates in an underground water table or deposit and emerges from a spring tapped at one or more natural or bore exits; (3) can be clearly distinguished from ordinary drinking water on account of the following characteristics having been preserved intact because of the underground origin of the water, which origin must have been protected from all risk of pollution (a) its nature, which is characterised by its mineral content, trace elements or other constituents and, where appropriate, by certain effects; (b) its original state; and (4) is for the time being recognised pursuant to and in accordance with the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 4: reg 2(1). 'Drinking water' means water which is intended for sale for drinking by humans other than natural mineral water, or water bottled in a bottle marked or labelled 'spring water' in accordance with reg 11 (see PARA 450): reg 2(1). 'Bottle', the noun, means a closed container of any kind in which water is sold for drinking by humans or from which water sold for drinking by humans is derived; and 'bottle', the verb, and cognate expressions, must be construed accordingly: reg 2(1). Any reference to the marking or labelling of a bottle includes both marking or labelling done before any water is bottled and marking or labelling done after bottling: reg 2(4).

The Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, do not apply to any water which: (i) has a product licence issued under the provisions of the Medicines Act 1968 (see MEDICINAL PRODUCTS AND DRUGS vol 30(2) (Reissue) PARA 44), or a marketing authorisation within the meaning of the Medicines for Human Use (Marketing Authorisations etc) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/3144 (see MEDICINAL PRODUCTS AND DRUGS vol 30(2) (Reissue) PARA 20) or a marketing authorisation within the meaning of the Veterinary Medicines Regulations 2005, SI 2005/2745 (revoked) (see now the Veterinary Medicines Regulations 2008, SI 2008/2297; and MEDICINAL PRODUCTS AND DRUGS); (ii) is a natural mineral water which is used at source for curative purposes in thermal or hydromineral establishments; (iii) is not intended for sale for drinking by humans; or (iv) is a natural mineral water intended for export to a country other than an EEA state: Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 3(1). The regulations do not apply to packaged ice portions intended for use in cooling food: reg 3(2). As to the meaning of 'EEA state' see the Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1 (definition added by the Legislative and Regulatory Reform Act 2006 s 26(1)). The provisions of the Food Safety Act 1990 s 2 (extended meaning of 'sale' etc: see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 262); s 3 (presumptions that food intended for human consumption: see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 282); s 20 (offences due to fault of another person: see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 461); s 21 (defence of due diligence: see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 465) as it applies for the purposes of s 14 or s 15; s 22 (defence of publication in the course of business: see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 467); s 30(8) (which relates to documentary evidence: see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 462); s 33(1) (obstruction etc of officers: see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 271); s 33(2) (see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 271) with modifications; s 35(1) (punishment of offences: see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 468) in so far as it relates to offences under s 33(1); s 35(2), (3) (see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 468) in so far as they relate to offences under s 33(2); s 36 (offences by bodies corporate: see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 460); and s 44 (protection of officers acting in good faith: see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 272), apply for the purposes of the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785: see reg 22(1).

The Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, apply in relation to England only: see reg 1. As to the equivalent regulations in relation to Wales see the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (Wales) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/3165. As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2.

2     In accordance with the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, Sch 3 Pt 1.

3     Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 4(1)(a). 'Relevant authority' means the council of a district or London Borough: reg 2(1). As to local government areas and authorities in England see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 22 et seq. As to the London boroughs and their councils see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 35 et seq. Any recognition of water as a natural mineral water granted under the Natural Mineral Waters Regulations 1985, SI 1985/71 (revoked) or the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1540 (revoked), and subsisting on 31 October 2007 (ie the date that the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, came into force) must, in the case of water extracted from the ground in England, be treated as if it were recognition granted by the relevant authority under reg 4(1)(a): reg 4(7)(a).

4     As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 22 note 5.

5     In EC Council Directive 80/777 (OJ L229, 30.08.80, p 01): see PARA 447. The publication in the Official Journal of the European Union of the name of any water as a natural mineral water recognised in the Community for the purposes of the Directive is, save where recognition was granted in accordance with the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, Sch 3, conclusive evidence that that water is recognised for the purposes of the Directive: reg 4(8).

7     Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 4(1)(c).

8     In accordance with the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, Sch 3 Pt 2.

9     Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 4(1)(d)(i). As to the Food Standards Agency see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 225 et seq. Any recognition of water as a natural mineral water granted under the Natural Mineral Waters Regulations 1985, SI 1985/71 (revoked) or the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1540 (revoked) and subsisting on 31 October 2007 (ie the date that the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, came into force) must, in the case of water extracted from the ground in a country other than an EEA state, be treated as if it were recognition granted by the Agency under reg 4(1)(d)(i): reg 4(7)(b).

449. Regulations applying to natural mineral water.

No person may<sup>1</sup>:

- 1022 (1) exploit any spring for the purpose of marketing the water from it as natural mineral water<sup>2</sup> unless the water extracted from that spring is natural mineral water<sup>3</sup>, the relevant authority<sup>4</sup> has given permission for that spring to be exploited<sup>5</sup>, and the statutory requirements<sup>6</sup> are met<sup>7</sup>;
- 1023 introduction or the reintroduction of carbon dioxide to produce effervescent natural mineral water<sup>10</sup>;
- 1024 (3) bottle any natural mineral water which, at the time of bottling, contains any listed substance<sup>11</sup> at a level which exceeds the maximum specified limit<sup>12</sup> in relation to that substance<sup>13</sup>;
- 1025 (4) bottle any natural mineral water which does not meet the statutory requirements<sup>14</sup>;
- 1026 (5) bottle any natural mineral water in any container other than a container which is fitted with closures designed to avoid any possibility of adulteration or contamination<sup>15</sup>;
- 1027 (6) cause a natural mineral water to be bottled in a bottle marked or labelled with a trade description, any designation, proprietary name, trade mark, brand name, illustration or other sign, any indication, or a sales description, that does not meet the statutory requirements<sup>16</sup>;
- 1028 (7) cause natural mineral water to be bottled in a bottle unless the bottle is marked or labelled in accordance with the statutory requirements<sup>17</sup>;
- 1029 (8) advertise<sup>18</sup> any natural mineral water under any designation, proprietary name, trade mark, brand name, illustration or other sign, whether emblematic or not, the use of which suggests a characteristic which the water does not possess<sup>19</sup>;
- 1030 (9) sell<sup>20</sup> any water bottled in a bottle the marking or labelling of which uses the name 'natural mineral water' in or as the name of the water unless that water is natural mineral water<sup>21</sup>;
- 1031 (10) sell any bottled natural mineral water which contains the prescribed matter<sup>22</sup>;
- 1032 (11) sell any bottled natural mineral water which has been extracted from a spring which is exploited in contravention of head (1) above, which has been subjected to any treatment or addition in contravention of head (2) above, which is marked or labelled in contravention of head (6) above<sup>23</sup>, or is not appropriately marked or labelled<sup>24</sup>;
- 1033 (12) sell any natural mineral water from one and the same spring under more than one trade description<sup>25</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to enforcement and offences see PARA 452.

2 As to the meaning of 'natural mineral water' see PARA 448 note 1.

3 Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 5(1)(a). The Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, apply in relation to England only: see reg 1. As to the equivalent regulations in relation to Wales see the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (Wales) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/3165. As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA

16 note 2. Various provisions of the Food Safety Act 1990 apply for the purposes of the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785: see reg 22(1); and PARA 448 note 1.

4 As to the meaning of 'relevant authority' see PARA 448 note 3.

5 Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 5(1)(b).

6 The statutory requirements are: (1) equipment for exploiting the water must be so installed as to avoid any possibility of contamination and to preserve the properties corresponding to those ascribed to it which the water possesses at source (Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, Sch 4 para 1); (2) the spring or outlet must be protected against the risks of pollution (Sch 4 para 2); (3) the catchment, pipes and reservoirs must be of materials suitable for water and so built as to prevent any chemical, physico-chemical or microbiological alteration of the water (Sch 4 para 3); (4) the conditions of exploitation, particularly at the washing and bottling plant, must meet hygiene requirements (and in particular, the containers must be so treated or manufactured as to avoid adverse effects on the microbiological and chemical characteristics of the natural water) (Sch 4 para 4); (5) water must not be transported in containers other than those authorised for distribution to the ultimate consumer, but (a) natural mineral water may be transported from the spring to the bottling plant in a container which is not for distribution to the ultimate consumer if on or before 17 July 1980 water from that spring was so transported; (b) water distributed to the ultimate consumer in a bottle marked or labelled with the description 'spring water' may be transported from the spring to the bottling plant in a container which is not for distribution to the ultimate consumer if on or before 23 November 1996 water from that spring was so transported (Sch 4 para 5); (6) the revivable total colony count of the water at source, determined as set out below, must conform to the normal viable colony count of that water and must not show that the source of that water is contaminated. The colony count is that determined per ml of water (a) at 20 to 22°C in 72 hours on agar-agar or an agar-gelatine mixture; and (b) at 37°C in 24 hours on agar-agar (Sch 4 para 6); (7) after bottling, the total colony count of the water at source may not exceed 100 per ml at 20 to 22°C in 72 hours on agar-agar or an agar-gelatine mixture; and 20 per ml at 37°C in 24 hours on agar-agar. The total colony count must be measured within the period of 12 hours following bottling, the water being maintained at 4°C +/- 1°C during the period before which it is measured (Sch 4 para 7); (8) water must be free from (a) parasites and pathogenic micro-organisms; (b) escherichia coli and other coliforms and faecal streptococci in any 250 ml sample examined; (c) sporulated sulphite-reducing anaerobes in any 50 ml sample examined; and (d) pseudomonas aeruginosa in any 250 ml sample examined (Sch 4 para 8). As to the meaning of 'bottling' see PARA 448 note 1. As to the meanings of 'marking' and 'labelling' see PARA 448 note 1.

7 Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 5(1)(c). Where it is found during exploitation that natural mineral water is polluted and that bottling of the water would contravene Sch 4 para 6, 7 or 8 (see heads (6), (7) and (8) in note 6), no person may exploit the spring from which the water is extracted until the cause of the pollution is eradicated and the bottling of the water would comply with those paragraphs: reg 5(2).

8 The Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 6(1) does not prevent the use of natural mineral water in the manufacture of soft drinks: reg 6(2).

9 Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 6(1)(a). The authorised treatments are: (1) an authorised ozone-enriched air oxidation technique; (2) the separation of its unstable elements, such as iron and sulphur compounds, by filtration or decanting, whether or not preceded by oxygenation, in so far as the treatment does not alter the composition of the water as regards the essential constituents which give it its properties; or (3) the total or partial elimination of free carbon dioxide by exclusively physical methods: reg 6(1)(a)(i)-(iii). 'Authorised ozone-enriched air oxidation technique' means: (a) a treatment with ozone-enriched air authorised and carried out in accordance with Sch 1; or (b) in the case of water brought into England from other parts of the United Kingdom or from another EEA state a treatment which complies with EC Commission Directive 2003/40 (OJ L126, 22.05.2003, p 34) art 5 (see PARA 447) as implemented in that part of the United Kingdom or that EEA state: Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 2(1). As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 22 note 5. As to the meaning of 'EEA state' see the Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1 (definition added by the Legislative and Regulatory Reform Act 2006 s 26(1)).

10 Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 6(1)(b). 'Effervescent natural mineral water' means natural mineral water which, at source or after bottling, gives off carbon dioxide spontaneously and in a clearly visible manner under normal conditions of temperature and pressure: reg 2(1).

11 Is any substance listed in the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, Sch 6.

12 le the maximum limit specified in the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, Sch 6.

13 Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 7(1). The methods used for detection of the substances listed in Sch 6 must conform to the performance characteristics for analysis specified in Sch 7: reg 7(2).

14 Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 7(3). The statutory requirements are those of Sch 4: see note 6.

16 See the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 8(1), (3), (5). The Food Labelling Regulations 1996, SI 1996/1149, reg 38 (intelligibility: see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 405) applies to any name, description, indication, information or other wording with which water is required or permitted by the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, to be marked or labelled, as it applies to particulars required to be labelled under the Food Labelling Regulations 1996, SI 1996/1149: Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 22(2).

17 See the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 8(2). See also reg 22(2); and note 16.

18 'Advertisement' includes any notice, circular, invoice or other document, and any public announcement made orally or by any means of producing or transmitting light or sound, but does not include any form of labelling; and 'advertise' must be construed accordingly: Food Labelling Regulations 1996, SI 1996/1499, reg 2(1); definition applied by the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 2(1).

19 See the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 8(4).

20 'Sell' includes possess for sale and offer, expose or advertise for sale, and 'sale' must be construed accordingly: Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 2(1). See also the Food Safety Act 1990 s 2 (extended meaning of 'sale': see FOOD vol 18(2) (Reissue) PARA 262): applied by the Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2785, reg 22(1).

No person may<sup>1</sup>:

- 1034 (1) cause any water to be bottled in a bottle<sup>2</sup> marked or labelled<sup>3</sup> with the description 'spring water' unless that water has been extracted from a spring<sup>4</sup> and meets the statutory requirements<sup>5</sup>;
- 1035 (2) cause any water which has been treated with ozone-enriched air to be bottled in a bottle marked or labelled 'spring water', unless that treatment is an authorised ozone-enriched air oxidation technique<sup>6</sup>;
- 1036 (3) where it is found during exploitation that spring water is polluted and that bottling of the water would contravene the statutory requirements<sup>7</sup>, exploit the spring from which the water is extracted until the cause of the pollution is eradicated and the bottling of the water would comply with those requirements<sup>8</sup>;
- 1037 (4) cause any bottle to be marked or labelled with the description 'spring water' unless the water contained in it is bottled as specified in heads (1) to (3) above<sup>9</sup> and is intended for consumption in its natural state<sup>10</sup>;
- 1038 (5) cause any bottle containing water and marked or labelled with the description 'spring water' to be marked or labelled with a trade description that does not meet the statutory requirements<sup>11</sup>;
- 1039 (6) cause any water to be bottled in a bottle marked or labelled with the description 'spring water' unless the bottle is also marked or labelled with the name of the place where the spring in question is exploited and the name of the spring<sup>12</sup>;
- 1040 (7) advertise<sup>13</sup> any spring water in contravention of the prescribed requirements<sup>14</sup>;
- 1041 (8) sell<sup>15</sup> any water bottled in a bottle marked or labelled with the description 'spring water' which has not been bottled in accordance with heads (1) to (3) above<sup>16</sup>, which is not marked or labelled in accordance with head (4), (5) or (6) above<sup>17</sup>, or otherwise not appropriately marked or labelled<sup>18</sup>;
- 1042 (9) sell water from one and the same spring, bottled in a bottle marked or labelled with the description 'spring water', under more than one trade description<sup>19</sup>.

UPDATE

447-452 Sale and supply of bottled water

SI 2007/3165 amended: SI 2009/1897, SI 2010/748.

451 Regulations applying to bottled drinking water

NOTE 5--Directive 80/777 replaced: European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2009/54 on the exploitation and marketing of natural mineral waters.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/6. WATER SUPPLY/(8) SALE AND SUPPLY OF BOTTLED WATER/452. Enforcement and offences.

452. Enforcement and offences.

Each relevant authority<sup>1</sup> must, within its area, carry out periodic checks on any water which has been recognised as a natural mineral water<sup>2</sup>, and carry out periodic checks on any ozone-enriched air oxidation technique<sup>3</sup> authorised by it<sup>4</sup>.

The Natural Mineral Water, Spring Water and Bottled Drinking Water Regulations<sup>5</sup> are to be enforced and executed, within its area, by each food authority<sup>6</sup>. Provision is made for the analysis of any sample<sup>7</sup> procured by an authorised officer of a food authority<sup>8</sup> who considers that it should be analysed for the purposes of the regulations<sup>9</sup>.

A person<sup>10</sup> is guilty of an offence<sup>11</sup> if he contravenes any of the following provisions:

- 1047 (1) the provisions regulating the exploitation of natural mineral water springs<sup>12</sup>;
- 1048 (2) the provisions regulating treatments and additions for natural mineral waters<sup>13</sup>;
- 1049 (3) the provisions regulating the bottling of natural mineral waters<sup>14</sup>;
- 1050 (4) the provisions regulating the marking, labelling and advertising of natural mineral waters<sup>15</sup>, and their sale<sup>16</sup>;
- 1051 (5) the provisions regulating the bottling of spring water and the exploitation of spring water springs<sup>17</sup>;
- 1052 (6) the provisions regulating the marking, labelling and advertising of spring mineral water<sup>18</sup>, and its sale<sup>19</sup>;
- 1053 (7) the provisions regulating the bottling of drinking water<sup>20</sup>;
- 1054 (8) the provisions regulating the marking, labelling and advertising of bottled drinking water<sup>21</sup>, and those regulating<sup>22</sup> its sale<sup>23</sup>.

In any proceedings for any such offence it is a defence for the accused<sup>24</sup> to show that the water was bottled<sup>25</sup> and marked or labelled<sup>26</sup> before 31 October 2007<sup>27</sup> and under the regulations then in force<sup>28</sup> no offence would have been committed by him<sup>29</sup>. In any proceedings for any such offence where it is alleged that water does not meet the requirements as to concentrations or values<sup>30</sup>, it is a defence for the person accused to show that the water in question was bottled or sold<sup>31</sup> in an EEA state<sup>32</sup> other than the United Kingdom<sup>33</sup> and the water complied with the law in that EEA state when it was bottled or sold<sup>34</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'relevant authority' see PARA 448 note 3.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/7. GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/ (1) ACQUISITION AND DISPOSAL OF LAND/453. Powers of compulsory purchase.

7. GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS

(1) ACQUISITION AND DISPOSAL OF LAND

453. Powers of compulsory purchase.

anywhere in England and Wales which is required by the undertaker or, as the case may be, by the Agency, for the purposes of, or in connection with, the carrying out of its functions<sup>5</sup>. The power of the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers to authorise such acquisition includes power to authorise the acquisition of interests in or rights over land, either by the creation of new interests and rights or by the acquisition of existing interests or rights to provide for their extinguishment<sup>6</sup>. The functions of the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers and the Agency under the land and works powers of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>7</sup> must be exercised so as to secure compliance with the Water Framework Directive<sup>8</sup>.

Relevant undertakers and the Agency also have power to purchase land by agreement<sup>9</sup>; and the Agency may purchase land, or take it on lease, either by agreement, or, if so authorised, compulsorily, for certain fisheries purposes<sup>10</sup>. All the powers relating to land and works conferred on relevant undertakers<sup>11</sup> and on the Agency<sup>12</sup> are without prejudice to any powers conferred by any agreement<sup>13</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8.

2 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. The incidental functions of the Agency include joining with, or acting on behalf of, one or more relevant undertakers for the purpose of acquiring any land which at least one of the undertakers with which it joins, or on whose behalf it acts, is authorised to acquire for the purposes of any function of that undertaker under any enactment, or any function which is taken to be a function of that undertaker for the purposes to which the Water Industry Act 1991 s 217 (see PARA 133 note 5) applies: see the Environment Act 1995 s 10(1), (3); and ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 80. As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21. As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31.

3 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

4 The functions of the Secretary of State under: (1) the Water Industry Act 1991 s 155 were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales as follows: (a) functions so far as relating to matters concerning the construction or enlargement of reservoirs were transferred to the Assembly in relation to Wales; (b) functions so far as relating to matters other than the construction or enlargement of reservoirs were transferred to the Assembly in relation to such parts of Wales as are outside the catchment areas of the rivers Dee, Wye and Severn; and (c) functions so far as relating to matters other than the construction or enlargement of reservoirs were, in relation to such parts of Wales as are within the catchment areas of the rivers Dee, Wye and Severn, exercisable by the Assembly concurrently with the Secretary of State; and (2) under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 154, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16. As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8.

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 155(1); Water Resources Act 1991 s 154(1) (s 154(1)-(4) amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). As to the meaning of 'functions' in relation to a relevant undertaker see PARA 133 note 5. As to the Agency's functions see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 72 et seq.

The land which a relevant undertaker, or the Agency, may be so authorised to purchase compulsorily may include land which is or will be required for the purpose of being given in exchange for, or for any right over, any other land which for the purposes of the Acquisition of Land Act 1981 is or forms part of a common, open space or fuel or field garden allotment (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 531): see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 155(3); Water Resources Act 1991 s 154(3) (as so amended). Subject to the Water Industry Act 1991 s 188 or, as the case may be, the Water Resources Act 1991 s 182 (mineral rights: see PARA 493 et seq), the Acquisition of Land Act 1981 applies to any such compulsory acquisition: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 155(4); Water Resources Act 1991 s 154(4) (as so amended). As to the compulsory acquisition of land generally COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND.

6 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 155(2); Water Resources Act 1991 s 154(2) (as amended: see note 5). Where the creation of a new interest or right is secured compulsorily, the enactments relating to compensation for the compulsory purchase have effect with the necessary modifications, and the Compulsory Purchase Act 1965 and the Acquisition of Land Act 1981 (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND), in their application to such compulsory acquisition, have effect with prescribed modifications: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 155(5), Sch 9; the Water Resources Act 1991 s 154(5), Sch 18.

10 Without prejudice to the Environment Act 1995 s 37 (incidental general powers of the Agency: see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 73): (1) the powers conferred on the Agency by that provision and by the Water Resources Act 1991 s 154 (see the text to notes 1-6) include power to purchase or take on lease (either by agreement or, if so authorised, compulsorily) (a) any dam, fishing weir, fishing mill dam, fixed engine or other artificial obstruction and any fishery attached to or worked in connection with any such obstruction; (b) so much of the bank adjoining a dam as may be necessary for making or maintaining a fish pass for the purposes of the Salmon and Freshwater Fisheries Act 1975 s 10 (see AGRICULTURE AND FISHERIES vol 1(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 860); and (c) for the purpose of erecting and working a fixed engine, any fishery land or foreshore together with any easement over any adjoining land necessary for securing access to the fishery land or foreshore so acquired; and (2) the Agency may (a) either alter or remove an obstruction acquired in the exercise of those powers; or (b) by itself or its lessees use or work in any lawful manner the obstruction for fishing purposes and exercise the right by any fishery so acquired, subject, in the case of an obstruction or fishery acquired by way of lease, to the terms of the lease: Water Resources Act 1991 s 156(1), (2) (both amended by the Environment Act 1995 Sch 22 paras 128, 158). Expressions used in the Water Resources Act 1991 s 156 and in the Salmon and Freshwater Fisheries Act 1975 have the same meanings for these purposes as in that Act: Water Resources Act 1991 s 156(3). #### 454. Restrictions on the disposal of land.

A company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker<sup>1</sup> may not dispose of any of its protected land<sup>2</sup>, or of any interest or right in or over any of that land, except with the consent of, or in accordance with a general authorisation given by, the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>4</sup>; and the Environment Agency<sup>5</sup> must not dispose of any of its compulsorily acquired land<sup>6</sup>, or of any interest or right in or over any of that land, except with the consent of, or in accordance with a general authorisation given by, the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>7</sup>.

A consent or authorisation may be given on such conditions as the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers when giving it considers appropriate<sup>8</sup>. A consent or authorisation must be set out in a notice served<sup>9</sup> by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers on the company which is or may be authorised, by virtue of the provisions contained in the notice, to dispose of land or of interests or rights in or over land, or on every such company, or, as appropriate, on the Agency<sup>10</sup>. An authorisation for the disposal of land by a company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker may be combined with an authorisation for the disposal of land by the Agency, and vice versa<sup>11</sup>.

The conditions of a consent or authorisation for these purposes may include a requirement that before there is any disposal, an opportunity of acquiring the land in question, or an interest or right in or over that land, is to be made available in such manner and on such terms as may be specified in or determined under provision contained in the notice setting out the consent or authorisation in question, and to such person<sup>12</sup> as may be so specified<sup>13</sup>. Additional requirements may be imposed in the case of a company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker, namely:

- 1055 (1) that the company making the disposal has complied with such of the conditions of its appointment as relate to the disposal of its protected land or of any interest or right in or over that land<sup>14</sup>;
- 1056 (2) that before making a disposal in a case in which the land in question is situated in a National Park, in the Broads or in an area of outstanding natural beauty or special scientific interest, the company should do one or both of the following, that is to say (a) consult with Natural England (as respects land in England) or the Countryside Council for Wales (as respects land in Wales)<sup>15</sup>; and (b) enter into such management agreements<sup>16</sup> or such covenants<sup>17</sup> below as the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may determine<sup>18</sup>;
- 1057 (3) provision requiring determinations under or for the purposes of the consent or authorisation to be made, in such cases as are mentioned in head (2) above, either by Natural England or the Countryside Council for Wales or only after consultation with Natural England or the Countryside Council for Wales<sup>19</sup>.

4 Water Industry Act 1991 s 156(1). The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 156 were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales in relation to any water or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales (but not in relation to any licensed water supplier): see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the meanings of 'water undertaker' and 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

5 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

6 'Compulsorily acquired land', in relation to the Agency, means any land of the Agency which: (1) was acquired by it compulsorily under the provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 s 154 (see PARA 453) or of an order under s 168 (compulsory works orders: see PARA 455); (2) was acquired by it at a time when it was authorised under those provisions to acquire it compulsorily; (3) having been transferred to the Agency from the former National Rivers Authority under the Environment Act 1995 s 3 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 71), was acquired by the authority as mentioned in heads (1)-(2) or under the provisions of the Water Act 1989 s 151 (repealed) or of an order under s 155 (repealed); (4) has been so transferred, was transferred to the authority in accordance with a scheme under Sch 2 (repealed) and was acquired by a predecessor of the authority compulsorily under so much of any enactment in force at any time before 1 September 1989 as conferred powers of compulsory acquisition; or (5) has been and was so transferred as mentioned in head (4) and was acquired by such a predecessor at a time when it was authorised to acquire the land by virtue of any such powers as are mentioned in that head: Water Resources Act 1991 s 157(6) (substituted by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 159). As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21. As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31.

7 Water Resources Act 1991 s 157(1) (s 157(1), (2), amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120, Sch 22 para 128). The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 157, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30.

9 As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the service of documents see PARA 22.

10 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 156(2)(a); Water Resources Act 1991 s 157(2)(a) (as amended: see note 7).

12 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

13 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 156(4)(a); Water Resources Act 1991 s 157(4), (5). Such a condition may not be included in a consent or authorisation given to a company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker except where the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers are satisfied that the condition will have effect in relation only to land: (1) which, or any interest in or right over which, was acquired by the relevant undertaker in question, or any predecessor of that undertaker, either compulsorily or at a time when the undertaker or that predecessor was authorised to acquire it compulsorily; or (2) situated in a National Park, in the Broads or in an area of outstanding natural beauty or special scientific interest: Water Industry Act 1991 s 156(5). For these purposes, 'area of outstanding natural beauty or special scientific interest' means an area which (a) is for the time being designated as an area of outstanding natural beauty under the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 s 82 (see OPEN SPACES AND COUNTRYSIDE vol 78 (2010) PARA 658 et seq); or (b) is a site of special scientific interest within the meaning of the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 (see OPEN SPACES AND COUNTRYSIDE vol 78 (2010) PARA 674 et seq): Water Industry Act 1991 s 156(8) (definition amended by the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 s 76(1), Sch 10 Pt II para 9, Sch 15 Pt I para 12). As to the meaning of 'the Broads' see PARA 735 note 2: definition applied by the Water Industry Act 1991 s 156(8). As to National Parks see OPEN SPACES AND COUNTRYSIDE vol 78 (2010) PARA 636 et seq.

15 Water Industry Act 1991 s 156(4)(c)(i) (s 156(4)(c)(i), (ii) substituted by the Natural Environment and Rural Communities Act 2006 s 105(1), Sch 11 Pt 1 para 131(1), (2)). As to Natural England and the Countryside Council for Wales see OPEN SPACES AND COUNTRYSIDE vol 78 (2010) PARA 523 et seq.

16 'Management agreement' means: (1) in relation to land in England, an agreement under the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 s 39 (see OPEN SPACES AND COUNTRYSIDE vol 78 (2010) PARA 763) or the Natural Environment and Rural Communities Act 2006 s 7 (see OPEN SPACES AND COUNTRYSIDE vol 78 (2010) PARAS 671, 762); (2) in relation to land in Wales, an agreement under the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 s 39: Water Industry Act 1991 s 156(8) (definition added by the Natural Environment and Rural Communities Act 2006 s 105(1), Sch 11 Pt 1 para 131(1), (4)).

17 Where a company holding an appointment under the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt II Ch I (ss 6-17) is proposing, in such a case as is mentioned in s 156(4)(c), to dispose of, or of any interest or right in or over, any of its protected land, it may enter into a covenant with the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers by virtue of which it accepts obligations with respect to: (1) the freedom of access to the land that is to be afforded to members of the public or to persons of any description; or (2) the use or management of the land; and a covenant under this provision binds all persons deriving title from or under that company and is enforceable by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers accordingly: s 156(6).

18 Water Industry Act 1991 s 156(4)(c)(ii) (as substituted: see note 15). Section 3 (general environmental and recreational duties: see PARA 676) has effect for these purposes as if every proposal which is made by a company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker with respect to land in a National Park, in the Broads or in an area of outstanding natural beauty or special scientific interest, or with respect to any interest or right in or over such land, and which is a proposal for which the Secretary of State's or the Welsh Ministers' consent or authorisation is required under s 156, were a proposal relating to the functions of such an undertaker: s 156(7). As to the meaning of 'functions' see PARA 133 note 5.

19 Water Industry Act 1991 s 156(4)(d) (amended by the Natural Environment and Rural Communities Act 2006 s 105(1), Sch 11 Pt 1 para 131(1), (3)(b)).

(2) POWERS TO CARRY OUT WORKS

(i) Compulsory Works Orders

455. In general.

Where a water undertaker<sup>1</sup> or the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> is proposing, for the purposes of or in connection with the carrying out of any of its functions<sup>3</sup>, to carry out any engineering or building operations<sup>4</sup>, or to discharge water into any inland waters<sup>5</sup> or underground strata<sup>6</sup>, the undertaker or the Agency may apply to the Secretary of State<sup>7</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>8</sup> for a compulsory works order<sup>9</sup>. The application must follow the statutory procedures<sup>10</sup>. Subject thereto, a compulsory works order may:

- 1058 (1) confer power<sup>11</sup> to acquire compulsorily any land<sup>12</sup>, including power to acquire interests in and rights over land by the creation of new rights and interests and power, by the compulsory acquisition by any water undertaker or the Agency of any rights over land which is to be or has been acquired by that undertaker or by the Agency, to extinguish any such rights<sup>13</sup>;
- 1059 (2) apply certain statutory provisions<sup>14</sup> for the purposes of the order, whether with or without modifications<sup>15</sup>;
- 1060 (3) make any authority granted by the order subject to such conditions as may be specified in it<sup>16</sup>;
- 1061 (4) amend or repeal any local statutory provision<sup>17</sup>;
- 1062 (5) contain such supplemental, consequential and transitional provision as the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers when making the order consider appropriate<sup>18</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

2 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. The incidental functions of the Agency include joining with, or acting on behalf of, one or more relevant undertakers for the purpose of carrying out any works which at least one of the undertakers with which it joins, or on whose behalf it acts, is authorised to carry out for the purposes of any function of that undertaker under any enactment, or any function which is taken to be a function of that undertaker for the purposes to which the Water Industry Act 1991 s 217 applies (see PARA 133 note 5): see the Environment Act 1995 s 10(1), (3); and ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 80.

456. Procedure on application for compulsory works order.

Where a water undertaker<sup>1</sup> or the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> applies to the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>4</sup> for a compulsory works order<sup>5</sup>, it must submit to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers a draft of the order applied for and publish with respect to the application, at least once in each of two successive weeks, in one or more newspapers circulating in each relevant locality<sup>6</sup>, a notice:

- 1063 (1) stating the general effect of the order applied for<sup>7</sup>;
- 1064 (2) specifying a place where a copy of the draft order and of any relevant map or plan may be inspected by any person<sup>8</sup> free of charge at all reasonable times during the period of 28 days beginning with the date of the first publication of the notice<sup>9</sup>; and
- 1065 (3) stating that any person may, within that period, by notice to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers, object to the making of the order<sup>10</sup>.

In the case of an application made wholly or partly for the purpose of enabling any discharges of water to be made, the notice must also:

- 1066 (a) contain particulars of the proposed discharges, stating the purposes of them and specifying each place of discharge<sup>11</sup>;
- 1067 (b) specify the places at which the water to be comprised in the proposed discharges is to be taken and the treatment, if any, which the draft order proposes to require the water, or any of it, to receive before being discharged under the order<sup>12</sup>; and
- 1068 (c) state the effect which, in the opinion of the undertaker or the Agency, the proposed discharges would have on the flow, level and quality of water in any inland waters or underground strata<sup>13</sup>.

Not later than the date on which that notice is first published, the water undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency must serve a copy of the notice<sup>14</sup> on each of the specified persons<sup>15</sup>, and in the case of a draft order which would authorise the stopping up or diversion of a footpath, bridleway or restricted byway cause such a copy, together with a plan showing the general effect of the draft order so far as it relates to the footpath, bridleway or restricted byway, to be displayed in a prominent position at the ends of the part of the path or way to be stopped up or diverted<sup>16</sup>. Notice must also be published in the London Gazette<sup>17</sup>.

Where a water undertaker or the Agency applies for a compulsory works order it must, at the request of any person and on payment by that person of such charge, if any, as it may reasonably require, furnish that person with a copy of the draft order submitted to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers and with a copy of any relevant map or plan<sup>18</sup>.

14 As to the service of documents see PARA 22.

15 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 1(2)(c)(i); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 1(2)(c)(i). The specified persons are: (1) in the case of an application by a water undertaker, the Agency; (2) every local authority whose area is or includes the whole or any part of a relevant locality and which, in the case of an application by the Agency, is not an English county council; (3) every water undertaker (or, in the case of an application by such an undertaker, every other water undertaker) whose area is or includes the whole or any part of such a locality; (4) every navigation authority, harbour authority and conservancy authority which would be affected by, or has functions in relation to any inland waters which would be affected by, any provision proposed to be made by the order; (5) every person (a) who is an owner, lessee, tenant (whatever the tenancy period) or occupier of any land in relation to which compulsory powers would become exercisable if the order were made in the terms of the draft order; or (b) who the water undertaker or the Agency thinks is likely to be entitled to make a claim for compensation under the Compulsory Purchase Act 1965 s 10 (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 878) if the order is confirmed and the compulsory powers become exercisable, so far as he is known to the water undertaker or Agency after making diligent inquiry; (6) every person who has given notice to the water undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency, requiring it to notify him of applications for compulsory works orders and has paid such reasonable charge as the undertaker or the Agency may have required him to pay for being so notified; and (7) such other persons as may be prescribed: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 1(3) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 Sch 22 para 126; SI 2007/1519); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 1(3) (amended by the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 22(5), Sch 11 para 3(11); Environment Act 1995 s 120, Sch 22 para 128; SI 2007/1519). The prescribed persons are as follows: where a compulsory works order is applied for under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 167 or under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 168 which would authorise the stopping-up or diversion of a footpath, bridleway or restricted byway in an area specified in the Water (Compulsory Works Powers) (Notice) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/221, Schedule col 1, a copy of the notice of the application must be served on the persons specified in relation to that area in Schedule col 2: reg 2 (amended by SI 2006/1177). The specified areas and persons are: (i) with regard to England and Wales, the Auto-Cycle Union; the British Horse Society; the Byways and Bridleways Trust; the Cyclists Touring Club; the Open Spaces Society and the Ramblers' Association; (ii) with regard to the counties of Cheshire, Derbyshire, Greater Manchester, Lancashire, Merseyside, South Yorkshire, Staffordshire and West Yorkshire, the Peak and Northern Footpaths Society; (iii) with regard to (A) within the county of Bedfordshire, the borough of Luton and the districts of Mid Bedfordshire and South Bedfordshire; (B) within the county of Buckinghamshire, the districts of Chiltern, Wycombe, South Bucks and Aylesbury Vale; (C) within the county of Hertfordshire, the borough of Dacorum and the districts of Three Rivers and North Hertfordshire; and (D) within the county of Oxfordshire, the district of South Oxfordshire, the Chiltern Society: Schedule cols 1, 2. 'Bridleway' and 'footpath' have the same meanings as in the Highways Act 1980 (see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 64); and 'restricted byway' has the same meaning as in the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 Pt 2 (see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 603); Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 10; Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 10 (both amended by SI 2006/1177). As to the meaning of 'local authority' for the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 see PARA 118 note 17, and for the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991 see PARA 187 note 2. As to the meaning of 'navigation authority' see PARA 189 note 1. As to the meaning of 'harbour authority' see PARA 189 note 2. As to the meaning of 'conservancy authority' see PARA 189 note 3. As to the meaning of 'owner' see PARA 22 note 9. As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21. As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8.

Where the whole or part of a relevant locality is in a National Park, the application must also be served on the National Park authority: see the National Park Authorities (Wales) Order 1995, SI 1995/2803, art 18, Sch 5 para 2B (added by SI 1996/534); the National Park Authorities (England) Order 1996, SI 1996/1243, art 18, Sch 5 para 6(1). #### 457. Consideration of objections.

If, where an application for a compulsory works order<sup>1</sup> has been made by a water undertaker<sup>2</sup> or by the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup>, any notice of objection is received before the end of the relevant period<sup>4</sup> by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers from:

- 1069 (1) any person<sup>5</sup> on whom a notice<sup>6</sup> is required to be served<sup>7</sup>; or
- 1070 (2) any other person appearing to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers to be affected by the order as submitted or as proposed<sup>8</sup> to be modified<sup>9</sup>, then, unless the objection is withdrawn, the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers must, before making the order, either cause a local inquiry<sup>10</sup> to be held or afford to the objector and to the undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency, an opportunity of appearing before, and being heard by, a person appointed for the purpose<sup>11</sup>. Where any such objection relates to any powers of compulsory acquisition<sup>12</sup>, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may require the objector to state the grounds of his objection in writing<sup>13</sup> and may, if satisfied that the objection relates exclusively to matters that can be dealt with in the assessment of compensation<sup>14</sup>, disregard the objection for these purposes<sup>15</sup>.

2 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

3 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

4 'Relevant period', in relation to an application for any order, means the period ending with whichever is the later of: (1) the end of the period of 28 days beginning with the date of the first publication of the notice published with respect to the application for the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 1(1)(b) or the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 1(1)(b) (see PARA 456); and (2) the end of the period of 25 days beginning with the date of the publication in the London Gazette of the notice published for the purposes of the application by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 1(1)(d) or the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 1(1)(d) (see PARA 456), together, in the case of an application for an order modifications to which have been proposed by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers, with any further periods specified with respect to the modifications in notices under the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 3(2) or the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 3(2) (see PARA 458): Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 4(3); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 4(3). As to the meaning of 'modifications' see PARA 141 note 20.

The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales as follows: (a) functions so far as relating to matters concerning the construction or enlargement of reservoirs were transferred to the Assembly in relation to Wales; (b) functions so far as relating to matters other than the construction or enlargement of reservoirs were transferred to the Assembly in relation to such parts of Wales as are outside the catchment areas of the rivers Dee, Wye and Severn; (c) functions so far as relating to matters other than the construction or enlargement of reservoirs were, in relation to such parts of Wales as are within the catchment areas of the rivers Dee, Wye and Severn, to be exercisable by the Assembly concurrently with the Secretary of State: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. All these functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. #### 458. Making or refusal of order.

On an application for a compulsory works order<sup>1</sup>, the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup>, may make the order either in the terms of the draft order submitted or in those terms as modified in such manner as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers thinks fit<sup>4</sup> or may refuse to make the order<sup>5</sup>. The Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may, on such an application, by order made by statutory instrument confer such compulsory powers and grant such authority as they consider necessary or expedient for the purpose of enabling any engineering or building operations<sup>6</sup> or discharges of water<sup>7</sup> to be carried out or made for the purposes of, or in connection with, the carrying out of the functions<sup>8</sup> with respect to which the application was made<sup>9</sup>. Where the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers makes a compulsory works order authorising a water undertaker or, as the case may be, the Environment Agency to carry out works for or in connection with the construction or operation of a reservoir or conferring compulsory powers for that purpose on such an undertaker or on the Agency<sup>10</sup>, and it appears to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers that the works to be carried out may permanently affect the area in which they are situated and are not primarily intended to benefit the inhabitants of that area<sup>11</sup>, they may<sup>12</sup> include in the order provision with respect to facilities for recreation or other leisure-time occupation for the benefit of those inhabitants<sup>13</sup>.

Unless all interested parties consent, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may not make a compulsory works order so as to confer in relation to any land<sup>14</sup> any powers of compulsory acquisition<sup>15</sup> which would not have been conferred in relation to that land if the order were made in the terms of the draft order<sup>16</sup> as submitted<sup>17</sup>. Nothing in any compulsory works order may exempt any water undertaker, or the Agency, from any restriction imposed by the statutory provisions<sup>18</sup> as to abstraction and impounding<sup>19</sup>.

Where, on an application for a compulsory works order, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers refuses to make the order, the water undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency must, as soon as practicable after the refusal, notify the refusal to every person on whom it was required<sup>20</sup> to serve a copy of the notice with respect to the application<sup>21</sup>.

As soon as practicable after a compulsory works order has been made, the undertaker on whose application it is made or, as the case may be, the Agency, must publish a notice of the making of the order, at least once in each of two successive weeks, in one or more newspapers circulating in each relevant locality<sup>22</sup>. The notice must state the general effect of the order<sup>23</sup> and specify a place where a copy of the order and of any relevant map or plan may be inspected by any person free of charge at all reasonable times<sup>24</sup>. In the case of an order made wholly or partly for the purpose of enabling any discharges of water to be made, the order must also:

1071 (1) contain particulars of the discharges, stating the purposes of them and specifying each place of discharge<sup>25</sup>;

1072 (2) specify the places at which the water to be comprised in the discharges is to be taken and the treatment, if any, which the order requires the water, or any of it, to receive before being discharged under the order<sup>26</sup>; and

1073 (3) state the effect which, in the opinion of the undertaker, the discharges would have on the flow, level and quality of water in any inland waters or underground strata<sup>27</sup>.

Not later than the date on which that notice is first published, the undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency must serve<sup>28</sup> a copy of it on every person on whom the undertaker or Agency was required<sup>29</sup> to serve a copy of the notice with respect to the application for the order<sup>30</sup> and, in the case of an order authorising the stopping up or diversion of a footpath, bridleway or restricted byway<sup>31</sup>, cause a copy, together with a plan showing the general effect of the order so far as it relates to the footpath or bridleway, to be displayed in a prominent position at the ends of the appropriate part of the path or way<sup>32</sup>.

Where a compulsory works order has been made, the undertaker on whose application it was made or, as the case may be, the Agency, must at the request of any person, and on payment by that person of such charge, if any, as the undertaker or Agency may reasonably require, furnish that person with a copy of the order and of any relevant map or plan<sup>33</sup>.

Certain protective provisions<sup>34</sup> apply in relation to the carrying out of works by virtue of an authority granted by so much of any compulsory works order as makes provision which does not confer powers of compulsory acquisition<sup>35</sup>.

2 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

3 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales as follows: (1) functions so far as relating to matters concerning the construction or enlargement of reservoirs were transferred to the Assembly in relation to Wales; (2) functions so far as relating to matters other than the construction or enlargement of reservoirs were transferred to the Assembly in relation to such parts of Wales as are outside the catchment areas of the rivers Dee, Wye and Severn; (3) functions so far as relating to matters other than the construction or enlargement of reservoirs were, in relation to such parts of Wales as are within the catchment areas of the rivers Dee, Wye and Severn, to be exercisable by the Assembly concurrently with the Secretary of State: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. All these functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

4 Neither the Secretary of State nor the Welsh Ministers may make such a modification of a draft order as submitted as he or they considers is likely adversely to affect any persons unless satisfied that the water undertaker submitting it or, as the case may be, the Environment Agency has given and published such additional notices, in such manner, as the Secretary of State or Welsh Ministers may have required: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 3(2); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 3(2) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). As to the meaning of 'modification' see PARA 141 note 20. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. 5 Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 11 para 3(1); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 3(1).

6 As to the meaning of 'engineering or building operations' see PARA 223 note 4.

7 A compulsory works order may grant authority for discharges of water by a water undertaker or, as the case may be, by the Environment Agency where the undertaker or Agency has no power to take water, or to require discharges to be made, from the inland waters or other source from which the discharges authorised by the order are intended to be made; but nothing in so much of any such order as grants authority for any discharges of water has the effect of conferring any such power: Water Industry Act 1991 s 167(7); Water Resources Act 1991 s 168(7) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/(2) POWERS TO CARRY OUT WORKS/(i) Compulsory Works Orders/459. Compulsory works orders containing provisions for compulsory acquisition.

459. Compulsory works orders containing provisions for compulsory acquisition.

Certain enactments relating to the compulsory acquisition of land<sup>1</sup> apply in relation to so much of a compulsory works order<sup>2</sup> as confers powers of compulsory acquisition<sup>3</sup> as they apply in relation to a compulsory purchase order<sup>4</sup> and are accordingly applied with the specified modifications<sup>5</sup> where the case so requires<sup>6</sup>.

If any person aggrieved<sup>7</sup> by a compulsory works order containing such powers, or by a certificate given under the special land provisions<sup>8</sup> in connection with such an order, desires to question:

- 1074 (1) the validity of the order, or of any provision of the order, on the grounds that any powers of compulsory acquisition conferred by the order are not authorised<sup>9</sup> to be so conferred, or that any of the relevant requirements<sup>10</sup> have not been complied with in relation to the order<sup>11</sup>; or
- 1075 (2) the validity of the certificate on the grounds that any of the relevant requirements have not been complied with in relation to the certificate<sup>12</sup>, he may make an application for the purpose to the High Court at any time before the end of the period of six weeks beginning with the date on which notice of the making of the order is first published<sup>13</sup> or, as the case may be, notice of the giving of the certificate is first published in accordance with the special land provisions<sup>14</sup>. On any such application with respect to any order or certificate, the High Court may by interim order suspend the operation of the compulsory works order, or any provision of it, or of the certificate, either generally or in so far as it affects any property of the applicant, until the final determination of the proceedings<sup>15</sup>. If the court is satisfied that any powers of compulsory acquisition conferred by the compulsory works order are not authorised to be so conferred, or that the interests of the applicant have been substantially prejudiced by a failure to comply with any of the relevant requirements in relation to the order or the certificate, it may quash the order, or any provision of the order, or the certificate, either generally or in so far as it affects any property of that applicant<sup>16</sup>. Except as so provided, the validity of any such order or certificate may not, either before or after the order or certificate has been made or given, be questioned in any legal proceedings whatsoever<sup>17</sup>.

Subject to any such order of the High Court, a compulsory works order conferring powers of compulsory acquisition which is not subject to special parliamentary procedure<sup>18</sup>, or a certificate given under the special land provisions in connection with such an order, becomes operative on the date on which notice of the making or giving of it is published<sup>19</sup>.

(ii) Works Agreements

460. Agreements for works with respect to water sources.

A water undertaker<sup>1</sup> may enter into agreements with the owners<sup>2</sup> and occupiers of any land<sup>3</sup>, or with a local authority<sup>4</sup>, with respect to the carrying out and maintenance by any party to the agreement of such works as the undertaker considers necessary for the purpose of draining that land<sup>5</sup>, or for more effectually collecting, conveying and preserving the purity of any water which the undertaker is for the time being authorised to take<sup>6</sup>.

Before entering into such an agreement with respect to the carrying out of works which would result in the discharge of any water into a watercourse<sup>7</sup> otherwise than through public sewers<sup>8</sup>, a water undertaker must consult the Environment Agency<sup>9</sup> and, if the watercourse is subject to the jurisdiction of a navigation authority<sup>10</sup>, that authority<sup>11</sup>.

Any such agreement with the owner of any land which is expressed to be binding on and enforceable against the owner's successors in title to that land may be registered<sup>12</sup> and is so binding and enforceable unless it is void by reason of a failure so to register it<sup>13</sup>.

2 As to the meaning of 'owner' see PARA 22 note 9.

3 As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21.

4 For these purposes, 'local authority' includes a county council and the sub-treasurer of the Inner Temple and the under-treasurer of the Middle Temple: Water Industry Act 1991 s 164(4). As to the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 118 note 17. As to local government areas and authorities in England and Wales see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 22 et seq. #### 461. Works agreements for water resources purposes.

The Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> has power<sup>2</sup> to enter into an agreement with any water undertaker or sewerage undertaker<sup>3</sup>, with any local authority<sup>4</sup>, National Park Authority<sup>5</sup> or joint planning board<sup>6</sup>, or with the owner<sup>7</sup> or occupier of any land<sup>8</sup> with respect to any one or more of the following matters<sup>9</sup>:

- 1076 (1) the carrying out by any party to the agreement of works which the Agency considers necessary or expedient in connection with the carrying out of any of its water resources functions<sup>10</sup>;
- 1077 (2) the maintenance by any party to the agreement of works carried out in pursuance of the agreement<sup>11</sup>;
- 1078 (3) provision for the Agency to use, or have access to, any land for any purpose connected with the carrying out of such water resources functions<sup>12</sup>;
- 1079 (4) the manner in which any reservoir is to be operated<sup>13</sup>; and such an agreement may contain such incidental and consequential provisions, including provisions of a financial character, as appear to the Agency necessary or expedient for the purposes of the agreement<sup>14</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>15</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>16</sup> may by a direction to the Agency direct that, in such cases or classes of cases as are specified in the direction, the Agency may not enter into any such agreement except with the consent of the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers<sup>17</sup>.

Where such an agreement is made with the owner of land, and the agreement so provides, then:

- 1080 (a) where the land is not registered land<sup>18</sup>:

- 1. (i) the agreement may be registered as a land charge<sup>19</sup>;
- 2. (ii) the statutory provisions relating to the effect of non-registration<sup>20</sup> then apply as if it were such a land charge<sup>21</sup>; and
- 3. (iii) subject to those provisions, the agreement is binding upon any successor<sup>22</sup> of that owner to the same extent as it is binding upon that owner, notwithstanding that it would not otherwise have been so binding<sup>23</sup>;

- 1081 (b) where the land is registered land:

54

- 4. (i) the agreement may be the subject of a notice in the register of title<sup>24</sup> as if it were an interest affecting the registered land<sup>25</sup>;
- 5. (ii) the statutory provisions regarding the effect of dispositions of registered land on the priority of adverse interests<sup>26</sup> apply as if the agreement were such an interest<sup>27</sup>; and
- 6. (iii) subject to those provisions, the agreement is binding upon any successor of that owner to the same extent as it is binding upon that owner, notwithstanding that it would not otherwise have been so binding upon that successor<sup>28</sup>.

(iii) Powers to Lay Pipes

462. Powers of undertakers to lay pipes in streets.

Every relevant undertaker<sup>1</sup> and the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> has power<sup>3</sup>, for the purpose of carrying out its functions<sup>4</sup>:

- 1082 (1) to lay a relevant pipe<sup>5</sup> in, under or over any street<sup>6</sup> and to keep that pipe there<sup>7</sup>;
- 1083 (2) to inspect, maintain<sup>8</sup>, adjust, repair or alter<sup>9</sup> any relevant pipe which is in, under or over any street<sup>10</sup>; and
- 1084 (3) to carry out any works requisite for, or incidental to, the purposes of any works falling within head (1) or head (2) above, including, for those purposes, breaking up or opening a street, tunnelling or boring under a street, breaking up or opening a sewer, drain or tunnel<sup>11</sup> and moving or removing earth and other materials<sup>12</sup>.

These powers also apply to accessories for such pipes<sup>13</sup>.

A stopcock<sup>14</sup> fitted to any service pipe in a street must be situated as near as reasonably practicable to the boundary of the street and a water undertaker must consult with the highway authority<sup>15</sup> concerned before determining where to fit a stopcock in a highway<sup>16</sup>.

Where a water undertaker exercises its powers under any of the above provisions for the purpose of carrying out works of maintenance, repair or renewal in relation to a service pipe belonging to a person other than the undertaker, the undertaker is entitled to recover from the occupier<sup>17</sup> of the premises supplied by means of that pipe the expenses reasonably incurred in so exercising that power<sup>18</sup>.

Nothing in these provisions authorises:

- 1085 (a) the installation by a relevant undertaker of any apparatus for measuring or showing the volume of water supplied to, or of effluent discharged from, any premises where that apparatus is to be used for the purpose only of determining the amount of any charges fixed, or to be fixed, in relation to those premises wholly or partly by reference to the volume of that water or effluent<sup>19</sup>;
- 1086 (b) any relevant undertaker, or the Agency, to carry out any works at any place below the place to which the tide flows at mean high water springs, except in accordance with such plans and sections, and subject to such restrictions, as may, before the works are commenced, have been approved by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>20</sup>.

The exercise of these powers is subject to the provisions of the New Roads and Street Works Act 1991 relating to the carrying out of works in the street<sup>21</sup>. A water undertaker must only exercise these powers for the purposes of its authorised works<sup>22</sup>. They are exercisable both inside and outside the undertaker's area<sup>23</sup>. Where, however, a relevant undertaker proposes to exercise any of these powers outside its own area, then if the proposal is to lay:

- 1087 (i) a trunk main or a water main used solely for the purpose of supplying water otherwise than for domestic purposes<sup>24</sup>; or
- 1088 (ii) a sewer which is intended to be a public sewer but not a storm-water overflow sewer<sup>25</sup>, it must give notice of its proposal to the water undertaker or sewerage undertaker for the area in question and must not carry out its proposal without the consent of that other undertaker<sup>26</sup>, or, where that other undertaker refuses to give its consent, or fails to give its consent before the end of the period of 28 days beginning with the day on which it is notified of the proposal, without the consent of the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>27</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8. In certain circumstances these powers may also be exercised by a local authority: see PARA 404.

2 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the power of the Agency to join in or act on behalf of one or more relevant undertakers for the purpose of carrying out works see PARA 455 note 2.

3 I.e., in the case of a relevant undertaker, subject to the provisions of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 158(2)-(11) (see note 5 and the text to notes 13-18), to s 162(9) (see the text to note 19) and the provisions of Pt VI Ch III (ss 179-192); and, in the case of the Agency, subject to the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 160-186. As to powers of entry for the exercise of these powers see PARA 477. As to discharges in the exercise of such powers see PARA 466. As to compensation for damage caused in the exercise of such powers see PARA 470.

4 As to the meaning of 'functions' in relation to a relevant undertaker see PARA 133 note 5. As to the functions of the Environment Agency see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 72 et seq.

5 References in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 158 to a 'relevant pipe' are to be construed: (1) in relation to a water undertaker, as references to a water main (including a trunk main), resource main, discharge pipe or service pipe but not including a pipe laid in pursuance of s 66B(3)(a)(ii) (see PARA 342) which is used for the purpose of supplying water other than for domestic or food production purposes or laid in pursuance of s 66B(3)(a)(iii); and (2) in relation to a sewerage undertaker, as references to (a) any sewer or disposal main; or (b) in relation to the exercise of a power to lay a pipe under s 158(1)(a) (see head (1) in the text) or a power related to that power under s 158(1)(c) (see head (3) in the text), any lateral drain which the undertaker is to lay by virtue of s 98 or s 101B (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARAS 1018, 1022); or (c) in relation to the exercise of any other power under s 158(1), any lateral drain which belongs to or is vested for the time being in the undertaker: s 158(7) (amended by the Water Act 2003 ss 97(1), (4), 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 36). References to the laying of a relevant pipe include references to the laying of any drain or sewer for any of the purposes mentioned in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 161(3)(a), (b) (powers to deal with foul water and pollution: see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 329) and to the construction of a watercourse for any of those purposes: s 161(7). As to the meanings of 'water main', 'trunk main', 'pipe', 'sewer', 'lateral drain' and 'drain' see PARA 138 note 11. As to the meaning of 'resource main' see PARA 179 note 4. As to the meaning of 'discharge pipe' see PARA 466 note 6. As to the meaning of 'service pipe' see PARA 179 note 8. As to the meaning of 'domestic purposes' see PARA 334. As to the meaning of 'food production purposes' see PARA 338 note 44. 'Disposal main' means (subject to the Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(2): see PARA 138 note 11) any outfall pipe or other pipe which is a pipe for the conveyance of effluent to or from any sewage disposal works, whether of a sewerage undertaker or of any other person, and is not a public sewer: s 219(1). As to the meaning of 'effluent' see PARA 262 note 31. As to the meaning of 'watercourse' see PARA 187 note 2. As to the meaning of 'public sewer' see PARA 138 note 11. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

Where: (i) an appointment or variation has been made under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 7 replacing a company as a relevant undertaker (see PARA 138); (ii) the appointment or variation relates only to parts of the area to which the company's appointment as relevant undertaker related; (iii) the conditions mentioned in s 7(5) (see PARA 138) were required to be satisfied in relation to each of the premises in those parts served by that company; and (iv) the company which has replaced the relevant undertaker has done so as water undertaker, then in the application of s 158 and s 159 (see PARA 463) in relation to that company, any pipe supplying, or intended to supply, any of the premises referred to in head (iii) with a supply of water which exceeds, or is likely to exceed, in any period of 12 months (A) if the area of the relevant undertaker concerned is wholly or mainly in Wales, 250 megalitres; (B) in all other cases, 50 megalitres, is deemed for the purpose of s 158(7) to be a water main: s 158(8), (9) (s 158(8)-(11) added by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 s 40(6); the Water Industry Act 1991 s 158(9) substituted by SI 2000/1842, and amended by SI 2005/268). Where the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers make regulations under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 7(6) (see PARA 138) amending s 7(5)(a), he or they must by regulations make the corresponding amendment in s 158(9): s 158(10) (as so added). Where the company which has replaced the relevant undertaker has done so as a sewerage undertaker, any pipe draining or intended to drain any of the premises referred to in head (iii) above is deemed for these purposes to be a sewer: s 158(11) (as so added). As to water undertakers and sewerage undertakers see PARA 108 note 4. As to the meaning of 'month' see PARA 23 note 10.

The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 158, in relation to any water undertaker or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

References in the Water Resources Act 1991 s 159 to a relevant pipe (ie references in relation to the Environment Agency) are references to a resource main or discharge pipe and references to laying such a pipe include references to the laying of any drain or sewer for the specified purposes and to the construction of a watercourse for any of those purposes: s 159(5). The specified purposes are: (aa) intercepting, treating or disposing of any foul water arising or flowing upon any land; or (bb) otherwise preventing the pollution of (I) any waters, whether on the surface or underground, which belong to the Agency or any water undertaker or from which the Agency or any water undertaker is authorised to take water; (II) without prejudice to head (I), any reservoir which belongs to or is operated by the Agency or any water undertaker or which the Agency or any water undertaker is proposing to acquire or construct for the purpose of being so operated; or (III) any underground strata from which the Agency or any water undertaker is for the time being authorised to abstract water in pursuance of a licence under Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72) (see PARA 227 et seq): s 159(6) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21. As to the meaning of 'underground strata' see PARA 187 note 5.

6 As to the meaning of 'street' see PARA 308 note 19.

7 Water Industry Act 1991 s 158(1)(a); Water Resources Act 1991 s 159(1)(a) (s 159(1) amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). See also Dwr Cymru Cyfngedig v Williams (1991) Times, 9 October, DC, per Nolan J.

8 References to maintaining a pipe include references to cleansing it: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 192(2); the Water Resources Act 1991 s 159(7).

9 References to altering a pipe include references to altering its size or course, to moving or removing it and to replacing it with a pipe which is of the same description of relevant pipe as the pipe replaced: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 192(2); the Water Resources Act 1991 s 159(7). In so far as any powers conferred by the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt VI (ss 155-192) on a relevant undertaker authorise the removal of any pipe or the alteration of its size or course, those powers are subject to such obligations by virtue of which the undertaker is required to maintain a pipe or a connection with it, or to alter a pipe only where certain conditions are satisfied, as are imposed on the undertaker by or under any enactment: Water Industry Act 1991 s 192(4). As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31.

10 Water Industry Act 1991 s 158(1)(b); Water Resources Act 1991 s 159(1)(b).

11 'Tunnel' does not include a railway tunnel, but only a tunnel of the same class as a sewer or drain: Caledonian Rly Co v Glasgow Corpn (1901) 3 F 526, followed in Schweder v Worthing Gas Light and Coke Co [1912] 1 Ch 83 (tunnel connecting two sides of a road); see also Thompson v Sunderland Gas Co (1877) 2 Ex D 429, CA. As to railway bridges see Glasgow Corpn v Glasgow and South Western Rly Co [1895] AC 376, HL, where it was held that a power to interfere with the structure of such a bridge was not included.

12 Water Industry Act 1991 s 158(1)(c); Water Resources Act 1991 s 159(1)(c), (d).

13 References to a pipe include references to any accessories for the pipe: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(2); the Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(2). As to the meaning of 'accessories' in relation to the Water Industry Act 1991 see PARA 138 note 11; and in relation to the Water Resources Act 1991 see PARA 187 note 2. Note that the Agency uses cables known as 'telemetry cables' for remotely monitoring mains etc. Such cables may be laid under notice as 'accessories' to another pipe if they meet the above conditions.

Without prejudice to the generality of these powers, every water undertaker and the Agency has power to erect and keep in any street notices indicating the position of such underground accessories for its relevant pipes as may be used for controlling the flow of water in those pipes; and this power includes power to attach any such notice to any building, fence or other structure which is comprised in premises abutting on the street in question: Water Industry Act 1991 s 158(2), (3); Water Resources Act 1991 s 159(2), (3) (s 159(2) amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). There is no express power to place markers in private land not abutting on a street; however, under the Pipelaying Code of Practice (see PARA 475) there is generally a requirement to mark the position of a cross country water main, which is generally done at field boundaries. It is submitted that such markers can be regarded as accessories though not strictly machinery or other apparatus.

An approval for these purposes must be given to a relevant undertaker, or to the Agency, by the service on it of a notice containing the approval: Water Industry Act 1991 s 187(2); Water Resources Act 1991 s 181(2) (as so amended). As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the service of documents see PARA 22. #### 463. Powers to lay pipes in other land.

Every relevant undertaker<sup>1</sup> and the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> has power<sup>3</sup>, for the purpose of carrying out its functions<sup>4</sup>:

- 1089 (1) to lay a relevant pipe<sup>5</sup> (whether above or below the surface) in any land<sup>6</sup> which is not in, under or over a street<sup>7</sup> and to keep that pipe there<sup>8</sup>;
- 1090 (2) to inspect, maintain<sup>9</sup>, adjust, repair or alter<sup>10</sup> any relevant pipe which is in any such land<sup>11</sup>; and
- 1091 (3) to carry out any works requisite for, or incidental to, the purposes of any works falling within head (1) or head (2) above<sup>12</sup>.

These powers are exercisable only after reasonable notice<sup>13</sup> of the proposed exercise of any such power has been given to the owner<sup>14</sup> and to the occupier of the land where the power is to be exercised<sup>15</sup>. Nothing in these provisions authorises:

- 1092 (a) the installation by a relevant undertaker of any apparatus for measuring or showing the volume of water supplied to, or of effluent<sup>16</sup> discharged from, any premises where that apparatus is to be used for the purpose only of determining the amount of any charges fixed, or to be fixed, in relation to those premises wholly or partly by reference to the volume of that water or effluent<sup>17</sup>;
- 1093 (b) a water undertaker<sup>18</sup> to lay a service pipe in, on or over any land except where there is already a service pipe where that pipe is to be laid<sup>19</sup>, or the undertaker is required to lay the pipe in, on or over that land by virtue of the statutory duty<sup>20</sup> to carry out ancillary works to make a domestic water supply connection<sup>21</sup>;
- 1094 (c) any relevant undertaker, or the Agency, to carry out any works at any place below the place to which the tide flows at mean high water springs, except in accordance with such plans and sections, and subject to such restrictions, as may, before the works are commenced, have been approved by the Secretary of State<sup>22</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>23</sup>.

Without prejudice to its powers under the provisions above<sup>24</sup>, but subject to head (c) above<sup>25</sup>, a water undertaker has power at its own expense to fit a stopcock<sup>26</sup> to any service pipe by which a supply of water is, or is to be, provided to any premises by the undertaker or a licensed water supplier<sup>27</sup>, whether that pipe belongs to the undertaker or to any other person<sup>28</sup>.

A water undertaker must only exercise these powers for the purposes of its authorised works<sup>29</sup>. The powers are exercisable both inside and outside the undertaker's area<sup>30</sup>; but where a relevant undertaker proposes to exercise any such powers outside its own area, in certain cases it must give notice of its proposal to the water undertaker or sewerage undertaker for the area in question and must not carry out its proposal without the consent of that other undertaker or, as appropriate the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>31</sup>.

<sup>1</sup> As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8. In certain circumstances these powers may also be exercised by a local authority: see PARA 404.

2 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the power of the Agency to join in or act on behalf of one or more relevant undertakers for the purpose of carrying out works see PARA 455 note 2.

3 Ie, in the case of a relevant undertaker, subject to the Water Industry Act 1991 s 159(2)-(7) (see note 11 and the text to notes 13-15, 18-21), to s 162(9) (see the text to note 17) and to the provisions of Pt VI Ch III (ss 179-192); and, in the case of the Agency, subject to the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 161-186. As to powers of entry for the exercise of these powers see PARA 477. As to compensation for damage caused in the exercise of such powers see PARA 471. As to complaints with respect to the exercise of these powers see PARA 474. As to codes of practice with respect to the exercise of these powers see PARA 475.

5 For meanings of 'relevant pipe' and of references to laying such a pipe, in relation to an undertaker, see PARA 462 note 5: definition is applied by the Water Industry Act 1991 s 159(7) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 97(1), (5)). In relation to the Agency, references to a relevant pipe for these purposes are references to a resource main or a discharge pipe: Water Resources Act 1991 s 160(4). As to the meaning of 'resource main' see PARA 179 note 4. As to the meaning of 'discharge pipe' see PARA 466 note 6. These powers also apply to accessories for such pipes: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(2); the Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(2). As to the meaning of 'accessories' in relation to the Water Industry Act 1991 see PARA 138 note 11; and in relation to the Water Resources Act 1991 see PARA 187 note 2.

6 As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21. As to the carrying out of works on common land see the Commons Act 2006 Pt 3 (ss 38-44); and COMMONS vol 13 (2009) PARA 401 et seq.

11 Water Industry Act 1991 s 159(1)(b); Water Resources Act 1991 s 160(1)(b). The power conferred by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 159(1)(b), and the power conferred in relation thereto by virtue of s 159(1)(c) (see the text to note 12) is exercisable in relation to a service pipe irrespective of the person to whom the pipe belongs; but expenses incurred in exercising those powers in relation to any pipe are recoverable from the person to whom the pipe belongs only if and to the extent that that person has agreed to pay them: s 159(3). 13 As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the service of documents see PARA 22. In relation to any exercise of the powers conferred by these provisions for the purpose of laying or altering a relevant pipe, the minimum period that is capable of constituting reasonable notice is deemed: (1) where the power is exercised for the purpose of laying a relevant pipe otherwise than in substitution for an existing pipe of the same description, to be three months; and (2) where the power is exercised for the purpose of altering an existing pipe, to be 42 days: Water Industry Act 1991 s 159(5); Water Resources Act 1991 s 160(3). The Water Industry Act 1991 s 159(5) does not apply in the case of any notice given by a relevant undertaker with respect to the exercise of any power in an emergency or for the purpose of laying or altering a service pipe, or complying with a duty imposed under s 41 (see PARA 332) or s 98 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 1018): s 159(6). An approval for these purposes must be given to a relevant undertaker, or to the Agency, by the service on it of a notice containing the approval: Water Industry Act 1991 s 187(2); Water Resources Act 1991 s 181(2) (as so amended). The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 187 and the Water Resources Act 1991 s 181, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. A stopcock fitted in private premises by a water undertaker to any service pipe must be situated as near as practicable to any street from which that pipe enters those premises: Water Industry Act 1991 s 163(2). Note that a water undertaker may fit a unit combining both a stopcock and a water meter; when this is done, the requirements for positioning water meters must also be followed: see PARA 435. GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/(2) POWERS TO CARRY OUT WORKS/(iii) Powers to Lay Pipes/464. Vesting of pipes in the relevant undertaker or in the Environment Agency.

464. Vesting of pipes in the relevant undertaker or in the Environment Agency.

Subject to any provision to the contrary contained in an agreement between the relevant undertaker<sup>1</sup> or, as the case may be, the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup>, and the person<sup>3</sup> in whom an interest in the pipe<sup>4</sup> is or is to be vested<sup>5</sup>, every relevant pipe<sup>6</sup> which has been laid by such an undertaker or by the Agency in exercise of any statutory power<sup>7</sup> vests in the undertaker which laid it or, as the case may be, in the Agency<sup>8</sup>.

In addition to the water mains and service pipes which vest in a water undertaker by virtue of the above provisions, every water main and so much of each service pipe with respect to which a declaration of vesting made by a water undertaker<sup>9</sup> takes effect also vest in that undertaker<sup>10</sup>. However, those provisions do not apply to a service pipe laid in a street<sup>11</sup> other than the street in which the water main with which it connects is situated, nor to a service pipe laid otherwise than in a street where that pipe is laid in pursuance of the statutory duty on a water undertaker to make a domestic connection pursuant to a requirement imposed by a local authority<sup>12</sup>, or in substitution for a service pipe belonging to a person other than the person who lays the replacement pipe<sup>13</sup>.

If any water fittings<sup>14</sup> let on hire by a water undertaker are suitably marked<sup>15</sup> they continue to be the property of, and removable by, the undertaker, even if they are fixed to some part of the premises in which they are situated or are laid in the soil under any premises<sup>16</sup>, and they are not subject to distress or to the landlord's remedy for rent or liable to be taken in execution under any process of any court or in any proceedings in bankruptcy against a person in whose possession they are<sup>17</sup>.

The above provisions are without prejudice, in relation to any company appointed to be a relevant undertaker, to the vesting of anything in that company by virtue of any transfer scheme<sup>18</sup> or to the exercise by any relevant undertaker of any power to acquire property by agreement or compulsorily<sup>19</sup>.

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 179(1), (1A) (s 179(1) amended, (1A) added, by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 41); Water Resources Act 1991 s 175(1) (s 175 amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). No agreement may be made between a relevant undertaker and any other person for the vesting in that person of any pipe laid in pursuance of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 66B(3)(a)(ii) (see PARA 342) or of s 66C(2)(b)(i) by virtue of s 66C(3)(b) (see PARA 343); s 179(1A) (as so added).

6 'Relevant pipe' in relation to a water undertaker means any water main (including a trunk main), resource main, discharge pipe or service pipe; and in relation to a sewerage undertaker means any sewer, lateral drain or disposal main: Water Industry Act 1991 s 179(7) (definition amended by the Water Act 2003 s 97(1), (7)(b)). As to the meanings of 'water undertaker' and 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meanings of 'water main', 'trunk main', 'sewer' and 'lateral drain' see PARA 138 note 11. As to the meaning of 'resource main' see PARA 179 note 4. As to the meaning of 'discharge pipe' see PARA 466 note 6. As to the meaning of 'service pipe' see PARA 179 note 8. As to the meaning of 'disposal main' PARA 462 note 5.

In relation to the Agency, 'relevant pipe' means a relevant pipe for the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991 s 159 or 160 (see PARA 462 note 5): see s 175(1)(a).

7     Ie, in the case of a relevant undertaker, any power conferred by the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt VI (ss 155-192) or otherwise (see s 179(1)(a)); and in the case of the Agency, any power conferred by the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt VII Ch I (ss 154-168) or otherwise (see s 175(1)(b) (as amended: see note 5)).

8     Water Industry Act 1991 s 179(1); Water Resources Act 1991 s 175(1) (as amended: see note 5). In the case of the Agency, this provision is without prejudice to the vesting of anything in the Agency by virtue of the exercise by the Agency of any power to acquire property by agreement or compulsorily: s 175(2) (as so amended). As to the power of the Agency to acquire property compulsorily see PARA 453.

Similar provision is made with respect to the vesting of sewage disposal works in the sewerage undertaker which constructed them: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 179(1)(b) (as amended: see note 5), s 179(2) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 97(1), (7)(a)), Water Industry Act 1991 s 179(5); and ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 1003.

14    As to the meaning of 'water fittings' see PARA 134 note 6; definition applied by the Water Industry Act 1991 s 179(7).

15    Water fittings let on hire by a water undertaker are treated as suitably marked for these purposes if, and only if, they bear either such a distinguishing metal plate affixed to them or such a distinguishing brand or other mark conspicuously impressed or made on them as sufficiently indicates the undertaker as the actual owner of the fittings: Water Industry Act 1991 s 179(7).

16    Water Industry Act 1991 s 179(4)(a). Nothing in s 179(4), however, affects the valuation for rating of any rateable hereditament: s 179(4). As to the abolition of domestic rates, and as to non-domestic rating, see RATING AND COUNCIL TAX.

465. Liability for injuries from apparatus in streets.

Where in the performance of its statutory duties, any water undertaker<sup>1</sup> places a hydrant<sup>2</sup> or stopcock<sup>3</sup> in a street, and persons are injured by falling over or being caused to trip by it, either because of its defective condition or because of the defective state of the highway in which it is placed<sup>4</sup>, the liability of the undertaker depends on whether it has failed in its duty to take care at common law<sup>5</sup> or under statute<sup>6</sup>. If the apparatus is out of repair and there is no specific evidence relating to the relative responsibility of the undertaker and the street authority<sup>7</sup>, each of them will bear liability equally<sup>8</sup>.

The undertaker is normally liable to repair stopcocks<sup>9</sup>, but if a hydrant or stopcock has been properly laid and constructed in the first instance, and has been maintained in a reasonably proper condition, the undertaker is not liable for injury caused by its subsequently projecting above the pavement solely by reason of the ordinary wearing away of the highway<sup>10</sup>. The undertaker is not liable if a cover plate in the pavement belonging to the undertaker has been opened by the malicious act of a third person and the undertaker has not been negligent in failing to take precautions to prevent such an occurrence<sup>11</sup>; but it will be liable if precautions could have been taken and were not<sup>12</sup>, or if the hydrant or stopcock was improperly laid or constructed<sup>13</sup>, or if the undertaker has failed to keep it in proper repair<sup>14</sup>, or if the pavement was improperly reinstated by the undertaker<sup>15</sup>.

2 As to the provision of fire-hydrants see PARAS 348-349.

3 As to the placing of stopcocks see PARA 463.

4 Although the apparatus is the property and responsibility of the undertaker, it is the state of the highway which may be a nuisance, not the statutory works placed in it: see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 397. Where apparatus in a street is defective owing to the bursting of pipes or of fire-hydrants, the undertaker will normally be liable for resultant damage in so far as this is attributable to the escape of water: see PARA 672.

The undertaker will not be liable if the reinstatement was carried out by the highway authority under power authorising it to do so: Rider v Metropolitan Water Board [1949] 2 KB 378, [1949] 2 All ER 97. As to the responsibility for reinstatement following the execution of street works see the New Roads and Street Works Act 1991 ss 70-73; and HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARAS 457-461.

9 Stopcocks not inside buildings are usually vested in, and the responsibility of, the undertaker: see PARA 463. If however, the duty of keeping a stopcock in repair is cast upon the owner of premises (ie the stopcock is not vested in the undertaker), the undertaker is not liable.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/7. GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/(2) POWERS TO CARRY OUT WORKS/(iv) Powers to Discharge Water/466. Discharges for works purposes.

(iv) Powers to Discharge Water

466. Discharges for works purposes.

- 1095 (1) is exercising, or is about to exercise, any of certain statutory works powers<sup>3</sup>; or
- 1096 (2) is carrying out, or is about to carry out, the construction, alteration, repair, cleaning or examination of any reservoir, well, borehole or other work belonging to or used by that undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency for the purposes of, or in connection with, the carrying out of any of its functions<sup>4</sup>, the undertaker or Agency may<sup>5</sup> cause the water in any relevant pipe<sup>6</sup> or in any such reservoir, well, borehole or other work to be discharged into any available watercourse<sup>7</sup>. Nothing in these provisions, however, authorises:

- 1097 (a) any discharge which damages or injuriously affects the works or property of any railway undertakers<sup>8</sup> or navigation authority<sup>9</sup> or floods or damages any highway<sup>10</sup>; or
- 1098 (b) any relevant undertaker, or the Agency, to carry out any works at any place below the place to which the tide flows at mean high water springs, except in accordance with such plans and sections, and subject to such restrictions, as may, before the works are commenced, have been approved by the Secretary of State<sup>11</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>12</sup>.

If any water undertaker, or the Agency, fails to take all necessary steps to secure that any water discharged by it under these powers is as free as may be reasonably practicable from (i) mud and silt<sup>13</sup>; (ii) solid, polluting, offensive or injurious substances<sup>14</sup>; and (iii) any substances prejudicial to fish or spawn, or to spawning beds or food of fish<sup>15</sup>, it is guilty of an offence<sup>16</sup>.

Except in an emergency, no discharge may be made under the above provisions through any pipe the diameter of which exceeds 229 millimetres except with the required consent<sup>17</sup>. In the case of a water undertaker, discharge through such a pipe requires the consent of the Agency and of any navigation authority which carries out functions in relation to the part of the watercourse where the discharge is made or any part of that watercourse which is less than three miles downstream from the place of the discharge<sup>18</sup>; and in the case of the Agency, it requires such consent as may be prescribed<sup>19</sup>. An application for such consent must be accompanied or supplemented by all such information<sup>20</sup> as the person to whom it is made may reasonably require<sup>21</sup>. The undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency must serve a copy of the application and of any consent given on that application on every person who is registered<sup>22</sup> with the undertaker or Agency in respect of any premises which are within three miles of the place where the discharge to which the application relates is proposed to be made and are not upstream from that place<sup>23</sup>, and who has not agreed in writing<sup>24</sup> that he need not be served with such a copy<sup>25</sup>.

An application for consent with respect to a particular discharge must be determined before the end of the period of seven days beginning with the day after the application is made and if it is not so determined within that period, the consent applied for is deemed to have been given unconditionally<sup>26</sup>. An application for consent in any other case must be determined before the end of the period of three months<sup>27</sup> beginning with the day after the application is made<sup>28</sup>. Where, however, an undertaker or the Agency made an application for consent but failed to comply with its obligation to supplement the application with information required by the person to whom it was made<sup>29</sup>, and that requirement was made at such a time before the end of the period within which that person is required to determine the application as gave the undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency, a reasonable opportunity to provide the required information within that period<sup>30</sup>, that person may delay determination of the application until a reasonable time after the required information is provided<sup>31</sup>.

A consent for these purposes may relate to a particular discharge or to discharges of a particular description and may be made subject to such reasonable conditions as may be specified by the person giving it, but may not be unreasonably withheld<sup>32</sup>. Any dispute as to whether such a consent should be given or withheld, or as to whether the conditions to which any such consent is made subject are reasonable, must be referred to the arbitration of a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the parties to the dispute or, in default of agreement, by the President of the Institution of Civil Engineers<sup>33</sup>.

Where any discharge is made in an emergency without the consent which, if there were no emergency, would be required by virtue of the above provisions, the undertaker which made the discharge or, as the case may be, the Agency must, as soon as practicable after making the discharge, serve a notice on every person on whom it would have been required to serve the application for consent or any copy of that application, stating that the discharge has been made<sup>34</sup>, and giving such particulars of it, and of the emergency, as the persons served with the notice might reasonably require<sup>35</sup>. If any water undertaker, or the Agency, contravenes any of the above requirements relating to consents, or any condition of a consent given for these purposes, it is guilty of an offence<sup>36</sup>.

An approval for these purposes must be given to a relevant undertaker, or to the Agency, by the service on it of a notice containing the approval: Water Industry Act 1991 s 187(2); Water Resources Act 1991 s 181(2) (as so amended). As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the service of documents see PARA 22. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 187 and the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 164 (see the text to note 19), 181, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. #### 467. Register for the purposes of works discharges.

Every water undertaker<sup>1</sup> and the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> must keep a register of persons<sup>3</sup> and premises for the purposes of the provisions<sup>4</sup> relating to works discharges<sup>5</sup>. A water undertaker, or the Agency, must enter the name and address of a person in that register in respect of any premises which abut on any watercourse<sup>6</sup> if that person has requested to be so registered and is either the owner<sup>7</sup> or occupier of those premises<sup>8</sup>, or an officer of an association of owners or occupiers of premises which abut on that watercourse and include those premises<sup>9</sup>. Certain confidential information or information affecting national security may be excluded from the register kept by the Agency<sup>10</sup>.

If a water undertaker or the Agency contravenes<sup>11</sup> any of these requirements without reasonable excuse, it is guilty of an offence<sup>12</sup>.

(v) Works requiring Scheduled Monument Consent

468. In general.

Scheduled monument consent<sup>1</sup> is granted to the following works carried out by, inter alia, a relevant undertaker<sup>2</sup> or the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup>:

- 1099 (1) works for the repair or maintenance of machinery, being works which do not involve a material alteration to a scheduled monument<sup>4</sup>;
- 1100 (2) works which are urgently necessary in the interests of safety or health, provided that they are limited to the minimum measures immediately necessary, and that notice in writing<sup>5</sup> justifying in detail the need for the works is given to the Secretary of State<sup>6</sup> or, in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers<sup>7</sup>, as soon as reasonably practicable<sup>8</sup>.

Where scheduled monument consent for works not falling within head (1) or head (2) is required, it may be granted on an application made to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers<sup>9</sup>.

1 As to scheduled monument consent see NATIONAL CULTURAL HERITAGE vol 77 (2010) PARA 1013.

2 As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8.

3 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the power of the Agency to join in or act on behalf of one or more relevant undertakers for the purpose of carrying out works see PARA 455 note 2.

4 See the Ancient Monuments (Class Consents) Order 1994, SI 1994/1381, art 2(1), Schedule, Class 4.

5 As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1.

6 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

7 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Ancient Monuments (Class Consents) Order 1994, SI 1994/1381, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, arts 2, 3, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

8 See the Ancient Monuments (Class Consents) Order 1994, SI 1994/1381, Schedule, Class 5.

GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/(3) COMPENSATION AND COMPLAINTS IN RESPECT OF WORKS POWERS/(i) Compensation/469. Compensation in respect of compulsory works orders.

(3) COMPENSATION AND COMPLAINTS IN RESPECT OF WORKS POWERS

(i) Compensation

469. Compensation in respect of compulsory works orders.

Where a licence<sup>1</sup> to abstract water or to obstruct or impede the flow of any inland waters is granted, or is deemed to be granted, to a water undertaker<sup>2</sup> or, as the case may be, to the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup>, in connection with any engineering or building operations<sup>4</sup> to which a compulsory works order<sup>5</sup> relates, no compensation is payable<sup>6</sup> in respect of any land<sup>7</sup> or interest injuriously affected by the carrying out of those operations, in so far as that land or interest is injuriously affected by the abstraction of water, or the obstruction or impeding of the flow, in accordance with the provisions of the licence<sup>8</sup>.

If the value of any interest in any relevant land<sup>9</sup> is depreciated by the coming into force of so much of any compulsory works order as confers compulsory powers, other than powers of compulsory acquisition, for the purpose of enabling any engineering or building operations to be carried out and grants authority for the carrying out of the operations, the person<sup>10</sup> entitled to that interest is entitled to compensation from the applicant for the order of an amount equal to the amount of the depreciation<sup>11</sup>. Where the person entitled to an interest in any relevant land sustains loss or damage<sup>12</sup> which is attributable to so much of any compulsory works order as:

- 1101 (1) confers compulsory powers, other than powers of compulsory acquisition, for the purpose of enabling any engineering or building operations to be carried out, and grants authority for the carrying out of operations<sup>13</sup>;
- 1102 (2) does not consist in depreciation of the value of that interest<sup>14</sup>; and
- 1103 (3) is loss or damage for which he would have been entitled to compensation by way of compensation for disturbance, if his interest in that land had been compulsorily acquired<sup>15</sup> in pursuance of a notice to treat served on the date on which the order comes into force<sup>16</sup>, he is additionally entitled to compensation from the applicant for the order or, as the case may be, from the Agency, in respect of that loss or damage<sup>17</sup>.

Where any damage to, or injurious affection of, any land which is not relevant land is attributable to so much of any compulsory works order as confers compulsory powers, other than powers of compulsory acquisition, for the purpose of enabling any engineering or building operations to be carried out and grants authority for the carrying out of the operations, the applicant for the order or, as the case may be, the Agency must pay compensation in respect of that damage or injurious affection to every person entitled to an interest in that land<sup>18</sup>.

Any person who sustains any loss or damage which is attributable to any discharge of water made by a water undertaker or by the Agency in pursuance of a compulsory works order is entitled to recover compensation from the undertaker or, as the case may be, from the Agency in respect of the loss or damage<sup>19</sup>.

Any question of disputed compensation under these provisions must be referred to and determined by the Lands Tribunal<sup>20</sup>.

1    le a licence under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72): see PARA 229 et seq.

2    As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

3    As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

4    As to the meaning of 'engineering or building operations' see PARA 223 note 4.

5    As to compulsory works orders see PARA 455.

6    le by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 6(1) or the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 6(1): see PARA 459.

7    As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21.

8    Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 7; Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 7 (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128).

9    'Relevant land', in relation to a compulsory works order, means any land which is not land in relation to which powers of compulsory acquisition are conferred by the order but is land: (1) where any operations for which authority is granted by the order are to be carried out; (2) in relation to which compulsory powers are conferred by the order; or (3) held with any land falling under head (1) or (2): Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 8(9); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 8(9). As to the meaning of 'powers of compulsory acquisition' see PARA 457 note 12.

10   As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

11   Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 8(1); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 8(1). For the purpose of assessing any compensation under these provisions, so far as that compensation is in respect of loss or damage consisting in depreciation of the value of an interest in land, the rules set out in the Land Compensation Act 1961 s 5 (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 754) have effect, so far as applicable and subject to any necessary modifications, as they have effect for the purpose of assessing compensation for the compulsory acquisition of an interest in land: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 8(7); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 8(7). As to the meaning of 'modifications' see PARA 141 note 20. Where the interest in land in respect of which any compensation so falls to be assessed is subject to a mortgage: (1) the compensation must be assessed as if the interest were not so subject; (2) a claim for compensation may be made by any mortgagee of the interest, but without prejudice to the making of a claim by the person entitled to the interest; (3) no such compensation is payable in respect of the interest of the mortgagee, as distinct from the interest which is subject to the mortgage; and (4) any such compensation which is payable in respect of the interest which is subject to the mortgage must be paid to the mortgagee, or, if there is more than one mortgagee, to the first mortgagee, and in either case must be applied by him as if it were the proceeds of sale: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 8(8); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 8(8). As to the meaning of 'mortgage' for the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991 see PARA 263 note 25. There is no corresponding definition in the Water Industry Act 1991.

12   As to the meaning of 'damage' see PARA 129 note 7.

18   Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 8(3); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 8(3) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128).

19   Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 8(4); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 8(4) (Sch 19 para 8(4), (5) amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). For these purposes, any extra expenditure which it becomes reasonably necessary for any water undertaker (other than, in the case of a discharge made by such an undertaker, that undertaker) or public authority (other than, in the case of a discharge made by the Agency, the Agency) to incur for the purpose of properly carrying out any statutory functions, and which is attributable to any such discharge of water, is deemed to be a loss sustained by the undertaker or public authority and to be so attributable: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 8(5); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 8(5) (as so amended). As to the meaning of 'public authority' for the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 see PARA 118 note 17. For the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991 'public authority' means any Minister of the Crown or government department, the Agency, any local authority or any person certified by the Secretary of State, or in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers to be a public authority for the purposes of the Act: s 221(1) (definition amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). As to the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 187 note 2. As to the meaning of 'functions' in relation to an undertaker see PARA 133 note 5. As to the functions of the Environment Agency see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 72 et seq.

The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 221, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

20 See the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 8(6); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 8(6). In relation to the determination of any such compensation, the provisions of the Land Compensation Act 1961 s 2 and s 4 (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARAS 716-717, 746) apply, subject to any necessary modifications: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 11 para 8(6); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 19 para 8(6). As to the Lands Tribunal see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 720 et seq. At the date at which this volume states the law, draft legislation proposes the abolition of the Lands Tribunal and its replacement by the Upper Tribunal (as to which see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) para 13A).

GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/(3) COMPENSATION AND COMPLAINTS IN RESPECT OF WORKS POWERS/(i) Compensation/470. Compensation in respect of street works powers.

470. Compensation in respect of street works powers.

In exercise of its street works powers<sup>1</sup>, it is the duty of every relevant undertaker, and of the Environment Agency, to do as little damage<sup>2</sup> as possible<sup>3</sup>, and to pay compensation for any loss caused or damage done in the exercise of those powers<sup>4</sup>. Any dispute as to whether such compensation should be paid, or as to the amount of the compensation, must be referred to the arbitration of a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the parties to the dispute<sup>5</sup>. In default of such agreement, the arbitrator must be appointed, in the case of compensation payable by a relevant undertaker, by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>6</sup> and, in the case of compensation payable by the Agency, by the Secretary of State<sup>7</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>8</sup>.

1 le, in relation to a relevant undertaker, the powers conferred in relation to streets by the Water Industry Act 1991 s 158 (see PARA 462), s 161 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 329) and s 162 (see PARA 433); or, in relation to the Environment Agency, the powers conferred in relation to streets by the Water Resources Act 1991 s 159 (see PARA 462) and s 162 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 329); Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 12 para 1(1); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 21 para 1(1) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8. As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the meaning of 'street' see PARA 308 note 19.

4 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 12 para 1(2)(b); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 21 para 1(2)(b) (as amended: see note 3). Compensation may be recoverable in respect of interference with the access to premises by which a person's trade is injured (see Ocean Leisure Ltd v Westminster City Council [2004] EWCA Civ 970, [2004] 3 EGLR 9, [2004] All ER (D) 368 (Jul)) or for loss of profit in these circumstances (Leonidis v Thames Water Authority (1979) 77 LGR 722). The undertakers cannot escape liability to pay compensation by showing that there was no greater obstruction than was reasonably necessary for carrying out their duties: Leonidis v Thames Water Authority.

5 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 12 para 1(3); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 21 para 1(3). The provisions of the Arbitration Act 1996 Pt I (ss 1-84) apply to any such arbitration: see s 94; and ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARA 1209.

8 Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 21 para 1(3). The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 21, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/(3) COMPENSATION AND COMPLAINTS IN RESPECT OF WORKS POWERS/(i) Compensation/471. Compensation in respect of pipe-laying works in private land.

471. Compensation in respect of pipe-laying works in private land.

If the value of any interest in any relevant land<sup>1</sup> is depreciated by virtue of the exercise, by any relevant undertaker or by the Environment Agency, of any power to carry out pipe-laying works on private land, the person<sup>2</sup> entitled to that interest is entitled to compensation from the undertaker or, as the case may be, from the Agency, of an amount equal to the amount of the depreciation<sup>3</sup>. Where the person entitled to an interest in any relevant land sustains loss or damage<sup>4</sup> which:

- 1104 (1) is attributable to the exercise by any relevant undertaker, or by the Agency, of any power to carry out pipe-laying works on private land<sup>5</sup>;
- 1105 (2) does not consist in depreciation of the value of that interest<sup>6</sup>; and
- 1106 (3) is loss or damage for which he would have been entitled to compensation by way of compensation for disturbance if his land had been compulsorily<sup>7</sup> acquired<sup>8</sup>,

he is, additionally, entitled to compensation from the undertaker or, as the case may be, from the Agency in respect of that loss or damage<sup>9</sup>.

Where any damage to, or injurious affection of, any land which is not relevant land is attributable to the exercise by any relevant undertaker, or by the Agency, of any power to carry out pipe-laying works on private land, the undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency must pay compensation in respect of that damage or injurious affection to every person entitled to an interest in that land<sup>10</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>11</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>12</sup> may by regulations<sup>13</sup> make provision requiring a relevant undertaker, or the Agency, where it is proposing or, in a prescribed<sup>14</sup> case, where it has begun, to exercise any power to carry out pipe-laying works on private land, to make advance payments on account of compensation that will become payable in respect of the exercise of that power<sup>15</sup>. Any request for such advance payments must be made in writing<sup>16</sup> by the person entitled to the compensation (the 'claimant'), must give particulars of his interest in the land, so far as not already given, and must be accompanied or supplemented by such other particulars as the undertaker or the Agency may reasonably require to enable it to estimate the amount of the compensation in respect of which the advance payment is to be made<sup>17</sup>. The amount of any advance payment must be equal to 90 per cent of the agreed amount of compensation or, if no amount has been agreed with the claimant, 90 per cent of the amount estimated by the undertaker or the Agency<sup>18</sup>, and payment must be made not later than three months<sup>19</sup> after the date on which a request for it is duly made<sup>20</sup>. Where an advance payment is made on the basis of an estimate by the undertaker or the Agency, and the amount of that payment exceeds the compensation as finally determined or agreed, the excess must be repaid; and if after an advance payment has been made to any person it is discovered that he was not entitled to it, the amount of the payment is recoverable by the undertaker or, as the case may be, by the Agency<sup>21</sup>. Where an advance payment is made to the claimant in respect of an interest in any relevant land, then if thereafter he disposes of the interest to, or creates an interest in that land in favour of, a person other than the undertaker or the Agency, the amount of the advance payment must be set off against any sum payable by the undertaker or the Agency to that other person in respect of the exercise of the power to which the advance payment relates<sup>22</sup>.

Any question of disputed compensation under these provisions must be referred to and determined by the Lands Tribunal<sup>23</sup>. Where any person entitled to an interest in any land would otherwise be entitled under these provisions to an amount of compensation in respect of any works, there must be deducted from that amount an amount equal to the amount by which the carrying out of the works has enhanced the value of any other land which is contiguous or adjacent<sup>24</sup> to that land and is land to an interest in which that person is entitled in the same capacity<sup>25</sup>.

1 For these purposes, 'relevant land', in relation to any exercise of a power to carry out pipe-laying works on private land, means the land where the power is exercised or land held with that land: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 12 para 2(5); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 21 para 2(5). References to a power to carry out pipe-laying works on private land are references, in the case of a relevant undertaker, to any of the powers conferred by the Water Industry Act 1991 s 159 (see PARA 463), s 161(2) (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 329) and s 163 (see PARA 463); or, in the case of the Environment Agency, the Water Resources Act 1991 s 160 (see PARA 463) or s 162(3) (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 329); Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 12 para 2(6); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 21 para 2(6). As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21. As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8. As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

2 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

Compensation payable under these provisions carries interest at the rate for the time being prescribed under the Land Compensation Act 1961 s 32 (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 641) from the date of the claim: see the Planning and Compensation Act 1991 s 80(1), Sch 18 Pt I (amended by the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2, Sch 1 para 58).

Compensation payable under the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 12 para 2(2) or (3) and the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 21 para 2(2) or (3) carries interest at the rate for the time being prescribed under the Land Compensation Act 1961 s 32 (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 641) from, in the case of damage sustained by reason of expenditure, the date on which the damage is sustained, otherwise the date of claim: see the Planning and Compensation Act 1991 s 80(1), Sch 18 Pt I (amended by the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2, Sch 1 para 58).

Compensation under these provisions will not include a ransom value to reflect an unreal assumption that the landowner can prevent pipe-laying, where that pipe-laying is undertaken in exercise of a statutory power: Kettering Borough Council v Anglian Water Services plc [2001] 2 EGLR 157, [2002] RVR 266, Lands Tribunal. Note that, subject to certain exceptions, it has not been possible to create a strict settlement under the Settled Land Act 1925 since the coming into force of the Trusts of Land and Appointment of Trustees Act 1996 on 1 January 1997: see REAL PROPERTY vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 65; SETTLEMENTS.

In relation to the determination of any such compensation, the provisions of the Land Compensation Act 1961 s 2 and s 4 (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARAS 716-717, 746) apply subject to any necessary modifications: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 12 para 3(1); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 21 para 3(1). As to the meaning of 'modifications' see PARA 141 note 20. For the purpose of assessing any such compensation, so far as the compensation is in respect of loss or damage consisting in depreciation of the value of an interest in land, the rules set out in the Land Compensation Act 1961 s 5 (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 754) have effect, so far as applicable and subject to any necessary modifications, as they have effect for the purpose of assessing compensation for the compulsory acquisition of an interest in land: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 12 para 3(2); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 21 para 3(2). Where the interest in land in respect of which any compensation so falls to be assessed is subject to a mortgage: (1) the compensation must be assessed as if the interest were not so subject; (2) a claim for compensation may be made by any mortgagee of the interest, but without prejudice to the making of a claim by the person entitled to the interest; (3) no such compensation is payable in respect of the interest of the mortgagee, as distinct from the interest which is subject to the mortgage; and (4) any such compensation which is payable in respect of the interest which is subject to the mortgage must be paid to the mortgagee or, if there is more than one mortgagee, to the first mortgagee, and must in either case be applied by him as if it were proceeds of sale: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 12 para 3(3); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 21 para 3(3). As to the meanings of 'mortgage' and 'mortgagee' in the Water Resources Act 1991 see PARA 263 note 25. There are no equivalent definitions in the Water Industry Act 1991. As to the Lands Tribunal see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 720 et seq. At the date at which this volume states the law, draft legislation proposes the abolition of the Lands Tribunal and its replacement by the Upper Tribunal (as to which see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) para 13A).

471 Compensation in respect of pipe-laying works in private land

TEXT AND NOTE 23--Reference to the Lands Tribunal is now to the Upper Tribunal; Land Compensation Act 1961 s 2 omitted: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 12 para 3(1), Sch 21 para 3(1) (amended by SI 2009/1307).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/7. GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/(3) COMPENSATION AND COMPLAINTS IN RESPECT OF WORKS POWERS/(i) Compensation/472. Compensation in respect of discharges for works purposes.

472. Compensation in respect of discharges for works purposes.

It is the duty of every water undertaker<sup>1</sup>, and of the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup>, to cause as little loss and damage<sup>3</sup> as possible in the exercise of the powers conferred<sup>4</sup> on that undertaker or on the Agency to discharge water for works purposes<sup>5</sup>, and to pay compensation for any loss caused or damage done in the exercise of those powers<sup>6</sup>. For these purposes, any extra expenditure which it becomes reasonably necessary for any water undertaker (other than the undertaker making the discharge), any sewerage undertaker<sup>7</sup> or any public authority<sup>8</sup> (except, in the case of discharges of water by the Agency, the Agency itself) to incur for the purpose of properly carrying out any statutory functions<sup>9</sup> and which is attributable to any discharge of water for works purposes is deemed to be a loss sustained by the undertaker or public authority and to have been caused in exercise of the powers to discharge water for works purposes<sup>10</sup>.

Any dispute as to whether compensation should be paid under these provisions, or as to the amount of any such compensation, must be referred to the arbitration of a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the parties to the dispute or, in default of agreement, by the President of the Institution of Civil Engineers<sup>11</sup>.

GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/(3) COMPENSATION AND COMPLAINTS IN RESPECT OF WORKS POWERS/(ii) Complaints relating to Relevant Undertakers' Works/474. Complaints with respect to the exercise of works powers on private land.

(ii) Complaints relating to Relevant Undertakers' Works

474. Complaints with respect to the exercise of works powers on private land.

It is the duty of the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>1</sup> to investigate any complaint made or referred to it with respect to the exercise by a relevant undertaker<sup>2</sup> of any powers conferred on that undertaker by, or by virtue of, the provisions relating to the power to lay pipes<sup>3</sup> or to carry out anti-pollution works<sup>4</sup> in land other than a street<sup>5</sup>. The Authority is not, however, required to investigate any such complaint if:

- 1107 (1) it appears to it to be vexatious or frivolous<sup>6</sup>;
- 1108 (2) the Authority is not satisfied that the complaint has been brought by the complainant to the attention of the relevant undertaker in question and that that undertaker has been given a reasonable opportunity of investigating and dealing with it<sup>7</sup>; or
- 1109 (3) the complaint was first made to the Authority or the Consumer Council for Water<sup>8</sup> more than 12 months<sup>9</sup>, or such longer period as the Authority may for special reasons allow, after the matters to which the complaint relates first came to the notice of the complainant<sup>10</sup>.

Where, in pursuance of this duty, the Authority investigates a complaint with respect to the exercise of any powers by a relevant undertaker, it is that undertaker's duty to provide the Authority with all such information<sup>11</sup> and assistance as it may reasonably require for the purposes of its investigation<sup>12</sup>; and before the Authority gives any direction<sup>13</sup> in relation to the complaint, it is the Authority's duty to consider any representations made to it by the complainant or by that undertaker with respect to the subject matter of the complaint<sup>14</sup>.

If, on such a complaint with respect to the exercise of any power by a relevant undertaker, the Authority is satisfied that that undertaker has failed adequately to consult the complainant, before and in the course of exercising those powers, about the manner in which they are exercised<sup>15</sup> or, by acting unreasonably in the manner of its exercise of those powers, has caused the complainant to sustain loss or damage<sup>16</sup> or to be subjected to inconvenience<sup>17</sup>, the Authority may direct the undertaker to pay to the complainant an amount not exceeding £5,000<sup>18</sup> in respect of that failure, loss, damage or inconvenience<sup>19</sup>. The Authority must not, however, direct a relevant undertaker to pay any amount to a complainant in respect of any loss, damage or inconvenience for which compensation is recoverable under any other enactment<sup>20</sup> except in so far as it appears to the Authority appropriate to do so by reason of any failure of the amount of any such compensation to reflect the fact that it was not reasonable for the undertaker to cause the complainant to sustain the loss or damage or to be subjected to the inconvenience<sup>21</sup>. A person<sup>22</sup> to whom any amount is required, in pursuance of a direction, to be paid by a relevant undertaker is entitled to recover that amount from that undertaker<sup>23</sup>.

GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/(3) COMPENSATION AND COMPLAINTS IN RESPECT OF WORKS POWERS/(ii) Complaints relating to Relevant Undertakers' Works/475. Codes of practice with respect to works on private land.

475. Codes of practice with respect to works on private land.

For the purposes of the provisions relating to complaints with respect to the exercise of works powers on private land<sup>1</sup>, it is the duty of every company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker<sup>2</sup>, as soon as reasonably practicable after its appointment takes effect, to submit to the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>4</sup>, for approval a code of practice with respect to its exercise of any such powers<sup>5</sup>; and if required to do so by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers at any subsequent time, to submit proposed modifications<sup>6</sup> of that code to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers for approval<sup>7</sup>.

If the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers consider it appropriate to do so for the purpose of promoting what appear to him or them to be desirable practices with respect to the exercise, by any company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker, of any such powers, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may at any time by order made by statutory instrument<sup>8</sup>, in relation to that company: (1) approve any code of practice with respect to the exercise of those powers which has been submitted (whether under the above provisions or not) by that company for approval<sup>9</sup>; (2) approve any modifications of such a code which have been so submitted<sup>10</sup>; or (3) withdraw approval for any such code or modification<sup>11</sup>. However, no such order may be made unless the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers have first consulted<sup>12</sup> all such persons<sup>13</sup> as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers considers it appropriate to consult<sup>14</sup>.

A contravention<sup>15</sup> of a code of practice for the time being so approved in relation to a company does not affect the powers conferred<sup>16</sup> on that company as a relevant undertaker<sup>17</sup> or give rise to any civil or criminal liability<sup>18</sup>. Nor does such a contravention of itself entitle any person to be paid any amount by virtue of a direction<sup>19</sup> given by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>20</sup> on a complaint relating to the exercise of works powers on private land<sup>21</sup>; but in determining whether to give such a direction to that company and the amount to which any such direction relates, the Authority must take into account whether there has been any such contravention<sup>22</sup>.

4    The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 182, in relation to any water or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meanings of 'water undertaker' and 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to water undertakers' areas see PARA 318. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. 5    Water Industry Act 1991 s 182(1)(a). The powers referred to are those under s 159 (see PARA 463) and s 161(2) (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 329). The duties of a relevant undertaker under s 182(1) are enforceable by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers under s 18 (see PARA 163); s 182(5). A typical code of practice for a water undertaker covers the following matters: notice of works; record and condition of land; working season; supervision and site responsibility; access arrangements for owners and occupiers; trial holes and borings; temporary fencing of the working area; land drainage; location of apparatus and equipment; topsoil; watercourses; area infected by disease; trees; water supplies and other services; fishing or sporting rights; undertaker's access to the works; temporary support; facilities for workmen; explosives; cathodic protection; fossils and other articles discovered; restoration of land; hedges, fencing, banks, walls, roads and paths (permanent reinstatement); and information. The code of practice is also likely to contain a provision to the effect that the code is to be followed when it is reasonably practicable to do so; eg in an emergency it may well not be reasonably practicable to follow the requirements of the code. In practice the codes approved after the appointment of the first relevant undertakers appointed in 1989 were based (with modifications by each undertaker) on model codes produced by the Department of the Environment.

- 1110 (1) enter any premises or vessel<sup>6</sup> for the purpose of ascertaining whether any provision of a specified enactment<sup>7</sup>, of any subordinate legislation<sup>8</sup> or other instrument made by virtue of any such enactment or of any byelaws made by the Agency<sup>9</sup> is being or has been contravened<sup>10</sup>; and
- 1111 (2) carry out such inspections, measurements and tests on any premises or vessel entered by that person or of any articles found on any such premises or vessel, and take away such samples of water or effluent<sup>11</sup> or of any land<sup>12</sup> or articles, as the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers or the Agency considers appropriate for the purpose mentioned in head (1) above and has authorised that person to carry out or take away<sup>13</sup>.

The powers so conferred in relation to any premises include power, in order to obtain information for the purpose mentioned in head (1) above, to carry out experimental borings or other works on those premises and to install and keep monitoring and other apparatus there<sup>14</sup>.

Water undertakers also have powers of entry for enforcement purposes<sup>15</sup>; and the Agency also has such powers of entry with respect to reservoirs<sup>16</sup>.

478. Powers to carry out surveys and to search for water.

Without prejudice to other rights and powers of entry<sup>1</sup>, any person<sup>2</sup> designated in writing<sup>3</sup> by a water undertaker<sup>4</sup> or the Environment Agency<sup>5</sup> may enter any premises for the purpose of<sup>6</sup>:

1114 (1) carrying out any survey or tests<sup>7</sup> to determine whether it would be appropriate for the undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency to acquire any land<sup>8</sup>, or any interest or right in or over land, for purposes connected with the carrying out of its functions<sup>9</sup>; or 1115 (2) whether it would be appropriate for the undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency to apply for a compulsory works order<sup>10</sup> and what compulsory powers it would be appropriate to apply for in that regard<sup>11</sup>.

These powers may not be exercised in any case for purposes connected with the determination of:

1116 (a) whether, where or how a reservoir should be constructed<sup>12</sup>; or

1117 (b) whether, where or how a borehole should be sunk for the purpose of abstracting water from, or discharging water into, any underground strata<sup>13</sup>, unless the Secretary of State<sup>14</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>15</sup> have given written authorisation in relation to that case for the exercise of those powers for those purposes<sup>16</sup>. The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may not give such authorisation unless satisfied that: (i) notice<sup>17</sup> of the proposal to apply for the authorisation has been given to the owner<sup>18</sup> and to the occupier of the premises in question<sup>19</sup>; and (ii) the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers have considered any representations or objections with respect to the proposed exercise of these powers which have been duly made to them by the owner or occupier of those premises within the period of 14 days beginning with the day after the giving of the notice, and have not been withdrawn<sup>20</sup>.

GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/(4) POWERS OF ENTRY/(i) General Powers to Enter Land and Premises/480. Powers of entry for other purposes authorised by water undertakers.

480. Powers of entry for other purposes authorised by water undertakers.

Without prejudice to any other rights or powers<sup>1</sup>, any person<sup>2</sup> designated in writing<sup>3</sup> for the purpose by a water undertaker<sup>4</sup> may enter any premises<sup>5</sup> for any of the following purposes:

- 1120 (1) the carrying out of any survey or tests<sup>6</sup> for the purpose of determining whether it is appropriate or practicable for the undertaker to exercise any power under any provision relating to water supply<sup>7</sup> to disconnect any pipe<sup>8</sup> or cut off any supply of water to any premises or to carry out any works which it is authorised<sup>9</sup> to carry out<sup>10</sup>, or of determining how any such power should be exercised<sup>11</sup>;
- 1121 (2) the exercise of any such power as is mentioned in head (1) above<sup>12</sup>;
- 1122 (3) the monitoring and recording of whether water supplied to any premises for domestic or food production purposes<sup>13</sup> is wholesome at the time of supply<sup>14</sup>, or the quality of the water from any source, or combination of sources, which is or is to be used for supplying water to any premises for those purposes<sup>15</sup>, and the carrying out of any tests for that purpose<sup>16</sup>;
- 1123 (4) ascertaining whether any statutory provision<sup>17</sup> with respect to any water fittings<sup>18</sup> or with respect to the waste or misuse of water is being, or has been, contravened<sup>19</sup>;
- 1124 (5) determining whether, and if so in what manner, any power or duty conferred or imposed on any person by regulations with respect to contamination, waste and water fittings<sup>20</sup> should be exercised or performed<sup>21</sup>; or
- 1125 (6) exercising any such power or performing any such duty as is mentioned in head (5) above<sup>22</sup>.

A person who has entered any premises in the exercise of the powers conferred by heads (4) to (6) above may carry out such inspections, measurements and tests on those premises or on water fittings or other articles found on them, and may take away such samples of water or of any land and such water fittings and other articles as he has been authorised<sup>23</sup> to carry out or take away<sup>24</sup>.

Any person designated for the purpose by any water undertaker within whose area<sup>25</sup> any waterworks are situated, or by any water undertaker which takes water from any waterworks, has a right, on producing some duly authenticated document showing his authority, to enter any premises at all reasonable hours for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is, or has been, any contravention of the provisions relating to contamination of water sources<sup>26</sup> in relation to those waterworks<sup>27</sup>. During any period when a prohibition or restriction relating to the use of hosepipes<sup>28</sup> is in force, any person designated for the purpose by the water undertaker which imposed the prohibition or restriction has, on producing some duly authenticated document showing his authority, a right at all reasonable hours to enter any premises to which the prohibition or restriction applies for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is, or has been, any contravention of the prohibition or restriction<sup>29</sup>.

Separate rights of entry for metering purposes are granted<sup>30</sup>.

481. Impersonation of persons entitled to entry.

A person<sup>1</sup> who, without having been designated or authorised for the purpose by a relevant undertaker<sup>2</sup> or, as the case may be, by the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup>, purports to be entitled to enter any premises or vessel<sup>4</sup> in exercise of a power exercisable in pursuance of any such designation or authorisation is guilty of an offence<sup>5</sup>. It is immaterial for these purposes, where a person purports to be entitled to enter any premises or vessel, that the power which he purports to be entitled to exercise does not exist or would not be exercisable even if that person had been duly designated<sup>6</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8.

3 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

4 As to the meaning of 'vessel' see PARA 224 note 2.

In the case of an offence under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 173, the penalty for such an offence is, on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding level 4 on the standard scale: s 173(1). In the case of an offence under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 174, the penalty for such an offence is, on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum or, on conviction on indictment, a fine or imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, or both: s 174(1)(a), (b) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 Sch 22 para 167). As to the standard scale see PARA 141 note 18. As to the statutory maximum see PARA 169 note 20. As to offences by bodies corporate see PARA 185.

(ii) Exercise of Powers of Entry

482. Notice of entry.

Without prejudice to any power exercisable by virtue of a warrant<sup>1</sup>, no person<sup>2</sup> may make an entry into any premises or vessel<sup>3</sup> by virtue of any relevant statutory right or power<sup>4</sup> except: (1) in an emergency<sup>5</sup>; or (2) at a reasonable time and after the required notice<sup>6</sup> of the intended entry has been given to the occupier of the premises or vessel<sup>7</sup>.

In relation to rights of entry under the provisions relating to waste from water sources<sup>8</sup>, certain local authority rights regarding waterworks<sup>9</sup>, a water undertaker's rights of entry to waterworks<sup>10</sup> or to enforce a temporary hosepipe ban<sup>11</sup>, separate provision is made whereby admission to any premises which are not business premises<sup>12</sup> may not be demanded as of right unless 24 hours' notice of the intended entry has been given to the occupier of the premises<sup>13</sup>.

<sup>5</sup> Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 6(1)(a); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 1(1)(a). For the purposes of the application of these provisions to any right or power conferred by the Water Industry Act 1991 s 168 or, as the case may be, to the power conferred by the Water Resources Act 1991 s 170 (see PARA 477), 'emergency' includes: (1) in relation to any entry to premises for the purposes of, or for purposes connected with, the exercise or proposed exercise of any power in relation to a street, a reference to any circumstances requiring the carrying out of emergency works within the meaning of the New Roads and Street Works Act 1991 Pt III (ss 48-106) (see s 52; and HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 431); and (2) in relation to any other entry to premises, a reference to any danger to property and to any interruption of a supply of water provided to any premises by any person and to any interruption of the provision of sewerage services to any premises: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 6(3); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 1(3). As to the meaning of 'street' see PARA 308 note 19. As to the meaning of 'sewerage services' see PARA 129 note 7.

<sup>6</sup> The required notice in most cases is seven days' notice: see the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 6(2) (b); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 1(2). Such notice is not, however, required for entry under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 169 (see PARA 476) or s 172 (see PARA 479), except where the premises in question are residential premises, the vessel in question is used for residential purposes or the entry in question is to be with heavy equipment: Sch 20 para 1(2). In the case of the rights and powers conferred by any of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 74(4) (see PARA 368), s 84(2), (3) (see PARA 408), s 86(4) (see PARA 126) and s 170(1)(c), (3) (see PARA 480), only 24 hours' notice is required: see Sch 6 para 6(2)(a). For the purposes of the application of Sch 6 Pt II to the rights and other powers conferred by s 172 (entry for metering purposes: see PARA 434), there is no power to make an entry in an emergency other than at a reasonable time and after the required notice: see Sch 6 para 6(5). As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the service of documents see PARA 22.

- 10     le under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 170(2): see PARA 480.
- 11     le the right of entry under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 170(4): see PARA 480.
- 12     'Business premises' means any factory, within the meaning of the Factories Act 1961 (see HEALTH AND SAFETY AT WORK vol 52 (2009) PARA 318 et seq), or any place in which persons are employed otherwise than in domestic service: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 1(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/7. GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/(4) POWERS OF ENTRY/(ii) Exercise of Powers of Entry/483. Warrant to exercise right or power of entry.

483. Warrant to exercise right or power of entry.

1126 (1) there is reasonable ground for entry to premises for any purpose for which certain statutory rights are exercisable<sup>3</sup>; or

1127 (2) there are reasonable grounds for the exercise in relation to any premises or vessel<sup>4</sup> of a specified right or power<sup>5</sup>,

and that in either case one or more of the statutory conditions<sup>6</sup> is fulfilled in relation to the premises or vessel in question, the justice may issue a warrant<sup>7</sup>. In a case falling within head (1) above, the warrant authorises the person entitled to entry to enter the premises, if need be by force<sup>8</sup>, and it continues in force until the purpose for which the entry is necessary has been fulfilled<sup>9</sup>. In a case falling within head (2) above, the warrant authorises the relevant authority<sup>10</sup> to designate a person who is authorised to exercise the right or power in relation to those premises or that vessel, in accordance with the warrant and, if need be, by force<sup>11</sup>, and it continues in force until the purposes for which it was issued have been fulfilled<sup>12</sup>.

A justice of the peace may not issue a warrant in a case in which he is satisfied that admission to the premises, or the exercise of a statutory right or power in relation to the premises or vessel, has been refused or that refusal is apprehended, unless he is also satisfied that notice of intention to apply for a warrant has been given to the occupier or that the giving of such notice would defeat the object of the entry or proposed entry<sup>13</sup>. Certain other restrictions are imposed on the issuing of a warrant<sup>14</sup>.

1 As to justices of the peace see MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 501 et seq.

2 As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1.

3 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 2(1)(b). The rights of entry referred to are those to which the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 Pt I (paras 1-5) applies: see PARA 482. The mere fact that a power to enter and inspect premises exists is not a reasonable ground for entry: Vines v Governors of North London Collegiate and Camden Schools for Girls (1899) 63 JP 244, DC.

4 As to the meaning of 'vessel' see PARA 224 note 2.

5 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 7(1)(a); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 2(1)(a). The rights or powers referred to are a right or power to which the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 Pt II (paras 6-13) applies (see PARA 482 note 4) or a power conferred by the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 169-172 (see PARAS 476-480).

6 The statutory conditions are: (1) in relation to a right to which the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 Pt I (paras 1-5) applies, that (a) admission to the premises has been refused to the person having the right to enter them; (b) such refusal is apprehended; (c) the premises are unoccupied or the occupier is temporarily absent; (d) the case is one of urgency; (e) an application for admission would defeat the object of the entry (see the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 2(1)(a), (2)(a)-(e)); (2) in relation to a right or power to which Sch 6 Pt II (paras 6-13) applies, or a power conferred by the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 169-172, that (a) the exercise of the right or power in relation to the premises or vessel has been refused; (b) such a refusal is reasonably apprehended; (c) the premises are unoccupied; (d) the occupier is temporarily absent from the premises; (e) the case is one of urgency; or (f) an application for admission to the premises or vessel would defeat the object of the proposed entry (see the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 7(1)(b), (2)(a)-(f); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 2(2)(a)-(f)). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

7 See the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 paras 2(1), 7(1)(b); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 2(1)(b).

8 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 2(1).

9 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 2(4).

10 'Relevant authority' means: (1) in relation to a right or power to which the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 Pt II (paras 6-13) applies, the person who, by virtue of the provision by which the right or power is conferred, is entitled to designate the person by whom it may be exercised (Sch 6 para 13(1)(a)); (2) in relation to a power conferred by the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 169-172, the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers, or the Environment Agency, according to who is entitled, by virtue of the provision by which the power is conferred, to designate the person by whom it may be exercised (Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 8(1) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128)). The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 and the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16. As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

11 See the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 7(1); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 2(1). A person so designated must produce evidence of his designation and other authority before he exercises the right or power: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 8; Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 3. A water undertaker is required by its conditions of appointment to provide a special means of identification for its authorised officers when they visit customers' premises. As to conditions of appointment see PARA 142. The instruments of appointment of the water undertakers were accessible on the Water Services Regulation Authority's website at www.ofwat.gov.uk.

12 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 7(5); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 2(5).

13 See the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 paras 2(3)(a), (c), 7(3); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 2(3). In the case of a warrant under the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 Pt I (paras 1-5) he may, alternatively, be satisfied that the premises are unoccupied or the occupier is temporarily absent, or that the case is one of urgency: see Sch 6 para 2(3)(b). As to notice of entry see PARA 483.

14 For the purposes of the application of the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 Pt II (paras 6-13) to the rights and powers conferred by s 169 in a case to which s 169(4) applies (see PARA 478), or for the purposes of the application of the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 to the powers conferred by s 171 in a case to which s 171(4) applies (see PARA 478), a justice of the peace may not issue a warrant unless he is satisfied that the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers have given authorisation for those purposes in relation to that case: see the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 7(4); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 2(4). #### 484. Supplementary powers and duties of person making entry.

A person<sup>1</sup> entitled or authorised to enter any premises or vessel<sup>2</sup> by virtue of a statutory right or power<sup>3</sup> or of a warrant<sup>4</sup> may take with him<sup>5</sup> onto the premises or vessel such other persons and such equipment<sup>6</sup> as may be necessary<sup>7</sup>; and must leave the premises<sup>8</sup> or vessel as effectually secured against trespassers as he found those premises or that vessel<sup>9</sup>.

Any person who wilfully obstructs any person upon whom a right of entry has been conferred<sup>10</sup> or who intentionally obstructs another person acting in the exercise of a statutory right or power<sup>11</sup>, is guilty of an offence<sup>12</sup>.

Any person who is admitted to any premises in compliance with certain statutory provisions relating to rights of entry<sup>13</sup> or in compliance with a relevant warrant<sup>14</sup> is guilty of an offence if he discloses to any person, except in respect of any disclosure made in the performance of his duty<sup>15</sup>, any information<sup>16</sup> obtained by him there with regard to any manufacturing process or trade secret<sup>17</sup>. This offence is in addition to the general statutory restrictions on the disclosure of information<sup>18</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 As to the meaning of 'vessel' see PARA 224 note 2.

3 I.e. a right to which the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 Pt I (paras 1-5) applies (see PARA 482), a right or power to which Sch 6 Pt II (paras 6-13) applies (see PARA 482 note 4) or a power conferred by the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 169-172 (see PARAS 476-480): see the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 paras 3, 9; the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 4.

4 As to warrants see PARA 483.

5 I.e. subject, in the case of a right or power exercisable under a warrant, to the terms of that warrant: see the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 9; the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 4. No such qualification is made in the case of an entry by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 Pt I: see Sch 6 para 3.

6 I.e. except in the case of an entry by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 Pt I (paras 1-5), where no express power to take equipment is conferred: see Sch 6 para 3.

7 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 paras 3, 9; Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 4.

8 In the case of an entry by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 Pt I (paras 1-5) this duty applies in relation to unoccupied premises only: see the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 2(5).

9 See the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 paras 2(5), 10; Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 5. For the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 10 (entry under a right or power to which Sch 6 Pt II (paras 6-13) applies) or the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 5, a person enters any premises or vessel by virtue of a right or power to which the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 Pt II or the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 applies notwithstanding that he has failed, whether by virtue of the waiver of the requirement by the occupier of them or otherwise, to comply with any requirement to enter at a reasonable time or after giving notice of his intended entry (see PARA 482), or with the requirement to produce evidence of his designation or other authority (see PARA 483): Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 13(3); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 8(3). References for these purposes to a right or power to which the relevant provisions apply include references to a right or power exercisable by virtue of a warrant under them: see the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 13(2); the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 8(2).

10 I.e. by virtue of any provision of the Water Industry Act 1991 relating to a right of entry to which Sch 6 Pt I (paras 1-5) applies (see PARA 482) or by virtue of a warrant under Sch 6 Pt I: Sch 6 para 4(a), (b).

11     le a right or power to which the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 Pt II (paras 6-13) applies (see PARA 482 note 4) or a power to which the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 applies: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 12; Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 7.

12     Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 paras 4, 12; Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 7. The penalty for such an offence is: (1) under the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 4, on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding level 1 on the standard scale (Sch 6 para 4); (2) under Sch 6 para 12, on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale (Sch 6 para 12); and (3) under the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 7 (a) on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum; or (b) on conviction on indictment, a fine or imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, or both (Sch 20 para 7 (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 188)). As to the standard scale see PARA 141 note 18. As to the statutory maximum see PARA 169 note 20.

13     le any provision of the Water Industry Act 1991 relating to a right of entry to which Sch 6 Pt I (paras 1-5) applies: Sch 6 para 5(1)(a).

14     le a warrant under the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 Pt I (paras 1-5) (see PARA 482): see Sch 6 para 5(1) (b).

15     Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 5(2).

16     As to the meaning of 'information' see PARA 117 note 13.

17     Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 5(1). This provision is without prejudice to s 206 (general restrictions on disclosure of information: see PARA 183): Sch 6 para 5(1). The penalty for such an offence is: (1) on summary conviction, imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum or to both; (2) on conviction on indictment, imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or to a fine or to both: Sch 6 para 5(4)(a), (b). As from a day to be appointed heads (1) and (2) are repealed and the penalty for such an offence will be, on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale: Sch 6 para 5(4) (prospectively amended by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 304, Sch 32 Pt 2, para 159). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. As to the application of these provisions to the right conferred by the Water Industry Act 1991 s 171 (entry for sewerage purposes) see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 1027.

18     As to those general restrictions see PARA 183.

(iii) Compensation in respect of Rights of Entry

485. Compensation in respect of rights of entry.

Where any person <sup>1</sup> exercises any statutory right or power in connection with entry into any premises or vessel<sup>2</sup>, it is the duty of the relevant authority<sup>3</sup> to make full compensation to any person who has sustained loss or damage<sup>4</sup> by reason of:

- 1128 (1) the exercise by the designated person of that right or power or of any power to take any person or equipment with him<sup>5</sup> when entering the premises or vessel in relation to which the right or power is exercised<sup>6</sup>; or
- 1129 (2) the performance of, or failure of the designated person to perform, the duty imposed on him<sup>7</sup> to leave those premises or that vessel secured against trespassers<sup>8</sup>.

Compensation is not, however, so payable in respect of any loss or damage if the loss or damage is attributable to the default of the person who sustained it, or is loss or damage in respect of which compensation is payable by virtue of any other statutory provision<sup>9</sup>.

Any dispute as to a person's entitlement to compensation under these provisions, or as to the amount of any such compensation, must be referred to the arbitration of a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the relevant authority and the person who claims to have sustained the loss or damage<sup>10</sup>. In default of agreement, such a dispute must be settled: (a) by the President of the Lands Tribunal<sup>11</sup> where the relevant authority is the Secretary of State<sup>12</sup> or the Welsh Ministers<sup>13</sup>; (b) by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers, where the Environment Agency<sup>14</sup> is the relevant authority<sup>15</sup>; and (c) by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers, in any other case<sup>16</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 I.e a right or power to which the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 Pt II (paras 6-13) applies (see PARA 482 note 4) or a power conferred by the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 169-172 (see PARAS 476-480): see the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 11(1); the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 6(1). As to the meaning of 'vessel' see PARA 224 note 2.

3 As to the meaning of 'relevant authority' see PARA 483 note 10. In this context this expression also includes a person who is entitled by means of a warrant to designate the person by whom the right or power may be exercised: see the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 13(1)(b); the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 8(1). As to warrants see PARA 483.

10 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 11(3); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 6(3). The provisions of the Arbitration Act 1996 Pt I (ss 1-84) apply to any such arbitration: see s 94; and ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARA 1209.

11 As to the Lands Tribunal see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 720 et seq. At the date at which this volume states the law, draft legislation proposes the abolition of the Lands Tribunal and its replacement by the Upper Tribunal (as to which see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) para 13A).

12 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

13 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 11(3)(a); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20 para 6(3)(a). The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 and the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 20, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. ### 485 Compensation in respect of rights of entry

TEXT AND NOTES 11, 13--For 'President of the Lands Tribunal' read 'Upper Tribunal': Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 6 para 11(3)(a), Sch 20 para 6(3)(a) (amended by SI 2009/1307).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/7. ## (5) INTERFERENCE WITH AND PROTECTION FOR WORKS AND UNDERTAKINGS

(i) Interference with Works etc

486. Offences of interference with works etc.

If any person<sup>1</sup>:

1130 (1) without the consent of the water undertaker<sup>2</sup> or, as the case may be, of the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup>:

56

7. (a) intentionally or recklessly interferes with any resource main<sup>4</sup>, water main or other pipe<sup>5</sup> vested in any water undertaker, with any resource main or other pipe vested in the Agency, or with any structure, installation or apparatus belonging to any water undertaker<sup>6</sup> or to the Agency<sup>7</sup>; or
8. (b) by any act or omission negligently interferes with any such main or other pipe or with any such structure, installation or apparatus so as to damage it or so as to have an effect on its use or operation<sup>8</sup>;

58

9. (a) intentionally or recklessly interferes with any pipe or any structure, installation or apparatus which is vested in any licensed water supplier (in the case of a pipe) or belongs to any such supplier (in any other case), and is used in connection with the carrying on by the supplier of the activities authorised by its licence<sup>10</sup>; or
10. (b) by any act or omission negligently interferes with any such pipe or with any such structure, installation or apparatus so as to damage it or so as to have an effect on its use or operation<sup>11</sup>, that person is guilty of an offence<sup>12</sup>. A person is not, however, guilty of any such an offence by reason of anything done in an emergency to prevent loss or damage<sup>13</sup> to persons or property<sup>14</sup>. Nor is he guilty of such an offence by reason of his opening or closing the stopcock<sup>15</sup> fitted to a service pipe<sup>16</sup> by means of which water is supplied to any premises by a water undertaker or licensed water supplier if (i) he has obtained the consent of every consumer<sup>17</sup> whose supply is affected by the opening or closing of that stopcock or, as the case may, of every other consumer whose supply is so affected<sup>18</sup>; and (ii) in the case of opening a stopcock belonging to a water undertaker if the stopcock was closed otherwise than by the undertaker<sup>19</sup>, or in the case of a stopcock belonging to a licensed water supplier if the stopcock was closed otherwise than by the supplier<sup>20</sup> or, if the stopcock was closed by the supplier and the person in question<sup>21</sup> is the water undertaker whose supply system<sup>22</sup> is used for the purpose of the supply made by the supplier<sup>23</sup>.

Any person who:

- 1132 (A) without the consent of the water undertaker, attaches any pipe or apparatus to any resource main, water main or other pipe vested in a water undertaker, or to any service pipe which does not belong to such an undertaker but is a pipe by means of which water is supplied by such an undertaker to any premises<sup>24</sup>;
- 1133 (B) without the consent of the Agency, attaches any pipe or apparatus to any resource main or other pipe vested in the Agency<sup>25</sup>;
- 1134 (C) without the consent of the water undertaker, makes any alteration in a service pipe by means of which water is supplied by a water undertaker to any premises, or in any apparatus attached to any such pipe<sup>26</sup>;
- 1135 (D) without the consent of the water undertaker or, as the case may be, of the Agency, uses any pipe or apparatus which has been attached or altered in contravention<sup>27</sup> of heads (A) to (C) above<sup>28</sup>;
- 1136 (E) without the consent of the licensed water supplier, attaches any pipe or apparatus to any pipe which is vested in a licensed water supplier and used in connection with the carrying on by the supplier of the activities authorised by its licence<sup>29</sup>;
- 1137 (F) without the consent of the licensed water supplier, attaches any pipe or apparatus to any service pipe which does not belong to such a supplier or a water undertaker but which is a pipe by means of which water is supplied by such a supplier to any premises<sup>30</sup>;
- 1138 (G) without the consent of the licensed water supplier, makes any alteration in a service pipe by means of which water is so supplied, or in any apparatus attached to any such pipe<sup>31</sup>; or
- 1139 (H) without the consent of the licensed water supplier, uses any pipe or apparatus which has been attached or altered in contravention of heads (E) to (G) above<sup>32</sup>, is guilty of an offence<sup>33</sup>. It is, however, a defence in proceedings against any person for an offence by virtue of head (D) or head (H) above for that person to show that he did not know, and had no grounds for suspecting, that the pipe in question had been attached or altered in contravention of the prohibitions mentioned in those heads<sup>34</sup>.

An offence under head (1) or heads (A) to (D) above constitutes a breach of a duty owed to the water undertaker in question or, as the case may be, to the Agency, and any such breach of duty which causes the undertaker or the Agency to sustain loss or damage is actionable at the suit of that undertaker or, as the case may be, of the Agency<sup>35</sup>.

If any person wilfully or negligently injures or suffers to be injured any water fitting<sup>36</sup> belonging to a water undertaker, he is guilty of an offence<sup>37</sup>. A water undertaker may do all such work as is necessary for repairing any such injury<sup>38</sup>, and recover the expenses reasonably incurred by the undertaker in doing so from the offender summarily as a civil debt<sup>39</sup>.

If any person wilfully or negligently injures or suffers to be injured any water fitting which belongs to a licensed water supplier<sup>40</sup> and is used in connection with the carrying on by the supplier of the activities authorised by its licence<sup>41</sup>, he is guilty of an offence<sup>42</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

3 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

4 As to the meaning of 'resource main' see PARA 179 note 4.

- 5 As to the meanings of 'water main' and 'pipe' see PARA 138 note 11.
- 6 For these purposes, references to apparatus belonging to a water undertaker do not include references to any meter which belongs to such an undertaker and is used by it for the purpose of determining the amount of any charges which have been fixed by the undertaker by reference to volume: Water Industry Act 1991 s 174(9). As to the meaning of 'meter' see PARA 337 note 11. As to the meaning of 'fixing charges in relation to any premises by reference to volume' see PARA 337 note 11. As to interference with meters see PARA 442.

- 11 Water Industry Act 1991 s 174(1A)(b) (as added: see note 10).
- 12 Water Industry Act 1991 s 174(1), (1A); Water Resources Act 1991 s 176(1). The penalty for such an offence is, on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale: Water Industry Act 1991 s 174(1), (1A); Water Resources Act 1991 s 176(1). As to the standard scale see PARA 141 note 18. As to offences by bodies corporate see PARA 185.
- 13 As to the meaning of 'damage' see PARA 129 note 7.
- 14 Water Industry Act 1991 s 174(2)(a) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 39(1), (3) (a)); Water Resources Act 1991 s 176(2)(a). It seems, also, that an offence would not be committed by a consumer who, without interfering with the supply, effects repairs in a proper and competent manner to a main, communication pipe or other apparatus of the undertakers where the undertakers have failed to do so within a reasonable period and the failure is not unavoidable: see Cope v Sharpe (No 2) [1912] 1 KB 496. However, a consumer taking such action must avoid contravening the Water Industry Act 1991 s 73(1)(c) (see PARA 364), and the provisions set out in this paragraph. Turning on a valve which has been turned off by the undertakers in order to prevent waste or contamination, or to disconnect or cut off a supply eg for non-payment of charges, is interference with the supply. If the main or apparatus interfered with is in a highway, a person breaking open the surface must show lawful authority or excuse for so doing: see the New Roads and Street Works Act 1991 s 51(1); and HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 423.

- 16 As to the meaning of 'service pipe' see PARA 179 note 8 (definition applied in the case of the Water Resources Act 1991 by s 176(7)).
- 17 As to the meaning of 'consumer' see PARA 122 note 35: definition applied in the case of the Water Resources Act 1991 by s 176(7). In the Water Industry Act 1991 s 174 'consumer': (1) in relation to a supply of water provided by a water undertaker to any premises, means a person who is for the time being the person on whom liability to pay charges to the undertaker in respect of that supply of water would fall; (2) in relation to a supply of water provided by a licensed water supplier to any premises, means a person who is for the time being the person on whom liability to pay charges to the supplier in respect of that supply of water would fall: s 174(8A) (added by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 39(1), (9)). An offence is committed if a person affixes a tap to shut off the water while the house is cleared (Williams v Llandudno District Council (1897) 14 TLR 18, DC), or connects up a house owned by him with the pipes of another house owned by him (Kyffin v Metropolitan Water Board (1908) 72 JP 517, DC; see also Philp v Dunfermline Magistrates (1902) 4 F (J) 34), or temporarily affixes a hosepipe to draw off water (Cambridge University and Town Waterworks Co v Hancock (1910) 74 JP 477, DC).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/7. GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/ (5) INTERFERENCE WITH AND PROTECTION FOR WORKS AND UNDERTAKINGS/(i) Interference with Works etc/487. Powers of other bodies to interfere with works etc.

487. Powers of other bodies to interfere with works etc.

Various bodies have statutory powers to interfere with mains, pipes and other installations and apparatus vested in a relevant undertaker<sup>1</sup> or a licensed water supplier<sup>2</sup> or in the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup>. These bodies include electricity and gas suppliers<sup>4</sup>, urban authorities<sup>5</sup>, planning authorities<sup>6</sup> and railway and canal undertakers<sup>7</sup>, although this list does not purport to be exhaustive. A building belonging to a relevant undertaker or to the Environment Agency and held or used by it for the purposes of its undertaking is not, however, subject to building regulations unless it is a house or a building used as an office or a showroom<sup>8</sup>.

Navigation, harbour and conservancy authorities<sup>9</sup> have certain statutory powers to divert the Agency's watercourses<sup>10</sup>.

Where any such body causes damage to a water main vested in a relevant undertaker, the ordinary principles of liability and causation will apply<sup>11</sup>.

1 As to relevant undertakers see PARA 137 et seq.

2 As to licensed water suppliers see PARA 152 et seq.

3 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

4 See FUEL AND ENERGY vol 19(2) (2007 Reissue) PARAS 842, 1287.

5 See HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 400.

6 Nothing in the Water Industry Act 1991, the Water Resources Act 1991 or in any other enactment relating to the functions of a relevant undertaker or of the Agency is to be construed as authorising the carrying out of any development, within the meaning of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990, without the grant of such planning permission as may be required by that 1990 Act: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 190; Water Resources Act 1991 s 183(1) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). These provisions are without prejudice to the operation of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 s 90 (planning permission deemed to be granted in certain cases: see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(1) (Reissue) PARA 238) in relation to any provision made by or under the Water Industry Act 1991, the Water Resources Act 1991 or any other enactment which by virtue of those Acts or of the Water Act 1989 relates to these functions: Water Industry Act 1991 s 190; Water Resources Act 1991 s 183 (as so amended). As to planning permission and the control of development see generally TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(1) (Reissue) PARA 213 et seq. The consent of the local planning authority is generally needed before a person carries out works which affect a tree subject to a tree preservation order; but in practice such orders often contain provision removing the need for such consent when certain works are carried out by a water undertaker. As to tree preservation orders see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(1) (Reissue) PARA 850 et seq.

7 See PARA 799; and RAILWAYS, INLAND WATERWAYS AND CROSS-COUNTRY PIPELINES vol 39(1A) (Reissue) PARA 291 et seq.

8 See the Building Act 1984 s 4; and BUILDING vol 4(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 313. The Agency, every water undertaker and every sewerage undertaker are deemed to be statutory undertakers for the purposes of the Building Act 1984 and their undertakings statutory undertakings: see the Water Act 1989 s 190(1), Sch 25 para 1(1), (2)(xxxi) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 (Consequential Amendments) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/593, reg 3, Sch 2 para 4).

GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/ (5) INTERFERENCE WITH AND PROTECTION FOR WORKS AND UNDERTAKINGS/(i) Interference with Works etc/488. Building over water mains.

488. Building over water mains.

A legal procedure is provided to control building over drains, sewers and disposal mains<sup>1</sup>. There is no equivalent procedure controlling building over water mains, but easements for water mains will normally govern such matters<sup>2</sup>. If the owner of land proposes to build on it in a way which is likely to damage a water undertaker's pipe, or will render it more difficult to effect repairs to a water undertaker's pipe<sup>3</sup>, the undertaker may be entitled to an injunction to restrain such interference<sup>4</sup>.

1 The erection or extension of a building or work involving the underpinning of a building must be carried out in a way that is not detrimental to the building or building extension or to the continued maintenance of the drain, sewer or disposal main; but this applies only to work carried out (1) over a drain, sewer or disposal main which is shown on any map of sewers; or (2) on any site or in such a manner as may result in interference with the use of, or obstruction of the access of any person to, any drain, sewer or disposal main which is shown on any map of sewers: see the Building Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2531, reg 4, Sch 1 Pt H para H4 (Sch 1 Pt H substituted by SI 2001/3335); and BUILDING vol 4(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 308.

489. Undertaker's duty to move pipes etc in certain cases.

Where any relevant pipe<sup>1</sup> or other apparatus is for the time being kept installed by a relevant undertaker<sup>2</sup> on, under or over any land<sup>3</sup>, any person<sup>4</sup> with an interest in that land or in adjacent land may by notice<sup>5</sup> to the undertaker require the undertaker to alter or remove that pipe or apparatus on the ground that the alteration or removal of that pipe or apparatus is necessary to enable that person to carry out a proposed improvement<sup>6</sup> of the land in which he has an interest<sup>7</sup>. Where such a notice is served on a relevant undertaker, it is that undertaker's duty to comply with the requirement contained in the notice except to the extent that that requirement is unreasonable<sup>8</sup>; but nothing in these provisions requires a relevant undertaker to alter or remove any pipe or apparatus which is kept installed in, under or over any street<sup>9</sup>.

Where a relevant undertaker carries out any works by virtue of such a notice having been served by any person, the undertaker is entitled to recover any expenses reasonably incurred in carrying out those works from that person<sup>10</sup>; and an undertaker may make it a condition of complying with the duty to which it is subject by virtue of such a notice served by any person that such security as the undertaker may reasonably require has been provided for the discharge of an obligation by that person to meet those expenses<sup>11</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'relevant pipe' see PARA 462 note 5: definition applied by the Water Industry Act 1991 s 185(9).

2 As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8.

9 Water Industry Act 1991 s 185(3). As to the meaning of 'street' see PARA 308 note 19.

10 Water Industry Act 1991 s 185(5). As to the recovery of expenses see PARA 131 note 6.

11 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 185(4). Where any sums have been deposited with a relevant undertaker by way of security for the discharge of any obligation, the undertaker must pay interest at such rate as may be determined either (1) by the undertaker with the approval of the Water Services Regulation Authority; or (2) in default of a determination under head (1), by the Authority, on every sum of 50p so deposited for every three months during which it remains in the hands of the undertaker: s 185(6) (s 185(6), (7) amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). An approval or determination by the Authority for these purposes may be given or made in relation to a particular case or description of cases or generally and may be revoked at any time: s 185(7) (as so amended). As to the meaning of 'month' see PARA 23 note 10.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/7. GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/ (5) INTERFERENCE WITH AND PROTECTION FOR WORKS AND UNDERTAKINGS/(ii) Protection for Particular Undertakings/490. In general.

(ii) Protection for Particular Undertakings

490. In general.

Nothing in the Water Industry Act 1991 conferring power on an relevant undertaker<sup>1</sup>, and nothing in any of the provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 conferring power on the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup>, to carry out any works<sup>3</sup> confers power to do anything, except with the consent<sup>4</sup> of the persons<sup>5</sup> carrying on a protected undertaking<sup>6</sup>, which, whether directly or indirectly, so interferes or will so interfere (1) with works or property vested in or under the control of the persons carrying on that undertaking, in their capacity as such<sup>7</sup>; or (2) with the use of any such works or property<sup>8</sup>, as to affect injuriously those works or that property or the carrying on of that undertaking<sup>9</sup>.

Any dispute as to whether anything done or proposed to be done interferes, or will interfere, with a protected undertaking as mentioned above, must be referred to arbitration, as must any dispute as to whether any consent for these purposes is being unreasonably withheld or any condition subject to which any such consent has been given was unreasonable<sup>10</sup>.

Nothing in any provision of the Water Industry Act 1991 conferring power on a relevant undertaker to carry out any works, or in any provision of the Water Resources Act 1991 conferring power on the Agency to carry out any works<sup>11</sup>, or in any of the flood defence provisions<sup>12</sup> of that Act, confers power to do anything which prejudices the exercise of any statutory power, authority or jurisdiction from time to time vested in or exercisable by any persons carrying on a protected undertaking<sup>13</sup>.

A special procedure<sup>14</sup> applies to every relevant undertaker, and to the Agency, for the purposes of any works involving the alteration of electronic communications apparatus which are carried out by that undertaker or by the Agency in the exercise of any of the powers<sup>15</sup> conferred by any enactment<sup>16</sup>.

Nothing in the flood defence provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>17</sup> authorises any person, except with the consent<sup>18</sup> of the railway company in question, to interfere with any railway bridge or any other work connected with a railway<sup>19</sup>, or the structure, use or maintenance of a railway or the traffic on it<sup>20</sup>. Any dispute as to whether anything so interferes, or will so interfere, as to whether any consent for these purposes is being unreasonably withheld, or as to whether any condition subject to which any such consent has been given was reasonable, must be referred to the arbitration of a single arbitrator to be appointed by agreement between the parties to the dispute or, in default of agreement, by the President of the Institution of Civil Engineers<sup>21</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8.

2 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

3 Ie including the provisions of any order under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 108 (transfer of functions in relation to main river: see PARA 575) by virtue of which any such power is conferred: see the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 22 para 1(6).

4 A consent for these purposes may be given subject to reasonable conditions, but such consent must not be unreasonably withheld: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 13 para 1(3); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 22 para 1(2).

5 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

6 The following are protected undertakings for these purposes: (see the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 13 para 1(5) (amended by the Coal Industry Act 1994 s 67(1), Sch 9 para 42; the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 127; SI 2001/1149; the Transport Act 2000 s 37, Sch 5 para 14; the Communications Act 2003 s 406(1), Sch 17 para 111; the Gas Act 1995 s 16(1), Sch 4 para 2(2)(m); the Utilities Act 2000 s 76(7); the Energy Act 2004 s 143(1) Sch 19 para 17); the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 22 para 1(4) (amended by the Coal Industry Act 1994 Sch 9 para 43(1); the Transport Act 2000 Sch 5 para 15; SI 2001/1149; the Communications Act 2003 Sch 17 para 114; the Gas Act 1995 s 16(1), Sch 4 para 2(2); the Utilities Act 2000 s 76(7); the Energy Act 2004 s 143(1), Sch 19 para 18)):

- 4 (1) the undertakings of the Civil Aviation Authority, the Coal Authority, a universal service provider (so far as it is the provider's undertaking in relation to the provision of a universal postal service) and, in relation to a relevant undertaker, the undertaking of the Environment Agency;
- 5 (2) the undertaking of any water undertaker or sewerage undertaker (ie of any 'relevant undertaker');
- 6 (3) any undertaking consisting in the provision of an electronic communications network;
- 7 (4) any airport to which the Airports Act 1986 Pt V (ss 57-62) (see AIR LAW vol 2 (2008) PARA 189) applies;
- 8 (5) the undertaking of any gas transporter within the meaning of the Gas Act 1986 Pt I (ss 4AA-48) (see FUEL AND ENERGY vol 19(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 805);
- 9 (6) the undertaking of any person authorised by a licence under the Electricity Act 1989 Pt I (ss 3A-64) (see FUEL AND ENERGY vol 19(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 1065) to generate, supply or participate in the transmission of electricity;
- 10 (7) the undertaking of any navigation, harbour or conservancy authority or of any internal drainage board;
- 11 (8) the undertaking of any railway undertakers or railway company;
- 12 (9) any public utility undertaking carried on by a local authority under any Act or under any order having the force of an Act;
- 13 (10) the undertaking of any licensed operator within the meaning of the Coal Industry Act 1994 (see MINES, MINERALS AND QUARRIES vol 31 (2003 Reissue) PARA 91 et seq);
- 14 (11) the undertaking of a person who holds a licence under the Transport Act 2000 Pt I Ch I (ss 1-40) (air traffic services: AIR LAW vol 2 (2008) PARA 139 et seq) to the extent that it is the person's undertaking as licence holder.

In head (1) above, 'universal service provider' has the same meaning as in the Postal Services Act 2000; and the reference to the provision of a universal postal service is to be construed in accordance with that Act (see POST OFFICE): Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 13 para 1(5A); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 22 para 1(4A) (both added by added by SI 2001/1149). Any reference, in relation to any such airport as is mentioned in head (4) above, to the persons carrying on the undertaking is a reference to the airport operator: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 13 para 1(6); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 22 para 1(5). As to the Civil Aviation Authority see AIR LAW vol 2 (2008) PARA 50. As to the Coal Authority see MINES, MINERALS AND QUARRIES vol 31 (2003 Reissue) PARA 52. As to the meaning of 'navigation authority' see PARA 189 note 1. As to the meaning of 'harbour authority' see PARA 189 note 2. As to the meaning of 'conservancy authority' see PARA 189 note 3. As to internal drainage boards see PARA 569 et seq. As to the meaning of 'railway undertakers' see PARA 466 note 8. As to the meaning of 'local authority' for the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 see PARA 118 note 17, and for the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991 see PARA 187 note 2. For the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 22, 'railway company' means the British Railways Board, Transport for London or any subsidiary of Transport for London, or any other person authorised by any enactment, or any order, rule or regulation made under any enactment, to construct, work or carry on a railway: Sch 22 para 6 (amended by SI 2003/1615). As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31. As to the abolition of the British Railways Board see RAILWAYS, INLAND WATERWAYS AND CROSS-COUNTRY PIPELINES vol 39(1A) (Reissue) PARAS 5, 44. Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/7. GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/ (5) INTERFERENCE WITH AND PROTECTION FOR WORKS AND UNDERTAKINGS/(ii) Protection for Particular Undertakings/491. Special protection for certain undertakings in respect of street works.

491. Special protection for certain undertakings in respect of street works.

The powers under the street works provisions<sup>1</sup> to break up or open a street are not exercisable where the street is not a highway maintainable at public expense<sup>2</sup> and it is under the control or management of, or is maintainable by, railway undertakers<sup>3</sup> or a railway company<sup>4</sup> or by a navigation authority<sup>5</sup>, or it forms part of a level crossing belonging to such undertakers or such a company, or to such an authority or to any other person<sup>6</sup>, except with the consent<sup>7</sup> of the undertakers or company, or of the navigation authority or, as the case may be, of the person to whom the level crossing belongs<sup>8</sup>. This restriction does not, however, apply to any exercise of those powers for the carrying out of emergency works<sup>9</sup>.

Any dispute as to whether a consent for these purposes should be given or withheld, or as to whether the conditions to which any such consent is made subject are reasonable, must be referred to the arbitration of a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the parties to the dispute or, in default of agreement, by the President of the Institution of Civil Engineers<sup>10</sup>.

If any relevant undertaker<sup>11</sup> or the Environment Agency<sup>12</sup> contravenes<sup>13</sup> these requirements for consent without reasonable excuse, it is guilty of an offence<sup>14</sup>.

Certain statutory provisions relating to the protection of tramways<sup>15</sup> apply in relation to any exercise of a power conferred by the street works provisions as they apply in relation to the powers mentioned in them and as if references therein to a tramway included references to a trolley vehicle system<sup>16</sup>.

1 'Street works provisions' means: (1) so much of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 158 (see PARA 462), s 161 (pollution control works: see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 329) and s 162 (metering works: see PARA 433) as relates to powers exercisable in relation to streets (Sch 13 para 3(7)); or (2) the Water Resources Act 1991 s 159 (see PARA 462) and s 162(2) (pollution control works: see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 329) (Sch 22 para 3(7)). ## (6) MINERAL RIGHTS

492. The mining codes.

The relations of relevant undertakers and of the Environment Agency with the owners, lessees and occupiers of mines and minerals<sup>1</sup> are governed by special statutory provisions sometimes referred to as the 'mining codes'<sup>2</sup>. These provisions are similar in policy to, and have much in common with, the provisions relating to other undertakings such as railways<sup>3</sup>, but differ considerably in detail<sup>4</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'minerals' see MINES, MINERALS AND QUARRIES vol 31 (2003 Reissue) PARA 12 et seq. See also Earl of Lonsdale v A-G [1982] 3 All ER 579, [1982] 1 WLR 887.

2 See the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14; the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23; and PARAS 493-498. In the case of compulsory acquisition of land by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991 or the Water Resources Act 1991 (see PARAS 453-454), the provisions of the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 or, as the case may be, the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23, have effect instead of the Acquisition of Land Act 1981 Sch 2 (see MINES, MINERALS AND QUARRIES vol 31 (2003 Reissue) PARA 137 et seq): see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 188; Water Resources Act 1991 s 182 (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128).

3 The code in relation to railways is the Railways Clauses Consolidation Act 1845 ss 77-85.

4 See MINES, MINERALS AND QUARRIES vol 31 (2003 Reissue) PARA 137 et seq. The provisions contained in the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 and the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 correspond to those of the Railways Clauses Consolidation Act 1845 ss 77, 81, 83.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/7. GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/(6) MINERAL RIGHTS/493. Acquisition of mineral rights.

493. Acquisition of mineral rights.

Where a relevant undertaker<sup>1</sup>, or, as the case may be, the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup>:

1140 (1) acquires any land<sup>3</sup>, whether compulsorily<sup>4</sup> in exercise of any statutory power<sup>5</sup> or otherwise<sup>6</sup>; and

1141 (2) carries out any works in relation to any land for the purposes of, or in connection with, the carrying out of any of its functions<sup>7</sup>, that undertaker or the Agency does not, by virtue only of its acquisition of the land or the carrying out of the works, become entitled to any mines or minerals<sup>8</sup> lying under the land<sup>9</sup>. Accordingly, any such mines or minerals are deemed to be excepted from any instrument by virtue of which the land vests in the relevant undertaker or, as the case may be, in the Agency, unless express provision to the contrary is contained either in the conveyance (where the land vests in the undertaker or Agency by virtue of a conveyance)<sup>10</sup>, or in the order authorising the compulsory acquisition (where the land is acquired in pursuance of any power of compulsory acquisition)<sup>11</sup>. A relevant undertaker or the Agency is, however, entitled to such parts of any mines or minerals that lie under the land as it may be necessary for it to dig, carry away or use in carrying out any works for the purposes of constructing, making, erecting or laying any part of its undertaking<sup>12</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8.

2 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the power of the Agency to join in or act on behalf of one or more relevant undertakers for the purpose of acquiring land or carrying out works see PARAS 453, 455 note 2.

3 As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21.

4 For the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 and the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23, land is treated as acquired by a relevant undertaker or, as the case may be, by the Agency in pursuance of powers of compulsory acquisition if: (1) it was so acquired by a water authority or any predecessor of such a water authority (or additionally, in the case of an undertaker, by a predecessor of a statutory water company); and (2) it is now vested in that undertaker or, as the case may be, in the Agency in accordance with a scheme under the Water Act 1989 Sch 2 (see PARA 108) or otherwise (or additionally, in the case of an undertaker, a scheme under the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 (see PARA 141)): Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 7(4); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 para 7(4) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). In relation to any land so treated as acquired in pursuance of powers of compulsory acquisition (or additionally, in relation to an undertaker, any land acquired by a statutory water company before 1 September 1989 in pursuance of any such powers), references in the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 and the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 to the order authorising the acquisition include references to any local statutory provision which immediately before 1 September 1989 had effect in relation to that land for the purposes of any provisions corresponding to the provisions of the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 or the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 7(5); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 para 7(5). As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meaning of 'statutory water company' see PARA 134 note 1. As to the meaning of 'local statutory provision' see PARA 14 note 24.

5 Ie any power conferred by or under the Water Industry Act 1991 or, as the case may be, the Water Resources Act 1991: see PARAS 453-454.

6 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 1(1)(a); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 para 1(1)(a) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128).

7 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 1(1)(b); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 para 1(1)(b) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). As to the meaning of 'functions' in relation to a relevant undertaker see PARA 133 note 5. As to the functions of the Environment Agency see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 72 et seq.

8 'Mines' means mines of coal, ironstone, slate or other minerals: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 7(1); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 para 7(1). As to the meaning of 'minerals' see PARA 492 note 1.

9 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 1(2); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 para 1(2) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128).

10 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 1(2)(a); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 para 1(2)(a) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). 'Conveyance' includes a mortgage, charge, lease, assent, vesting declaration, vesting instrument, disclaimer, release and every other assurance of property or of an interest in property by any instrument, except a will: see the Law of Property Act 1925 s 205(ii) (definition applied by the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 7(1); and by the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 para 7(1)).

11 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 1(2)(b); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 para 1(2)(b) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). The powers of compulsory acquisition referred to are those conferred by or under the Water Industry Act 1991 or the Water Resources Act 1991: see PARAS 453-454.

12 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 1(3); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 para 1(3) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). For the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 and the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23, the undertaking of a relevant undertaker or, as the case may be, of the Agency, is taken to consist of so much of any of the following as is for the time being vested in or held by that undertaker, or by the Agency, for the purposes of, or in connection with, the carrying out of any of its functions, ie: (1) any buildings, reservoirs, wells, boreholes or other structures; and (2) any pipes or other underground works particulars of which fall, or would fall, to be incorporated in any records kept under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 198 (see PARA 179) or s 199 (sewer maps: see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 1009) or, as the case may be, under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 195 (see PARA 179); Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 7(2); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 para 7(2) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). As to the meaning of 'pipe' see PARA 138 note 11.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/7. GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/(6) MINERAL RIGHTS/494. Requirement of notice to work underlying mines.

494. Requirement of notice to work underlying mines.

If the owner<sup>1</sup> of any mines or minerals underlying any part of the undertaking<sup>2</sup> of a relevant undertaker or, as the case may be, of the Environment Agency, proposes to work them<sup>3</sup>, he must serve notice<sup>4</sup> of his intention to do so on the undertaker or, as the case may be, on the Agency, at least 30 days before the commencement of working<sup>5</sup>. Upon receipt of the notice, the relevant undertaker or the Agency may cause the mines and minerals to be inspected by a person<sup>6</sup> designated by it for the purpose<sup>7</sup>; and where the relevant undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency:

- 1142 (1) considers that the working of the underlying mines or minerals is likely to damage any part of its undertaking<sup>8</sup>;
- 1143 (2) is willing to compensate the owner of the mines or minerals for the restriction imposed by virtue of these provisions<sup>9</sup>; and
- 1144 (3) serves notice to that effect on that owner before the end of the period of 30 days before the commencement of working<sup>10</sup>, the owner must not work the mines or minerals except to such extent as may be determined by the relevant undertaker or, as the case may be, by the Agency, and that undertaker or the Agency must so compensate the owner<sup>11</sup>. Any dispute as to the amount of any compensation so payable must be referred to and determined by the Lands Tribunal<sup>12</sup>.

If, before the end of the 30 day period mentioned above<sup>13</sup>, no notice has been served under head (3) above by the relevant undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency, the entitlement of the owner of the mines and minerals to work them is an entitlement to work them by proper methods and in the usual manner of working such mines or minerals in the district in question<sup>14</sup>. If any damage to the undertaking of a relevant undertaker or, as the case may be, of the Agency is caused by the working of any mines or minerals underlying any part of that undertaking otherwise than in an authorised manner<sup>15</sup>, the owner of the mines or minerals must forthwith repair the damage at his own expense<sup>16</sup>; and the relevant undertaker or the Agency may, without waiting for the owner to perform his duty, repair the damage and may recover the expenses reasonably incurred by it in doing so from the owner<sup>17</sup>.

1 'Owner', in relation to mines and minerals, includes a lessee or occupier: Water Industry Act 1991 s 188, Sch 14 para 7(1); Water Resources Act 1991 s 182, Sch 23 para 7(1). As to the meaning of 'mines' see PARA 493 note 8. As to the meaning of 'minerals' see PARA 492 note 1.

2 As to the meaning of 'undertaking' see PARA 493 note 12. 'Underlying', in relation to any part of the undertaking of a relevant undertaker or, as the case may be, of the Environment Agency, means lying under, or within the designated distance from, that part of that undertaking: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 7(1); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 para 7(1). 'Designated distance', in relation to any part of such undertaking, means 37 metres: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 7(1); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 para 7(1). Where, however: (1) any part of such an undertaking was constructed, made, erected or laid in pursuance of an order made under any enactment or is situated on land acquired by the relevant undertaker or, as the case may be, by the Agency in pursuance of any powers of compulsory acquisition; or (2) the order authorising the works or acquisition designates any distance for the purposes of any enactment relating to mines or minerals underlying that part of the undertaking, then for these purposes that distance is the designated distance in relation to that part of the undertaking, instead of the specified 37 metres: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 7(6); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 para 7(6) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8. As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31. As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21. As to when land is treated as compulsorily acquired for these purposes see PARA 493 note 4. 3 In the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 and the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 references to the working of any mines or minerals include references to the draining of mines and to the winning or getting of minerals: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 7(3); Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 23 para 7(3).

UPDATE

494 Requirement of notice to work underlying mines

TEXT AND NOTE 12--Reference to the Lands Tribunal is now to the Upper Tribunal: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 14 para 2(4), Sch 23 para 2(4) (amended by SI 2009/1307).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/7. GENERAL LAND AND WORKS POWERS/(6) MINERAL RIGHTS/495. Mining communications.

495. Mining communications.

If the working of any mines or minerals<sup>1</sup> is prevented by reason of the statutory provisions relating to mineral rights<sup>2</sup>, the owner<sup>3</sup> of the mines or minerals may cut and make such communication works<sup>4</sup> through the mines or minerals, or the strata in which they are situated, as are required for the ventilation, drainage and working of mines or minerals which are not underlying<sup>5</sup> any part of the undertaking<sup>6</sup> of the relevant undertaker<sup>7</sup> in question or, as the case may be, of the Environment Agency<sup>8</sup>. In a case where the part of the undertaking in question was constructed, made, erected or laid in pursuance of an order made under any enactment<sup>9</sup> or is situated on land<sup>10</sup> acquired by the relevant undertaker or, as the case may be, by the Agency in pursuance of any powers of compulsory acquisition<sup>11</sup>, and the order authorising the works or acquisition designates dimensions or sections for the communication works<sup>12</sup>, those works must not exceed those dimensions or fail to conform to those sections<sup>13</sup>; and in any other case they may not be more than 2.44 metres in height or 2.44 metres in width<sup>14</sup>.

Communication works cut or made under these provisions must not be cut or made on the land where the part of the undertaking is situated so as to cause damage to that part of the undertaking<sup>15</sup>. Where works carried out under these provisions by the owner of any mines or minerals cause loss or damage<sup>16</sup> to the owner<sup>17</sup> or occupier of land lying over the mines or minerals, the relevant undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency must pay full compensation to him for the loss or damage<sup>18</sup> unless he is also the owner of the mines<sup>19</sup>.

496. Compensation relating to severance.

Where mines or minerals<sup>1</sup> underlying<sup>2</sup> any part of the undertaking<sup>3</sup> of a relevant undertaker<sup>4</sup> or of the Environment Agency<sup>5</sup> are situated so as, on two or more sides of that land<sup>6</sup>, to extend beyond the land on which that part of the undertaking is situated, the relevant undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency must from time to time pay to the owner of the mines or minerals<sup>7</sup> any expenses and losses incurred by him in consequence of:

- 1145 (1) the severance by the undertaking of the land lying over the mines<sup>8</sup>;
- 1146 (2) the interruption of continuous working of the mines<sup>9</sup> in consequence of the statutory restrictions<sup>10</sup>;
- 1147 (3) the mines being so worked in accordance with restrictions imposed by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991 or the Water Resources Act 1991 or any order made thereunder<sup>11</sup>, and must pay for any minerals not purchased by the relevant undertaker or, as the case may be, by the Agency, which cannot be got or won by reason of the part of the undertaking in question being situated where it is or by reason of the requirement to avoid damage<sup>12</sup> to any part of that undertaking<sup>13</sup>.

Any dispute as to whether any sum should be paid under these provisions, or as to the amount payable, must be referred to the arbitration<sup>14</sup> of a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the parties or, in default of agreement, by the Secretary of State<sup>15</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>16</sup>.

497. Powers of entry.

Any person<sup>1</sup> designated in writing<sup>2</sup> for the purpose by a relevant undertaker<sup>3</sup> or, as the case may be, by the Environment Agency<sup>4</sup> may, for any of the specified purposes: (1) enter on any land<sup>5</sup> in which the mines or minerals<sup>6</sup> in question are, or are thought to be, being worked<sup>7</sup>, and which is in or near to the land where any part of the undertaking<sup>8</sup> of that undertaker or, as the case may be, of the Agency is situated<sup>9</sup>; (2) enter the mines and any works connected with them<sup>10</sup>. The purposes for which such entry may be made are:

- 1148 (a) carrying out any inspection<sup>11</sup> where the owner of underlying mines or minerals<sup>12</sup> has served notice of his intention to work them<sup>13</sup>;
- 1149 (b) ascertaining whether any mines or minerals have been worked so as to damage the undertaking of the relevant undertaker in question or, as the case may be, of the Agency<sup>14</sup>; and
- 1150 (c) carrying out any works and taking any other steps which the relevant undertaker in question or, as the case may be, the Agency is authorised to carry out or take<sup>15</sup> to repair damage caused by unauthorised working<sup>16</sup>.

A person so authorised to enter any premises may make use of any equipment belonging to the owner of the mines or minerals in question<sup>17</sup>; and may use all necessary means for discovering the distance from any part of the undertaking of the relevant undertaker or, as the case may be, of the Agency to the parts of the mines or the minerals which are being, or are about to be, worked<sup>18</sup>.

8. COAST PROTECTION

499. Duty of the Crown.

It is the royal duty of the Crown to preserve the realm from the inroads of the sea by appropriate defences; and every subject has a corresponding right, although the duty is a duty of imperfect obligation, since there is no process of law by which it may be enforced<sup>1</sup>. Statutory powers conferred on coast protection authorities<sup>2</sup> and the default powers of the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup>, and in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>4</sup> operate to ensure that sufficient measures are taken against encroachment by the sea<sup>5</sup>. Moreover, local legislation may have imposed express duties for the construction or maintenance of defences against incoming water<sup>6</sup>; and ministerial guidance has been issued requiring maritime local authorities and land drainage and flood defence bodies to prepare shoreline management plans<sup>7</sup>.

It seems that the Crown Proceedings Act 1947 s 1 has not altered the position, as a petition of right would not, it is thought, have lain before that Act. As to the powers and duties of drainage authorities (ie the Environment Agency or internal drainage boards) to maintain drainage works see PARA 589. Such a statutory duty to maintain a sea wall does not carry with it a duty to maintain an anciently dedicated highway along the top of the wall: see Hunwick v Essex Rivers Catchment Board [1952] 1 All ER 765. Nothing in the Coast Protection Act 1949 or the royal prerogative expressly or impliedly confers on a coast protection authority the right to obstruct or stop up a highway: LE Walwin & Partners Ltd v West Sussex County Council [1975] 3 All ER 604. A drainage authority will be held liable as occupier of sea defence works to a person injured by sea defence works which have not been properly maintained: Collier v Anglian Water Authority (1983) Times, 26 March, CA. Cf Hunwick v Essex Rivers Catchment Board above (duty to keep sea defence in repair extended only to restraint of sea water, not to usage as a highway). Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/8. COAST PROTECTION/(1) IN GENERAL/500. Duty and liability of persons owning, occupying or using land.

500. Duty and liability of persons owning, occupying or using land.

Since a person derives his title to his land from the Crown, he can only take it subject to the Crown's duties, and he may be restrained from using the land in contravention of the public right not to be deprived of a natural barrier against the sea<sup>1</sup>. The courts have jurisdiction to restrain a person from removing the natural barrier, and proceedings for this purpose may be brought at the instance of any other person whose land suffers special damage or would be exposed to the inroads of the sea<sup>2</sup>. Moreover, to make a gap in or a hole under an ancient sea wall with the object of letting sea water on to land behind the wall is an illegal act, since it prevents the wall operating as the Crown intended<sup>3</sup>.

The person who has thus succeeded to the Crown's duty is not bound to do actual work to protect his land, or to prevent his neighbour's land from being inundated, and at common law no duty of maintenance of sea barriers for the benefit of others is put on a frontager save by prescription<sup>4</sup>. Obligation to repair, or to contribute to the cost of repairing, sea walls can however arise by statute<sup>5</sup>, by charter<sup>6</sup>, by prescription<sup>7</sup> or by contract<sup>8</sup>. If any person proposes to carry out coast protection work<sup>9</sup>, other than work of maintenance or repair, the consent of the coast protection authority<sup>10</sup> is required before the work is done<sup>11</sup>.

If a person interferes with a sea wall he may be liable at common law in negligence for damage done by water overflowing the barrier if he does not take sufficient precautions<sup>12</sup>; and as regards the height of a barrier giving protection against tidal water, he should keep the barrier up to the height at which it has been maintained as a result of long experience, even though in recent years a lower height has in fact been sufficient to bar the tides<sup>13</sup>.

6 See Lyme Regis Corp v Henley (1834) 2 Cl & Fin 331, HL. This ground of liability might, perhaps, be regarded as an illustration of the maxim qui sentit commodum sentire debet et onus (he who obtains the benefit should assume the burden), for it was put on the ground that where the Crown, for the public benefit, has made a certain grant imposing public duties and that grant has been accepted, the public may enforce the performance of those duties by indictment, and individuals peculiarly injured may do so by civil proceedings: see Lyme Regis Corp v Henley above at 355.

7 See Hudson v Tabor (1877) 2 QBD 290, CA; Fobbing Sewers Comrs v R (1886) 11 App Cas 449, HL. This liability, for which a legal origin will be presumed where the liability has long been asserted and submitted to (London and North Western Ry Co v Fobbing Levels Sewers Comrs (1896) 66 LJQB 127, DC), has been held to extend to a mortgagor in possession by a tenant (R v Baker (1867) LR 2 QB 621), or a lessee (Griffin's Case (1564) Dal 71), and attaches to all parts of the land, thus passing when the unit of property is sold to several different purchasers (London and North Western Ry Co v Fobbing Levels Sewers Comrs above). The liability can extend to repairs of damage due to extraordinary tempest (R v Leigh (1839) 10 Ad & El 398), but when a sea wall has been kept in good repair against the flow of the sea, all persons interested, not merely the immediate frontager, must in general be taxed with the cost of its reparation when breached by a sudden and unusual increase of water (Keighley's Case (1609) 10 Co Rep 139a; R v Somerset Sewers Comrs (1799) 8 Term Rep 312; Fobbing Sewers Comrs v R above at 462 per Lord Watson). Whether a new wall should be erected or an old one repaired is a question of what is necessary to avoid the danger: Isle of Ely Case (1609) 10 Co Rep 141a. The common law obligation is subject to the Coast Protection Act 1949 (see eg s 15(1), (2); and PARA 546), which excludes the obligation to maintain works constructed under a works scheme or for the maintenance or repair of which provision is made by a scheme under s 13 (see PARA 529).

An extraordinary natural event does not cease to be an act of God merely because it has happened before; it is enough that it is extraordinary and such as could not reasonably be anticipated: Nitro-Phosphate and Odam's Chemical Manure Co v London and St Katharine Docks Co above at 515-516 per Fry J.

501. Common law rights of persons owning, occupying or using land.

At common law a person may<sup>1</sup> erect groynes or such other defences as are necessary for the protection of his land on the sea coast, even if such erections have the effect of rendering it necessary for his neighbour to do the same<sup>2</sup>; but in the case of non-tidal or navigable rivers he must not do any act in the trough or bed of the river which might injure another riparian proprietor, or interfere with navigation<sup>3</sup>. These principles, known as the 'common enemy rule'<sup>4</sup>, have recently been reaffirmed by the Court of Appeal<sup>5</sup>. The common enemy rule has been held to be inoffensive to the human rights legislation<sup>6</sup> because it strikes a proper balance between the competing interests of landowners<sup>7</sup>.

1 Coast protection may not, however, be carried out without the consent of the coast protection authority: see the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 16(1); and PARA 548.

It is not necessary for the complainant to prove that he has suffered damage or is likely to do so, but mere apprehension of damage is not sufficient ground for a claim if the act complained of is on the bank and not in the bed of the river: Bickett v Morris above. ## 502. The Coast Protection Act 1949.

The statute law relating to the protection of the coast of Great Britain<sup>1</sup> against erosion and encroachment by the sea is contained in the Coast Protection Act 1949<sup>2</sup>. The provisions of that Act are binding on the Crown and apply in relation to any Crown land<sup>3</sup> as they apply in relation to any other land<sup>4</sup>.

Nothing in the Coast Protection Act 1949 or in any order made under it:

- 1151 (1) affects the powers conferred on the Admiralty under the Dockyard Ports Regulation Act 1865<sup>5</sup>;
  - 1152 (2) affects any right conferred by or in accordance with the electronic communications code on the operator of an electronic communications code network<sup>6</sup> or any duty of any such operator under that code<sup>7</sup>;
  - 1153 (3) authorises or requires any person<sup>8</sup>:
- 60
- 11. (a) to carry out any work of alteration, improvement, repair, maintenance, demolition or removal on any works constructed or maintainable by the Environment Agency<sup>9</sup> or an internal drainage board<sup>10</sup>; or
  - 12. (b) to carry out any work on land on which the sowing or planting of vegetation is carried out or vegetation is maintained by such a body<sup>11</sup>,
- 61
- 1154 unless (in either case) that body consents or the work is to be done by, or under a scheme prepared by, a coast protection board<sup>12</sup> on which the body concerned is represented and is to be carried out in the area of that coast protection board<sup>13</sup>;
  - 1155 (4) authorises or requires any person to carry out any work or do anything in contravention of the legislation<sup>14</sup> relating to ancient monuments<sup>15</sup>.

Nothing in the Coast Protection Act 1949 expressly or impliedly authorises a coast protection authority<sup>16</sup> to obstruct or stop up a highway<sup>17</sup>.

There is a close relationship between the law relating to coast protection and that relating to flood defence, the latter being covered elsewhere in this title<sup>18</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'Great Britain' see PARA 22 note 5.

2 The law relating to coast protection is contained in the Coast Protection Act 1949 Pt I (ss 1-33), and in the supplementary provisions of Pt IV (ss 41-50): see the text to notes 3-15; and PARA 504 et seq. Seashore works detrimental to navigation are regulated by Pt II (ss 34-36A): see PARA 533 et seq. Part III (ss 37-40) (repealed) made certain arrangements for the management of Crown foreshore. Parts I, II do not extend to Northern Ireland: s 50(2).

3 'Crown land' means land an interest in which belongs to Her Majesty in right of the Crown or of the Duchy of Lancaster, or to the Duchy of Cornwall, or land an interest in which belongs to a government department or is held in trust for Her Majesty for the purposes of a government department: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 32(5). 'Land' includes land covered by water: s 49(1). As to the Crown see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 353; CROWN AND ROYAL FAMILY vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 1 et seq. ### 502 The Coast Protection Act 1949

TEXT AND NOTES 5, 7, 15--Coast Protection Act 1949 s 47(a), (b), (d) repealed: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Sch 22 Pt 2 (not yet in force).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/8. COAST PROTECTION/(1) IN GENERAL/503. Conservation of natural habitats.

503. Conservation of natural habitats.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> and the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> must exercise their functions<sup>3</sup> relating to nature conservation so as to secure compliance with the requirements of the Habitats Directive<sup>4</sup> and the Wild Birds Directive<sup>5</sup>; and they and every other competent authority<sup>6</sup> in the exercise of any of their functions, must have regard to the requirements of these Directives so far as they may be affected by the exercise of those functions<sup>7</sup>. In relation to marine areas<sup>8</sup> any competent authority having functions relevant to marine conservation must exercise those functions so as to secure compliance with the requirements of the Directives<sup>9</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Conservation (Natural Habitats etc) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/2716 (with certain exceptions not relevant to this title), so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

3 As to the meaning of 'functions' see PARA 679 note 7.

4 Ie EC Council Directive 92/43 (OJ L206, 22.7.92, p 7) of 21 May 1992 on the conservation of natural habitats and of wild fauna and flora.

5 See the Conservation (Natural Habitats etc) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/2716, reg 3(2); and PARA 679. The Wild Birds Directive is EC Council Directive 79/409 (OJ L103, 25.4.1979, p 1) on the conservation of wild birds.

6 A coast protection authority is a competent authority. As to the meaning of 'competent authority' see PARA 679 note 15.

7 See the Conservation (Natural Habitats etc) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/2716, reg 3(4); and PARA 679.

8 As to the meaning of 'marine area' see PARA 679 note 11.

9 See the Conservation (Natural Habitats etc) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/2716, reg 3(3); and PARA 679.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/8. COAST PROTECTION/(1) IN GENERAL/504. Repeal or amendment of local Acts.

504. Repeal or amendment of local Acts.

If it appears to the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup>, or in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup>, that any provision of a local Act<sup>3</sup> in force on 24 November 1949<sup>4</sup> is inconsistent with any of the provisions of Part I of the Coast Protection Act 1949<sup>5</sup>, or is no longer required, or requires to be amended<sup>6</sup>, the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may by order<sup>7</sup> repeal or amend the local Act provision as they may consider appropriate; and the order may contain such incidental, consequential or supplemental provisions as appear to the Secretary of State or to the Welsh Ministers expedient for its purposes<sup>8</sup>.

1 The Coast Protection Act 1949 refers to 'the minister' defined as the Minister of Health: see s 49(1). These functions are now vested in the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs: see the Transfer of Functions (Minister of Health and Minister of Local Government and Planning) (No 1) Order 1951, SI 1951/142; Minister of Local Government and Planning (Change of Style and Title) Order 1951, SI 1951/1900; Secretary of State for Wales and Minister of Land and Natural Resources Order 1965, SI 1965/319; Secretary of State for the Environment Order 1970, SI 1970/1681; Transfer of Functions (Secretary of State and Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food) Order 1985, SI 1985/442; Secretaries of State for Transport, Local Government and the Regions and for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs Order 2001, SI 2001/2568. As to the Secretary of State generally see PARA 15 note 1.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 31, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

3 'Local Act' includes a provisional order confirmed by Parliament and any enactment in a public general Act, being an enactment which amends a local Act: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 49(1). As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31.

4 Ie the date of commencement of the Coast Protection Act 1949.

5 Ie the Coast Protection Act 1949 Pt I (ss 1-33).

6 Ie having regard to the powers and duties conferred and imposed by the Coast Protection Act 1949 Pt I.

7 The power to make such orders is exercisable by statutory instrument: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 31(4). Such an order is to be made in accordance with Sch 1 (see PARA 505) (see s 31(2)); and such orders, if made in relation to England, are now subject to special parliamentary procedure in cases of objection (see s 31(3)). At the date at which this title states the law, no such order had been made. As to special parliamentary procedure see PARLIAMENT vol 34 (Reissue) PARA 912 et seq. As to the bringing of subordinate legislation made by the Welsh Ministers before the National Assembly for Wales see the Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 paras 33-35; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

8 See the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 31(1).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/8. COAST PROTECTION/(1) IN GENERAL/505. Regulations and orders.

505. Regulations and orders.

Any power conferred<sup>1</sup> on the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup>, or in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup> to make regulations is exercisable by statutory instrument<sup>4</sup>.

Any power conferred on the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, or on ministers or on a coast protection authority<sup>5</sup> to make an order or give any directions includes a power exercisable in like manner, and subject to the like conditions, to revoke or vary the order or directions<sup>6</sup>.

Orders providing for the constitution of coast protection boards<sup>7</sup> and orders repealing or amending local Acts<sup>8</sup> must be made in accordance with the statutory procedure<sup>9</sup>. Certain of those orders<sup>10</sup> are subject to special parliamentary procedure<sup>11</sup>.

Orders not confirmed by Parliament must be publicised<sup>12</sup> and provision is made for questioning their validity<sup>13</sup>.

1    Ie by the Coast Protection Act 1949.

2    As to the Secretary of State in relation to the Coast Protection Act 1949 see PARA 504 note 1.

3    Most of the functions of the Secretary of State under the Coast Protection Act 1949 (including those under Sch 1 (see notes 9-13) in so far as they were conferred on 'the minister' (see PARA 504 note 1) but not on any other Minister of the Crown) so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. Where functions are so transferred this is noted in the paragraphs concerned. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

4    Coast Protection Act 1949 s 44(1). Every such instrument made by the Secretary of State is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 44(1). As to the annulment of statutory instruments see STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1516. As to the bringing of subordinate legislation made by the Welsh Ministers before the National Assembly for Wales see the Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 paras 33-35; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

5    As to the meaning of 'coast protection authority' see PARA 508.

6    Coast Protection Act 1949 s 44(2).

7    Ie an order under the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 2 (see PARA 510): see s 2(7).

8    Ie an order under the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 31 (see PARA 504): see s 31(2).

9    The statutory procedure is that set out in the Coast Protection Act 1949 Sch 1. Before making any such order, the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers and, where appropriate, the ministers concerned (ie where an order is required to be made jointly: see s 2(7) (see PARA 510), s 31(2) (see PARA 504) and Sch 1 para 3), must prepare a draft, and publish notice in the London Gazette and in such other manner as they think best adapted for informing persons affected of their intention to make the order, of the place where copies of the draft may be inspected and of the time (which must be not less than 28 days) within which and the manner in which objections to the draft may be made: Sch 1 para 1. Notice of these matters must also be served on (1) the council of every county, county borough, or county district of the area affected by the order; (2) the Environment Agency and on any sea defence commissioners, coast protection board, internal drainage board, harbour authority, local fisheries committee, conservancy authority or navigation authority known to be exercising jurisdiction in that area; (3) any local authority known to be responsible for the maintenance of any highway in that area; and (4) if that area contains any railway, canal or inland navigation formerly vested in the British Railways Board or vested in the British Waterways Board, on the appropriate body: see Sch 1 para 1(a)-(d) (amended by the Local Government Act 1972 s 272(1), Sch 30; the Water Act 1989 s 190(1), Sch 25 para 11(8); the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 22(5), Sch 11 para 5(7); SI 1996/593; and by virtue of the Transport Act 1962 ss 31(1), 32(1), Sch 2 Pt I). As to the responsibility of local authorities for the maintenance of highways see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARAS 56-62, 64-69. As to the abolition of the British Railways Board see RAILWAYS, INLAND WATERWAYS AND CROSS-COUNTRY PIPELINES vol 39(1A) (Reissue) PARAS 5, 44. As to the British Waterways Board see PARA 725 et seq.

'The ministers concerned' has the same meaning as in the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 2(8) (see PARA 510 note 7): Sch 1 para 4. 'The area affected by the order' means: (a) if the order provides for the constitution of a coast protection board, the area for which it will be the coast protection authority; (b) if the order varies the constitution of such a board but does not alter the area for which it is the coast protection authority, that area; (c) if the order alters the board's area, that area and any other area proposed by the order to be included in the board's area; and (d) if the order repeals or amends any provision of a local Act, any area in relation to which any power or duty conferred or imposed by that provision is exercisable: Sch 1 para 4(a)-(d). Before making the order the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, and, where appropriate, the ministers concerned must consider objections duly made to the draft, and may cause a local inquiry to be held: Sch 1 para 2. As to local inquiries see PARA 506.

As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the service of documents see PARA 22. As to local government areas and authorities in England and Wales see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 22 et seq. As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to coast protection boards see PARA 508. As to the meaning of 'local Act' see PARA 504 note 3. 'Sea defence commissioners' means a body established by or under a local Act wholly or mainly for the purpose of carrying out coast protection work: s 49(1). 'Local fisheries committee' means a committee established under the Sea Fisheries Regulation Act 1966 ss 1, 2 (see AGRICULTURE AND FISHERIES vol 1(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 964): Coast Protection Act 1949 s 49(1); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(a).

'Conservancy authority' includes all persons entrusted with the function of conserving, maintaining or improving the navigation of a tidal water (a tidal water being any part of the sea and any part of a river within the ebb and flow of the tide at ordinary spring tides, and not being a harbour): Merchant Shipping Act 1995 ss 255(1), 313(1); definition applied by the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 49(1). 'Harbour authority' means, in relation to a harbour, the person who is the statutory harbour authority for the harbour, or if there is no statutory harbour authority for the harbour, the person (if any) who is the proprietor of the harbour or who is entrusted with the function of managing, maintaining or improving the harbour; 'harbour' includes estuaries, navigable rivers, piers, jetties and other works in or at which ships can obtain shelter or ship and unship goods or passengers; and 'statutory harbour authority' means a harbour authority within the meaning of the Harbours Act 1964 (see PORTS AND HARBOURS vol 36(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 619): Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 313(1); definition applied by the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 49(1). 'Navigation authority' means any person or body of persons having powers under any enactment or statutory order to work or maintain a canal or other inland navigation, including a navigation in tidal water: s 49(1). As to internal drainage boards see PARA 569 et seq. As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31.

'Coast protection work' means any work of construction, alteration, improvement, repair, maintenance, demolition or removal for the purpose of the protection of any land, and includes the sowing or planting of vegetation for that purpose: s 49(1). As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 502 note 3. 'Protection' means protection against erosion or encroachment by the sea: s 49(1). 'Sea' includes the waters of any channel, creek, bay or estuary and of any river so far up that river as the tide flows; and 'seashore' means the bed and shore of the sea, and of every channel, creek, bay or estuary, and of every river as far up that river as the tide flows, and any cliff, bank, barrier, dune, beach, flat or other land adjacent to the shore; except that (i) for the purposes of Pt II (ss 34-36A) (see PARA 533 et seq) the expression 'sea' includes any part of the sea within the seaward limits of the territorial sea of the United Kingdom, and the expression 'seashore' must be construed accordingly; (ii) for the purposes of Pt I (ss 1-33) the expression 'sea' does not include any of the specified waters and the expression 'seashore' does not include the bed or shore of any of those waters: s 49(1), (2), (2A) (definitions in s 49(1) amended, s 49(2A) added, by the Merchant Shipping Act 1988 s 36). As to the specified waters see the Coast Protection Act 1949 Sch 4 (amended by SI 1958/2146; SI 1965/204; SI 1975/1365; SI 1983/1203; SI 1983/1503; SI 1992/1549; SI 1993/1149; SI 1997/2675; SI 2003/1915). As to territorial waters see PARA 31. As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 22 note 5.

10     le an order under the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 2 (see PARA 510) in the circumstances mentioned in note 11 (s 2(7)(a)); and an order under s 31 (see PARA 504) unless the order relates only to the constitution or functions of sea defence commissioners, or provides for their dissolution, and is made on their application or on the application of a coast protection authority with their concurrence (s 31(2) proviso).

11     See the Coast Protection Act 1949 Sch 1 para 5. After the order has been made the Secretary of State must give notice of it and of its effect to each of the bodies entitled to notice of the draft order which has objected to the draft and not withdrawn its objection: Sch 1 para 5. In such a case the order does not have effect before the expiration of 28 days from the date of the notice, and if within that period any such body gives to the Secretary of State notice of objection to the order the order is subject to special parliamentary procedure (see PARLIAMENT vol 34 (Reissue) PARA 912 et seq): Sch 1 para 5.

12     After making the order the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers and, where appropriate, the ministers concerned must publish notice in the London Gazette and in such other manner as they think best adapted for informing persons affected that the order has been made, naming a place where a copy may be seen: Coast Protection Act 1949 Sch 1 para 6. This applies not only to orders under s 2 (see PARA 510) (s 2(7)(b)) and s 31 (see PARA 504) (s 31(2)), but also to orders under s 8(5) (confirmation of works schemes: see PARA 525) (s 8(7)), unless a direction is given that different provisions are to apply (see s 8(7) proviso). In the case of an order subject to special parliamentary procedure, the notice must not be published until the expiration of the 28-day period referred to in note 11, and the notice must state whether or not the order is subject to that procedure: Sch 1 para 6 proviso.

13 If any person aggrieved by the order desires to question its validity on the grounds that it is not within the powers of the Coast Protection Act 1949 or that any requirement of that Act has not been complied with he may within six weeks of the first publication of the notice (see note 12) apply to the High Court, and if it is satisfied that the order is not within the statutory powers or that the applicant's interests have been substantially prejudiced by any statutory requirement not having been complied with, the court may quash the order either generally or so far as it affects the applicant: Sch 1 para 7. However, this does not apply to an order which is confirmed by Act of Parliament under the Statutory Orders (Special Procedure) Act 1945 s 6 (see PARLIAMENT vol 34 (Reissue) PARAS 925-926); and has effect in relation to any other order which is subject to special parliamentary procedure as if for the reference to the date of the publication of the notice there were substituted a reference to the date on which the order becomes operative: Coast Protection Act 1949 Sch 1 para 7 proviso. No order subject to the procedure set out above may otherwise be questioned: Sch 1 para 7. As to judicial review in such circumstances see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 655.

UPDATE

505 Regulations and orders

NOTE 9--Coast Protection Act 1949 Sch 1 para 1(b) further amended: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Sch 14 para 5 (not yet in force).

Coast Protection Act 1949 Sch 1 para 1(b) repealed in part; and definition of 'local fisheries committee' in Coast Protection Act 1949 s 49(1) repealed: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Sch 22 Pt 4 (in force in relation to Wales: SI 2010/630).

Definitions of 'sea' and 'seashore' in Coast Protection Act 1949 s 49(1) further amended: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Sch 8 para 1(3) (not yet in force).

Coast Protection Act 1949 s 49(2A) repealed: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Sch 22 Pt 2 (not yet in force).

506. Local inquiries.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup>, or in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup>, or the Secretary of State for Transport<sup>3</sup> may cause a local inquiry to be held in any case where it appears to them advisable to do so in connection with any matter arising under the Coast Protection Act 1949<sup>4</sup>. Notice of any such inquiry must be given in such manner as the Secretary of State concerned or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may direct, and all persons<sup>5</sup> interested are permitted to attend, and to be heard at, the inquiry<sup>6</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State in relation to the Coast Protection Act 1949 see PARA 504 note 1.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State, but not those of the Secretary of State for Transport, under the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 46, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

3 The Coast Protection Act 1949 refers to the 'Minister of Transport'. As to the transfer of the functions of the Minister of Transport to the Secretary of State for Transport see the Secretary of State for the Environment Order 1970, SI 1970/1681; the Secretary of State for Transport Order 1976, SI 1976/1775; the Minister of Transport Order 1979, SI 1979/571; the Transfer of Functions (Transport) Order 1981, SI 1981/238; the Secretary of State for the Environment, Transport and the Regions Order 1997, SI 1997/2971. As to the Secretary of State for Transport see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 509.

4 Coast Protection Act 1949 s 46(1). The Local Government Act 1972 s 250(2)-(5) (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 105) applies to all such inquiries; but s 250(4), which requires the Secretary of State's or Welsh Ministers' costs to be defrayed by the parties, does not apply unless so directed by the one of those at whose instance the inquiry is held: see Coast Protection Act 1949 s 46(3).

507. Default powers.

If complaint is made to the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup>, or in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> that a coast protection authority<sup>3</sup> has failed to take sufficient measures for the protection<sup>4</sup> of any land<sup>5</sup> in its area, or the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers is of the opinion that an investigation should be made into the need for any such measures or the sufficiency of any measures so taken, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may cause a local inquiry to be held into the matter<sup>6</sup>. Where the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers is satisfied, after an inquiry has been held, that there has been such a failure on the part of an authority, he or they may make an order<sup>7</sup> declaring the authority to be in default and directing it to exercise such of its powers as may be specified in the order in such a manner and within such time as may be so specified<sup>8</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State in relation to the Coast Protection Act 1949 see PARA 504 note 1.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 29, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

(2) COAST PROTECTION AUTHORITIES

(i) Constitution

508. Establishment of authorities.

Where it appears to the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup>, or in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> expedient for the protection<sup>3</sup> of land<sup>4</sup> in any area, he or they may make an order<sup>5</sup> providing for the constitution of a board, known as a coast protection board, to be the coast protection authority for that area<sup>6</sup>. Subject to the provisions of any such order, the council of each maritime district<sup>7</sup> is the coast protection authority for its district<sup>8</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State in relation to the Coast Protection Act 1949 see PARA 504 note 1.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State (as 'the minister': see PARA 504 note 1) under the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 2, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

3 As to the meaning of 'protection' see PARA 505 note 9.

4 As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 502 note 3.

5 The power to make such an order is exercisable by statutory instrument: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 2(9). Any such order must be made in accordance with Sch 1 (see PARA 505): see s 2(7). As to such orders see further PARAS 509-511. Such orders, being local in nature, are not recorded in this work.

6 Coast Protection Act 1949 s 2(1). As to representation on coast protection boards see PARA 509.

7 'Maritime district' means a district or Welsh county or county borough any part of which adjoins the sea: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 49(1) (definition amended by the Local Government Act 1972 s 272, Sch 30; Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 22(5), Sch 11 para 5(6)). As to local government areas and authorities in England and Wales see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 22 et seq. As to the meaning of 'sea' see PARA 505 note 9.

509. Representation on coast protection boards.

A coast protection board<sup>1</sup> consists of representatives of the council of every maritime district<sup>2</sup> any part of which is within the area for which the board is constituted, and, if the order<sup>3</sup> so provides, of representatives of such one or more as may be specified in the order of the following bodies and persons<sup>4</sup>:

- 1156 (1) the council of any county, other than one in Wales, any part of which is within the area<sup>5</sup>;
- 1157 (2) the Environment Agency<sup>6</sup> and any sea defence commissioners<sup>7</sup>, internal drainage board<sup>8</sup>, harbour authority, local fisheries committee, conservancy authority or navigation authority<sup>9</sup> having any powers or duties in relation to any part of the area<sup>10</sup>;
- 1158 (3) any authority responsible for the maintenance of any highway within the area if the highway is likely to be injuriously affected by the action of the sea<sup>11</sup>;
- 1159 (4) in the case of any area containing any railway, canal or inland navigation vested in the successor to the British Railways Board, or vested in the British Waterways Board, the appropriate body if likely to be injuriously affected by the action of the sea<sup>12</sup>; and
- 1160 (5) any other body or person having powers or duties relating to the protection<sup>13</sup> of land<sup>14</sup> in the area conferred or imposed by or under any enactment<sup>15</sup> other than the Coast Protection Act 1949<sup>16</sup>.

510. Orders constituting coast protection boards.

If it appears expedient to the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup>, or in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup>, an order which provides for the constitution of a coast protection board<sup>3</sup> may be made so as to relate only to such functions<sup>4</sup> under the Coast Protection Act 1949 as may be specified in the order, or to the exercise of such functions only in such particular case as may be so specified<sup>5</sup>.

An order which provides for the inclusion in a coast protection board of representatives of a specified body<sup>6</sup> must be made jointly by the ministers concerned<sup>7</sup>.

An order revoking an order constituting a board may contain such provisions for the dissolution of the board constituted by the order revoked, and for the disposal of its property, rights and liabilities, as appear expedient to the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers or, as the case may be, the ministers concerned<sup>8</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State in relation to the Coast Protection Act 1949 see PARA 504 note 1.

2 The functions under the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 2 of the Secretary of State (as 'the minister': see PARA 504 note 1), but not the functions of any other Minister of the Crown (which includes the Treasury), so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. ### 511. Contents of order.

An order providing for the constitution of a coast protection board<sup>1</sup> may:

- 1161 (1) prescribe the representation of the constituent authorities<sup>2</sup> on the board and make provision with respect to the appointment, tenure of office and vacation of office of the board's members, officers and servants, authorise the remuneration of such officers and servants, and make provision with respect to their pension rights<sup>3</sup>;
- 1162 (2) provide for the incorporation of the board with power to hold land<sup>4</sup> for the purposes of its powers and duties<sup>5</sup>;
- 1163 (3) authorise the board to defray or contribute to expenses of carrying out coast protection work<sup>6</sup> or of contributing to the cost of such work, being expenses incurred by any of the constituent authorities before the making of the order<sup>7</sup>;
- 1164 (4) make provision for the raising, by borrowing or otherwise, of any money required by the board for the purposes of its functions<sup>8</sup> and, in particular, provide for the apportionment among the constituent authorities of any expenses of the board, empower the board to issue precepts to them requiring payment of the amounts apportioned to them respectively and provide for the enforcement of such precepts<sup>9</sup>;
- 1165 (5) contain any incidental or consequential provisions which appear to the Secretary of State<sup>10</sup>, or in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>11</sup>, or the ministers concerned<sup>12</sup>, to be necessary or expedient for the purposes of the order, including provisions as to the manner in which the expenses of a constituent authority under head (4) above are to be defrayed and provisions applying to the board any enactment<sup>13</sup> which applies to a coast protection authority<sup>14</sup>, not being a coast protection board, by reason that it is a local authority for the purposes of that enactment<sup>15</sup>.

An order constituting or dissolving a coast protection board<sup>16</sup> must make such provision, if any, as the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers may require regarding the transfer, compensation and pension rights of officers and servants of the authorities concerned<sup>17</sup>.

(ii) General Powers of Coast Protection Authorities

512. In general.

A coast protection authority<sup>1</sup> has such powers and may perform such duties in connection with the protection<sup>2</sup> of land<sup>3</sup> in its area as are conferred or imposed on coast protection authorities by the Coast Protection Act 1949<sup>4</sup>.

A coast protection authority has power to carry out such coast protection work<sup>5</sup>, whether within or outside its area, as may appear to it to be necessary or expedient for the protection of any land in its area<sup>6</sup>. A coast protection authority may enter into an agreement with any other person<sup>7</sup> for the carrying out by either party, on such terms as to payment or otherwise as may be specified in the agreement, of any coast protection work which the authority has power to carry out<sup>8</sup>, and may acquire land<sup>9</sup>. However, these provisions have effect only for the purpose of removing any limitation imposed by law on the capacity of an authority by virtue of its constitution, and do not authorise any act or omission on the part of an authority which otherwise is actionable at the suit of any person on any ground other than such a limitation<sup>10</sup>.

513. Sale of materials.

A coast protection authority<sup>1</sup> may sell any materials<sup>2</sup> which have been severed by it from any land<sup>3</sup> when carrying out work in the exercise of the powers conferred on it<sup>4</sup> as a coast protection authority if the materials are not claimed by the person<sup>5</sup> to whom they belong within 14 days from the date of severance<sup>6</sup>. Where a coast protection authority sells any such materials, it must pay the proceeds to the person to whom the materials belonged<sup>7</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'coast protection authority' see PARA 508.

2 'Materials' includes minerals and turf, but does not include seaweed: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 49(1). 'Minerals' includes coal and stone and any metallic or other mineral substance: s 49(1).

514. Powers of entry and inspection.

Any person<sup>1</sup> authorised by a coast protection authority<sup>2</sup> has, on producing, if so required, some duly authenticated document showing his authority, a right at all reasonable hours:

- 1166 (1) to enter upon any land<sup>3</sup> on which the authority is empowered<sup>4</sup> to carry out work<sup>5</sup>;
- 1167 (2) to enter upon any land to which entry is reasonably necessary in order to obtain access to any such land as is mentioned in head (1) above<sup>6</sup>;
- 1168 (3) to enter upon, inspect or survey any land for the purpose of determining whether, and if so in what manner, any functions of the authority<sup>7</sup> are to be exercised, or whether any provision of any enactment<sup>8</sup> relating to such functions or any notice, order, direction or byelaw served, given or made under any such enactment is being or has been complied with<sup>9</sup>; and
- 1169 (4) without prejudice to the generality of head (3) above, to enter upon any land in order to estimate the amount of any compensation<sup>10</sup> or the value of any interest in the land<sup>11</sup>.

Admission to any land used for residential purposes must not, however, be demanded as of right unless 24 hours' notice of the intended entry has been given to the occupier<sup>12</sup>. Any person entitled to enter upon any land by virtue of these rights of entry may take with him such other persons as may be necessary, and on leaving any unoccupied land which he has entered must leave it as effectually secured as he found it<sup>13</sup>.

Except with the consent of the appropriate authority<sup>14</sup>, these provisions do not authorise any person to enter upon any Crown land<sup>15</sup>.

515. Refusal or obstruction of entry.

If it is shown to the satisfaction of a justice of the peace<sup>1</sup>, on sworn information in writing<sup>2</sup>:

1170 (1) that admission to any land<sup>3</sup> which any person<sup>4</sup> is entitled to enter<sup>5</sup> has either been refused to that person, or that refusal is apprehended, or that the land is unoccupied or that the occupier is temporarily absent, or that the case is one of urgency<sup>6</sup>; and

1171 (2) that there is reasonable ground for entry on the land for the purpose for which entry is required<sup>7</sup>, the justice may by warrant under his hand authorise that person to enter on the land, if need be by force<sup>8</sup>. A warrant must not, however, be issued unless the justice is satisfied that notice of the intention to apply for a warrant has been given to the occupier, or that the land is unoccupied, or that the occupier is temporarily absent, or that the case is one of urgency<sup>9</sup>. Every such warrant when granted continues in force until the purpose for which the entry is necessary has been satisfied<sup>10</sup>.

Any person who wilfully obstructs a person exercising a right of entry<sup>11</sup> is guilty of an offence<sup>12</sup>.

4 Coast Protection Act 1949 s 25(9). The penalty for an offence under s 25(9) is, on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale or imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months: s 25(9) (amended by virtue of the Criminal Justice Act 1982 ss 38, 46). As from a day to be appointed the reference to 'imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months' is repealed: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 25(9) (prospectively amended by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 332, Sch 37 Pt 9). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. As to the standard scale see PARA 141 note 18.

COAST PROTECTION/(2) COAST PROTECTION AUTHORITIES/(ii) General Powers of Coast Protection Authorities/517. Assistance by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers.

517. Assistance by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers.

Where a coast protection authority<sup>1</sup> desires to carry out any coast protection work<sup>2</sup> on land<sup>3</sup> belonging to it and the work is work which it is empowered to carry out under its general powers<sup>4</sup> but is prevented from doing so by reason of any covenant or other restriction affecting its enjoyment of the land, it may apply to the Secretary of State<sup>5</sup> or in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>6</sup> for an order authorising it to carry out the work<sup>7</sup>. The application must contain particulars of the proposed work and of any land required to be entered or across which the rights in question are required to be exercised, and such further particulars as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may in any particular case require; and the authority must serve notice<sup>8</sup> of the application on any person known to it to be entitled to enforce the covenant or restriction<sup>9</sup>.

Any person on whom notice of an application is served may, within four weeks after the service of that notice, serve notice of objection on the authority and the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers; and where such notice is served and not withdrawn, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must give the objector and the authority an opportunity of being heard by a person appointed for the purpose<sup>10</sup>. At any time after the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers is satisfied that the time for serving notice of objection has expired and that every objector has had an opportunity of being heard, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may, after considering the report of any person appointed to hear objections, make an order authorising the authority to carry out the work or enter on the land or exercise the rights, as the case may be, subject to any conditions which the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may specify in the order<sup>11</sup>. The order may require the authority to pay to any person affected such compensation as may be provided for in the order<sup>12</sup>.

(iii) Land

518. Information as to ownership of land.

For the purpose of performing any of its functions<sup>1</sup>, a coast protection authority<sup>2</sup> may require the occupier of any land<sup>3</sup>, and any person<sup>4</sup> who either directly or indirectly receives rent in respect of any land, to state in writing<sup>5</sup> the nature of his own interest in it and the name and address of any other person known to him as having an interest in it, whether as freeholder, mortgagee<sup>6</sup>, owner<sup>7</sup>, lessee or otherwise<sup>8</sup>. Any person failing to give any information so required, or knowingly making any misstatement in respect of it, is guilty of an offence<sup>9</sup>.

6 'Mortgage' includes any charge or lien for securing money or money's worth, and 'mortgagee' is to be construed accordingly: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 49(1).

7 'Owner' in relation to any land means the person for the time being receiving the rackrent of it, whether on his own account or as agent or trustee for any other person, or who would so receive that rent if the land were let at a rackrent: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 49(1).

8 Coast Protection Act 1949 s 26(1).

519. Acquisition of land.

A coast protection authority<sup>1</sup> may acquire, whether by purchase, lease or exchange, any land<sup>2</sup>, whether within or outside its area: (1) which it requires for the purpose of carrying out on it any coast protection work<sup>3</sup> which it has power<sup>4</sup> to carry out<sup>5</sup>; or (2) for the protection<sup>6</sup> of which the authority proposes to carry out such work, not being work of maintenance or repair<sup>7</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>8</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>9</sup> may authorise a coast protection authority to acquire compulsorily any land which it is thus authorised to acquire by agreement<sup>10</sup>. However, no interest in Crown land<sup>11</sup> may be acquired compulsorily except with the consent of the appropriate authority<sup>12</sup>.

These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

10 Coast Protection Act 1949 s 14(1). The Acquisition of Land Act 1981 (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 556 et seq) applies in relation to any such compulsory purchase: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 14(1) (amended by the Acquisition of Land Act 1981 s 34(1), (3), Sch 4 paras 1, 7(1), Sch 6 Pt I). Land mentioned in head (2) in the text may be compulsorily acquired only if it appears that its value immediately after the completion of the work will be greater than it would be if the work had not been carried out, and in estimating its value at that time it is to be assumed, as respects the works proposed to be constructed, altered or improved, that they will in future be maintained without expense to any person entitled to an interest in the land: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 14(1) proviso. Any dispute arising under this provision is to be determined by arbitration on the application of any person concerned; and this requirement is deemed to be a requirement of the Acquisition of Land Act 1981 for the purposes of s 23(3) (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 612): Coast Protection Act 1949 s 14(2) (amended by the Acquisition of Land Act 1981 Sch 4 para 7(1)). ## 520. Acquisition of rights of passage.

Where, for providing convenient access to land<sup>1</sup> on which any coast protection work<sup>2</sup> has been or is proposed to be carried out, it appears to a coast protection authority<sup>3</sup> necessary to obtain a right of passage<sup>4</sup> over other land, the authority may, by agreement or compulsorily, secure the creation of such a right in its favour either in perpetuity or for such term (whether fixed or determinable by notice) as it considers requisite<sup>5</sup>. The authority may also acquire by agreement, whether by way of purchase, lease or exchange, any land it requires for providing convenient access to land on which any coast protection work has been or is proposed to be carried out, or may purchase compulsorily<sup>6</sup> any land so required<sup>7</sup>.

2 As to the meaning of 'coast protection work' see PARA 505 note 9.

3 As to the meaning of 'coast protection authority' see PARA 508.

4 'Right of passage' means a right of passage for persons, vehicles, plant and materials, and includes a right to carry out work for facilitating their passage: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 27(2). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the meaning of 'materials' see PARA 513 note 2.

5 Coast Protection Act 1949 s 27(1). The provisions of the Lands Clauses Acts as to the acquisition of land by agreement or compulsorily, the provisions of the Lands Tribunal Act 1949, the Land Compensation Act 1961 and the Acquisition of Land Act 1981 and the provisions of the Coast Protection Act 1949 relating to the acquisition of land apply, with such adaptations, exceptions and modifications as may be prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers, to securing the creation of such rights of passage as those provisions apply to the acquisition of land: s 27(3) (amended by the Acquisition of Land Act 1981 s 34(1), Sch 4 para 1). Without prejudice to the generality of the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 27(3), regulations so made may provide: (1) in the case of rights created for a term, for the payment of compensation either in one sum periodically, or partly in one way and partly in the other; (2) for authorising or requiring the coast protection authority to carry out such measures for reinstating the land as may be specified by or under the regulations, and for adjusting compensation accordingly: s 27(4). As to the making of regulations see PARA 505. At the date at which this volume states the law no such regulations had been made. As to provisions relating to the acquisition of land see generally COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 27, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. ## 521. Use of land acquired for coast protection work.

Land<sup>1</sup> acquired by a coast protection authority<sup>2</sup>, whether by agreement or compulsorily, being land for the protection of which coast protection work<sup>3</sup> (other than work of maintenance or repair<sup>4</sup>) is carried out<sup>5</sup>, may be disposed of and appropriated in accordance with the relevant provisions of the local government legislation<sup>6</sup>.

The power of the council of a district in England, or of the council of a county or county borough in Wales<sup>7</sup>, under any other enactment<sup>8</sup> than the Coast Protection Act 1949 to provide concert halls, entertainment rooms, reading rooms, pavilions, restaurants or other places for the provision of meals or refreshments, bandstands, public conveniences or other buildings, on land belonging or let to it, to lay out public parks, pleasure grounds or recreation grounds on such land, or to adapt or use land for any other public purpose, is exercisable in relation to any land acquired by the council under the coast protection legislation<sup>9</sup> for the purpose of carrying out on it any coast protection work, notwithstanding that the land continues to be required for that purpose, or for works constructed in the course of carrying out the work<sup>10</sup>. That power must not, however, be exercised so as to interfere with the use of the land for the purpose of carrying out on it of coast protection work, or with the maintenance or repair of such work, so long as it is required for that purpose or so long as the works are required to be maintained<sup>11</sup>.

(3) COAST PROTECTION WORK AND SCHEMES

(i) General Powers

522. Powers used for coast protection work.

Coast protection authorities<sup>1</sup> have wide general powers to carry out coast protection work<sup>2</sup>, subject to specific statutory provisions<sup>3</sup>. These powers include powers of compulsory acquisition of land<sup>4</sup>. Although the Coast Protection Act 1949 provides for work to be carried out either by use of general powers or by use of 'works schemes'<sup>5</sup>, in practice works are now carried out using general powers except where it is necessary to obtain compulsory powers to carry out operations on land which is not owned by the authority<sup>6</sup>.

523. Prerequisites to carrying out coast protection work.

Subject to the provisions of the Coast Protection Act 1949 as to works schemes<sup>1</sup>, a coast protection authority<sup>2</sup> proposing to carry out any coast protection work<sup>3</sup>, other than work of maintenance or repair<sup>4</sup>, must publish in one or more local newspapers circulating in its area, and in such other manner, if any, as the Secretary of State<sup>5</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>6</sup> may prescribe by regulations<sup>7</sup> or in any particular case direct, notice of that proposal<sup>8</sup>, including an estimate of the cost of the work and a sufficient indication that notice of objection to the proposal may be served<sup>9</sup>.

Similar notices must be served<sup>10</sup> on the Environment Agency<sup>11</sup> and on any internal drainage board<sup>12</sup> in whose district any of the work is to be carried out<sup>13</sup>, and also on other prescribed bodies<sup>14</sup> and such other authorities or persons as the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may direct in any particular case<sup>15</sup>.

Where notice has been so published by an authority, any person may serve on the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers and on the authority in the prescribed manner<sup>16</sup> and within the prescribed period<sup>17</sup> notice of objection to the proposal<sup>18</sup>. Where notice of objection has been so served and not withdrawn, and the ground of objection is that the proposed work will be detrimental to the protection<sup>19</sup> of any land specified in the notice, or will interfere with the objector exercising his statutory functions, other than functions<sup>20</sup> under the Coast Protection Act 1949, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers<sup>21</sup> must either cause a local inquiry to be held<sup>22</sup>, or give the objector and all other persons appearing to them to be affected by the proposal an opportunity of being heard by a person appointed for the purpose<sup>23</sup>. After considering the report of the person appointed to hold the inquiry or to hear objections, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>24</sup> must determine the objection<sup>25</sup>.

As soon as may be after the time for serving notices of objection has expired, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>26</sup> must either approve the proposal or direct the authority not to carry out the proposed work, or impose such modifications of the proposal or such conditions as to the carrying out of the work as they may think fit, having regard to the determination of the objections<sup>27</sup>.

Nothing in the above provisions prevents a coast protection authority from carrying out, without those provisions having been complied with, any coast protection work which appears to it to be urgently necessary for the protection of any land in its area; but where work is so carried out the coast protection authority must, before or as soon as possible after commencing the work, give notice of the nature of the work to the Environment Agency, where it is not represented on the coast protection authority<sup>28</sup>, and to any internal drainage board which is not so represented and in whose district the work is to be or has been carried out<sup>29</sup>.

1 As to works schemes see PARAS 524-527. The Coast Protection Act 1949 s 5 does not apply to any proposal to carry out work provided for by a works scheme: see s 9(4). As to the use of general powers rather than works schemes see PARA 522.

2 As to the meaning of 'coast protection authority' see PARA 508.

- 3 As to the meaning of 'coast protection work' see PARA 505 note 9. Coast protection work may require an environmental impact assessment (see PARA 10) and/or an appropriate assessment pursuant to the Habitats Directive (see PARA 11).

- 5 As to the Secretary of State in relation to the Coast Protection Act 1949 see PARA 504 note 1.
- 6 The functions under the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 5 of the Secretary of State (as 'the minister': see PARA 504 note 1), but not the functions under s 5(4) (see note 21) of any other Minister of the Crown, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

- 8 For the prescribed form of notice see the Coast Protection (Notices) (England) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/1278, reg 2, Schedule; the Coast Protection (Notices) (Wales) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/1847, reg 3, Schedule. In both cases, a form substantially to the same effect as that prescribed may be used: see the Coast Protection (Notices) (England) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/1278, reg 2; the Coast Protection (Notices) (Wales) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/1847, reg 3.
- 9 See the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 5(1).
- 10 As to the service of documents see PARA 22. In relation to Wales, if the person on whom it is required to be served agrees to accept service of that document by electronic means, any copy of a notice of a proposal to carry out coast protection work may, in addition to any other method of service authorised by the Coast Protection Act 1949, be served by means of electronic communication; and any reference in the Coast Protection (Notices) (Wales) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/1847, to writing, however expressed, in relation to such a document, is to be construed as including a reference to a form capable of being stored on a computer, transmitted to and from a computer, and read by means of a computer: reg 6(1), (2)(b). For these purposes, 'electronic communication' has the meaning assigned to that term in the Electronic Communications Act 2000 s 15(1) (see CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARA 947): Coast Protection (Notices) (Wales) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/1847, reg 2. - 14 In such other authorities or persons as may be specified in regulations made by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 5(2).

In relation to England, notice must be served on: (1) every county, district and borough council, the Common Council of the City of London and the Council of the Isles of Scilly in England and every county and county borough council in Wales upon whose area of jurisdiction the proposed work may have an impact and on any harbour authority within whose area of jurisdiction any of the work is to be carried out; (2) English Nature, the Historic Buildings and Monuments Commission for England and the Countryside Agency; and (3) every other navigation authority, harbour authority, conservancy authority, local fisheries committee and person known by the coast protection authority to have an interest in any land on which any of the work is to be carried out or which that authority considers likely to be affected by the work: Coast Protection (Notices) (England) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/1278, reg 3.

In relation to Wales, notice must be served on: (a) any local authority whose area is likely to be affected by the work to which the notice relates; (b) any harbour authority, navigation authority, conservancy authority, or local fisheries committee whose area includes the area where the work to which the notice relates is to be carried out or is otherwise likely to be affected by that work; (c) the Countryside Council for Wales; (d) if the work to which the notice relates is likely to affect any part of England or of the sea adjacent to England, English Nature, the Historic Buildings and Monuments Commission for England and the Countryside Agency; and (e) any other person who has an interest in any land on which the work to which the notice relates is to be carried out, or which is likely to be affected by the work, unless the identity of that person is not known to, and cannot reasonably be ascertained by, the coast protection authority: Coast Protection (Notices) (Wales) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/1847, reg 4. For these purposes, 'local authority' means, in relation to Wales, a county or county borough council, or, in relation to England, a county, district or borough council: reg 2. As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 502 note 3.

15 See the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 5(2).

16 In relation to England, the notice must be in writing and must contain a statement of the grounds of objection; and for these purposes 'writing' includes an electronic communication within the meaning of the Electronic Communications Act 2000 (see CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARA 947): Coast Protection (Notices) (England) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/1278, reg 4(1), (2). Such a notice of objection may be served by delivering it to the Secretary of State at the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, Flood Management, Ergon House, 17 Smith Square, London SW1P 3JR and to the Chief Executive of the coast protection authority at its principal office or, in either case, by sending it in a pre-paid letter to the addresses so specified: reg 4(3). Similarly, in relation to Wales the notice must be in writing (which includes by electronic communication: see note 10) and must state the grounds of the objection: Coast Protection (Notices) (Wales) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/1847, reg 5(1), (2). The copy of the notice of objection required to be served on the Welsh Ministers must be addressed to the Environmental Protection Division, Welsh Assembly Government, Cathays Park, Cardiff CF10 3NQ; and the copy of the notice of objection required to be served on the coast protection authority must be addressed to the Chief Executive of that authority at its principal office: reg 5(3), (4); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. Any copy of such a notice of objection may be served by means of electronic communication: Coast Protection (Notices) (Wales) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/1847, reg 6(1), (2)(a).

17 In relation to England, a notice of objection must be served within 28 days of publication of the notice of the proposal in question: Coast Protection (Notices) (England) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/1278, reg 4(1). In relation to Wales, the period for service is within such period as is specified in the notice published under the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 5(1) (see the text to notes 1-9), which period must not be less than 28 days after the publication of that notice: Coast Protection (Notices) (Wales) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/1847, reg 5(1).

524. Preparation of works scheme.

Where a coast protection authority<sup>1</sup> proposes that coast protection work<sup>2</sup> (not being work of maintenance or repair<sup>3</sup>) should be carried out on any land<sup>4</sup>, and it appears to the authority either:

- 1172 (1) that the work cannot be carried out except in the exercise of compulsory powers<sup>5</sup>; or
- 1173 (2) that persons<sup>6</sup> interested in land benefited by the carrying out of the work ought to pay coast protection charges<sup>7</sup> to the authority<sup>8</sup>, it may prepare a scheme (known as a 'works scheme'<sup>9</sup>) for the carrying out of the work<sup>10</sup>.

A works scheme must:

- 1174 (a) indicate the nature of any work to be carried out by the authority on land vested in it or which it proposes to acquire for the purposes of the scheme<sup>11</sup>;
- 1175 (b) specify the work, if any, to be carried out on land not so vested or proposed to be acquired<sup>12</sup>; and
- 1176 (c) specify the estimated cost of all work comprised in the scheme<sup>13</sup>.

A works scheme may also indicate land ('contributory land'<sup>14</sup>) as land in respect of which coast protection charges are to be payable under the scheme on the ground that it will be benefited by the carrying out of the work provided for by the scheme<sup>15</sup>.

Works schemes should not be made for recovering compulsory contributions from householders or other private interests except where necessary to obtain compulsory purchase powers to carry out operations on land not owned by the coast protection authority, and in these cases no compulsory charges should be levied: see Ministry of Housing and Local Government Circular 41/62.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/8. COAST PROTECTION/(3) COAST PROTECTION WORK AND SCHEMES/(i) General Powers/525. Confirmation of works scheme.

525. Confirmation of works scheme.

A works scheme<sup>1</sup> does not have effect unless confirmed by the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup>.

The coast protection authority<sup>4</sup> by which a works scheme is prepared must publish: (1) in one or more local newspapers circulating in its area; and (2) in such other manner, if any, as may be prescribed by regulations<sup>5</sup> made by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers or as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may direct in any particular case, a notice stating that the scheme has been prepared, naming a place where a copy may be seen at all reasonable hours, and containing a sufficient indication that notice of objection may be served on the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers and on the authority within the prescribed period<sup>6</sup>, being not less than 28 days<sup>7</sup>. The authority must also serve<sup>8</sup> copies of the scheme on the owner<sup>9</sup> and occupier of any land<sup>10</sup> (other than land vested in and occupied by the authority) on which the work provided for by the scheme is to be carried out, on the Environment Agency<sup>11</sup> and on any internal drainage board<sup>12</sup> in whose district any of that work is to be carried out, and on such other authorities or persons<sup>13</sup> (if any) as may be prescribed by regulations<sup>14</sup> made by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers or as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may direct in any particular case<sup>15</sup>. If the scheme provides for the levying of coast protection charges<sup>16</sup>, the persons on whom a copy of the scheme must be served include either each of the persons specified in the scheme by whom the charges are to be paid<sup>17</sup> or<sup>18</sup> all owners of contributory land<sup>19</sup>.

Where a notice has been published by the coast protection authority under heads (1) and (2) above, any person may serve on the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers and on the authority, in the prescribed manner and within the prescribed period (which must not be less than 28 days), notice of objection to the scheme<sup>20</sup>. Where such a notice of objection has been served and not withdrawn, and the ground of objection is:

- 1177 (a) that the work provided for by the scheme, or any part of it, is unnecessary<sup>21</sup>; or
- 1178 (b) that the carrying out of that work in the manner provided for by the scheme would cause hardship to the objector<sup>22</sup>; or
- 1179 (c) that the land indicated by the scheme as contributory land includes land which ought not to be so indicated, or does not include land which ought to be so indicated<sup>23</sup>; or
- 1180 (d) in the case of a scheme which specifies the persons by whom coast protection charges are to be paid<sup>24</sup>, that any other provision of the scheme as to those charges is inequitable or unduly onerous<sup>25</sup>; or
- 1181 (e) that the work provided for by the scheme will be detrimental to the protection<sup>26</sup> of any land specified in the notice of objection, or will interfere with the objector exercising his functions<sup>27</sup> under any enactment<sup>28</sup>, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers<sup>29</sup> must either cause a local inquiry<sup>30</sup> to be held or give to the objector and to all other persons appearing to be affected by the scheme an opportunity of being heard by a person appointed by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers for the purpose<sup>31</sup>. After considering the report of the person appointed to hold the inquiry or hear objections, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers must determine the objection<sup>32</sup>.

As soon as may be after the time for serving notices of objection has expired, the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers must make an order either confirming the scheme as prepared by the authority or with modifications<sup>33</sup>, or quashing the scheme, as they think fit having regard to the determination of any objections<sup>34</sup>.

When operative, a works scheme indicating land as contributory land is a local land charge as respects that land<sup>35</sup>.

526. Modification of works scheme.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> must not modify a works scheme<sup>3</sup> by indicating as contributory land<sup>4</sup> any land not so indicated in the scheme as prepared by the coast protection authority<sup>5</sup>, or by specifying as a person<sup>6</sup> upon whom a coast protection charge<sup>7</sup> may be levied any person not so specified in the scheme as so prepared, or by increasing the amount of any charge specified in the scheme as so prepared<sup>8</sup>. Where, however, it appears to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers that a works scheme should be so modified, the Secretary of State or Welsh Ministers must direct the authority by which the scheme was prepared to serve notice<sup>9</sup> of the proposed modification on the owners<sup>10</sup> of the land proposed to be indicated as contributory land, or the persons proposed to be specified as persons upon whom charges may be levied or whose charges are proposed to be increased; and any person upon whom such notice is served may object to the proposed modification<sup>11</sup>.

527. Carrying out work provided for by works scheme.

Where a works scheme<sup>1</sup> prepared by a coast protection authority<sup>2</sup> is confirmed by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup>, the authority has power to take all necessary steps for carrying out the work provided for by the scheme<sup>4</sup>. Where, however, a works scheme specifies work to be carried out on land<sup>5</sup> neither vested in the authority nor proposed to be acquired by it<sup>6</sup> for the purposes of the scheme, then, at any time not later than the expiration of six weeks after the confirmation of the scheme, the owner<sup>7</sup> of the land may serve<sup>8</sup> a notice on the authority stating that he proposes to carry out the work; and where such a notice is served and not withdrawn, the authority must not carry out the work unless the owner fails to carry it out in accordance with the scheme<sup>9</sup>. If he does so fail, the authority may give him notice that unless the work is carried out within a specified period the authority will itself carry out the work; and where this notice has been given and the work is not so carried out within the specified period, the authority may take all necessary steps for carrying out the work in accordance with the scheme<sup>10</sup>.

(ii) Maintenance and Repair

528. Work of maintenance and repair.

Where it appears to a coast protection authority<sup>1</sup> that, for the protection<sup>2</sup> of land<sup>3</sup> in its area, any works<sup>4</sup> are in need of maintenance or repair, it may serve<sup>5</sup> a notice on the owner<sup>6</sup> and occupier of the land on which the works are situated specifying the work of maintenance or repair which the authority considers to be necessary, and a period after the expiration of which the authority will carry out the work if it has not been previously completed<sup>7</sup>. At the expiration of that period, if the specified work has not been completed, the authority may take all necessary steps to carry out the work<sup>8</sup>.

If it appears to a coast protection authority to be urgently necessary for the protection of land in its area that any works should be repaired immediately, it may take all necessary steps for repairing them without having served any notice or notwithstanding that the time for completing the work specified in any notice has not expired<sup>9</sup>.

529. Recovering cost of maintenance or repair of works.

Where a coast protection authority<sup>1</sup> has carried out<sup>2</sup> any work of maintenance or repair on works not being works constructed, altered or improved under a works scheme<sup>3</sup> and not being works in respect of which a scheme for maintenance and repair<sup>4</sup> has come into operation, on the completion of the work the authority may recover the reasonable cost of carrying it out from the owner<sup>5</sup> or occupier of the land<sup>6</sup> on which the works are situated<sup>7</sup>. However, this right of recovery is not exercisable unless a notice in respect of the work in question has been served<sup>8</sup> containing the required information<sup>9</sup>.

At any time within 21 days after service on him of such a notice, the owner or occupier may complain in writing<sup>10</sup> to a magistrates' court<sup>11</sup> on any one or more of the following grounds:

- 1182 (1) that having regard to all the circumstances of the case it is equitable that the right of recovery so conferred should be exercisable, as respects the whole or some part of the cost of carrying out the work, against whichever of the owner and the occupier is not the complainant<sup>12</sup>;
- 1183 (2) that having regard to all the circumstances of the case it is equitable that the coast protection authority should bear the whole or some part of the cost of carrying out the work<sup>13</sup>;
- 1184 (3) that any of the work specified in the notice is not work of maintenance or repair<sup>14</sup>; or
- 1185 (4) that having regard to all the circumstances of the case, and in particular to the amount of the cost or the probability that there will be a recurrent need for maintenance or repair, the cost ought to be provided for by a scheme under the provisions set out below<sup>15</sup>.

A summons granted on such a complaint must be served on the coast protection authority and, if the complaint is made on the ground specified in head (1) above, on whichever of the owner and the occupier is not the complainant<sup>16</sup>. On such a complaint the court, if it thinks fit, may make such one or more of the following orders as appears to it to be appropriate, having regard to the grounds of complaint:

- 1186 (a) an order directing that the right of recovery of the cost is to be exercisable, as respects the whole or a specified part of the cost of carrying out the work, against whichever of the owner and the occupier is not the complainant<sup>17</sup>;
- 1187 (b) an order debarring the authority from recovering the cost of carrying out the work, or so much of that cost as may be specified in the order<sup>18</sup>;
- 1188 (c) an order declaring that any of the work specified in the notice is not work of maintenance or repair<sup>19</sup>; or
- 1189 (d) an order debarring the authority from recovering the cost but empowering it to make a scheme for maintenance and repair<sup>20</sup>.

Where the authority is empowered under head (d) above to make a scheme, it may do so, and the statutory provisions relating to preparation and confirmation of a works scheme<sup>21</sup> and to

(iii) Compensation

530. Claims for compensation.

Where on a claim being made<sup>1</sup> it is shown that the value of an interest<sup>2</sup> of any person<sup>3</sup> in land has been depreciated, or that any person has suffered damage by being disturbed in his enjoyment of land, in consequence of the carrying out of coast protection work<sup>4</sup> by a coast protection authority in the exercise of its coast protection powers<sup>5</sup>, the coast protection authority must pay to that person compensation<sup>6</sup> equal to the amount of the depreciation or damage<sup>7</sup>. However, a person is not entitled to such compensation unless the act or omission causing the depreciation or disturbance would have been actionable at his suit if it had been done or omitted otherwise than in the exercise of statutory powers<sup>8</sup>.

Any dispute arising under such a claim must be determined by arbitration<sup>9</sup>.

1 A claim for compensation must be made to the coast protection authority within 12 months of the completion of the work giving rise to the claim: see the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 19(2). As to the meaning of 'coast protection authority' see PARA 508. As to the meaning of 'month' see PARA 23 note 10.

2 'Interest' includes any estate in or right over land: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 19(5). As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 502 note 3. Interest includes a tenancy agreement for three years for a beach kiosk: Lakeman v Bournemouth Corp (1956) 8 P & CR 265, Lands Tribunal. 5 Coast Protection Act 1949 s 19(1)(a). The powers concerned are those conferred under the Coast Protection Act 1949 Pt I (ss 1-33).

6 This does not refer to compensation payable on the compulsory acquisition of land: Cooper and Cooper v Smallburgh RDC (1958) 9 P & CR 396, Lands Tribunal.

7 Coast Protection Act 1949 s 19(1). As to the method of assessing compensation see Re Coast Protection Act 1949 (1955) 106 L Jo 108, Lands Tribunal.

531. Compensation where interest is subject to mortgage.

Where any interest<sup>1</sup> in land<sup>2</sup> is subject to a mortgage<sup>3</sup>:

1190 (1) any compensation<sup>4</sup> which is payable in respect of depreciation of the value of that interest must be assessed as if the interest were not subject to the mortgage<sup>5</sup>;

1191 (2) a claim for compensation may be made by any mortgagee<sup>6</sup> of the interest, but without prejudice to the making of a claim by the person<sup>7</sup> entitled to the interest<sup>8</sup>;

1192 (3) a mortgagee is not entitled to claim compensation in respect of his interest as such<sup>9</sup>; and

1193 (4) the compensation payable in respect of the interest subject to the mortgage must be paid by the coast protection authority<sup>10</sup> to the mortgagee or, where there is more than one mortgagee, to the first mortgagee, and must in either case be applied by him as if it were proceeds of sale<sup>11</sup>.

533. Restrictions on coastal works detrimental to navigation.

Except in those cases where consent is not required<sup>1</sup>, no person<sup>2</sup> may, without the written consent<sup>3</sup> of the Secretary of State for Transport<sup>4</sup>, carry out any of the following operations:

- 1194 (1) construct, alter or improve any works on, under or over any part of the seashore<sup>5</sup> lying below the level of mean high water springs<sup>6</sup>;
- 1195 (2) deposit any object or any materials<sup>7</sup> on any such part of the seashore<sup>8</sup>; or
- 1196 (3) remove any object or any materials from any part of the seashore lying below the level of mean low water springs<sup>9</sup>, if the operation (whether when being carried out or subsequently) causes or is likely to result in obstruction or danger to navigation<sup>10</sup>.

Such restrictions are not, however, applicable in relation to authorised work on the construction of the Channel Tunnel<sup>11</sup>; and in addition no person may carry out any works within a certain distance<sup>12</sup> of the tunnel system unless consent has been given by the persons responsible for the construction and/or operation of the tunnel<sup>13</sup>. The Secretary of State may make regulations exempting certain operations from the restriction imposed by the above provisions<sup>14</sup> where any harbour authority has power to license or otherwise regulate such operations<sup>15</sup>.

534. Consent to coastal works.

As a condition of considering an application for consent to coastal works detrimental to navigation<sup>1</sup>, the Secretary of State for Transport<sup>2</sup> may require to be furnished with such plans and particulars of the proposed operation as he considers necessary<sup>3</sup>. On receipt of an application he may cause notice of it, and of the time within which and the manner in which objections to it may be made, to be published in such manner as he considers appropriate for informing persons<sup>4</sup> affected by it; and before granting consent may, if he thinks fit, direct a local inquiry<sup>5</sup> to be held<sup>6</sup>.

If the Secretary of State is of opinion that the operation will cause or is likely to result in obstruction or danger to navigation<sup>7</sup> he must either refuse consent or give consent subject to such conditions as he thinks fit, having regard to the nature and extent of the obstruction or danger which it appears to him would otherwise be caused or be likely to result<sup>8</sup>. Any such condition to which a consent is made subject either remains in force for a specified time or remains in force without limit of time<sup>9</sup>, and binds (in addition to the person to whom the consent is given) any other person who for the time being owns, occupies or enjoys the use of the works in question<sup>10</sup>. Where the condition relates to the provision of any lights, signals or other aids to navigation<sup>11</sup>, or to the stationing of guard ships in the vicinity of the works in question or to the taking of any other measures for the purpose of, or in connection with, controlling the movements of ships in the vicinity of those works<sup>12</sup>, then the condition may be varied by the Secretary of State in the interests of the safety of navigation<sup>13</sup>. The Secretary of State may also revoke any such conditions if he thinks fit<sup>14</sup>.

Consent may be given so as to continue in force, unless renewed, only if the operation is begun or completed within such period as may be specified in the consent; and any renewal of such a consent may be similarly limited<sup>15</sup>.

533-539 Coastal Works Detrimental to Navigation

Coast Protection Act 1949 Pt 2 repealed: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Sch 8 para 1(2), Sch 22 Pt 2 (not yet in force).

For works detrimental to navigation see Energy Act 2008 Pt 4A (ss 79A-79Q) and PARA 539A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/8. COAST PROTECTION/(3) COAST PROTECTION WORK AND SCHEMES/(iv) Coastal Works Detrimental to Navigation/536. Licensing of tidal works by harbour authorities.

536. Licensing of tidal works by harbour authorities.

Where it appears to the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> that any harbour authority<sup>2</sup> has, by virtue of any statutory provision<sup>3</sup>, power to license or otherwise regulate operations consisting of coastal works detrimental to navigation<sup>4</sup> (the 'relevant power'), and he considers it appropriate to do so, he may make regulations<sup>5</sup> providing for the statutory restrictions<sup>6</sup> not to apply to operations of that description in relation to which the relevant power is exercisable and which are carried out within a specified area, or specified areas, falling within the jurisdiction of that harbour authority (the 'prescribed operations')<sup>7</sup>. Where:

- 1207 (1) any such regulations are in force in relation to a harbour authority<sup>8</sup>; and
- 1208 (2) the authority has determined an application made to it for the grant, in the exercise of the relevant power, of a licence to carry out a prescribed operation<sup>9</sup>; and
- 1209 (3) no appeal has been brought, whether under the regulations or otherwise, in respect of the authority's determination of the application<sup>10</sup>; but
- 1210 (4) the Secretary of State considers that it would be appropriate in the interests of the safety of navigation for the application to be redetermined by him<sup>11</sup>, he may, within the period of 60 days beginning with the date of the authority's determination, serve a notice on the authority requiring it to furnish him with written<sup>12</sup> particulars of its determination, and with any documents in its possession relating to the application, in order that he may redetermine the application<sup>13</sup>. Where he serves such a notice, he must serve a copy of it on the applicant and must advertise, in such manner as he thinks fit, the fact that the application is to be redetermined by him<sup>14</sup>; and the operation of any licence granted by the authority in pursuance of the application is suspended until such time, if any, as the authority's decision to grant it is affirmed by the Secretary of State<sup>15</sup>.

When redetermining any application, the Secretary of State must have regard to any representations made to him by persons appearing to him to be likely to be affected by the operation to which the application relates, provided that they were made to him within the period of 30 days beginning with the date, or the latest date, of the publication of any advertisement published<sup>16</sup> by him<sup>17</sup>. Where the Secretary of State redetermines an application, he may, according to the circumstances of the case:

- 1211 (a) direct the harbour authority<sup>18</sup> to grant either a licence free from conditions, or a licence subject to such conditions as are specified in the direction<sup>19</sup>;
- 1212 (b) direct that authority to cancel any licence granted by it in pursuance of the application<sup>20</sup>; or
- 1213 (c) affirm the harbour authority's determination of the application<sup>21</sup>.

On each occasion when a harbour authority grants a licence in the exercise of the relevant power, whether or not directed to do so under the above provisions, it must, before the operation to which the licence relates has been begun, furnish the Hydrographer of the Navy with written particulars of the operation and with a plan showing where it is to be carried out<sup>22</sup>; and once the operation has been carried out, with a notification of that fact, and with such plans and additional information relating to the completed operation as he may require for the purpose of determining whether, and if so what, changes should be made to any chart or other publication produced under his superintendence<sup>23</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 As to the meaning of 'harbour authority' see PARA 505 note 9.

3 'Statutory provision' means any provision contained in or having effect under any enactment: Merchant Shipping Act 1988 s 57(2). As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31.

4 The operations of any description falling within any of the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 34(1)(a)-(c): see PARA 533.

5 The Secretary of State's power to make any such regulations with respect to any harbour authority is exercisable by him either on the application of the harbour authority, or of his own motion after consulting the authority (Merchant Shipping Act 1988 s 37(8)); and is exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment by a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 53(1) (repealed with savings by the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 314(1), Sch 12). Such regulations may make different provision for different classes or descriptions of ships and for different circumstances and make such transitional, incidental or supplementary provision as appears to the Secretary of State to be necessary or expedient: Merchant Shipping Act 1988 s 53(2) (as so repealed). Regulations so made by the Secretary of State with respect to any harbour authority may, in particular, make provision:

- 15 (1) in connection with the exercise by the authority of the relevant power in relation to the prescribed operations for any matter for which provision is made by the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 34(2)-(4A) (see PARA 534) and for any provision of the regulations so made, or made in pursuance of any of heads (2)-(7) below to have effect in addition to, or in substitution for, any other statutory provision which otherwise has effect in that connection (Merchant Shipping Act 1988 s 37(2)(a));
- 16 (2) requiring the authority to advertise in such manner as may be specified in the regulations any application made to it for the grant, in the exercise of the relevant power, of a licence to carry out a prescribed operation, and the grant of any such licence and any conditions subject to which it has been granted, and to give to the Secretary of State such notice of any of those matters as may be so specified (s 37(2)(b));
- 17 (3) enabling representations to be made with respect to any such application in such manner as may be specified in the regulations (s 37(2)(c));
- 18 (4) requiring the authority, when determining any such application, to have regard to any representations made in accordance with the regulations so far as touching on any consideration material to the authority's decision on the application (s 37(2)(d));
- 19 (5) enabling an appeal to the Secretary of State to be brought, by such persons, on such grounds and in such manner as may be specified in the regulations, against the grant or refusal of any such licence, or any conditions imposed on the grant of any such licence (s 37(2)(e));
- 20 (6) for the operation of any such licence to be suspended during the period during which such an appeal may be brought and, if such an appeal is brought by a person other than the applicant, until such time, if any, as the authority's decision on the application is affirmed by the Secretary of State (s 37(2)(f));
- 21 (7) authorising the Secretary of State on such an appeal to do any of the things mentioned in s 37(6)(a)-(c) (see heads (a)-(c) in the text) (s 37(2)(g));
- 22 (8) for any statutory provision having effect in relation to the authority to have effect subject to such modifications as appear to the Secretary of State to be necessary or expedient for the purpose of making provision for any matter for which provision may be made by virtue of any of heads (1)-(7) above, or in consequence of any provision of the regulations made in pursuance of any of those heads (s 37(2)(h)).

For these purposes, 'licence' includes a consent or permission; and references to the grant of a licence accordingly include references to the giving of a consent or permission: s 37(11). 'Modifications' includes additions, omissions and alterations: s 57(2). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

- 17    Merchant Shipping Act 1988 s 37(5).
- 18    It is the duty of any harbour authority to whom the Secretary of State gives any direction under or by virtue of the Merchant Shipping Act 1988 s 37 to give effect to the direction: s 37(10).
- 19    Merchant Shipping Act 1988 s 37(6)(a). Any direction so given must be a direction requiring the authority in question to grant such a licence either in the form in which it was originally applied for by the applicant (s 37(7)(a)), or in that form but subject to such modifications as are specified in the direction, as the Secretary of State thinks fit (s 37(7)(b)). However, where the Secretary of State proposes to specify any modifications which appear to him to be capable of resulting in any substantial interference with navigation, he must take such steps as appear to him to be reasonably practicable for informing persons likely to be concerned (s 37(7)(i)), and must not so specify those modifications unless there has elapsed such period for consideration of, and comment upon, them as he thinks reasonable (s 37(7)(ii)).

537. Enforcement of restrictions on coastal works.

- 1214 (1) carries out any operation in contravention of the statutory restrictions<sup>2</sup> on coastal works detrimental to navigation<sup>3</sup>; or
- 1215 (2) fails to comply with any conditions subject to which any consent<sup>4</sup> of the Secretary of State for Transport<sup>5</sup> has been given<sup>6</sup>, is guilty of an offence<sup>7</sup>. Where, however, a person is bound by any condition subject to which any consent by the Secretary of State for Transport has been given<sup>8</sup> but is not the person to whom that consent was given, then he is not taken to have failed to comply with the condition unless: (a) he has been served by the Secretary of State with a notice<sup>9</sup> requiring him to comply with the condition within such period (not being less than 30 days) as may be specified in the notice<sup>10</sup>; and (b) he has failed to comply with the condition within that period<sup>11</sup>.

Without prejudice to any proceedings for such an offence, where any person has constructed, altered or improved any works or deposited any object or materials<sup>12</sup> on the seashore<sup>13</sup> in contravention of the statutory restrictions, or has failed to comply with any conditions subject to which any consent has been given, the Secretary of State for Transport may serve a notice on him requiring him, within a specified period not being less than 30 days, to remove the works or to make specified alterations to them or to remove the object or materials, as the case may be<sup>14</sup>. However, if it appears to the Secretary of State urgently necessary to do so<sup>15</sup>, or if within the specified period the person upon whom the notice is served fails to comply with it<sup>16</sup>, the Secretary of State may himself remove or alter the works or remove the object or materials<sup>17</sup>.

COAST PROTECTION/(3) COAST PROTECTION WORK AND SCHEMES/(iv) Coastal Works Detrimental to Navigation/538. Imposition of safety requirements in cases of emergency.

538. Imposition of safety requirements in cases of emergency.

Where at any time after the Secretary of State for Transport<sup>1</sup> has given consent for an operation to construct, alter or improve any works on, under or over any part of the seashore<sup>2</sup> lying below the level of mean high water springs<sup>3</sup> (the 'relevant consent'), it appears to him:

- 1216 (1) that any danger to navigation has arisen by reason of any substantial damage to any works to which that consent relates<sup>4</sup>, or any other substantial and unforeseen change in the state or position of any such works<sup>5</sup>; and
- 1217 (2) that it is urgently necessary to do so in the interests of the safety of navigation<sup>6</sup>, he may, by notice served on the person<sup>7</sup> to whom the consent was given<sup>8</sup>, impose on that person such requirements as he thinks fit with respect to any of the relevant matters<sup>9</sup>. Those matters are: (a) the provision on, or in the vicinity of, the works in question of any lights, signals or other aids to navigation<sup>10</sup>; and (b) the stationing of guard ships in the vicinity of those works<sup>11</sup>.

Where the person on whom a notice is so served fails to comply with any requirements of the notice within the period of 24 hours beginning with the time when it is served on him or as soon after the end of that period as is reasonably practicable, the Secretary of State may make such arrangements as he thinks fit for the purpose of securing that those requirements are implemented<sup>12</sup>.

Once the requirements of the notice have been complied with by the person on whom it was served, or implemented in accordance with arrangements made by the Secretary of State, those requirements are treated for the statutory purposes<sup>13</sup> as conditions subject to which the relevant consent was given<sup>14</sup>.

Where under s 36A(3) the Secretary of State makes any such arrangements, he is entitled to recover the cost, as certified by him, of making those arrangements from one or more of the following, ie: (1) the person to whom the relevant consent was given (s 36A(4)(a) (as so added)); and (2) any other person or persons who is or are, in accordance with s 34(4A)(b) (see PARA 534), bound by any condition subject to which that consent was given (s 36A(4)(b) (as so added)), as he thinks fit (s 36A(4) (as so added)).

13 Ie for the purposes of the Coast Protection Act 1949 Pt II (ss 34-36A).

14 Coast Protection Act 1949 s 36A(5) (as added: see note 4). However, s 34(4A)(a), (d) (duration of conditions and power to revoke conditions: see PARA 534) does not apply to any such requirements; but if it appears to the Secretary of State (whether on the application of any person or otherwise) that the circumstances giving rise to the urgent necessity for the imposition of the requirements no longer exist, he must revoke them by notice served on the person to whom the relevant consent was given: s 36A(6) (as so added). Where the Secretary of State has served a notice under s 36A(1) (see the text to notes 1-9) in respect of any particular circumstances, s 36A(5) does not preclude him from serving a further notice under s 36A(1) in respect of those circumstances: s 36A(7) (as so added).

UPDATE

533-539 Coastal Works Detrimental to Navigation

Coast Protection Act 1949 Pt 2 repealed: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Sch 8 para 1(2), Sch 22 Pt 2 (not yet in force).

For works detrimental to navigation see Energy Act 2008 Pt 4A (ss 79A-79Q) and PARA 539A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/8. COAST PROTECTION/(3) COAST PROTECTION WORK AND SCHEMES/(iv) Coastal Works Detrimental to Navigation/539A. Works detrimental to navigation.

539A. Works detrimental to navigation.

The following provisions are not yet in force.

The Energy Act 2008 Pt 4A (ss 79A-79Q) (added by Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 314) provides for a new navigational consenting regime and provides a variety of powers for the enforcement of that regime.

1. Consent required for carrying out of certain operations

A person must not, without the written consent of the Secretary of State, carry out in the regulated zone any operation to which the Energy Act 2008 s 79A applies (see s 79A(2) and (3)): Energy Act 2008 s 79A(1) (ss 79A-79Q added by Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 314). 'Regulated zone' means the area that consists of (1) the area of sea within the seaward limits of the territorial sea, other than the Scottish inshore region, and (2) the area of sea within the limits of the UK sector of the continental shelf, and includes the bed and subsoil of the sea within those areas, the shore adjoining, and any land adjoining or adjacent to that shore, but does not include any land in Scotland: Energy Act 2008 s 79Q. 'Sea' includes any tidal waters; and any land covered with water at mean high water spring tide: s 79Q. 'Scottish inshore region' has the same meaning as in the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322): Energy Act 2008 s 79Q. 'UK sector of the continental shelf' means the areas for the time being designated by an Order in Council under the Continental Shelf Act 1964 s 1(7): Energy Act 2008 s 79Q. Section 79A(1) does not apply to an operation if a marine licence under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 4 (ss 65-115: see PARA 30D) is needed to carry out the operation: Energy Act 2008 s 79A(2). Subject to that, s 79A(1) applies to an operation if (a) it causes, or is likely to result in, obstruction or danger to navigation (whether while the operation is being carried out or subsequently), (b) it is of a description falling within s 79A(4), and (c) it may be carried out only with a permission falling within s 79A(5): s 79A(3). The descriptions of operations are (i) the construction, alteration, improvement, dismantlement or abandonment of any works; (ii) the deposit of any object or materials; (iii) the removal of any object or materials: s 79A(4). The permissions are (A) a licence under the Petroleum Act 1998 s 3 or the Petroleum (Production) Act 1934 s 2, (B) a licence under the Energy Act 2008 s 4 or 18 (gas storage and gas unloading, and carbon capture and storage licences), (C) a works authorisation under the Petroleum Act 1998 Pt 3 (ss 14-28) (construction etc of submarine pipelines), and see also Energy Act 2008 s 79A(6): s 79A(5). See further FUEL AND ENERGY.

The Secretary of State may, as a condition of considering an application for consent under the Energy Act 2008 s 79A, require to be furnished with such plans and particulars of the proposed operation as the Secretary of State may consider necessary: Energy Act 2008 s 79B(1). On receipt of any such application, the Secretary of State may cause to be published notice of the application, and the time within which, and the manner in which, objections to the application may be made: s 79B(2). Any such notice is to be published in such a manner as to be likely to come to the attention of those likely to be interested in, or affected by, the application: s 79B(3). The Secretary of State may cause an inquiry to be held in connection with the determination of an application for consent: s 79B(4).

If the Secretary of State is of the opinion that any operation in respect of which an application is made for consent under s 79A will cause, or is likely to result in, obstruction or danger to navigation, the Secretary of State must either refuse to give consent, or give consent subject to such conditions as the Secretary of State considers appropriate: see Energy Act 2008 s 79C. Provision is made with respect to consent conditions in the case of authorised exploration or exploitation operations: see Energy Act 2008 s 79D. As to 'authorised exploration or exploitation operations' see Energy Act 2008 s 79A(7), (8).

2. Directions by the Secretary of State

If (1) the person to whom a consent under the Energy Act 2008 s 79A (see para 539A.1) is given fails to comply with any provision of the consent, or (2) a person who, by virtue of s 79D (see para 539A.1), is bound by a consent condition fails to comply with the condition, the Secretary of State may direct that person to take steps which the Secretary of State considers necessary or appropriate to comply with the provision or condition within a period specified in the direction: see Energy Act 2008 s 79E (ss 79A-79Q added by Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 314).

3. Emergency safety requirements

The Energy Act 2008 s 79F applies in any case where the Secretary of State has given consent ('the relevant consent') for an authorised exploration or exploitation operation, and at any time after the giving of that consent, the condition in s 79F(2) is met: s 79F(1) (ss 79A-79Q added by Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 314). As to 'authorised exploration or exploitation operations' see Energy Act 2008 s 79A(7), (8). The condition is that it appears to the Secretary of State that any danger to navigation has arisen by reason of (1) any substantial damage to any works to which the relevant consent relates, or (2) any other substantial and unforeseen change in the state or position of any such works: s 79F(2). If it appears to the Secretary of State necessary to do so in the interests of the safety of navigation, the Secretary of State may serve a notice (an 'emergency safety notice') on the consent holder: s 79F(3). 'Consent holder' means the person to whom a consent under the Energy Act 2008 s 79A (see para 539A.1) is given: Energy Act 2008 s 79Q. By serving an emergency safety notice on the consent holder, the Secretary of State imposes on the consent holder such requirements as are prescribed in the notice with respect to any of the matters specified in s 79F(5): s 79F(4). Those matters are (a) the provision on, or in the vicinity of, the works in question of any lights, signals or other aids to navigation, and (b) the stationing of guard ships in the vicinity of those works: s 79F(5). An emergency safety notice may be served by the Secretary of State whether or not (i) the operation in question has been completed, or (ii) any condition was imposed by the Secretary of State, on giving the relevant consent, with respect to any of the matters referred to in s 79F(5): s 79F(6). Supplementary provision is made in relation to emergency safety notices: see Energy Act 2008 s 79G.

The Secretary of State may impose an 'immediate action notice' on a consent holder or other person bound by a condition on a consent if as a result of a failure to comply with a consent condition a danger to navigation has arisen: see Energy Act 2008 s 79H.

4. Enforcement

It is an offence for a person to carry out an operation to which the Energy Act 2008 s 79A(1) (see para 539A.1) applies without the written consent of the Secretary of State under that provision, or to fail to comply with a condition of such a consent: Energy Act 2008 s 79I(1) (ss 79A-79Q added by Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 314). A person guilty of an offence under the Energy Act 2008 s 79I is liable on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding £50,000, or on conviction on indictment, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or to a fine, or both: s 79I(2).

It is an offence for a person to make a statement which the person knows to be false, or recklessly to make a statement which is false, in order to obtain the consent of the Secretary of State under s 79A(1): Energy Act 2008 s 79J(1). It is an offence for a person to fail to disclose information which the person knows, or ought to know, to be relevant to an application for the consent of the Secretary of State under s 79A(1): s 79J(2). A person guilty of an offence under s 79J is liable on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum, or on conviction on indictment, to a fine: s 79J(3). As to the statutory maximum see PARA 169.

It is an offence for a person to fail to comply with a direction under the Energy Act 2008 s 79E (see PARA 539A.2), unless the person proves that due diligence was exercised in order to avoid the failure: Energy Act 2008 s 79K(1). A person guilty of an offence under s 79K is liable on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding £50,000, or on conviction on indictment, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or to a fine, or both: s 79K(2).

It is an offence for a person to fail to comply with an emergency safety notice (see PARA 539A.3), or an immediate action notice (see PARA 539A.3), within the time allowed (within the meaning of the Energy Act 2008 s 79G(1)): Energy Act 2008 s 79L(1). A person guilty of an offence under s 79L is liable on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding £50,000, or on conviction on indictment, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or to a fine, or both: s 79L(2).

Where the Secretary of State considers it necessary or expedient to restrain any actual or apprehended breach of s 79A(1), the Secretary of State may apply to the High Court for an injunction: see Energy Act 2008 s 79M.

The Secretary of State may appoint persons to act as inspectors to assist in carrying out the functions of the Secretary of State under the Energy Act 2008 Pt 4A (ss 79A-79Q): see Energy Act 2008 s 79N.

Proceedings for a relevant offence may be taken, and the offence may for all incidental purposes be treated as having been committed, in any place in the United Kingdom: see Energy Act 2008 s 79O.

5. Power to extend the application of the Energy Act 2008 Pt 4A

The Secretary of State may by order provide that specified provisions of the Energy Act 2008 Pt 4A (ss 79A-79Q) are to apply, subject to any specified modifications, in relation to the carrying out of specified operations, or operations of a specified description, in the Scottish inshore region: see Energy Act 2008 s 79P (ss 79A-79Q added by Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 314).

(4) COAST PROTECTION CHARGES

540. Calculation of charges under works scheme.

Coast protection charges<sup>1</sup> under a works scheme<sup>2</sup> are levied by reference to interests<sup>3</sup> in contributory land<sup>4</sup>. The charge payable by reference to any such interest must not exceed the amount by which the value of the interest immediately after the time at which the works provided for by the scheme have been completed, calculated on the assumption that those works will in future be maintained without expense to the person<sup>5</sup> entitled to the interest in question, is greater than the value of that interest would then be if the works had not been undertaken<sup>6</sup>. Where, however, any of the work provided for by the scheme is carried out at the expense of the person entitled to the interest, the charge must not exceed the amount that could have been levied, reduced by the reasonable cost of carrying out such work<sup>7</sup>.

Any dispute arising in connection with a works scheme as to whether a charge under the scheme exceeds the amount permitted must be determined by arbitration<sup>8</sup>. If on arbitration it is determined that the charge exceeds that amount, the charge must be reduced accordingly and the scheme and any notice served under it then have effect as if the amount of the charge expressed in it were the permitted amount as determined by the arbitration<sup>9</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'coast protection charge' see PARA 524 note 7.

2 As to the meaning of 'works scheme' see PARA 524.

3 'Interest' means the fee simple or an interest under a tenancy; and 'tenancy' includes a tenancy under an underlease and a tenancy under an agreement for a lease or an underlease, but not an option to take a tenancy and not a mortgage: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 7(8)(a). The value of an interest which is subject to a mortgage is to be calculated as if the interest were not so subject: s 7(8). As to the meaning of 'mortgage' see PARA 518 note 6.

541. Charges levied under works scheme.

1218 (1) specify the persons<sup>3</sup> by whom such charges are to be paid, the amount of the charge to be paid by each person and the interest<sup>4</sup> in land<sup>5</sup> by reference to which the charge is levied upon him<sup>6</sup>; or

1219 (2) state that the coast protection authority<sup>7</sup> by which the scheme is prepared will, within such period after the completion of the work as may be specified in the scheme<sup>8</sup>, determine the interests in land by reference to which charges are to be levied and the amount of the charge leviable in respect of each interest<sup>9</sup>.

Where a works scheme contains the statement mentioned in head (2) above, the authority may, at any time within the period specified in the scheme, determine the charges to be levied under it, and must serve<sup>10</sup> on each person on whom a charge is leviable under the scheme a notice containing full particulars of its determination as to all the charges to be so levied<sup>11</sup>. Any person aggrieved<sup>12</sup> by the determination may appeal to the Secretary of State<sup>13</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>14</sup> on the ground that the determination is inequitable or unduly onerous, and, after giving the appellant and the authority, and any other person appearing to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers to be concerned, an opportunity of being heard by a person appointed for the purpose, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may either confirm, reduce or cancel the charge levied upon the appellant as they think fit<sup>15</sup>.

Except with the consent of the appropriate authority<sup>16</sup>, a coast protection charge in respect of any land is not payable by the Crown or that authority<sup>17</sup>.

542. When coast protection charges become due.

A coast protection charge<sup>1</sup> levied upon any person<sup>2</sup> under a works scheme<sup>3</sup> becomes due: (1) in the case of a charge the amount of which is specified in the scheme, on the completion of the work provided for by the scheme<sup>4</sup>; and (2) in any other case, on the service upon him of a notice<sup>5</sup> specifying the amount of the charge<sup>6</sup>. If, however, the charge is disputed and has to be determined either by arbitration<sup>7</sup> or by an appeal to the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>8</sup>, the charge does not become due until the dispute is finally determined<sup>9</sup>.

543. Payment by instalments.

A coast protection authority<sup>1</sup> to which a coast protection charge<sup>2</sup> is payable by any person<sup>3</sup> may, if he so requires, by order<sup>4</sup> declare that it is to be payable by instalments<sup>5</sup> over a period specified in the order not exceeding 30 years, with interest at such reasonable rate as the authority may determine<sup>6</sup>. An order may be made at any time with respect to the unpaid balance of any charge, but the period for repayment must not in any case extend beyond 30 years from the time when the charge first became due<sup>7</sup>. The making of an order does not prevent the charge from being discharged at any time by the payment to the authority of the unpaid balance of the charge, together with any accrued interest on it<sup>8</sup>.

Any instalment, or any part of it, may be recovered at any time after it has fallen due from the person for the time being entitled to the interest in land<sup>9</sup> by reference to which the charge was levied; and where that person is the owner<sup>10</sup>, the instalment, or any part of it, may be recovered from the occupier for the time being of the land, and in this event the occupier may deduct it from the rent of the land<sup>11</sup>. An occupier is not, however, required to pay at any one time any sum in excess of the amount which was due from him on account of rent at, or has become due from him on account of rent since, the date on which he received a demand from the authority together with a notice<sup>12</sup> requiring him not to pay rent to his landlord without deducting the sum so demanded<sup>13</sup>.

544. Payment in particular cases.

Where, at a time when a coast protection charge<sup>1</sup> or any instalment in respect of it<sup>2</sup> is due and remains unpaid, a person<sup>3</sup> is in receipt of the rents and profits of land<sup>4</sup> as agent for the person entitled to the interest in land by reference to which the charge is levied, the charge or instalment may be recovered from the agent<sup>5</sup>. Where, however, a coast protection authority<sup>6</sup> claims to recover any sum in respect of a coast protection charge from a person who proves that: (1) he acts, in the capacity by reason of which the claim is made, merely as agent or trustee for some other person<sup>7</sup>; and (2) he does not have, and since the date of the service on him of a demand for payment has not had, in his hands on behalf of that other person sufficient money to discharge the whole demand of the authority<sup>8</sup>, his liability is limited to the total amount of the money which he has, or has so had, in his hands<sup>9</sup>. However, an authority which is, or would be, debarred by this provision from recovering the whole of any such sum from an agent or trustee may recover the whole or any unpaid balance of it from the person on whose behalf the agent or trustee acts<sup>10</sup>.

Where the interest in land by reference to which a coast protection charge is levied is subject to a mortgage<sup>11</sup>, then, at the time while the mortgagee<sup>12</sup> is in possession, or in receipt of the rents or profits, the charge or any instalment in respect of it for the time being due and remaining unpaid is payable by the mortgagee, and not by the person entitled to the interest<sup>13</sup>. Any amount paid by a mortgagee in respect of a coast protection charge, or in respect of expenses incurred in carrying out work under a works scheme<sup>14</sup>, is to be treated as if it were secured by the mortgage, with the like priority and with interest at the same rate as the mortgage money<sup>15</sup>, except that, without prejudice to the recovery of interest, the amount is not recoverable from the mortgagor personally<sup>16</sup>.

Certain statutory provisions are applied for the raising of money in particular cases for the payment of coast protection charges, and of expenses incurred in carrying out work under a works scheme<sup>17</sup>.

Thus eg the payment of any such charges and expenses is included among the purposes authorised: (1) for the application of capital money by (a) the Settled Land Act 1925 s 73; and (b) the Universities and College Estates Act 1925 s 26; and (2) by (a) the Settled Land Act 1925 s 71; and (b) the Universities and College Estates Act 1925 s 30, as purposes for which money may be raised by mortgage: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 11(2)(a) (amended by the Universities and College Estates Act 1964 s 4(1), Sch 3 Pt II; and by the Trusts of Land and Appointment of Trustees Act 1996 s 25(2), Sch 4); and see SETTLEMENTS vol 42 (Reissue) PARA 808. Further, with Treasury approval in relation to England, or with the approval of the Welsh Ministers, charges or expenses payable by the Crown Estate Commissioners in respect of land under their management may be charged as a principal sum to the account of the Crown's land revenues, although the Treasury or the Welsh Ministers may direct that any sum so charged be repaid out of the income of those revenues within a specified time and by specified instalments: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 11(2)(b). ## (5) COAST PROTECTION WORK BY OTHERS

546. Subsisting obligations to carry out coast protection work.

No person<sup>1</sup> is liable, by reason only that he is subject to an obligation to carry out coast protection work<sup>2</sup> to which he would be subject by reason of tenure, custom, prescription or otherwise<sup>3</sup> if the Coast Protection Act 1949 had not been passed<sup>4</sup>, to maintain or repair either: (1) any works constructed, altered or improved under a works scheme<sup>5</sup>; or (2) any works for whose maintenance or repair provision is made by a scheme which a coast protection authority<sup>6</sup> is empowered to make<sup>7</sup> for recovering the cost of maintenance of works<sup>8</sup>. Subject to this qualification, however, nothing in the provisions of the Coast Protection Act 1949 relating to coast protection<sup>9</sup> operates to release any person from any such subsisting obligation<sup>10</sup>.

If a person who, by reason of any such obligation, is liable to carry out any coast protection work fails to carry it out, any coast protection authority in whose area the work ought to be carried out, or to which it appears that the work is necessary or expedient for the protection<sup>11</sup> of any land<sup>12</sup> in its area, may serve<sup>13</sup> a notice on him requiring him to carry it out within a period specified in the notice<sup>14</sup>. If he fails to comply with the notice within the specified period, the authority may carry out the work and may recover from him any expenses reasonably incurred in carrying it out<sup>15</sup>.

547. Failure of sea defence commissioners to carry out works.

Where it is represented to the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> by a coast protection authority<sup>3</sup> that any sea defence commissioners<sup>4</sup> have failed to carry out any coast protection work<sup>5</sup> which the commissioners are authorised or required by their local Act<sup>6</sup> to carry out, and which is necessary or expedient for the protection<sup>7</sup> of land<sup>8</sup> in the authority's area, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may make an order<sup>9</sup> authorising the authority to carry out the work and to recover from the commissioners any expenses reasonably incurred in carrying out the work, or such part of those expenses as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers thinks fit<sup>10</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State in relation to the Coast Protection Act 1949 see PARA 504 note 1.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 15, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

7 As to the meaning of 'protection' see PARA 505 note 9.

8 As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 502 note 3.

9 Before making such order, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must give the commissioners an opportunity of making representations with respect to the matter: see the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 15(5). As to orders see PARA 505. Such orders being local in nature are not recorded in this work.

10 See the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 15(5). Compensation for disturbance as a result of such works may become payable under s 19: see PARA 530. Coast protection works may require an environmental impact assessment (see PARA 10) and/or an appropriate assessment pursuant to the Habitats Directive (see PARA 11).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/8. COAST PROTECTION/(5) COAST PROTECTION WORK BY OTHERS/548. Consent to carry out work.

548. Consent to carry out work.

Subject to certain exceptions<sup>1</sup>, any person<sup>2</sup> who carries out coast protection work<sup>3</sup>, other than work of maintenance or repair<sup>4</sup>, without the written<sup>5</sup> consent of the coast protection authority<sup>6</sup> in whose area the work is to be carried out, or in contravention of any conditions subject to which that consent is granted, is guilty of an offence<sup>7</sup>. A coast protection authority may institute proceedings for such an offence<sup>8</sup>.

Where application is made to a coast protection authority for its consent, then before determining the application it must give notice of it to any coast protection authority whose area adjoins its area, and to the Environment Agency<sup>9</sup> and to any internal drainage board<sup>10</sup> whose district comprises the whole or any part of its area; and the authority must consider any representations made by any such body<sup>11</sup>.

Without prejudice to any proceedings which may be taken for such an offence, where any person has constructed, altered or improved any works in contravention of these requirements, or of any condition subject to which consent was granted, the coast protection authority in whose area the work was carried out may serve<sup>12</sup> a notice on him requiring him, within a specified period of not less than 30 days, to remove the works or to make specified alterations in them<sup>13</sup>. If within that period the person fails to comply with the notice, the coast protection authority may itself remove or alter the works, as specified in the notice, and if it does so it is entitled to recover the expense of doing so from the person on whom the notice was served<sup>14</sup>.

NOTE 6--Boggis, cited, reversed in part: Boggis v Natural England [2009] EWCA Civ 1061, [2009] All ER (D) 229 (Oct).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/8. COAST PROTECTION/(5) COAST PROTECTION WORK BY OTHERS/549. Relaxation of consent requirements.

549. Relaxation of consent requirements.

The consent normally required before carrying out coast protection work<sup>1</sup> is not necessary in the case of work carried out:

- 1220 (1) by a coast protection authority<sup>2</sup>;
- 1221 (2) by any body or person<sup>3</sup> upon whom any powers or duties relating to the protection<sup>4</sup> of land<sup>5</sup> have been conferred or imposed by or under any enactment<sup>6</sup> other than the Coast Protection Act 1949<sup>7</sup>;
- 1222 (3) by an authority for the protection of a highway<sup>8</sup>;
- 1223 (4) by the successor to the British Railways Board for the protection of a railway<sup>9</sup>; or
- 1224 (5) by a harbour authority<sup>10</sup>.

Work which does not require consent under any of heads (2) to (5) above may not, however, be carried out except in accordance with a prescribed procedure<sup>11</sup>; and any body or person who contravenes the procedure is guilty of an offence<sup>12</sup>, unless the work appears to it or him to be urgently necessary for the protection of land<sup>13</sup>.

1 The consent under the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 16(1): see PARA 548. As to the meaning of 'coast protection work' see PARA 505 note 9.

10 Coast Protection Act 1949 s 17(1)(e). As to the meaning of 'harbour authority' see PARA 505 note 9.

11 Coast Protection Act 1949 s 17(2). The body or person intending to carry out the work (the 'undertakers') must give not less than 28 days' notice of its or his intention to the coast protection authority for the area in which the work is to be carried out and for any adjoining area, and to the Environment Agency or any internal drainage board whose area comprises the whole or any part of that area: s 17(3) (amended by the Water Act 1989 s 190(1), Sch 25 para 11(5); and by the Environment Act 1995 (Consequential Amendments) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/593, reg 2, Sch 1). The undertakers must not carry out the work before the notice expires (Coast Protection Act 1949 s 17(3)(a)); and if before the notice expires any authority or board to which notice has been given serves notice of objection on the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers, the undertakers may not carry out the work except in accordance with a direction by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers (s 17(3)(b)). As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to internal drainage boards see PARA 569 et seq. As to the service of documents see PARA 22. As to the Secretary of State in relation to the Coast

Protection Act 1949 see PARA 504 note 1. The functions under the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 17 conferred on the Secretary of State (as 'the minister' (see PARA 504 note 1) or as the successor to the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food) but not those conferred on any other Minister of the Crown, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. The relevant functions of the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food, were transferred to the Secretary of State: see the Transfer of Functions (Fishery Harbours) Order 2001, SI 2001/3503, art 2(2)(a).

Where notice of objection has been served and has not been withdrawn, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers and any other minister concerned, after affording to the undertakers and to the objectors and, if the objectors are not the coast protection authority in whose area the work is to be carried out, to that authority, an opportunity of being heard by a person appointed for the purpose, must determine the objection: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 17(4). Where an objection has been so determined, the appropriate minister must either direct that the undertakers be at liberty to carry out the work, whether as specified in the notice given by them or subject to such modifications or conditions as he may think fit, having regard to the determination of the objection, or direct them not to carry it out: s 17(5). 'Appropriate minister', in relation to a notice of objection, means: (1) if the undertakers are a body or person mentioned in head (2) in the text, any minister (or, as appropriate if that minister is the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers) concerned with the exercise by that body or person of its or his functions under the relevant enactment (any question arising under this head being determined, in relation to England, by the Treasury); (2) if the undertakers are a harbour authority for a harbour which is a fishery harbour for the purposes of the Sea Fish Industry Act 1951 (see PORTS AND HARBOURS vol 36(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 612), the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers; (3) in any other case, the Secretary of State for Transport: see the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 17(8)(a)-(c) (amended by the Transport and Works Act 1992 s 65(2); SI 1955/554; and by virtue of SI 2001/3503). 'Minister concerned' means the appropriate minister or, if the notice of objection was served by the Environment Agency or any internal drainage board and the appropriate minister is not the Secretary of State (or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers), the appropriate minister and the Secretary of State (or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers): Coast Protection Act 1949 s 17(9) (amended by SI 1955/554; and by virtue of SI 2001/3503). As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8.

12 Coast Protection Act 1949 s 17(2). The penalty for such an offence is, on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale: see s 43 (amended by virtue of the Criminal Justice Act 1982 ss 35, 37, 38, 46). A coast protection authority may institute proceedings for such an offence: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 17(6). As to the standard scale see PARA 141 note 18.

13 See the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 17(7). Where any work is so carried out, however, before or as soon as possible after commencing the work the undertakers must give notice of the nature of the work to the coast protection authority in whose area the work is carried out: s 17(7).

550. Facilitation of coast protection work by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers.

Where a person<sup>1</sup>, not being a coast protection authority<sup>2</sup>, desires to carry out coast protection work<sup>3</sup> in accordance with a works scheme<sup>4</sup>, or with a maintenance or repair notice served<sup>5</sup> by a coast protection authority, but the work cannot be carried out by reason of:

- 1225 (1) any covenant or other restriction affecting the person's power to do so; or
- 1226 (2) the objection, absence or disability of any person whose land<sup>6</sup> it is reasonably necessary to enter for the purpose of carrying it out or across whose land it is reasonably necessary to exercise rights of passage<sup>7</sup> in order to obtain access to the land on which the work is to be carried out, he may apply<sup>8</sup> to the Secretary of State<sup>9</sup> or, in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers<sup>10</sup> for an order<sup>11</sup> authorising him to carry out the work or to exercise those rights<sup>12</sup>.

552. Contributions by county councils in England to maritime district councils.

- 1227 (1) exceed the amount of the grant made by the Secretary of State<sup>6</sup>; or
- 1228 (2) be such that the amount of the contribution, together with the amount of any other contributions which, by virtue of any agreement or determination in default of agreement, the county council has paid or has become liable to pay (whether to the same or any other maritime district council) in the same financial year, exceeds the product of the rate of one penny in the pound levied over the whole county in respect of the financial year ending on 31 March 1990<sup>7</sup>, increased or decreased in proportion to the difference between the retail prices index for September of the financial year preceding that in which the contribution is payable and the retail prices index for September 1989<sup>8</sup>.

So much of any contribution as is agreed between the county council and the maritime district council to be attributable to the protection<sup>9</sup> of any highway for which the council was the highway authority when the relevant expenditure was incurred, or in default of agreement so much of it as is determined jointly by the Secretary of State and the Secretary of State for Transport to be so attributable, is to be disregarded for these purposes<sup>10</sup>.

In the case of a contribution determined by the Secretary of State to be of a capital nature, head (2) in the text applies as if the amount of the contribution were the amount so determined to be the annual amount which would have to be provided for the payment of principal and interest in respect of a loan made by the Public Works Loan Commissioners to the council and repayment by 20 equal annual instalments of principal and interest combined, being a loan of an amount equal to the actual amount of the contribution: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 20(2) proviso. In these circumstances, for the purposes of head (2) in the text (but not for any other purpose) the council is deemed to have become so liable to pay, in each of the next 19 financial years, a contribution of the amount so determined as aforesaid: s 20(2) proviso. ## 9. FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER

(1) INTRODUCTION

556. Scope of this part of the title.

The legislative and administrative framework with regard to flood defence<sup>1</sup> reflects the distinction between flooding and coastal erosion, with flood defence and land drainage provision being made by the Land Drainage Act 1991, the Water Resources Act 1991 and the Environment Act 1995, and coast protection provision being made by the Coast Protection Act 1949. In practice, however, coast protection and coastal flood defence are clearly inter-related<sup>2</sup>. The discussion below deals with flood defence and land drainage<sup>3</sup>, as well as with the common law principles for establishing liability for flood damage<sup>4</sup>. Coast protection is dealt with separately in this title<sup>5</sup>.

The planning controls to which housing development on flood plains is subject are discussed elsewhere in this work<sup>6</sup>.

557. European Directive on the assessment and management of flood risks.

The purpose of the European Directive on the assessment and management of flood risks<sup>1</sup> is to establish a framework for the assessment and management of flood risks<sup>2</sup>, aiming at the reduction of the adverse consequences for human health, the environment, cultural heritage and economic activity associated with floods in the Community<sup>3</sup>. For the purposes of the Directive member states must make use of the arrangements made under the Water Framework Directive<sup>4</sup>, although they may appoint different competent authorities from those identified under that Directive, and may identify certain coastal areas or individual river basins<sup>5</sup> and assign them to a unit of management different from those assigned under that Directive<sup>6</sup>.

Member states must, for each river basin district, or unit of management, or the portion of an international river basin district lying within their territory, undertake a preliminary flood risk assessment, which based on available or readily derivable information<sup>7</sup> must provide an assessment of potential risks<sup>8</sup>. The assessment must include at least the following:

- 1229 (1) maps of the river basin district<sup>9</sup> at the appropriate scale including the borders of the river basins, sub-basins and, where existing, coastal areas, showing topography and land use;
- 1230 (2) a description of the floods which have occurred in the past and which had significant adverse impacts on human health, the environment, cultural heritage and economic activity and for which the likelihood of similar future events is still relevant, including their flood extent and conveyance routes and an assessment of the adverse impacts they have entailed;
- 1231 (3) a description of the significant floods which have occurred in the past, where significant adverse consequences of similar future events might be envisaged;
- 1232 and, depending on the specific needs of member states, it must include:
- 1233 (4) an assessment of the potential adverse consequences of future floods for human health, the environment, cultural heritage and economic activity, taking into account as far as possible issues such as the topography, the position of watercourses and their general hydrological and geo-morphological characteristics, including floodplains as natural retention areas, the effectiveness of existing man-made flood defence infrastructures, the position of populated areas, areas of economic activity and long-term developments including impacts of climate change on the occurrence of floods<sup>10</sup>.

Member states must complete the preliminary flood risk assessment by 22 December 2011<sup>11</sup>. On the basis of a preliminary flood risk assessment, member states must, for each river basin district, or unit of management, or portion of an international river basin district lying within their territory, identify those areas for which they conclude that potential significant flood risks exist or might be considered likely to occur<sup>12</sup>. Member states must, at the level of the river basin district, or unit of management, prepare flood hazard maps<sup>13</sup> and flood risk maps<sup>14</sup>, at the most appropriate scale for the areas so identified<sup>15</sup>. Member states must ensure that the flood hazard maps and flood risk maps are completed by 22 December 2013<sup>16</sup>.

On the basis of the flood hazard maps and flood risk maps, member states must establish flood risk management plans<sup>17</sup> which must include measures for achieving the objectives established by the member states<sup>18</sup> for the management of flood risks<sup>19</sup>. Member states must ensure that flood risk management plans are completed and published by 22 December 2015<sup>20</sup>.

In accordance with applicable Community legislation, member states must make available to the public the preliminary flood risk assessment, the flood hazard maps, the flood risk maps and the flood risk management plans, and must encourage active involvement of interested parties in the production, review and updating of the flood risk management plans<sup>21</sup>.

The preliminary flood risk assessment<sup>22</sup> must be reviewed, and if necessary updated, by 22 December 2018 and every six years thereafter<sup>23</sup>; the flood hazard maps and the flood risk maps must be reviewed, and if necessary updated, by 22 December 2019 and every six years thereafter<sup>24</sup>; and the flood risk management plan(s) must be reviewed, and if necessary updated, by 22 December 2021 and every six years thereafter<sup>25</sup>. The likely impact of climate change on the occurrence of floods must be taken into account in such reviews<sup>26</sup>.

In accordance with applicable Community legislation, member states must make available to the public the preliminary flood risk assessment, the flood hazard maps, the flood risk maps and the flood risk management plans<sup>27</sup>; and must encourage active involvement of interested parties in the production, review and updating of flood risk management plans<sup>28</sup>. Member states must make available the preliminary flood risk assessment, the flood hazard maps, the flood risk maps and flood risk management plans, as well as their review and, where applicable, their updates to the Commission within three months after the dates by which they must be completed<sup>29</sup>.

Member states must bring into force the laws, regulations and administrative provisions necessary to comply with the Directive before 26 November 2009<sup>30</sup>.

1    Ie European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) of 23 October 2007 on the assessment and management of flood risks.

2    'Flood risk' means the combination of the probability of a flood event and of the potential adverse consequences for human health, the environment, cultural heritage and economic activity associated with a flood event: European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 2(2). 'Flood' means the temporary covering by water of land not normally covered by water; and includes floods from rivers, mountain torrents, Mediterranean ephemeral water courses, and floods from the sea in coastal areas, and may exclude floods from sewerage systems: art 2(1). As to the meaning of 'river' see PARA 7 note 13: definition applied by art 2.

3    European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 1.

4    Ie the arrangements under European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 3(1), (2), (3), (5) and (6): see PARA 7.

5    As to the meaning of 'river basin' see PARA 7 note 13: definition applied by European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 2.

6    See European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 3. Member states must take appropriate steps to coordinate the application of the Directive and that of European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) (see PARA 7) focusing on opportunities for improving efficiency, information exchange and for achieving common synergies and benefits having regard to the environmental objectives laid down in art 4 of that Directive: European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 9. In particular: (1) the development of the first flood hazard maps and flood risk maps and their subsequent reviews as referred to in art 6 (see the text to notes 13-16) and art 14 (see the text to notes 23-26) must be carried out in such a way that the information they contain is consistent with relevant information presented according to European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01). They must be coordinated with, and may be integrated into, the reviews provided for in art 5(2) of that Directive; (2) the development of the first flood risk management plans and their subsequent reviews as referred to in European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 7 (see the text to notes 17-20) and art 14 must be carried out in coordination with, and may be integrated into, the reviews of the river basin management plans provided for in European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 13(7) of that Directive; (3) the active involvement of all interested parties under European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 10 (see the text to note 21) must be coordinated, as appropriate, with the active involvement of interested parties under European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 14: European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 9(1)-(3).

7 le such as records and studies on long term developments, in particular impacts of climate change on the occurrence of floods: European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 4(1).

8 European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 4(1), (2).

9 As to the meaning of 'river basin district' see PARA 7 note 20: definition applied by European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 2.

10 European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 4(2)(a)-(d).

11 European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 4(4). Without prejudice to art 14 (see the text to notes 23-26), member states may decide not to undertake the preliminary flood risk assessment referred to in art 4 for those river basins, sub-basins or coastal areas where they have either: (1) already undertaken a risk assessment to conclude, before 22 December 2010, that a potential significant flood risk exists or might be considered likely to occur leading to the identification of the area among those referred to in art 5(1) (see the text to note 12); or (2) decided, before 22 December 2010, to prepare flood hazard maps and flood risk maps and to establish flood risk management plans in accordance with the relevant provisions of the Directive: see art 13(1), (4).

13 Flood hazard maps must cover the geographical areas which could be flooded according to the following scenarios: (1) floods with a low probability, or extreme event scenarios; (2) floods with a medium probability (likely return period [ $\geq$ ] 100 years); (3) floods with a high probability, where appropriate: European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 6(3). For each such scenario the following elements must be shown: (a) the flood extent; (b) water depths or water level, as appropriate; (c) where appropriate, the flow velocity or the relevant water flow: art 6(4). Member states may decide that, for coastal areas where an adequate level of protection is in place, the preparation of flood hazard maps be limited to the scenario referred to in head (1) above: art 6(7). As to coast protection see PARA 499 et seq.

14 Flood risk maps must show the potential adverse consequences associated with flood scenarios referred to in the European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 6(3) (see note 13) and expressed in terms of the following: (1) the indicative number of inhabitants potentially affected; (2) type of economic activity of the area potentially affected; (3) installations as referred to in Council Directive 96/61 (OJ L257, 10.10.1996, p 26) Annex I concerning integrated pollution prevention and control which might cause accidental pollution in case of flooding and potentially affected protected areas identified in European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) Annex IV(1)(i), (iii) and (v); (4) other information which the member state considers useful such as the indication of areas where floods with a high content of transported sediments and debris floods can occur and information on other significant sources of pollution: European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 6(5).

16 European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 6(8). Without prejudice to art 14 (see the text to notes 23-26), member states may decide to make use of flood hazard maps and flood risk maps finalised before 22 December 2010, if such maps provide a level of information equivalent to the requirements of art 6; and may decide to make use of flood risk management plans finalised before 22 December 2010, provided the content of these plans is equivalent to the requirements set out in art 7 (see the text to notes 17-20): see art 13(2)-(4).

18 Member states must establish appropriate objectives for the management of flood risks, focusing on the reduction of potential adverse consequences of flooding for human health, the environment, cultural heritage and economic activity, and, if considered appropriate, on non-structural initiatives and/or on the reduction of the likelihood of flooding: European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 7(2).

19 See European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 7(3). The plans must also include the components set out in the Annex Pt A: art 7(3). Flood risk management plans must take into account relevant aspects such as costs and benefits, flood extent and flood conveyance routes and areas which have the potential to retain flood water, such as natural floodplains, the environmental objectives of European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 4 (see PARA 7), soil and water management, spatial planning, land use, nature conservation, navigation and port infrastructure; and must address all aspects of flood risk management focusing on prevention, protection, preparedness, including flood forecasts and early warning systems and taking into account the characteristics of the particular river basin or sub-basin. Flood risk management plans may also include the promotion of sustainable land use practices, improvement of water retention as well as the controlled flooding of certain areas in the case of a flood event: European Parliament and Council Directive 2007/60 (OJ L288, 06.11.2007, p 27) art 7(3).

UPDATE

557 European Directive on the assessment and management of flood risks

TEXT AND NOTES--See Flood Risk Regulations 2009, SI 2009/3042 (amended by SI 2010/1102).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/9. FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(1) INTRODUCTION/558. The administrative framework.

558. The administrative framework.

Policy relating to flood defence and land drainage is formulated, in relation to England<sup>1</sup>, by the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs<sup>2</sup> and, subject to certain exceptions, in relation to Wales by the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup>.

The Environment Agency<sup>4</sup> has a general supervisory role<sup>5</sup> as well as specific functions in relation to main rivers<sup>6</sup>, flood warnings<sup>7</sup> and information<sup>8</sup>. The Agency has default powers to undertake flood defence measures where an internal drainage board has failed to do so<sup>9</sup> and may undertake such measures on behalf of local authorities<sup>10</sup>.

In internal drainage districts, internal drainage boards<sup>11</sup> have flood defence powers in respect of ordinary watercourses, that is, watercourses that are not main rivers<sup>12</sup>. Outside such districts, local authorities have such powers<sup>13</sup>.

Under the Land Drainage Act 1991, landowners may be authorised to carry out drainage works and to restore and improve ditches<sup>14</sup>. Private and local legislation may impose duties on landowners or other bodies in respect of flood defence and land drainage<sup>15</sup>. Additionally, such persons or bodies may be liable in nuisance or negligence for flood damage<sup>16</sup>.

Highway authorities have powers to drain highways, including the construction of culverts, and to fill in roadside ditches<sup>17</sup>.

A. REGIONAL FLOOD DEFENCE COMMITTEES

559. Establishment of regional flood defence committees.

There must be regional flood defence committees<sup>1</sup> established for the purpose of carrying out the functions which fall to be carried out by such committees by virtue of the Environment Act 1995 and the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>2</sup>. The Environment Agency must maintain a principal office for the area of each such committee<sup>3</sup>.

<sup>1</sup> As to the duty of the Environment Agency to carry out flood defence functions through committees see the Water Resources Act 1991 s 106; and PARA 573. As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

<sup>2</sup> Environment Act 1995 s 14(1). Subject to Sch 4 (see PARA 560), there must be a regional flood defence committee for each of the areas for which there was an old committee immediately before 1 April 1996; but where under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 165(2) or (3) (see PARA 589) any function of the Agency falls to be carried out at a place beyond the seaward boundaries of the area of any regional flood defence committee, that place is assumed for these purposes and for the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991 to be within the area of the regional flood defence committee to whose area the area of the sea where that place is situated is adjacent: Environment Act 1995 s 14(2); Environment Act 1995 (Commencement No 5) Order 1996, SI 1996/186, art 3. 'Old committee' means a regional flood committee for the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991 s 9 (repealed): Environment Act 1995 s 14(4).

FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(i) Flood Defence Committees and Internal Drainage Boards/A. REGIONAL FLOOD DEFENCE COMMITTEES/560. Boundaries etc of regional flood defence areas.

560. Boundaries etc of regional flood defence areas.

The Secretary of State or, in certain cases, the Welsh Ministers or the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers acting jointly (the 'relevant minister')<sup>1</sup> may by order made by statutory instrument<sup>2</sup>:

- 1234 (1) alter the boundaries of the area of any regional flood defence committee<sup>3</sup>;
- 1235 (2) provide for the amalgamation of any two or more such areas<sup>4</sup>;
- 1236 (3) establish a new regional flood defence committee for such area as may be specified in the order (other than by providing for the amalgamation of the area of any two or more such committees)<sup>5</sup>; or
- 1237 (4) abolish a regional flood defence committee<sup>6</sup>.

Where such an order makes provision by reference to anything shown on a main river map<sup>7</sup>, that map is conclusive evidence for the purposes of the order of what is shown on the map<sup>8</sup>.

Before making any such order, the relevant minister must consult such persons<sup>9</sup> or representative bodies as he considers it appropriate to consult at that stage<sup>10</sup>. He must prepare a draft order<sup>11</sup>, and publish a notice<sup>12</sup> in the London Gazette and in such other manner as he considers appropriate for bringing the draft order to the attention of persons likely to be affected by it if it is made<sup>13</sup>; and must also cause copies of the notice and of the draft order to be served<sup>14</sup> on every person carrying out functions under any enactment<sup>15</sup> who appears to him to be concerned<sup>16</sup>.

The relevant minister must, before making the order, consider any representations or objections which are duly made with respect to the draft order and are not withdrawn, and may, if he thinks fit, cause a local inquiry to be held with respect to any such representations or objections<sup>17</sup>. Where notice of a draft order has been published and given in accordance with the above requirements and any representations or objections have been so considered, the relevant minister may make the order either in the terms of the draft or in those terms as modified in such manner as he thinks fit, or may decide not to make the order<sup>18</sup>. He may not, however, make a modification<sup>19</sup> of a draft order in so far as the modification is such as to include, in the area of any regional flood defence committee, any tidal waters which, if the order had been made in the form of the draft, would have been outside the area of every regional flood defence committee<sup>20</sup>.

Where the relevant minister makes such an order, he must serve notice of the making of the order on every person, if any, who is a person on whom notice of his intention to make it is required to have been served and who has duly made an objection to the making of the order that has not been withdrawn<sup>21</sup>. The order does not have effect before the end of a period of 28 days from the date of the last such notice served<sup>22</sup> and if, before the order so has effect, any person who has been served with such notice serves a notice of objection on the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, or in the case of an order made jointly by them, on either of them, and the notice is not withdrawn, the order is subject to special parliamentary procedure unless made in relation to Wales<sup>23</sup>.

After making an order, the relevant minister must publish in the London Gazette, and in such manner as he considers appropriate for bringing the order to the attention of persons likely to be affected by it, a notice stating that the order has been made, and naming the places where a copy of it may be inspected at all reasonable times<sup>24</sup>. Subject to certain exceptions<sup>25</sup>, if any person desires to question the validity of any such order on the ground that it is not within the statutory powers above<sup>26</sup>, or that any statutory requirement above has not been complied with<sup>27</sup>, he may make an application for the purpose to the High Court within six weeks after the date of the first publication of the notice stating that it has been made<sup>28</sup>. On such an application, if the High Court is satisfied that the order is not within the statutory powers<sup>29</sup>, or that the interests of the applicant have been substantially prejudiced by a failure to comply with any of the above requirements<sup>30</sup>, it may quash the order either generally or in so far as it affects the applicant<sup>31</sup>. The validity of such an order may not otherwise be questioned, either before or after it has been made, in any legal proceedings whatsoever<sup>32</sup>.

1 'Relevant minister' means: (1) in relation to any alteration of the boundaries of an area where the whole or any part of that area is in Wales, the ministers; (2) in relation to the amalgamation of any two or more areas where the whole or any part of one of those areas is in Wales, the ministers; (3) in relation to the establishment or abolition of a regional flood defence committee for an area the whole of which is in Wales, the Welsh Ministers; (4) in relation to the establishment or abolition of a regional flood defence committee for an area any part (but not the whole) of which is in Wales, the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers acting jointly; and (5) in any other case, the minister: see the Environment Act 1995 Sch 4 para 1(5) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 68(4)); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. 'The minister' means the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food; and 'the ministers' means the Secretary of State and the minister: Environment Act 1995 s 56(1). On 27 March 2002, the Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food was dissolved and the functions of the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food were transferred to the Secretary of State, with any function which was exercisable by the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food and the Secretary of State acting jointly also being transferred to the Secretary of State: see the Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food (Dissolution) Order 2002, SI 2002/794, arts 1(2), 2(1)-(3).

The functions of the Secretary of State under the Environment Act 1995 Sch 4 (except those under head (4) above), so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, and the functions exercisable by the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food in pursuance of head (1) above in relation to the alteration of the boundaries of an area the whole of which is in Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30.

FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(i) Flood Defence Committees and Internal Drainage Boards/A. REGIONAL FLOOD DEFENCE COMMITTEES/561. Composition of regional flood defence committees generally.

561. Composition of regional flood defence committees generally.

A regional flood defence committee<sup>1</sup> consists of a chairman and a number of other members appointed by the Secretary of State or, in relation to the regional flood defence committee for an area the whole or the greater part of which is in Wales, the Welsh Ministers (the 'relevant minister')<sup>2</sup>, two members appointed by the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup>, and a number of members appointed by or on behalf of the constituent councils<sup>4</sup>. None of the members may be a member of the Agency<sup>5</sup>. In appointing a person to be the chairman or a member of a regional flood defence committee, the relevant minister or a constituent council must have regard to the desirability of appointing a person who has experience of, and has shown capacity in, some matter relevant to the functions of the committee<sup>6</sup>.

The total number of members of a new committee for any area must be the same as the total number of members of the old committee for that area immediately before the transfer date<sup>7</sup>. Additional provision is made as to the membership of committees<sup>8</sup>.

The Agency may from time to time make a determination varying the total number of members of a regional flood defence committee<sup>9</sup>; and must submit any such determination to the relevant minister<sup>10</sup>. For these purposes, the total number of members of a regional flood defence committee (including the chairman) must not be less than 11<sup>11</sup>, and any determination by the Agency that a regional flood defence committee should consist of more than 17 members is provisional and takes effect only if the relevant minister makes an order to that effect<sup>12</sup>. Whenever the total number of members of a regional flood defence committee is varied, or whenever the relevant minister considers it necessary or expedient, he may make an order by statutory instrument specifying the number of members to be appointed to the committee by each of the constituent councils<sup>13</sup>.

The chairman of a regional flood defence committee may resign his office at any time by giving notice to the chairman of the Agency and to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers<sup>14</sup>. Any other member of such a committee may resign his office at any time by giving notice to the chairman of the committee and also to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers if he was appointed by either of them<sup>15</sup>.

1 As to regional flood defence committees see PARA 559.

2 Environment Act 1995 s 15(1)(a). 'Relevant minister' means: (1) in relation to the regional flood defence committee for an area the whole or the greater part of which is in Wales, the Secretary of State; and (2) in relation to any other regional flood defence committee, the minister: Environment Act 1995 ss 15(7), 16(9). The functions of the Secretary of State under the Environment Act 1995 ss 15, 16 were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the meaning of 'the minister' see PARA 560 note 1. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. 4 Environment Act 1995 s 15(1)(c). The councils of every county, county borough, metropolitan district or London borough any part of which is in the area of a regional flood defence committee are the constituent councils for the regional flood defence committee for that area, and the Common Council of the City of London is a constituent council for the regional flood defence committee for any area which comprises any part of the City: s 15(6). As to local government areas and authorities in England and Wales see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 22 et seq. As to the London boroughs and their councils see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 35 et seq. As to the Common Council of the City of London see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARAS 51-55.

5 Environment Act 1995 s 15(1). Any person who immediately before 1 April 1996 was, by virtue of his appointment by a Minister of the Crown, by or on behalf of any council, or by the former National Rivers Authority (the 'NRA'), the chairman or a member of an old committee which, by virtue of s 14 (see PARA 559), is replaced by a new committee is to be treated, on and after that date, for the remainder of the period for which he would, under the terms of his appointment, have held office in relation to the old committee, as if he had been appointed as the chairman or, as the case may be, a member of the new committee, and on the same terms, by that minister, by or on behalf of that council, or, in the case of a person appointed by the NRA, by the Agency: see s 15(2); and the Environment Act 1995 (Commencement No 5) Order 1996, SI 1996/186, art 3. 'Old committee' has the same meaning as in s 14 (see PARA 559 note 2); and 'new committee' means a regional flood defence committee established under s 14: s 15(7).

6 Environment Act 1995 s 15(5).

7 Environment Act 1995 s 15(3)(a). The number of members to be appointed to a new committee for any area by or on behalf of each of the constituent councils or jointly by or on behalf of more than one of them must be the same as the number of members of the old committee for that area which fell to be so appointed immediately before the transfer date: s 15(3)(b). Section 15(3) is subject to s 16 (see the text to notes 9-13); and to any order under Sch 4 (see PARA 560): s 15(3). In any case where the appointment of one or more members of a regional flood defence committee is to be made jointly by more than one constituent council, and the councils by whom that appointment is to be made are unable to agree on an appointment, the member or members in question must be appointed by the relevant minister on behalf of those councils: s 15(4).

9 Environment Act 1995 s 16(1).

11 Environment Act 1995 s 16(3)(a). In s 16 'member', in relation to a regional flood defence committee, includes the chairman of the committee: s 16(9).

12 Environment Act 1995 s 16(3)(b). If the Agency submits a provisional determination to the relevant minister with respect to any regional flood defence committee and he considers that the committee should consist of more than 17 members, he may confirm the determination or substitute for the number of members determined by the Agency some other number not less than 17: s 16(4).

13 Environment Act 1995 s 16(5). Where the order is made because the total number of members has been varied, it relates to times after the coming into force of that variation; but where it is made because the relevant minister considers it necessary or expedient, it may relate to such times as are specified in the order: see s 16(6). The order must be so framed that the total number of members appointed by the relevant minister and the Agency is one less than the number appointed by or on behalf of the constituent councils: s 16(7). For the purpose of determining the number of persons to be appointed to a regional flood defence committee by or on behalf of each constituent council, the relevant minister may: (1) if he considers it to be inappropriate that that council should appoint a member of the committee; or (2) if he considers that one or more members should be appointed jointly by that council and one or more other constituent councils, include provision to that effect in the order: s 16(8). Such orders, being local in nature, are not recorded in this work. However, for an example of such an order see the Yorkshire Regional Flood Defence Committee Order 2005, SI 2005/1607.

14 Environment Act 1995 Sch 5 para 5(1). The statutory wording is 'to one of the Ministers'. As to the meaning of 'the ministers' see PARA 560 note 1.

FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(i) Flood Defence Committees and Internal Drainage Boards/A. REGIONAL FLOOD DEFENCE COMMITTEES/562. Composition of regional flood defence committees in Wales.

562. Composition of regional flood defence committees in Wales.

The following provisions apply in relation to any regional flood defence committee<sup>1</sup> which satisfies, or which, upon the coming into force of an order<sup>2</sup> will satisfy both of the statutory conditions (a 'Welsh committee')<sup>3</sup>. The statutory conditions are: (1) that the whole or the greater part of the committee's area is in Wales<sup>4</sup>; and (2) that no local flood defence scheme<sup>5</sup> is in force in relation to the area of the committee<sup>6</sup>.

The Welsh Ministers<sup>7</sup> may by order made by statutory instrument<sup>8</sup> make provision determining<sup>9</sup>: (a) the total number of members of a Welsh committee<sup>10</sup>; and (b) the method of selection and appointment of the chairman and other members of the committee, including who is to appoint them<sup>11</sup>.

The Welsh Regional Flood Defence Committee<sup>12</sup> consists of the following, none of whom may be a member of the Environment Agency<sup>13</sup>, that is to say: (i) a chairperson and seven other members appointed by the Welsh Ministers<sup>14</sup>; (ii) two members appointed by the Agency<sup>15</sup>; and (iii) one member appointed by or on behalf of each group of the constituent councils<sup>16</sup>. In appointing a person to be the chairperson or a member of the committee, the Welsh Ministers or, as the case may be, a constituent council must have regard to the desirability of appointing a person who has experience of, and has shown capacity in, some matter relevant to the functions of the committee<sup>17</sup>.

5 As to local flood defence schemes see PARA 563.

6 Environment Act 1995 s 16A(2)(b) (as added: see note 3).

7 As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. Functions under the Environment Act 1995 s 16A and the Welsh Regional Flood Defence Committee (Composition) Order 2006, SI 2006/980 (see the text to notes 12-17), were originally vested in the National Assembly for Wales, but are now vested in the Welsh Ministers by virtue of the Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 30.

8 In relation to a Welsh committee whose area is not wholly in Wales, the power to make an order under the Environment Act 1995 s 16A(3) may be exercised only with the agreement of the Secretary of State, and a statutory instrument containing such an order is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 16A(5) (as added: see note 3). Section 15 (see PARA 561) or, where the order is being made in conjunction with an order under Sch 4, Sch 4 (see PARA 560) does not apply for the purposes of making an order under s 16A(3): s 16A(7) (as so added). An order under s 16A(3) may apply either to Welsh committees generally or to a particular Welsh committee and may include such supplemental, consequential and transitional provision as the Welsh Ministers consider appropriate: s 16A(4) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the bringing of subordinate legislation made by the Welsh Ministers before the National Assembly for Wales see the Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 paras 33-35; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

The Environment Act 1995 ss 15, 16 (see PARA 561) and s 18A(3) (see PARA 565) do not apply to a regional flood defence committee in respect of which an order under s 16A is in force: s 16B(1) (as so added). In relation to any such committee, s 18 (see PARA 564) has effect as if: (1) s 18(4)(b) read 'other members appointed in accordance with and subject to the terms of the local flood defence scheme'; and (2) s 18(4)(c), (5) were omitted: s 16B(2) (as so added). In relation to any such committee whose membership does not include any member appointed by or on behalf of a constituent council, Sch 5 (see PARA 566) has effect as if: (a) in Sch 5 para 1(1), the words 'other than those appointed by or on behalf of one or more constituent councils' were omitted; (b) Sch 5 para 1(2), (3) and (4) were omitted; and (c) Sch 5 paras 2, 9 were omitted: s 16B(3) (as so added).

As to the constituent councils and the groups thereof see Welsh Regional Flood Defence Committee (Composition) Order 2006, SI 2006/980, Schedule. The appointments under art 2(1)(c) are to be made by the councils in each group acting jointly in respect of the member appointed for that group: art 2(2). Where the councils specified in any group in the Schedule are unable to make such an appointment, the Welsh Ministers may appoint a member for that group on behalf of those councils: art 2(3); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32.

Local flood defence schemes.

B. LOCAL FLOOD DEFENCE SCHEMES AND COMMITTEES

563. Local flood defence schemes.

The Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> may, in accordance with the following provisions, make a local flood defence scheme:

- 1238 (1) for the creation in the area of a regional flood defence committee<sup>2</sup> of one or more districts, to be known as local flood defence districts<sup>3</sup>; and
- 1239 (2) for the constitution, membership, functions and procedure of a committee for each such district, to be known as the 'local flood defence committee' for that district<sup>4</sup>.

Any local flood defence scheme<sup>5</sup> which was in force immediately before 1 April 1996<sup>6</sup> in relation to the area of a regional flood defence committee has effect on or after that date, and may be amended or revoked, as if it were a local flood defence scheme made under these provisions in relation to that area<sup>7</sup>.

A regional flood defence committee may at any time submit to the Agency: (a) a local flood defence scheme for any part of its area for which there is then no such scheme in force<sup>8</sup>; or (b) a scheme varying a local flood defence scheme or revoking such a scheme and, if the committee thinks fit, replacing it with another such scheme<sup>9</sup>. Before submitting such a scheme to the Agency, a regional flood defence committee must consult every local authority any part of whose area will fall within the area to which the scheme is proposed to relate<sup>10</sup>, and such organisations representative of persons<sup>11</sup> interested in flood defence<sup>12</sup> or agriculture as the regional flood defence committee considers to be appropriate<sup>13</sup>. The Agency must send any scheme submitted to it to the Secretary of State<sup>14</sup> or, in relation to the regional flood defence committee for an area the whole or the greater part of which is in Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>15</sup>.

A local flood defence scheme may define a local flood defence district by reference to: (i) the districts which were local land drainage districts immediately before 1 September 1989<sup>16</sup>; (ii) the area of the regional flood defence committee in which that district is situated<sup>17</sup>; (iii) a map<sup>18</sup>, or partly by one of those means and partly by another or others<sup>19</sup>. A scheme may contain incidental, consequential and supplementary provisions<sup>20</sup>. The provisions for the recovery of expenses by the Agency by the issuing of levies or precepts or by the raising of general and special drainage charges apply to each local flood defence district separately<sup>21</sup>.

Either the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may approve a local flood defence scheme with or without modifications<sup>22</sup>; and any scheme so approved comes into force on a date fixed by the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers<sup>23</sup>.

In any case where, immediately before the coming into force of s 17 (ie 1 April 1996), any scheme or committee so continued to be treated as a local flood defence scheme or a local flood defence committee, the scheme or committee continues to be so treated notwithstanding the provisions of s 18 (see PARA 564) or the repeal of any enactment by the Environment Act 1995: s 120(2), Sch 23 para 23(1)(a).

FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(i) Flood Defence Committees and Internal Drainage Boards/B. LOCAL FLOOD DEFENCE SCHEMES AND COMMITTEES/564. Constitution of local flood defence committees.

564. Constitution of local flood defence committees.

A local flood defence scheme<sup>1</sup> must provide that any local flood defence committee<sup>2</sup> to which it relates is to consist of not less than 11 and not more than 15 members<sup>3</sup>. A regional flood defence committee<sup>4</sup> may, however, include in a local flood defence scheme which it submits to the Environment Agency<sup>5</sup> a recommendation that a committee to which the scheme relates should consist of a number of members greater than 15, and a scheme so submitted is taken to provide for the number of members of a committee if it contains such a recommendation relating to that committee<sup>6</sup>.

A local flood defence committee must consist of: (1) a chairman appointed from among its own members by the regional flood defence committee<sup>7</sup>; (2) other members appointed by that committee<sup>8</sup>; and (3) members appointed, in accordance with and subject to the terms of the local flood defence scheme, by or on behalf of constituent councils<sup>9</sup>. The number of members appointed by or on behalf of constituent councils must be one more than the total number appointed by the regional flood defence committee<sup>10</sup>.

In appointing a person to be a member of a local flood defence committee, the regional flood defence committee must have regard to the desirability of appointing a person who has experience of, and has shown capacity in, some matter relevant to the functions of the committee to which he is appointed<sup>11</sup>.

The chairman of a local flood defence committee may resign his office at any time by giving notice to the chairman of the regional flood defence committee<sup>12</sup>; and any other member may resign his office at any time by giving notice to the chairman of that local flood defence committee<sup>13</sup>. Further provision is made in relation to the terms of office of members, the proceedings of the committee, and other related matters<sup>14</sup>.

4 As to regional flood defence committees see PARA 559.

5 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

6 Environment Act 1995 s 18(2). The power conferred on the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers by s 17(8) (see PARA 563) includes power to direct that a committee to which such a recommendation relates is to consist either of the recommended number of members or of some other number of members greater than 15: see s 18(3). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

7 Environment Act 1995 s 18(4)(a). As to the membership of regional flood defence committees see PARA 561.

8 Environment Act 1995 s 18(4)(b).

9 Environment Act 1995 s 18(4)(c). The councils of every county, county borough, metropolitan district or London borough any part of which is in a local flood defence district are the constituent councils for the local flood defence committee for that district; and the Common Council of the City of London is a constituent council for the local flood defence committee of any local flood defence district which comprises any part of the City: s 18(8). Any person who, immediately before 1 April 1996, is, by virtue of an appointment by an old regional committee or by or on behalf of any council, the chairman or a member of a local flood defence committee which is continued in force by virtue of s 17(2) (see PARA 563) is treated, on and after that date, for the remainder of the period for which he would, under the terms of his appointment, have held office in relation to the local flood defence committee: (1) as if he had been appointed as such under s 18 by the regional flood defence committee or by or on behalf of that council (s 18(7)(a)); and (2) in the case of the chairman, as if he were a member of the regional flood defence committee (s 18(7)(b)). 'Old regional committee' means a regional flood defence committee for the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991 s 9 (repealed): Environment Act 1995 s 18(9). Where, immediately before the coming into force of s 18 (ie 1 April 1996), any person continued, by virtue of the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2(2), Sch 2 para 14, to hold office, the person so continues to hold office notwithstanding the provisions of the Environment Act 1995 s 18, or of Sch 5, or the repeal of any enactment by the Environment Act 1995: s 120(2), Sch 23 para 23(1)(b). Power to revoke local flood defence schemes.

565. Power to revoke local flood defence schemes.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> may by order made by statutory instrument<sup>3</sup> revoke any local flood defence scheme<sup>4</sup>.

The power to make such an order includes power to make such supplemental, consequential and transitional provision as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers consider appropriate<sup>5</sup>; and the provision which may be so made includes provision altering: (1) the total number of members of the regional flood defence committee in whose area the local flood defence district created by the scheme was situated<sup>6</sup>; and (2) the total number of such members to be appointed by the constituent councils of that committee<sup>7</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 Functions under the Environment Act 1995 s 18A were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales in relation to the local flood defence scheme for a district which is in the area of a regional flood defence committee the whole or the greater part of which is in Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1 (amended by the Water Act 2003, s 100(5)(b)). These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'local flood defence scheme' see PARA 563 note 9. As to the making of local flood defence schemes see PARA 563. As to regional flood defence committees see PARA 559. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

3 The Environment Act 1995 s 14(2), Sch 4 paras 2-6 (see PARA 560), apart from Sch 4 para 3(3), apply in relation to an order under s 18A as they apply in relation to an order under that Schedule, reading references there to the relevant minister as references to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers: see s 18A(4) (s 18A added by the Water Act 2003 s 66(1), (2)). Such orders, being local in nature, are not recorded in this work.

5 Environment Act 1995 s 18A(2) (as added: see note 3).

6 Environment Act 1995 s 18A(3)(a) (as added: see note 3). The provisions of s 16(7), (8) (see PARA 561) apply in relation to so much of an order under s 18A as is made by virtue of s 18A(3) as they apply in relation to an order under s 16(5): s 18A(3) (as so added).

7 Environment Act 1995 s 18A(3)(b) (as added: see note 3). See also note 6.

MEMBERSHIP AND PROCEEDINGS OF FLOOD DEFENCE COMMITTEES/566. Membership of flood defence committees.

C. MEMBERSHIP AND PROCEEDINGS OF FLOOD DEFENCE COMMITTEES

566. Membership of flood defence committees.

Members<sup>1</sup> of a flood defence committee<sup>2</sup>, other than those appointed by or on behalf of one or more constituent councils<sup>3</sup>, hold and vacate office in accordance with the terms of their appointment<sup>4</sup>. The first members of a local flood defence committee appointed by or on behalf of any one or more constituent councils come into office on the day on which the committee comes into existence or, in the case of a member who is for any reason appointed after that day, on the day on which the appointment is made<sup>5</sup>, and hold office<sup>6</sup> until the end of May in the year specified in the scheme<sup>7</sup> establishing the committee<sup>8</sup>. Any members of a flood defence committee appointed by or on behalf of any one or more constituent councils to whom the above provision does not apply come into office at the beginning of the June next following the day on which they are appointed<sup>9</sup> and hold office<sup>10</sup> for a term of four years<sup>11</sup>. If for any reason any such member is appointed on or after the day on which he ought to have come into office, he comes into office on the day on which he is appointed<sup>12</sup>, and holds office<sup>13</sup> for the remainder of the term<sup>14</sup>.

A person is disqualified for appointment as a member of a flood defence committee if he is a paid officer of the Environment Agency<sup>15</sup>. He is also disqualified for appointment if:

- 1240 (1) he is a person who has been adjudged bankrupt or had his estate sequestrated, or who has made a composition or arrangement with, or granted a trust deed for, his creditors<sup>16</sup>;
- 1241 (2) within the period of five years before the day of his appointment, he has been convicted, in the United Kingdom<sup>17</sup>, the Channel Islands or the Isle of Man, of any offence and has had passed on him a sentence of imprisonment, whether suspended or not, for a period of not less than three months without the option of a fine<sup>18</sup>; or
- 1242 (3) he is disqualified<sup>19</sup> for being elected or for being a member of a local authority<sup>20</sup>.

The office of a member of a flood defence committee becomes vacant upon the fulfilment of any of the following conditions:

- 1243 (a) the person holding that office is adjudged bankrupt, or is a person whose estate is sequestrated, or he makes a composition or arrangement with, or grants a trust deed for, his creditors<sup>21</sup>;
- 1244 (b) that person is convicted of such an offence as is described in head (2) above<sup>22</sup>;
- 1245 (c) that person is disqualified as mentioned in head (3) above<sup>23</sup>; or
- 1246 (d) that person has, for a period of six consecutive months, been absent from meetings of the committee, otherwise than by reason of illness or some other cause approved during the period by the committee<sup>24</sup>.

Where, for any reason whatsoever, the office of a member of a flood defence committee becomes vacant before the end of his term of office, the vacancy must be filled by the appointment of a new member if the unexpired portion of the term of office of the vacating member is six months or more<sup>25</sup>, and may be so filled in any other case<sup>26</sup>. A person so appointed to fill a casual vacancy holds office for so long only as the former member would have held office<sup>27</sup>. Subject to the above provisions<sup>28</sup>, a member of a flood defence committee is eligible for reappointment<sup>29</sup>.

A person nominated<sup>30</sup> by one or more constituent councils may act as deputy for a member of a flood defence committee appointed by or on behalf of that council or those councils and may, accordingly, attend and vote at a meeting of the committee instead of that member<sup>31</sup>. A person acting as deputy for a member of a flood defence committee is treated for the purposes for which he is nominated as a member of that committee<sup>32</sup>, but he may not act as deputy for a member of a flood defence committee unless his nomination has been notified to the officer of the Agency appointed to receive such nominations<sup>33</sup>. A person must not act as deputy for more than one member of a flood defence committee<sup>34</sup>; and nothing in these provisions entitles a person to attend and vote at a meeting of a local flood defence committee by reason of his nomination as deputy for a member of a regional flood defence committee<sup>35</sup>.

The Agency must pay to any person who is a chairman of a flood defence committee such remuneration and allowances as may be determined by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers (the 'relevant minister')<sup>36</sup>; and may pay to any person who is a member of a flood defence committee such allowances as may be determined by the relevant minister<sup>37</sup>. If the relevant minister so determines in the case of any person who is or has been chairman of a flood defence committee, the Agency must pay or make arrangements for the payment of a pension<sup>38</sup> in relation to that person in accordance with the determination<sup>39</sup>. If a person ceases to be chairman of a flood defence committee and it appears to the relevant minister that there are special circumstances which make it right that that person should receive compensation in respect of his ceasing to be chairman, the relevant minister may require the Agency to pay to that person a sum of such amount as that minister may determine<sup>40</sup>.

1 References to a 'member' of a flood defence committee include references to the chairman of such a committee: Environment Act 1995 Sch 5 para 1(5).

2 'Flood defence committee' means either a regional flood defence committee (see PARAS 559-562) or a local flood defence committee (see PARAS 563-565): Environment Act 1995 Sch 5 para 1(1).

3 As to the constituent councils for regional flood defence committees see PARA 561; and as to the constituent councils for local flood defence committees see PARA 564. Members of a flood defence committee appointed by or on behalf of any one or more constituent councils may be members of that council, or one of those councils, or other persons: Environment Act 1995 Sch 5 para 2(1). Any member of a flood defence committee so appointed who at the time of his appointment was a member of that council who ceases to be a member of that council also ceases to be a member of the committee at the end of the period of three months beginning with the date when he ceases to be a member of the council (Sch 5 para 2(2)(a)), or with the appointment of another person in his place (Sch 5 para 2(2)(b)), whichever is the earlier (Sch 5 para 2(2)). However, a member of a council is not deemed to have ceased to be a member of it by reason of retirement if he has been re-elected a member of it not later than the date of his retirement: Sch 5 para 2(3). Where a person is disqualified by reason of having been adjudged bankrupt, the disqualification ceases on his discharge from bankruptcy, unless the bankruptcy order made against him is previously annulled, in which case his disqualification ceases on the date of the annulment: Sch 5 para 3(2). Similar provisions apply where a person has had his estate sequestrated (in Scotland): see Sch 5 para 3(3). Where a person is disqualified by reason of his having made a composition or arrangement with, or having granted a trust deed for, his creditors, the disqualification ceases: (1) if he pays his debts in full, on the date on which the payment is completed; and (2) in any other case, at the end of five years from the date on which the terms of the deed of composition or arrangement, or of the trust deed, are fulfilled: Sch 5 para 3(4). Where a person is disqualified for membership of a regional flood defence committee or local flood defence committee by virtue of having been adjudged bankrupt before the coming into force of the Insolvency Act 1986 (ie 29 December 1986), the rules applicable apart from the repeals made by the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 or the Environment Act 1995 apply, rather than Sch 5 para 3(2), for determining when that disqualification ceases: s 120(3), Sch 23 paras 22, 23(2). FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(i) Flood Defence Committees and Internal Drainage Boards/C. MEMBERSHIP AND PROCEEDINGS OF FLOOD DEFENCE COMMITTEES/567. Appointment of sub-committees and delegation of functions.

567. Appointment of sub-committees and delegation of functions.

A flood defence committee<sup>1</sup> may arrange<sup>2</sup> for the carrying out of any of its functions<sup>3</sup>: (1) by a sub-committee, or an under sub-committee of the committee, or an officer of the Environment Agency<sup>4</sup>; or (2) by any other regional or, as the case may be, local flood defence committee<sup>5</sup>. Any two or more regional flood defence committees, or any two or more local flood defence committees, may arrange<sup>6</sup> to carry out any of their functions jointly or may arrange for the carrying out of any of their functions by a joint sub-committee of theirs<sup>7</sup>.

For these purposes: (a) a flood defence committee may appoint a sub-committee of the committee<sup>8</sup>; (b) two or more regional flood defence committees or two or more local flood defence committees may appoint a joint sub-committee of those committees<sup>9</sup>; and (c) any sub-committee may appoint one or more committees of that sub-committee ('under sub-committees')<sup>10</sup>. The number of members<sup>11</sup> of any sub-committee and their terms of office must be fixed by the appointing committee or committees or, in the case of an under sub-committee, by the appointing sub-committee<sup>12</sup>.

Where by virtue of these provisions any functions of a flood defence committee or of two or more such committees may be carried out by a sub-committee, then, unless the committee or committees otherwise directs or direct, the sub-committee may arrange for the carrying out of any of those functions by an under sub-committee or by an officer of the Agency<sup>13</sup>; and where any such functions may be so carried out by an under sub-committee, the under sub-committee may arrange for the carrying out of any of those functions by such an officer, unless the committee, committees or sub-committee otherwise directs or direct<sup>14</sup>.

Any arrangements made under these provisions for the carrying out of any function do not, however, prevent the flood defence committee from discharging its functions itself<sup>15</sup>. A regional flood defence committee may not make arrangements under these provisions for the carrying out in a local flood defence district<sup>16</sup> of any functions which fall to be carried out there by the local flood defence committee<sup>17</sup>.

568. Proceedings of flood defence committees.

A flood defence committee<sup>1</sup> may, with the approval of the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers (the 'relevant minister')<sup>2</sup>, make rules for regulating the proceedings of the committee<sup>3</sup>.

The statutory provisions relating to the pecuniary interests of members of local authorities<sup>4</sup> apply in relation to members<sup>5</sup> of a flood defence committee as they apply in relation to members of local authorities<sup>6</sup>. A member of a flood defence committee is disqualified, for so long as he remains such a member and for 12 months<sup>7</sup> after he ceases to be one, for appointment to any paid office by the Environment Agency or any regional flood defence committee<sup>8</sup>; but this does not disqualify any person for appointment to the office of chairman of a local flood defence committee<sup>9</sup>.

Any notice or other document which a flood defence committee is required or authorised to give, make or issue by or under any enactment<sup>10</sup> may be signed on behalf of the committee by any member of the committee or any officer of the Agency who is generally or specifically authorised for that purpose by a resolution of the committee<sup>11</sup>; and any document purporting to bear the signature<sup>12</sup> of a person expressed to be so authorised is deemed, unless the contrary is shown, to be duly given, made or issued by authority of the committee<sup>13</sup>. A minute of the proceedings of a meeting of a flood defence committee, purporting to be signed at that or at the next ensuing meeting by the chairman of the meeting to the proceedings of which it relates, or by the chairman of the next ensuing meeting, is evidence of the proceedings and must be received in evidence without further proof<sup>14</sup>. Where a minute has been so signed in respect of a meeting of a committee or sub-committee, then, unless the contrary is shown, the meeting is deemed to have been duly convened and held, all the proceedings had at the meeting are deemed to have been duly had and that committee or sub-committee is deemed to have been duly constituted and to have had power to deal with the matters referred to in the minute<sup>15</sup>.

The validity of any proceedings of a flood defence committee is not affected by any vacancy among the members of the committee or by any defect in the appointment of such a member<sup>16</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'flood defence committee' see PARA 566 note 2.

2 As to the meaning of 'relevant minister' see PARA 566 note 36: definition applied by the Environment Act 1995 Sch 5 para 13(3). Nothing in s 6(4) (see PARA 573) or in the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 105, 106 (see PARA 573) entitles the Environment Agency to make any arrangements or give any directions for regulating the proceedings of any flood defence committee: Environment Act 1995 Sch 5 para 13(2). 6 Environment Act 1995 Sch 5 para 14(1). In their application those provisions have effect in accordance with the following modifications: (1) for references to meeting of the local authority there are substituted references to meetings of the committee; (2) in the Local Government Act 1972 s 94(4) (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 286), for the reference to provision being made by standing orders of a local authority there is substituted a reference to provisions being made by directions of the committee; (3) in s 96 (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 289), for references to the proper officer of the local authority there is substituted a reference to an officer of the Environment Agency appointed for these purposes; and (4) s 97 (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 292) applies as it applies to a local authority other than a parish or community council: Environment Act 1995 Sch 5 para 14(2)(a)-(d).

In general.

D. INTERNAL DRAINAGE DISTRICTS AND BOARDS

569. In general.

For the purposes of the drainage<sup>1</sup> of land<sup>2</sup>:

1247 (1) there are districts, known as 'internal drainage districts', which are such areas within the areas of the regional flood defence committees<sup>3</sup> as will derive benefit, or avoid danger, as a result of drainage operations<sup>4</sup>; and

1248 (2) there are boards, known as 'internal drainage boards', each of which is the drainage board for an internal drainage district<sup>5</sup>.

An internal drainage board exercises a general supervision over all matters relating to the drainage of land within its district and has such other powers and performs such other duties as are conferred or imposed on internal drainage boards by the Land Drainage Act 1991<sup>6</sup>.

An internal drainage board is a body corporate which consists of members elected and holding office in accordance with the statutory provisions<sup>7</sup> and members appointed in accordance with those provisions by local billing authorities<sup>8</sup>. The first members of an internal drainage board must be persons appointed by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers (the 'relevant minister')<sup>9</sup>, together with any persons appointed by local billing authorities<sup>10</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'drainage' see PARA 573.

2 'Land' includes water and any interests in land or water and any easement or right in, to or over land or water: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 72(1).

3 As to regional flood defence committees see PARA 559 et seq.

4 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 1(1)(a). The internal drainage districts which were such districts immediately before the coming into force of s 1 (ie 1 December 1991: see s 72(2)) and the boards for those districts continue as such districts and boards: s 1(1). As to the review of boundaries of internal drainage districts see PARA 577. As to schemes for the reorganisation of such districts see PARA 578.

5 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 1(1)(b). See also note 4. As to the power to make the Environment Agency an internal drainage board see PARA 579. As to the general functions of internal drainage boards see PARA 581 et seq. As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

6 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 1(2). See further PARA 573 et seq.

7 Ie in accordance with provisions made by or under the Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 1: see PARA 570.

8 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 1(3) (amended by virtue of the Local Government Finance Act 1992 s 1). As to such appointment see PARA 633. As to local billing authorities see the Local Government Finance Act 1992 s 1; and RATING AND COUNCIL TAX vol 39(1B) (Reissue) PARA 229. So far as members of an internal drainage board are so required to be elected, this provision has effect in relation to an internal drainage board in existence on 1 August 1930 only to such an extent as: (1) it is applied to the board by a scheme made or having effect as if made under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 3 (see PARA 578); or (2) immediately before 1 December 1991, corresponding provision otherwise applied in relation to that board by virtue of the Land Drainage Act 1976 s 7(4) (repealed): Land Drainage Act 1991 s 1(6).

9 'Relevant minister' means: (1) in relation to internal drainage districts which are neither wholly nor partly in Wales or to the boards for such districts, the minister; (2) in relation to internal drainage districts which are partly in Wales or to the boards for such districts, the ministers; and (3) in relation to internal drainage districts which are wholly in Wales or to the boards for such districts, the Secretary of State: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 72(1). 'The minister' means the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food; and 'the ministers' means the minister and the Secretary of State, and in relation to anything which falls to be done by the ministers, means those ministers acting jointly: s 72(1).

The functions of a Minister of the Crown under the Land Drainage Act 1991, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales except s 31 (see PARA 588), and except the functions of the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food under ss 1-7 (see PARAS 570-573, 577-581), ss 9, 10 (see PARA 582) s 19 (see PARA 590), ss 33, 34 (see PARA 592), ss 38, 39 (see PARA 631), s 47 (see PARA 632), s 51 (see PARA 636), s 52 (see PARA 626), s 55 (see PARA 640), ss 57, 58 (see PARA 613), ss 61A, 61B (see PARA 642), s 61D (see PARA 645), ss 62(1), 63 (see PARA 609), s 66 (see PARAS 605-607) and s 69 (see PARA 657), and Sch 1 (see PARAS 570, 633), Sch 2 (see PARAS 571, 572), Sch 3 para 8 (see PARA 583) (so far as relating to matters concerning orders under ss 3-5) and Sch 5 (see PARAS 606-607): see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

On 27 March 2002, the Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food was dissolved and the functions of the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food were transferred to the Secretary of State, with any function which was exercisable by the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food and the Secretary of State acting jointly also being transferred to the Secretary of State: see the Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food (Dissolution) Order 2002, SI 2002/794, arts 1(2), 2(1)-(3).

FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(i) Flood Defence Committees and Internal Drainage Boards/D. INTERNAL DRAINAGE DISTRICTS AND BOARDS/570. Election of members.

570. Election of members.

An election of members of an internal drainage board<sup>1</sup> must be conducted in accordance with rules contained in regulations<sup>2</sup> made by the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> or, as appropriate, by the Welsh Ministers (the 'relevant minister')<sup>4</sup>:

- 1249 (1) for the preparation of registers of electors and for securing that the registers are open to inspection<sup>5</sup>;
- 1250 (2) with respect to the holding and conduct of elections, including provisions as to returning officers, nominations, polls and the counting of votes<sup>6</sup>; and
- 1251 (3) for allowing any person<sup>7</sup> or body of persons entitled to vote at an election to vote by a deputy<sup>8</sup>.

The electors for members of an internal drainage board are the persons who at the date of the election occupy land<sup>9</sup> in the board's district on which a drainage rate has been levied in the year immediately preceding<sup>10</sup>. Each elector is entitled to one or more votes according to the assessable value<sup>11</sup> of the property in respect of which he is entitled to vote<sup>12</sup>.

A person is not qualified for election as a member of an internal drainage board unless he is:

- 1252 (a) both the owner and the occupier of not less than 4 hectares of land in respect of which a drainage rate may be levied by the board and which is situated in the electoral district for which he is a candidate for election<sup>13</sup>;
- 1253 (b) the occupier, whether under tenancies of year to year or otherwise, of not less than 8 hectares of such land<sup>14</sup>;
- 1254 (c) the occupier of land which is of an assessable value<sup>15</sup> of £30 or upwards and is situated in the electoral district for which he is a candidate for election<sup>16</sup>; or
- 1255 (d) a person nominated as a candidate for election by the person, whether an individual or a body of persons, who is both the owner and the occupier of land which is situated in the electoral district in question and is either of not less than 4 hectares in extent or of an assessable value of £30 or upwards<sup>17</sup>.

Elected members<sup>18</sup> of an internal drainage board come into office on 1 November next after the day on which they are elected and hold office for a term of three years<sup>19</sup>. An elected member may resign his office by notice given to the chairman of the board<sup>20</sup> and must, if he is absent from meetings of the board for more than six months<sup>21</sup> consecutively, vacate his office at the end of that six months unless his absence is due to illness or some other reason approved by the board<sup>22</sup>. If for any reason whatsoever the place of an elected member of an internal drainage board becomes vacant before the end of his term of office, the vacancy must be filled by the election by the board of a new member<sup>23</sup>, except where the unexpired portion of the term of his office is less than six months, in which case the vacancy need not be filled<sup>24</sup>. A person elected to fill a casual vacancy holds office so long as the vacating member would have held it<sup>25</sup>.

Subject to the above provisions, a vacating member of an internal drainage board is eligible for re-election or reappointment<sup>26</sup>.

- 7 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.
- 8 Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 1 para 1(1)(c). Provision so made may include provision with respect to the making of objections to entries in registers and with respect to the hearing and determination of such objections: Sch 1 para 1(2). By virtue of the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2(2), Sch 2 para 1, the Land Drainage (Election of Drainage Boards) Regulations 1938, SR & O 1938/558 (amended by SI 1977/366; and by virtue of the Water Act 1989 s 190, Sch 26 para 36(2) and the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 233(1)), have effect as if made under these provisions. See the Land Drainage (Election of Drainage Boards) Regulations 1938, SR & O 1938/558, regs 1-3 (as so amended) (division into districts and preparation, approval and revisions of registers); regs 4-12 (as so amended) (appointment of returning officer, publication of notice of election and nominations); regs 13-26 (as so amended) (conduct of elections and declaration of result); reg 27 (care of voting papers).
- The Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 1 Pt I (paras 1-4) has effect in relation to an internal drainage board in existence on 1 August 1930 only to such an extent as: (1) it is applied to the board by a scheme made or having effect as if made under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 3 (see PARA 578); or (2) immediately before 1 December 1991, corresponding provision otherwise applied in relation to that board by virtue of the Land Drainage Act 1976 s 7(4) (repealed): Land Drainage Act 1991 s 1(6).
- 9 The owner of any hereditament is deemed to be its occupier for these purposes during any period in which it is unoccupied: Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 1 para 2(3). As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 569 note 2.
- 10 Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 1 para 2(1). As to drainage rates see PARA 627 et seq. A person is not entitled to be an elector by reason of his occupation of land if at the date of the election any amount demanded in respect of any drainage rate levied on that land has remained unpaid for more than a month: Sch 1 para 2(2). An elector owning or occupying property in two or more electoral districts must be entered on the register in respect of his property in each district: see the Land Drainage (Election of Drainage Boards) Regulations 1938, SR & O 1938/558, reg 2(1).
- 11 This reference to the assessable value of any land is a reference to the amount which for the purposes of any drainage rate levied at the relevant date would be the annual value of the land; and 'relevant date' means the date as at which the qualification of electors is determined for the purposes of the election in accordance with rules made under the Land Drainage Act 1995 Sch 1 para 1 (see the text to notes 1-8): Sch 1 para 3(2), (3). For transitional provision with respect to electors who qualify by reference to drainage rates made in respect of years beginning before 1993 see Sch 1 para 2(4); and the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 Sch 2 para 17. As to annual value see PARA 627.
- 12 Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 1 para 3(1). The scale set out in Sch 1 para 3(1) provides for one vote if the assessable value is less than £50, two if it is less than £100, three if it is less than £150, four if it is less than £200, five if it is less than £250, six if it is less than £500, eight if it is less than £1,000 and ten if it is £1,000 or more: see Sch 1 para 3(1), Table. This scale is identical to that set out in the Land Drainage Act 1976: see s 7(3), Sch 2 para 23(1) (repealed).
- 13 Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 1 para 4(1)(a). A person is not qualified as being an occupier of any land, or as being the owner and occupier of any land, or as a person nominated by the owner and occupier of any land (see head (d) in the text) for these purposes if at the date of the election any amount demanded in respect of any drainage rate levied on that land has remained unpaid for more than one month: Sch 1 para 4(2). As to the meaning of 'month' see PARA 23 note 10.
- 14 Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 1 para 4(1)(b). See also note 13.
- 15 This reference to the assessable value of any land is a reference to the amount which for the purposes of any drainage rate levied at the relevant date would be the annual value of the land; and 'relevant date' means the date as at which the qualifications of candidates for the election in question are determined in accordance with rules made under the Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 1 para 1 (see the text to notes 1-8): Sch 1 para 4(3), (5). Schedule 1 para 4 has effect subject to the provisions of the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2(2), Sch 2 para 18, which makes provision with respect to relevant dates falling before 1 April 1993: Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 1 para 4(4).

17 Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 1 para 4(1)(d). See also note 13.

18 For these purposes, references to an elected member in relation to an internal drainage board are references to any member of that board other than a member appointed by one or more local billing authorities: Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 1 para 12 (amended by virtue of the Local Government Finance Act 1992 s 1). As to local billing authorities see the Local Government Finance Act 1992 s 1; and RATING AND COUNCIL TAX vol 39(1B) (Reissue) PARA 229. As to members so appointed see PARA 633. The terms of appointment of any such appointed member are determined by the authority or authorities by which he is appointed: Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 1 para 7(2).

19 Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 1 para 7(1). The members of an internal drainage board who are appointed by the relevant minister as first members of that board hold office until the end of one year from the 1 November next following the day on which they are appointed: Sch 1 para 7(3). Schedule 1 Pt III (paras 7-12) has effect in relation to an internal drainage board in existence on 1 August 1930 only to such an extent as: (1) it is applied to the board by a scheme made or having effect as if made under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 3 (see PARA 578); or (2) immediately before 1 December 1991, corresponding provision otherwise applied in relation to that board by virtue of the Land Drainage Act 1976 s 7(4) (repealed): Land Drainage Act 1991 s 1(6).

571. Proceedings of internal drainage boards.

An internal drainage board<sup>1</sup> may, with the approval of the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers (the 'relevant minister')<sup>3</sup>, make rules: (1) for regulating its proceedings, including quorum, place of meetings and notices to be given of meetings<sup>4</sup>; (2) with respect to the appointment of a chairman and a vice-chairman<sup>5</sup>; (3) for enabling it to constitute committees<sup>6</sup>; and (4) for authorising the delegation to committees of any of the powers of the board and for regulating the proceedings of committees, including quorum, place of meetings and notices to be given of meetings<sup>7</sup>.

The first meeting of an internal drainage board must be held on a day, and at a time and place, fixed by the relevant minister; and the relevant minister must cause notice of the meeting to be sent to each member of the board not less than 14 days before the appointed day<sup>8</sup>.

Any member of an internal drainage board who is interested in any company with which the board has, or proposes to make, any contract must disclose to the board the fact and nature of his interest and may not take part in any deliberation or decision of the board relating to that contract<sup>9</sup>.

A minute of the proceedings of a meeting of an internal drainage board, or of a committee of such a board, purporting to be signed at that or the next ensuing meeting by a person describing himself as, or appearing to be, the chairman of the meeting to the proceedings of which the minute relates is evidence of the proceedings and must be received in evidence without further proof<sup>10</sup>. Until the contrary is proved, every meeting in respect of the proceedings of which a minute has been so signed is deemed to have duly convened and held, all the proceedings had at any such meeting are deemed to have been duly had, and where the proceedings at any such meeting are the proceedings of a committee, the committee is deemed to have been duly constituted and to have had power to deal with the matters referred to in the minute<sup>11</sup>. The proceedings of an internal drainage board are not invalidated by any vacancy in the membership of the board or by any defect in the appointment or qualification of any member of the board<sup>12</sup>.

The relevant minister may, if he thinks fit, by order authorise an internal drainage board to pay to the chairman of the board, for the purpose of enabling him to meet the expenses of his office, such allowance as may be specified in the order<sup>13</sup>. An internal drainage board may pay any reasonable expenses incurred by its members and officers in: (a) attending meetings of the board or a committee or sub-committee thereof<sup>14</sup>; (b) carrying out inspections necessary for the discharge of the functions of the board<sup>15</sup>; or (c) attending conferences or meetings convened by one or more internal drainage boards, or by any association of internal drainage boards, for the purpose of discussing matters connected with the discharge of the functions of internal drainage boards<sup>16</sup>; and may pay any reasonable expenses incurred by its members or officers in purchasing reports of the proceedings of any such conference or meeting<sup>17</sup>.

An internal drainage board may pay to persons employed by it such reasonable remuneration as it thinks fit<sup>18</sup>; and an internal drainage board may provide housing accommodation for persons employed by it<sup>19</sup>.

572. Report and accounts.

Before a date in every year fixed by the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers (the 'relevant minister')<sup>2</sup>, an internal drainage board<sup>3</sup> must send to that minister a report of its proceedings during the preceding year<sup>4</sup>. At the same time, the board must send a copy of its report to the Environment Agency<sup>5</sup> and to the council of every county, county borough and London borough in which any part of the board's district is situated<sup>6</sup>. Every such report must be in such form and must contain particulars with respect to such matters as the relevant minister may direct<sup>7</sup>.

As soon as its accounts have been audited, an internal drainage board must send a copy of them to the relevant minister, to the Agency, and to the council of every county, county borough and London borough in which any part of the board's district is situated<sup>8</sup>. A copy of the board's audited accounts must be kept at the board's office and any person<sup>9</sup> who is liable to pay drainage rates<sup>10</sup> in the board's district is entitled, without payment, to inspect that copy and to take copies of it or extracts from it<sup>11</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 As to the meaning of 'relevant minister', and as to the transfer of functions to the Welsh Ministers, see PARA 569 note 9. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

3 As to internal drainage boards see PARA 569.

4 Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 2 para 4(1)(a). Schedule 2 paras 4, 5 (see the text to notes 8-11) have effect in relation to an internal drainage board in existence on 1 August 1930 only to such an extent as: (1) they were applied to the board by a scheme made or having effect as if made under s 3 (see PARA 578); or (2) immediately before 1 December 1991, corresponding provisions otherwise applied in relation to that board by virtue of the Land Drainage Act 1976 s 7(4) (repealed): Land Drainage Act 1991 s 1(6). A report for the year ending 31 March must be sent to the relevant minister before the following 1 July: see the Land Drainage (General) Regulations 1932, SR & O 1932/64, reg 3(1). The Land Drainage (General) Regulations 1932, SR & O 1932/64, have effect by virtue of the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2(2), Sch 2 para 1.

General duties and powers.

(ii) General Powers and Duties to Drain Land and Protect Land from Flooding

A. INTRODUCTION

573. General duties and powers.

Under English law, the primary obligation to drain and protect land is that of the individual landowner and the common law has established a regime of rights and duties of and upon landowners in this respect<sup>1</sup>. The scheme of the various Acts<sup>2</sup> is generally not to remove such rights and duties but to confer additional powers on the various relevant statutory bodies<sup>3</sup> and in certain cases the landowners themselves<sup>4</sup> and to require the consent of the appropriate statutory body before a landowner may undertake certain activities<sup>5</sup>. It is important to bear in mind that the legislative framework generally confers powers and does not impose duties on statutory bodies exercising flood defence or land drainage functions<sup>6</sup>.

For the purposes of the legislation on the land drainage powers and duties of statutory bodies, 'drainage' includes defence against water (including sea water<sup>7</sup>), irrigation, other than spray irrigation<sup>8</sup>, warping<sup>9</sup> and the carrying on for any purpose of any other practice which involves management of the level of water in a watercourse<sup>10</sup>. 'Flood defence' means the drainage of land and the provision of flood warning systems<sup>11</sup>.

The division of responsibility between the various drainage bodies, which are the Environment Agency<sup>12</sup>, internal drainage boards<sup>13</sup>, local authorities<sup>14</sup> and any other body having power to make or maintain works for the drainage of land<sup>15</sup>, depends primarily on the status of the watercourses involved. For the purpose of the relevant legislation, a watercourse is either a 'main river' or an 'ordinary watercourse'<sup>16</sup>.

The Agency exercises a general supervision over all matters relating to flood defence<sup>17</sup> and is required for the purpose of carrying out its flood defence functions<sup>18</sup> to carry out from time to time surveys of the areas in relation to which it carries out those functions<sup>19</sup>. It must also be consulted by a local planning authority on the flood defence implications of any application for planning permission<sup>20</sup>. The Agency must arrange for its functions under the Land Drainage Act 1991 and those of its functions under the Water Resources Act 1991 that relate to flood defence to be carried out by regional flood defence committees<sup>21</sup>. The arrangements must ensure that those functions are carried out in relation to the area of each regional flood defence committee by the committee for that area<sup>22</sup>. However, the issuing of levies, the making of drainage charges and the borrowing of money must not be included in such arrangements<sup>23</sup>. The Agency must maintain a principal office for the area of each regional flood defence committee<sup>24</sup>. The Agency may give to a regional flood defence committee a direction of a general or specific character as to the carrying out of any function relating to flood defence (other than one of that committee's internal drainage functions<sup>25</sup>) so far as the carrying out of that function appears to the Agency likely to affect materially its management of water for purposes other than flood defence<sup>26</sup>; and it is the duty of the regional flood defence committee to comply with that direction<sup>27</sup>.

A scheme (a 'local flood defence scheme') may also be made by the Agency for the creation, in the area of a regional flood defence committee, of one or more local flood defence districts and for the constitution, membership, functions and procedure of a local flood defence committee for each such district<sup>28</sup>. With certain exceptions, however, most notably that of defence against tidal water<sup>29</sup>, the Agency's power to maintain, improve and construct flood defence works relates only to those watercourses designated as 'main river', and the Agency's powers of control, including the power to make byelaws<sup>30</sup>, vary as to whether a watercourse is a main river or an ordinary watercourse.

An internal drainage board exercises a general supervision over all matters relating to the drainage of land in its district<sup>31</sup>, and is empowered to carry out drainage works within that district on ordinary watercourses<sup>32</sup>. The powers of local authorities under the Land Drainage Act 1991 also apply only to ordinary watercourses<sup>33</sup> and are usually subject to first obtaining the Agency's consent<sup>34</sup>.

1 As to such rights and duties see PARA 81 et seq.

2 I.e. the Land Drainage Act 1991 and the Water Resources Act 1991: see PARA 569-572, PARA 574 et seq.

3 As to such powers see PARA 589 et seq.

4 As to such powers see PARA 587.

5 See in particular PARA 602 et seq.

6 As to the law relating to the conferring of such powers and confirming that duties are not imposed see PARA 589 note 4.

7 As to the law and history relating to sea walls see Symes and Jaywick Associated Properties Ltd v Essex Rivers Catchment Board [1937] 1 KB 548, [1936] 3 All ER 908, CA. As to other statutory powers relating to the protection of the coast against encroachment by the sea see PARA 502 et seq.

8 'Spray irrigation' is not defined in the Land Drainage Act 1991 or in the flood defence provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991. For its meaning in the Water Resources Act 1991 for the purposes of Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72) see s 72(1); and PARA 262.

9 'Warping' is the controlled flooding of land for the purpose of fertilisation by silt or alluvial mud.

10 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 72(1) (definition substituted by the Environment Act 1995 s 100(2)); Water Resources Act 1991 s 113(1) (definition amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 100(1)). For these purposes, 'watercourse' includes all rivers, streams, ditches, drains, cuts, culverts, dykes, sluices, sewers, and passages through which water flows, except a public sewer: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 72(1); Water Resources Act 1991 s 113(1). As to the meaning of 'public sewer' see PARA 138 note 11. See Raglan Housing Association Ltd v Southampton City Council [2007] EWCA Civ 785, [2008] 2 All ER 44, [2007] NLJR 1391, [2007] All ER (D) 461 (Jul).

11 Water Resources Act 1991 s 113(1). As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21. As to the meaning of 'flood warning systems' see PARA 596.

12 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

13 As to internal drainage boards see PARA 569.

14 'Local authority' means the council of a county, county borough, district or London borough or the Common Council of the City of London: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 72(1) (definition amended by the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 22(5), Sch 11 para 4(12)). As to local government areas and authorities in England and Wales see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 22 et seq. As to the London boroughs and their councils see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 35 et seq. As to the Common Council of the City of London see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARAS 51-55.

15 'Drainage body' means the Environment Agency, an internal drainage board or any other body having power to make or maintain works for the drainage of land: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 72(1) (definition amended by the Environment Act 1991 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 191). As to the meaning of 'land' in this context see PARA 569 note 2.

16 'Ordinary watercourse' means a watercourse that does not form part of a main river: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 72(1). As to the meaning of 'main river' see PARA 574.

17 Environment Act 1995 s 6(4). This provision is expressed to be subject to the Water Resources Act 1991 s 106 (obligation to carry out flood defence functions through committees): see the text to notes 21-23. The duty includes the supervision of internal drainage boards (see PARA 581) but does not entitle the Agency to make any arrangements or give any directions for regulating the proceedings of any flood defence committee: see the Environment Act 1995 Sch 5 para 13(2); and PARA 568 note 3.

18 'Flood defence functions' in relation to the Environment Agency means: (1) its functions with respect to flood defence and land drainage by virtue of the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt IV (ss 105-113), the Land Drainage Act 1991 and the Environment Act 1995 s 6 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 76); (2) those functions transferred to the Agency by the Environment Act 1995 s 2(1)(a)(iii) (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 70) which were previously transferred to the National Rivers Authority by virtue of the Water Act 1989 s 136(8), Sch 15 para 1(3); and (3) other functions of the Agency under any of the flood defence provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991: s 221(1) (definition substituted by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 177(2), (7)); definition applied in relation to functions under the Environment Act 1995 by s 56(1). As to the meaning of 'flood defence provisions' see PARA 20 note 2. The Agency's flood defence functions extend to the territorial sea adjacent to England and Wales in so far as: (a) the area of any regional flood defence committee includes any area of that territorial sea; or (b) the Water Resources Act 1991 s 165(2) or (3) (drainage works for the purpose of defence against sea water or tidal water, and works to secure an adequate outfall for a main river: see PARA 589) provide for the exercise of any power in the territorial sea: Environment Act 1995 s 6(5). In relation to these flood defence functions, the Agency and any regional flood defence committee for an area wholly or partly in England may be investigated for maladministration by the Commission for Local Administration in England: see the Local Government Act 1974 s 25(1)(d) (substituted by the Environment Act 1995 Sch 22 para 18; and amended by the Public Services Ombudsman (Wales) Act 2005 s 39(1), Sch 6 paras 7, 10(f)). Similarly, the Public Services Ombudsman for Wales may investigate the Agency or any regional flood defence committee for an area wholly or partly in Wales: see the Public Services Ombudsman (Wales) Act 2005 s 28, Sch 3. See further LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 839 et seq. As to the territorial sea see PARA 31. As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2.

19 Water Resources Act 1991 s 105(2) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 Sch 22 para 128). Nothing in the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 105, 106 (see the text to notes 21-23) entitles the Agency to make any arrangements or give any directions for regulating the proceedings of any flood defence committee: see the Environment Act 1995 Sch 5 para 13(2); and PARA 568 note 3.

22 Water Resources Act 1991 s 106(1)(a). In cases involving the areas of more than one regional flood defence committee, the arrangements must ensure that the functions are carried out by such committee, or jointly by such committees, as may be determined in accordance with the arrangements: see s 106(1)(b) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/9. FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(ii) General Powers and Duties to Drain Land and Protect Land from Flooding/A. INTRODUCTION/574. Main rivers.

574. Main rivers.

The powers conferred by the Water Resources Act 1991 or the Land Drainage Act 1991 on drainage bodies<sup>1</sup> are, so far as concerns main rivers, their banks<sup>2</sup> and drainage works<sup>3</sup> in connection with main rivers, exercisable only by the Environment Agency<sup>4</sup>.

A main river map is conclusive evidence for all purposes as to what is a main river<sup>7</sup>. The Agency must keep the main river map for the area of a regional flood defence committee at the principal office of the Agency for that area<sup>8</sup> and provide reasonable facilities for inspecting that map and taking copies of and extracts from it<sup>9</sup>. Any local authority<sup>10</sup> whose area is wholly or partly within the area of a regional flood defence committee is entitled, on application to the Agency, to be furnished with copies of the main river map for the area of that committee on payment of such sum as may be agreed between the Agency and that local authority<sup>11</sup>.

Either the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers may at any time send the Agency one or more new maps to be substituted for the whole or any part of a main river map and containing a statement to that effect<sup>12</sup> and specifying the date on which the substitution is to take effect<sup>13</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers (the 'relevant minister') must take such action as is considered appropriate where: (1) the area of a regional flood defence committee is altered<sup>14</sup> so as to affect any of the particulars shown on its main river map for that area<sup>15</sup>; (2) a scheme is confirmed<sup>16</sup> for the designation of watercourses and the raising of a special drainage charge<sup>17</sup>; or (3) the Agency applies to the relevant minister for the variation of a main river map so far as it shows the extent to which any watercourse is to be treated as, or as part of, a main river<sup>18</sup>. The action to be taken by the relevant minister is: (a) the alteration of a main river map<sup>19</sup>; (b) the preparation of a new map<sup>20</sup>; or (c) the notification of the Agency that he does not intend to vary the main river map in question<sup>21</sup>. Before, however, the relevant minister alters a main river map or prepares a new map, he must give notice<sup>22</sup> of his intention to do so in such manner as he thinks best adapted for informing persons affected<sup>23</sup>. He must consider any objections made to him within the time and in the manner specified in the notice<sup>24</sup>, and may then alter or prepare the map either in accordance with the proposals contained in the notice or otherwise<sup>25</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'drainage body' see PARA 573 note 15.

2 'Banks' means banks, walls or embankments adjoining or confining or constructed for the purposes of or in connection with any channel or sea-front and includes all land and water between the bank and low-water mark: Water Resources Act 1991 s 113(1); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 72(1). A bank is not limited to the actual slope or vertical face where the banks meet the river but includes the land adjoining or near to the river to the extent to which it serves a function of confining the river: Jones v Mersey River Board [1958] 1 QB 143, [1957] 3 All ER 375, CA.

3 The expression 'drainage works' is not defined in the Land Drainage Act 1991 or the Water Resources Act 1991. References in the Land Drainage Act 1991 to the carrying out of drainage works include references to the improvement of drainage works: s 72(5). As to the meaning of 'drainage' see PARA 573. If any question arises under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt IV (ss 105-113): (1) whether any work is a drainage work in connection with a main river; or (2) whether any proposed work will, if constructed, be such a drainage work, the question must be referred to the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers for decision or, if either of the parties so requires, to arbitration: s 113(2). Where any question is so required to be referred to arbitration it must be referred to the arbitration of a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the parties or, in default of agreement, by the President of the Institution of Civil Engineers, on the application of either party: s 113(3). The provisions of the Arbitration Act 1996 Pt I (ss 1-84) apply to any such arbitration: see s 94; and ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARA 1209.

The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 113 and ss 193, 194 (see note 6, and the text to notes 7-25), so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

4 This is the effect of the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 14(2) (see PARA 589) and the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 107(1), 165(1) (see PARA 589). As to agreements entered into by the Environment Agency with other bodies for work to be done by those bodies see PARA 590.

The Water Resources Act 1991 s 107 has effect for conferring functions in relation to main rivers on the Agency which are functions of drainage boards in relation to other watercourses: s 107(1) (s 107(1)-(4), (6) amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). Those functions of the Agency are in addition to its functions which, by virtue of the provisions of the Land Drainage Act 1991, are exercisable concurrently with an internal drainage board: Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(6) (as so amended). In s 107, references to the exercise of a power in relation to a main river include a reference to its exercise in connection with a main river or in relation to the banks of such a river or any drainage works in connection with such a river; and expressions used both therein and in a provision applied thereby have the same meanings: s 107(5). See further s 107(2) (applying the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 21); and PARA 592; the Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(3) (applying the Land Drainage Act 1991 ss 25, 27); and PARAS 599-600; and the Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(4) (applying the Land Drainage Act 1991 ss 33, 34); and PARA 592. As to drainage boards see PARA 569. As to the meaning of 'watercourse' see PARA 573 note 10.

5 le subject to the Water Resources Act 1991 s 137(4): see PARA 617.

6 Water Resources Act 1991 s 113(1). A main river includes any structure or appliance for controlling or regulating the flow of water into, in or out of the channel which is a structure or appliance situated in the channel or in any part of the banks of the channel, and is not a structure or appliance vested in or controlled by an internal drainage board: s 113(1).

'Main river map' has, subject to s 194 (see the text to notes 12-25), the meaning given by s 193(2): s 221(1). A 'main river map' is a map relating to the area of a regional flood defence committee which: (1) shows by a distinctive colour the extent to which any watercourse in that area is to be treated as a main river, or part of a main river, for the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991; and (2) indicates (by a distinctive colour or otherwise) which (if any) of those watercourses are watercourses designated in a scheme made under s 137 (see PARA 615); and, subject to s 194, references to a main river map, in relation to the area of a regional flood defence committee, include so much of any map as, by virtue of the Water Act 1989 Sch 26 para 38, has effect as such a map at 1 December 1991 (ie the coming into force of the Water Resources Act 1991: see s 225(2)): s 193(2). As to regional flood defence committees see PARA 559.

7 Water Resources Act 1991 s 193(3)(a). The map is to be taken for the purposes of the Documentary Evidence Act 1868 (see CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARAS 892-894) as it applies to either the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers to be a document within the meaning of that Act and to have been issued by him or by them: see the Water Resources Act 1991 s 193(3)(b).

FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(ii) General Powers and Duties to Drain Land and Protect Land from Flooding/A. INTRODUCTION/575. Schemes for transfer of functions in relation to main river.

575. Schemes for transfer of functions in relation to main river.

The Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> may at any time, and if so directed by the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup> must, prepare and submit to him or them for confirmation a scheme for the transfer to the Agency from any drainage body<sup>4</sup> of all rights, powers, duties, obligations and liabilities (including liabilities incurred in connection with works) over or in connection with a main river<sup>5</sup>, and of any property held by that body for the purpose of, or in connection with, any functions so transferred<sup>6</sup>. The Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers to whom such a scheme is submitted may by order<sup>7</sup> confirm it either with or without modifications<sup>8</sup>. Where under such a scheme liabilities incurred in connection with drainage works are transferred to the Agency from a local authority, the Agency may require the local authority to make contributions towards the discharge of the liabilities<sup>9</sup>. Any dispute as to the amount of these contributions is to be referred to a single arbitrator appointed in default of agreement by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers<sup>10</sup>.

The relevant minister<sup>11</sup> must by regulations<sup>12</sup> provide for the payment, subject to such exceptions or conditions as may be specified in the regulations, of compensation by the Agency to any officer or other employee of a drainage body who suffers loss of employment, or loss or diminution of emoluments, which is attributable to such a scheme or anything done in pursuance of it<sup>13</sup>.

1 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

2 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

3 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 108 and Sch 14 (see PARA 586) (except those of the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food as the 'relevant minister' (see note 11)), so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the abolition of the Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food and the transfer of his functions see PARA 15 note 1. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

4 For these purposes, 'drainage body' means an internal drainage board or any other body having power to make or maintain works for the drainage of land: Water Resources Act 1991 s 108(9). As to internal drainage boards see PARA 569. As to the meaning of 'drainage' see PARA 573. As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21.

5 Water Resources Act 1991 s 108(1)(a) (s 108(1) amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). As to the meaning of 'main river' see PARA 574.

6 Water Resources Act 1991 s 108(1)(b). The scheme may make provisions for any matter supplemental to or consequential on the transfers for which it provides: s 108(2). As soon as any scheme has been submitted to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, the Agency must: (1) send copies of the scheme to every internal drainage board, local authority, navigation authority, harbour authority and conservancy authority affected by it (Sch 14 para 1(a)); and (2) publish, in one or more local newspapers circulating in the area affected by the scheme, a notice stating that the scheme has been submitted, that a copy of the scheme is open to inspection at a specified place, and that representations with respect to the scheme may be made to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers within one month after publication of the notice (Sch 14 para 1(b) (Sch 14 para 1 amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128)). As to the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 187 note 2. As to the meaning of 'navigation authority' see PARA 189 note 1. As to the meaning of 'harbour authority' see PARA 189 note 2. As to the meaning of 'conservancy authority' see PARA 189 note 3. As to the meaning of 'month' see PARA 23 note 10.

7 The order must be made by statutory instrument: Water Resources Act 1991 s 108(3). The order may contain provisions with respect to the persons by whom all or any of the expenses incurred by the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers or other persons in connection with the making or confirmation of the order, or with the making of the scheme confirmed by the order, are to be borne: see s 108(4). As to the procedure to be followed on the making of such order see Sch 14; and PARA 583. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the bringing of subordinate legislation made by the Welsh Ministers before the National Assembly for Wales see the Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 paras 33-35; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

8 See the Water Resources Act 1991 s 108(3), Sch 14 para 3(2). As to the meaning of 'modifications' see PARA 141 note 20.

9 Water Resources Act 1991 108(5) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128).

10 See the Water Resources Act 1991 s 108(6) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). The provisions of the Arbitration Act 1996 Pt I (ss 1-84) apply to any such arbitration: see s 94; and ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARA 1209.

11 For these purposes, 'relevant minister' means: (1) in relation to employees of a drainage body wholly in Wales, the Welsh Ministers; (2) in relation to employees of a drainage body partly in Wales, the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers; and (3) in any other case, the Secretary of State: Water Resources Act 1991 s 108(9). See also note 3.

12 As to the making of regulations see PARA 21.

13 Water Resources Act 1991 s 108(7) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). Such regulations may include provision: (1) as to the manner in which and the persons to whom any claim for compensation by virtue of the regulations is to be made; and (2) for the determination of all questions arising under them: s 108(8). As to the regulations made see the Land Drainage (Compensation) Regulations 1977, SI 1977/339 (amended by SI 2002/2469; SI 2005/2114; and by virtue of the Employment Rights (Dispute Resolution) Act 1998 s 1(2)), which have effect by virtue of the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2(2), Sch 1 para 1(1), (2).

FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(ii) General Powers and Duties to Drain Land and Protect Land from Flooding/A. INTRODUCTION/576. Savings and protective provisions.

576. Savings and protective provisions.

Nothing in Part IV of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>1</sup> affects the powers exercisable by the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup>, and nothing in the Land Drainage Act 1991 affects the powers exercisable by any internal drainage board<sup>3</sup>, under any local Act as they existed immediately before 1 December 1991<sup>4</sup>. Certain undertakers and their undertakings are given protection from flood defence or land drainage operations which might interfere with them<sup>5</sup>.

Nothing in the flood defence provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>6</sup> or in the Land Drainage Act 1991 confers power to do anything which, directly or indirectly, prejudices the exercise of any statutory power, authority or jurisdiction from time to time vested in or exercisable by any protected undertaker<sup>7</sup>. Furthermore those Acts do not authorise any person (save with the consent of the undertaker) to do any work which, whether directly or indirectly, interferes or will interfere with, or with the use of, the works or any property which is vested in or under the control of the undertaker in its capacity as such, in such a manner as to affect injuriously those works or that property or the carrying on of the undertaking<sup>8</sup>. Such consent may be given subject to reasonable conditions but must not be unreasonably withheld<sup>9</sup>. Any dispute arising is to be referred to a single arbitrator to be appointed, failing agreement, by the President of the Institution of Civil Engineers<sup>10</sup>.

Protection is also afforded to ancient monuments and fisheries, as nothing in the Land Drainage Act 1991 or the flood defence provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 authorises any person carrying out works to do anything in contravention of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979<sup>11</sup> or prejudices the fisheries functions of the Environment Agency<sup>12</sup> or the provisions of the Salmon and Freshwater Fisheries Act 1975<sup>13</sup>.

1    le the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt IV (ss 105-113) which contains provisions relating to flood defence committees (see PARA 559 et seq) and main river functions (see PARAS 574-575, 603).

2    As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

3    As to internal drainage boards see PARA 569.

4    Water Resources Act 1991 s 113(4) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 67(8). 1 December 1991 is the date of the coming into force of the Water Resources Act 1991 (see s 225(2)) and the Land Drainage Act 1991 (see s 76(2)). As to local legislation see PARA 14.

5    As to the meanings of 'flood defence' and 'drainage' see PARA 573. The following are protected undertakings for these purposes: (1) the Environment Agency, the Civil Aviation Authority, the Coal Authority, and a universal service provider (so far as it is his undertaking in relation to the provision of a universal postal service); (2) the undertaking of any water undertaker or sewerage undertaker; (3) any undertaking consisting in the provision of an electronic communications code network; (4) any airport to which the Airports Act 1986 Pt V (ss 57-62) applies; (5) the undertaking of any gas transporter within the meaning of the Gas Act 1986 Pt I (ss 4AA-48); (6) the undertaking of any person authorised by a licence under the Electricity Act 1989 Pt I (ss 3A-64) to generate, supply or participate in the transmission of electricity; (7) the undertaking of any navigation authority, harbour authority or conservancy authority; (8) any public utility undertaking carried on by a local authority under any Act or under any order having the force of an Act; (9) the undertaking of any licensed operator, within the meaning of the Coal Industry Act 1994; (10) the undertaking of a person who holds a licence under the Transport Act 2000 Pt I Ch I (ss 1-40) (air traffic services) to the extent that it is the person's undertaking as licence holder: Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 6 para 1(1) (amended by the Coal Industry Act 1994 s 67, Sch 9 para 44; the Environment Act 1995 s 120, Sch 22 para 191; the Transport Act 2000 s 37, Sch 5 para 16; SI 2001/1149; the Communications Act 2003 s 406(1), Sch 17 para 116; the Energy Act 2004 s 143(1), Sch 19 para 19; and by virtue of the Gas Act 1995 s 16(1), Sch 4 para 2(2)(o) and the Utilities Act 2000 s 76(7)). 'Universal service provider' has the same meaning as in the Postal Services Act 2000; and the reference to the provision of a universal postal service is to be construed in accordance with that Act: Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 6 para 1(1A) (added by SI 2001/1149). Any reference, in relation to any such airport as is mentioned in head (4) above, to the persons carrying on the undertaking is a reference to the airport operator: Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 6 para 1(2). As to the Civil Aviation Authority see AIR LAW vol 2 (2008) PARA 50. As to the Coal Authority see MINES, MINERALS AND QUARRIES vol 31 (2003 Reissue) PARA 52. As to the meanings of 'water undertaker' and 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meaning of 'navigation authority' see PARA 189 note 1. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

The Water Resources Act 1991 contains a similar list with the addition of internal drainage boards and railway companies: see Sch 22 para 1(4); and PARA 490 note 6. In addition, neither the flood defence provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 (see note 6) nor the provisions of the Land Drainage Act 1991 authorise any interference with a railway bridge or other work connected with a railway or the structure, use or maintenance of a railway or the traffic on it without the consent of the railway company in question: see the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 22 para 4(1); the Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 6 para 4 (amended by SI 2003/1615).

6 As to the meaning of 'flood defence provisions' see PARA 20 note 2.

7 See the Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 6 para 2; and the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 22 para 2 (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120, Sch 22 paras 128, 189). However the provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 s 109 (see PARA 603) are still applicable to such undertakers: see Sch 22 para 2(2).

8 See the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 22 para 1(1) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128); the Land Drainage Act 1991 Sch 6 para 3.

FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(ii) General Powers and Duties to Drain Land and Protect Land from Flooding/B. REVIEW AND REORGANISATION OF INTERNAL DRAINAGE DISTRICTS AND BOARDS/577. Review of boundaries of internal drainage districts.

B. REVIEW AND REORGANISATION OF INTERNAL DRAINAGE DISTRICTS AND BOARDS

577. Review of boundaries of internal drainage districts.

Where a petition for the alteration of the boundaries of an internal drainage district<sup>1</sup> is made to the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> by a sufficient number of qualified persons<sup>3</sup> or by a qualified authority<sup>4</sup>, and the boundaries of that district have for a period exceeding ten years been neither reviewed on such a petition nor altered<sup>5</sup>, the Agency must review those boundaries<sup>6</sup>. In carrying out any such review the Agency must consult the drainage board<sup>7</sup> for the internal drainage district in question, unless it is itself the drainage board, and must consider any representations duly made to it<sup>8</sup>.

Within six months<sup>9</sup> after such a petition is made, or such longer period as the relevant minister may allow, the Agency must inform the relevant minister whether, as a result of the review, it proposes to submit to him a scheme<sup>10</sup> for reorganisation<sup>11</sup> and, if so, what provision it proposes to make by the scheme<sup>12</sup>. Where it does not propose to submit such a scheme<sup>13</sup> but it appears to the Agency that an order subdividing a district<sup>14</sup>, or an order varying or revoking a previous such order, should be made by the drainage board for the internal drainage district in question<sup>15</sup>, the Agency may direct the drainage board to make such an order in such terms as may be specified in the direction<sup>16</sup>. If an internal drainage board to which such a direction has been given objects to it, the direction has no effect unless it is confirmed, with or without modifications, by the relevant minister<sup>17</sup>.

These provisions do not require the Agency to carry out a review or publish any notice on a petition which, in the opinion of the relevant minister, is frivolous<sup>18</sup>.

1 As to internal drainage districts see PARA 569.

2 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the Agency's general supervisory functions in respect of flood defence functions see PARA 573.

3 Subject to the provisions of the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2(2), Sch 2 para 19 (which makes provision with respect to qualification by reference to drainage rates levied on land in respect of years beginning before 1993), where any provision of the Land Drainage Act 1991 refers, in relation to an internal drainage district, to the making of any appeal or petition by a sufficient number of qualified persons: (1) the persons who are qualified are the occupiers of any land in the internal drainage district in respect of which a drainage rate is levied (see PARA 627) (s 72(2)(a)); and (2) their number is sufficient if, but only if, (a) they are not less than 40; or (b) they are not less than one-fifth of the number of persons qualified to make the petition or appeal; or (c) the assessable value for the purposes of the last drainage rate levied in the district of all the land in respect of which they are qualified persons is not less than one-fifth of the assessable value of all the land in respect of which that rate was levied (s 72(2)(b)(i)-(iii)). In relation to a district divided into sub-districts the persons qualified to make a petition under s 39 (see PARA 631) as being the occupiers of land in one of the sub-districts are also sufficient in any case where the condition in head (b) or (c) above would be satisfied if the sub-district were an internal drainage district: s 72(3). The references to the assessable value of any land in head (2) above are references to the amount which for the purposes of the drainage rate mentioned in that head would be the annual value of the land: s 72(4). As to assessable value see PARA 629. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 569 note 2.

4 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 2(1)(a) (s 2 amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 191). 'Qualified authority', in relation to an internal drainage district, means a billing authority for an area wholly or partly included in the relevant internal drainage district: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 72(1) (amended by virtue of the Local Government Finance Act 1992 s 1). As to local billing authorities see the Local Government Finance Act 1992 s 1; and RATING AND COUNCIL TAX vol 39(1B) (Reissue) PARA 229.

5 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 2(1)(b).

6 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 2(1) (as amended: see note 4). Where such a petition is received in such circumstances, the Agency must inform the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers (the 'relevant minister') (Land Drainage Act 1991 s 2(2)(a)), and must publish, in one or more newspapers circulating in the internal drainage district, a notice stating: (1) that the petition has been received; (2) that a review of the boundaries is being undertaken; and (3) that representations may be made to the Agency within a period stated in the notice, which must not be less than 30 days (s 2(2)(b) (as so amended)). REVIEW AND REORGANISATION OF INTERNAL DRAINAGE DISTRICTS AND BOARDS/578. Schemes for reorganisation of internal drainage districts etc.

578. Schemes for reorganisation of internal drainage districts etc.

The Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> may at any time<sup>2</sup>, and must if directed to do so by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers (the 'relevant minister')<sup>3</sup>, prepare and submit to them for confirmation a scheme making provision for any of the following matters<sup>4</sup>:

- 1256 (1) the alteration of the boundaries of any internal drainage district<sup>5</sup>;
- 1257 (2) the amalgamation of the whole or any part of any internal drainage district with any other district<sup>6</sup>;
- 1258 (3) the abolition, from a date specified in the scheme, of Commissioners of Sewers exercising jurisdiction within the area for which the Agency carries out flood defence functions<sup>7</sup>;
- 1259 (4) the abolition or reconstitution of any internal drainage district and of the drainage board<sup>8</sup> for that district<sup>9</sup>;
- 1260 (5) the constitution of new internal drainage districts<sup>10</sup>;
- 1261 (6) the constitution of internal drainage boards for all or any of the separate internal drainage districts constituted by the scheme<sup>11</sup>;
- 1262 (7) where it appears desirable so to provide in the case of any internal drainage board, the amendment of the method of constituting that board so far as is necessary to secure that members of the board include persons elected as such in accordance with the statutory provisions<sup>12</sup> for that purpose<sup>13</sup>;
- 1263 (8) the making of alterations in, and the addition of supplemental provisions to, the provisions of any local Act or of any award made under any such Act, where such alterations or supplemental provisions are necessary or expedient for enabling the area for the benefit of which drainage works<sup>14</sup> are authorised by the local Act or award to be drained effectually<sup>15</sup>;
- 1264 (9) any matters supplemental to or consequential on the matters mentioned in heads (1) to (8) above for which it appears necessary or desirable to make provision, including the transfer to the Agency or an internal drainage board of any property, rights, powers, duties, obligations and liabilities vested in or to be discharged by the Agency or by the internal drainage board affected by the scheme<sup>16</sup>.

As soon as any such scheme has been submitted to the relevant minister, the Agency must send copies of it to every internal drainage board, local authority<sup>17</sup>, navigation authority<sup>18</sup>, harbour authority<sup>19</sup> and conservancy authority<sup>20</sup> affected by it<sup>21</sup>. The Agency must also publish, in one or more newspapers circulating in the area affected by the scheme, a notice stating that the scheme has been so submitted, that a copy of it is open to inspection at a specified place and that representations with respect to it may be made to the relevant minister at any time within one month<sup>22</sup> after the publication of the notice<sup>23</sup>.

The relevant minister may by order<sup>24</sup> confirm any scheme so submitted to him, either with or without modifications<sup>25</sup>.

Where the boundaries of an internal drainage district are altered under these provisions, all powers exercisable under any local Act by the drainage board for the district with respect to land<sup>26</sup> included in it are exercisable with respect to land added to the district, except so far as provision is otherwise made by the scheme effecting the alteration or by the order confirming that scheme<sup>27</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers (the 'relevant minister')<sup>1</sup> may, on a petition presented to them by the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup>, by order made by statutory instrument transfer to the Agency the powers, duties, liabilities, obligations and property<sup>3</sup> of the drainage board<sup>4</sup> for any internal drainage district<sup>5</sup>. On such a transfer, the Agency becomes the drainage board for the district in question; and any expenses incurred by the Agency as the drainage board for that district are to be defrayed under and in accordance with the powers transferred by the order and not in any other manner<sup>6</sup>.

Without prejudice to the above provisions, a scheme<sup>7</sup> which provides for the constitution of a new internal drainage district may also provide for the Agency to be constituted the drainage board for that district, and for conferring on the Agency in relation to that district the powers and duties of an internal drainage board<sup>8</sup>.

580. Transfer of functions etc back from the Environment Agency.

Where the Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> is the drainage board<sup>2</sup> for an internal drainage district<sup>3</sup>, and a petition for constituting an internal drainage board for that district is made to the Agency by a sufficient number of qualified persons<sup>4</sup> or by a qualified authority<sup>5</sup>, the Secretary of State<sup>6</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers (the 'relevant minister')<sup>7</sup> may by order<sup>8</sup> constitute an internal drainage board for that district<sup>9</sup>. Where the Agency receives such a petition, the Agency must send a copy of it to the relevant minister<sup>10</sup>, and must inform him, within six months<sup>11</sup> of the date on which the petition is received, whether in its opinion an order constituting an internal drainage board should be made<sup>12</sup>. Before making such an order the relevant minister must consider the views expressed by the Agency<sup>13</sup>.

An order under the above provisions transfers to the internal drainage board constituted by the order the property and liabilities of the Agency so far as they are vested in or incurred by the Agency in its capacity as the drainage board for that district<sup>14</sup>.

C. GENERAL SUPERVISION OF DRAINAGE BOARDS

581. Supervision by the Environment Agency.

For the purpose of securing the efficient working and maintenance of existing drainage works<sup>1</sup> and the construction of such new drainage works as may be necessary<sup>2</sup>, the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup> may give such general or special directions as it considers reasonable for the guidance of the internal drainage boards<sup>4</sup> with respect to the exercise and performance by those boards of their powers and duties<sup>5</sup>.

Except with the Agency's consent, which may not be unreasonably withheld and which may be subject to reasonable conditions<sup>6</sup>, an internal drainage board must not construct or alter any drainage works if the construction or alteration will in any way affect the interests of, or the working of any drainage works belonging to, any other internal drainage board<sup>7</sup>. Furthermore an internal drainage board must not construct or alter any structure<sup>8</sup>, appliance or channel for the discharge of water from its district into a main river<sup>9</sup>, otherwise than by way of maintaining an existing work, except on such terms as may be agreed between the Agency and the board or as, in default of agreement, may be determined by the relevant minister<sup>10</sup>. If an internal drainage board acts in contravention of these restrictions, the Agency may carry out and maintain any works and do any things which are necessary in its opinion in order to prevent or remedy any damage that may result or that has resulted from the board's actions<sup>11</sup>; and the Agency is entitled to recover from that board the amount of any expenses reasonably incurred by the Agency in the exercise of this power<sup>12</sup>.

6 See the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 7(3) (as amended: see note 5). If any question arises whether the Agency's consent is unreasonably withheld or whether any condition subject to which that consent is given is reasonable, it must be referred to the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers (the 'relevant minister') for decision: s 7(5) (as so amended). Where the relevant minister gives any decision under s 7, he must make and cause to be laid before Parliament a report giving particulars of the question referred to him and of the reasons for his decision: s 7(6). As to the meaning of 'relevant minister', and as to the transfer of functions to the Welsh Ministers, see PARA 569 note 9. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. GENERAL SUPERVISION OF DRAINAGE BOARDS/582. Concurrent and default powers of the Environment Agency.

582. Concurrent and default powers of the Environment Agency.

The powers of an internal drainage board<sup>1</sup> in relation to its district to enforce certain repairing obligations<sup>2</sup> and to prevent obstructions to watercourses<sup>3</sup> are exercisable concurrently with that board by the Environment Agency<sup>4</sup>.

Without prejudice to the above provisions, where in the Agency's opinion any land<sup>5</sup> is injured or likely to be injured by flooding or inadequate drainage<sup>6</sup> that might be remedied wholly or partially by the exercise of drainage powers<sup>7</sup> vested in any internal drainage board which either are not being exercised at all<sup>8</sup>, or which, in the Agency's opinion, are not being exercised to the necessary extent<sup>9</sup>, the Agency may exercise all or any of those powers and also any power vested in that board for the purpose of defraying expenses incurred in the exercise by that board of those powers or for any purposes incidental to the exercise of those powers<sup>10</sup>. Before exercising any such powers the Agency must give to the internal drainage board in whose default it proposes to exercise them not less than 30 days' notice<sup>11</sup> of its intention to do so<sup>12</sup>; and if, before the end of that period of notice, the board in question intimates in writing<sup>13</sup> to the Agency its objection to their exercise by the Agency, the Agency may not exercise them except with the consent of the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers (the 'relevant minister')<sup>14</sup>. If he thinks fit, the relevant minister may cause a public inquiry to be held with respect to such an objection<sup>15</sup>.

Where the Agency is so exercising the powers of the drainage board for an internal drainage district<sup>16</sup>, any person authorised by the Agency in that behalf may so far as is reasonably necessary<sup>17</sup> inspect and take copies of any deeds, maps, books, papers or other documents which are in the possession of the board and relate to land drainage or the provision of flood warning systems in that district<sup>18</sup>. Any person who intentionally obstructs or impedes a person so authorised in the exercise of these powers commits an offence<sup>19</sup>.

On the application of the council of any county, county borough, metropolitan district<sup>20</sup> or London borough council<sup>21</sup>, the Agency may direct that these default powers<sup>22</sup> are to be exercisable, in respect of land in its area, by that council instead of by the Agency<sup>23</sup>. If the Agency refuses to comply with any such application, the council by which the application was made may appeal against the refusal to the relevant minister and he may, if he thinks fit, require the Agency to comply with the application<sup>24</sup>.

583. Powers to make regulations.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> may make regulations for the purpose of prescribing anything which may be prescribed under the Land Drainage Act 1991<sup>3</sup> and generally for the purpose of carrying that Act or the flood defence provisions<sup>4</sup> of the Water Resources Act 1991 into effect<sup>5</sup>. Such regulations are made by statutory instrument subject in the case of regulations made by the Secretary of State, with one exception<sup>6</sup>, to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament<sup>7</sup>.

In respect of certain orders<sup>8</sup> the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers (the 'appropriate minister') may make regulations in relation to the publication of notices and advertisements, the holding of and procedure at public local inquiries and any other matters or procedure relating to the making of orders<sup>9</sup>.

FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(ii) General Powers and Duties to Drain Land and Protect Land from Flooding/D. REGULATIONS AND ORDERS/585. Procedure with respect to certain orders under the land drainage legislation.

585. Procedure with respect to certain orders under the land drainage legislation.

The following procedure applies with respect to any order confirming a scheme for reorganisation of an internal drainage board<sup>1</sup> or for the variation of any award<sup>2</sup>, and also with respect to any order making the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup> a drainage board for an internal drainage district<sup>4</sup>, transferring functions back from the Agency<sup>5</sup>, or varying<sup>6</sup> navigation rights<sup>7</sup>.

Before making any such order, the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers (the 'appropriate minister')<sup>8</sup> must cause notice of his intention to make it, the place where copies of the draft order may be inspected and obtained, and the period within which, and the manner in which, objections to the draft order may be made, to be published in the London Gazette and in such other manner as he thinks best adapted for informing persons affected<sup>9</sup>. Notice<sup>10</sup> must be sent to:

- 1265 (1) every county council, county borough council or London borough council in whose area any part of the area proposed to be affected by the order is situated and, if any part of that area is situated in the City of London, to the Common Council of the City of London<sup>11</sup>;
- 1266 (2) every drainage body<sup>12</sup>, navigation authority<sup>13</sup>, harbour authority<sup>14</sup> or conservancy authority<sup>15</sup> that is known to the appropriate minister to be exercising jurisdiction within the area proposed to be affected by the order<sup>16</sup>.

The appropriate minister must, before making any such order, consider any objections duly made to the draft order and may, in any case, cause a public local inquiry<sup>17</sup> to be held with respect to any objections to it<sup>18</sup>. In making the order he may make such modifications in the terms of the draft as appear to him to be desirable<sup>19</sup>. After the appropriate Minister has made an order, the order, together with a notice, must be published in such manner as he thinks best adapted for informing the persons affected<sup>20</sup>. The notice must state that the order has been made<sup>21</sup> and will become final and have effect unless, within such period of not less than 30 days as may be specified in the notice, a request that the order be subject to special parliamentary procedure<sup>22</sup> is presented to that minister by a person who is affected by the order and has such interest as may be prescribed<sup>23</sup> as being sufficient for the purpose<sup>24</sup>. If no such request has been presented within the specified period, or every request so presented has been withdrawn, the appropriate minister must confirm the order and it thereupon has effect<sup>25</sup>. If, however, such a request has been presented and not withdrawn, the order, unless made by the Welsh Ministers, is subject to special parliamentary procedure<sup>26</sup> and it is, in any event, so subject if the Secretary of State so directs<sup>27</sup>. At any time before such an order subject to special parliamentary procedure has been laid before Parliament the Secretary of State may revoke it either wholly or partially<sup>28</sup>.

As soon as may be after an unconfirmed order<sup>29</sup> has effect, the appropriate minister must publish in the London Gazette and in such other manner as he thinks best adapted for informing persons affected a notice stating that it has come into force and naming a place where a copy of it may be seen at all reasonable hours<sup>30</sup>. If any person aggrieved<sup>31</sup> by an unconfirmed order desires to question its validity on the ground (a) that it is not within the powers of the Land Drainage Act 1991<sup>32</sup>; or (b) that any requirement of the Act has not been complied with<sup>33</sup>, he may make application to the High Court<sup>34</sup>. If the court is satisfied that the order is not within the powers of the Act or that the applicant's interests have been substantially prejudiced by any requirements of the Act not having been complied with, the court may quash the order either generally or in so far as it affects the applicant<sup>35</sup>. Subject to these provisions, an unconfirmed order may not at any time be questioned in any legal proceedings whatsoever<sup>36</sup>.

585 Procedure with respect to certain orders under the land drainage legislation

NOTE 35--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/9. FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(ii) General Powers and Duties to Drain Land and Protect Land from Flooding/D. REGULATIONS AND ORDERS/586. Procedure with respect to orders relating to main river functions.

586. Procedure with respect to orders relating to main river functions.

As soon as any scheme for transferring main river functions to the Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> has been submitted to the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup>, the Agency must:

- 1267 (1) send copies of the scheme to every internal drainage board<sup>4</sup>, local authority<sup>5</sup>, navigation authority<sup>6</sup>, harbour authority<sup>7</sup> and conservancy authority<sup>8</sup> affected by it<sup>9</sup>; and
- 1268 (2) publish, in one or more newspapers circulating in the area affected by the scheme, a notice stating that the scheme has been so submitted, that a copy of it is open to inspection at a specified place, and that representations with respect to the scheme may be made to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers at any time within one month<sup>10</sup> after the publication of the notice<sup>11</sup>.

Before either the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers make an order for such a scheme, they must cause notice of their intention to make it to be published in the London Gazette and in such other manner as they think best adapted for informing persons affected<sup>12</sup>. In addition, the notice must contain details of the place where copies of the draft order may be inspected and obtained and of the period within which, and the manner in which, objections to the draft order may be made<sup>13</sup>. Notice<sup>14</sup> must also be sent to:

- 1269 (a) every county council, county borough council or London borough council in whose area any part of the area proposed to be affected by the order is situated and, if any part of that area is situated in the City of London, to the Common Council of the City of London<sup>15</sup>;
- 1270 (b) the Agency and every drainage body<sup>16</sup>, navigation authority, harbour authority or conservancy authority that is known to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers to be exercising jurisdiction within the area proposed to be affected by the order<sup>17</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers must, before making any such order, consider any objections duly made to the draft order<sup>18</sup> and may, in any case, cause a public local inquiry to be held with respect to any objections to it<sup>19</sup>. In making the order the Secretary of State or Welsh Ministers may make such modifications<sup>20</sup> in the terms of the draft as appear to them to be desirable and may confirm the scheme to which the order relates either with or without modifications<sup>21</sup>. As soon as may be after such an order has effect, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must publish in the London Gazette, and in such manner as they think best adapted for informing persons affected, a notice stating that the order has come into force<sup>22</sup> and naming a place where a copy of it may be seen at all reasonable hours<sup>23</sup>.

If any person aggrieved<sup>24</sup> by such an order desires to question its validity on the ground (i) that it is not within the powers of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>25</sup>; or (ii) that any requirement of the Act has not been complied with<sup>26</sup>, he may make application to the High Court<sup>27</sup>. If the court is satisfied that the order is not within the powers of the Act<sup>28</sup>, or that the applicant's interests have been substantially prejudiced by any requirements of the Act not having been complied with<sup>29</sup>, the court may quash the order either generally or in so far as it affects the applicant<sup>30</sup>. Subject to these provisions, the order may not at any time be questioned in any legal proceedings whatsoever<sup>31</sup>.

UPDATE

586 Procedure with respect to orders relating to main river functions

NOTE 30--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/9. FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(ii) General Powers and Duties to Drain Land and Protect Land from Flooding/E. LANDOWNERS' POWER TO EXECUTE DRAINAGE WORKS/587. Powers to authorise landowners to carry out drainage works.

E. LANDOWNERS' POWER TO EXECUTE DRAINAGE WORKS

587. Powers to authorise landowners to carry out drainage works.

Where any persons<sup>1</sup> interested in any land<sup>2</sup> are of the opinion that it is capable of improvement by drainage works<sup>3</sup>, but the works cannot be carried out by reason of the objection or disability of any person whose land would be entered upon, cut through or interfered with by or for the purpose of the works<sup>4</sup>, they may present an application to the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers (the 'appropriate minister')<sup>5</sup> for an order<sup>6</sup> authorising them to execute such drainage works as are expedient with a view to improvement of the land<sup>7</sup>. This procedure is also available to internal drainage boards<sup>8</sup> and local authorities<sup>9</sup> who wish to undertake drainage works for the benefit of their district or area in lands outside that district or area<sup>10</sup>.

The application must be in the prescribed form<sup>11</sup> and contain particulars of the proposed works and the persons by whom they are to be carried out and such further particulars as the appropriate minister may prescribe or require<sup>12</sup>. Notice of the application, of the place where it can be inspected and of the period within which objections to the proposed works may be made to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers must be given in the prescribed manner<sup>13</sup> to all persons, not parties to the application, whose lands are proposed to be entered upon, cut through or interfered with<sup>14</sup>, to the Environment Agency<sup>15</sup> and to any internal drainage board for any district within which all or any of the proposed works are to be carried out<sup>16</sup>. The applicants must give such security for expenses as may be required by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>17</sup>.

On an application for such an order, if no objection has been made<sup>18</sup> or every such objection has been withdrawn, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may in their discretion either refuse to authorise the carrying out of the proposed works or by order authorise the carrying out with or without alteration<sup>19</sup>. If, however, an objection to the proposed works has been made to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, to the Welsh Ministers within the prescribed period<sup>20</sup> by any person interested or in any way affected by the proposed works and that objection is not withdrawn, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must forthwith cause a public inquiry<sup>21</sup> to be held in the locality in which the proposed works are to be carried out<sup>22</sup> and must exercise their discretion to refuse to authorise, or to authorise, the carrying out of the works (with or without alteration) after receiving the report of that inquiry<sup>23</sup>.

The persons authorised by such an order to carry out works have full power to carry out the works and to maintain them forever thereafter<sup>24</sup>. Where, however, such an order is made, every person interested in the land affected by the order (other than any person who is one of those authorised to carry out the works) is entitled to compensation for any injury suffered by him in respect of that interest by reason of the works, and any dispute as to the amount of the compensation payable is to be determined by the Lands Tribunal<sup>25</sup>.

No order of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers under these provisions may authorise any work by which the streams, reservoirs or feeders supplying any ornamental waters will be cut through, diverted or interfered with otherwise than by agreement and with the consent of the persons to whom those ornamental waters belong<sup>26</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 569 note 2. Under the similar provisions of the Land Drainage Act 1847 s 14 (repealed) it was held that injury to a building on the land such as a mill was not sufficient: Finch v Bannister [1908] 2 KB 441, 77 LJB 718, CA.

3 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 22(1)(a). As to the meaning of 'drainage' see PARA 573. As to the meaning of references to the carrying out of drainage works see PARA 574 note 3.

4 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 22(1)(b).

5 'Appropriate minister' means, in relation to England, the minister, and in relation to Wales, the Secretary of State: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 22(9). As to the meaning of 'the minister' see PARA 569 note 9. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 22, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

6 Orders under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 22 are not made by statutory instrument and are not recorded in this work.

7 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 22(1). As to improvement works by drainage boards and local authorities see PARA 649 et seq.

8 As to internal drainage boards see PARA 569.

9 As to the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 573 note 14.

10 See the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 14(3). As to the powers of such boards and authorities to do work inside their districts or areas see s 14(1); and PARA 589. Any expenses incurred by an internal drainage board on work outside its district are to be defrayed as if the expenses had been incurred in its district: s 14(7).

11 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 22(2)(a). 'Prescribed' means prescribed by regulations under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 65 (see PARA 583): s 72(1). No specific form is prescribed.

12 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 22(2)(b). The application must contain the following particulars: (1) the names of the persons by whom the proposed works are to be executed; (2) the nature of the proposed works, together with a map or plan showing them; (3) the description and situation of the land required to be entered upon, cut through or interfered with for the purpose of the proposed works or likely to be affected thereby; (4) a schedule showing the reputed owners and occupiers of the land proposed to be improved by the drainage works; (5) the estimated cost of the proposed works, including the amount of the compensation money in respect of land required to be entered upon, cut through or interfered with; (6) a statement of the actual condition of the land proposed to be drained or improved, and the probable increased value of the land consequent upon the proposed works; and (7) such further particulars as the minister may require: Land Drainage (General) Regulations 1932, SR & O 1932/64, reg 6(1). The Land Drainage (General) Regulations 1932, SR & O 1932/64, have effect, by virtue of Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2(2), Sch 2 para 1(1), (2), as if made under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 22. An application for such an order may require an environmental impact assessment under the Environmental Impact Assessment (Land Drainage Improvement Works) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1783 (see PARA 649), and/or an appropriate assessment pursuant to the Habitats Directive (see PARA 11).

13 The notice must be served by registered post or by the recorded delivery service or by delivery to or at the residence of the person to whom it is addressed, or where addressed to the owner or occupier of premises, by delivery of the notice or a copy of it to some person on the premises, or, if there is no person on the premises to whom the notice or a copy can be delivered, by fixing the notice or a copy of it on some conspicuous part of the premises: Land Drainage (General) Regulations 1932, SR & O 1932/64, regs 6(2), 8(1) (amended by SI 1962/1734). Any notice required to be given to a corporation or public body must be sent by registered post or by the recorded delivery service or left at the principal office of business of the corporation or public body, or if no such office can after diligent inquiry be found, must be sent by registered post or by the recorded delivery service or served on some principal officer, if any, of the corporation or body: Land Drainage (General) Regulations 1932, SR & O 1932/64, reg 8(2) (as so amended). As to the service of notice in the case of Crown land etc see reg 8(3). A copy of the notice must be published in a newspaper circulating in the district in which all or any of the proposed works are to be executed: reg 6(2). As to the contents of such notice see reg 6(3), (4).

17 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 22(2).

18 Ie as mentioned in the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 22(4): see the text to notes 20-22.

19 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 22(5). The exercise of this ministerial discretion is subject to the environmental duties imposed by the Land Drainage Act 1991: see PARA 642 et seq.

20 The objection must be presented to the minister within the period of one calendar month from and after: (1) the date on which notice of the application is sent to the objector; or, if no such notice was sent, (2) the date of the advertisement of a notice of the application: Land Drainage (General) Regulations 1932, SR & O 1932/64, reg 6(5).

21 As to inquiries see PARA 657.

24 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 22(6).

25 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 22(7). Compensation payable under this provision carries interest at the rate for the time being prescribed under the Land Compensation Act 1961 s 32 (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 641) from the date of the claim, and payments on account of such interest may be made: see the Planning and Compensation Act 1991 s 80(1)-(3), Sch 18 Pt I (amended by the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2, Sch 1 para 58). As to compensation for injury in respect of works see PARA 591. As to the Lands Tribunal see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 720 et seq. At the date at which this volume states the law, draft legislation proposes the abolition of the Lands Tribunal and its replacement by the Upper Tribunal (as to which see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) para 13A).

UPDATE

587 Powers to authorise landowners to carry out drainage works

TEXT AND NOTE 25--Reference to the Lands Tribunal is now to the Upper Tribunal: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 22(7) (amended by SI 2009/1307).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/9. FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(ii) General Powers and Duties to Drain Land and Protect Land from Flooding/E. LANDOWNERS' POWER TO EXECUTE DRAINAGE WORKS/588. Restoration and improvement of ditches.

588. Restoration and improvement of ditches.

Where a ditch<sup>1</sup> is in such a condition as to cause injury to any land<sup>2</sup> or to prevent the improvement of the drainage<sup>3</sup> of any land, the Agricultural Land Tribunal<sup>4</sup>, on the application of the owner or occupier of the land, may if it thinks fit make an order requiring the person<sup>5</sup> or persons named in the order to carry out such remedial work<sup>6</sup> as may be specified in the order<sup>7</sup>. Such an order with respect to a ditch may name any person who is an owner or occupier of land through which the ditch passes or which abuts on the ditch<sup>8</sup>, and any other person who has a right to carry out the work specified in the order or any part of it<sup>9</sup>. The tribunal's order is sufficient authority for any person named in it to do the work specified in relation to him in the order<sup>10</sup>, and to enter any land so specified, so far as may be necessary for that purpose<sup>11</sup>. Before entering any land under these powers, however, the person entering it must give at least seven days' notice to the occupier of the land<sup>12</sup>. Where any person sustains any injury by reason of the exercise of any power so conferred, then unless the power was exercised in or for the purpose of the carrying out of any work which that person was required to carry out<sup>13</sup>, the person exercising the power is liable to make full compensation to the person sustaining the injury<sup>14</sup>. In case of dispute the amount of compensation payable is to be determined by the Lands Tribunal<sup>15</sup>.

Similarly, where the drainage of any land requires the carrying out of any work in connection with a ditch passing through other land<sup>16</sup>, or the replacement or construction of such a ditch<sup>17</sup>, or the alteration or removal of any drainage work in connection with such a ditch<sup>18</sup>, the Agricultural Land Tribunal, on the application of the owner or occupier of the first mentioned land, may, if it thinks fit, make an order<sup>19</sup> authorising the applicant to carry out such work as may be specified in the order<sup>20</sup> and, so far as may be necessary for that purpose, to enter any land so specified<sup>21</sup>.

1 'Ditch' includes a culverted and piped ditch but does not include a watercourse vested in, or under the control of, a drainage body: Land Drainage Act 1991 ss 28(5), 30(4). As to the meaning of 'watercourse' see PARA 573 note 10. As to the meaning of 'drainage body' see PARA 573 note 15.

2 As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 569 note 2.

3 As to the meaning of 'drainage' see PARA 573.

4 The Lord Chancellor must draw up for each Agricultural Land Tribunal, and from time to time revise, a panel of persons appearing to him to be experienced in matters relating to the drainage of land: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 31(1). Before drawing up, or revising, such a panel, the Lord Chancellor must consult the Lord Chief Justice: s 31(1A) (added by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 15(1), Sch 4 Pt 1, para 222(1), (2)). For each hearing by an Agricultural Land Tribunal of an application under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 28 or s 30 (see the text to notes 16-21) one of the members of the Tribunal must, instead of being a person nominated in accordance with the Agriculture Act 1947 Sch 9 para 16(1)(b) (see AGRICULTURAL LAND vol 1 (2008) PARA 671), be a person nominated by the chairman from the panel drawn up under these provisions: s 31(2). If the chairman is prevented by sickness or any other reason from making the nomination, that duty may be discharged by a person appointed from the panel of deputy-chairmen for that Tribunal by the chairman or, if the chairman is unable to make the appointment, by the Lord Chief Justice, after consulting the Lord Chancellor: see the Agriculture Act 1947 Sch 9 para 16A (added by the Agriculture Act 1958 s 8(1), Sch 1 Pt I para 5; and amended by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 15(1), Sch 4 Pt 1 paras 29, 33(1), (3)); applied by the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 31(3). As to the Agricultural Land Tribunal see AGRICULTURAL LAND vol 1 (2008) PARA 670. As to the Lord Chancellor see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 477 et seq. As to the Lord Chief Justice see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 303; COURTS vol 10

(Reissue) PARA 515. The Lord Chancellor's function under s 31(1) is a protected function for the purposes of the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 19: see s 19(5), Sch 7 para 4; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

5 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

6 'Remedial work', in relation to a ditch, means work for cleansing the ditch, removing from it any matter which impedes the flow of water or otherwise putting it in proper order and for protecting it: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 28(5).

7 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 28(1). For the purpose of deciding any such application, or any application under s 30 (see the text to notes 16-21), the Agricultural Land Tribunal may authorise any of its members or any other person to enter and inspect any land: s 31(4). The provisions of s 29(3)-(6) (see note 11 and the text to notes 12-15) apply in relation to the power conferred by virtue of s 31(4) as they apply in relation to the powers conferred by virtue of s 29: s 31(5).

8 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 28(2)(a).

9 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 28(2)(b). Where the order names more than one person it may either require each of them to carry out a specified part of the work specified in the order, or require them all jointly to carry out the whole of that work: s 28(3). Where, however, the Agricultural Land Tribunal makes an order requiring persons jointly to carry out any work it may if it thinks fit, and without prejudice to their joint liability, specify in the order the proportions in which those persons are to contribute to the cost of doing so: s 28(4).

10 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 29(1)(a). The services for which provision may be made under the Agriculture Act 1986 s 1 (provision of agricultural goods and services: see AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION AND MARKETING vol 1 (2008) PARA 1313) include such services to the owner or occupier of any land as may enable him to carry out any work which he is authorised to carry out in exercise of any power so conferred: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 29(7).

11 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 29(1)(b). Where at the end of three months the specified work has not been carried out, the appropriate minister or any drainage body authorised by him, either generally or in a particular case, may carry out the work, enter any land which it is necessary to enter for that purpose and recover from any person named in the order the expenses reasonably incurred in carrying out any work which ought to have been carried out by that person (including any compensation payable in connection with the work under s 29(5) (see the text to notes 13-14)): s 29(2). A person entering land in pursuance of these provisions may take with him such other persons and equipment as may be necessary and must leave unoccupied land as effectually secured against trespassers as when he found it: s 29(3). As to the meaning of 'month' see PARA 23 note 10. 'Appropriate minister' means, in relation to England, the minister, and, in relation to Wales, the Secretary of State: s 29(8). As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the meaning of 'the minister' see PARA 569 note 9. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 29, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

12 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 29(4). As to the service of documents see PARA 22.

13 Ie by an order under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 28: see the text to notes 1-9.

14 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 29(5). Compensation payable under this provision (including this provision as applied by s 30(3) (see note 21) and s 31(5) (see note 7)) carries interest at the rate for the time being prescribed under the Land Compensation Act 1961 s 32 (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 641) from the date of the claim, and payments on account of such interest may be made: see the Planning and Compensation Act 1991 s 80(1)-(3), Sch 18 Pt I (amended by the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2, Sch 1 para 58). As to compensation for injury in respect of works see PARA 591.

15 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 29(6). As to the Lands Tribunal see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 720 et seq. At the date at which this volume states the law, draft legislation proposes the abolition of the Lands Tribunal and its replacement by the Upper Tribunal (as to which see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) para 13A).

16 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 30(1)(a).

17 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 30(1)(b).

18 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 30(1)(c).

19 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 30(1).

20 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 30(2)(a).

21 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 30(2)(b). The provisions of s 29(3)-(7) (see notes 10, 11 and the text to notes 12-15) apply in relation to the powers so conferred as they apply in relation to the powers conferred by virtue of s 29: s 30(3).

UPDATE

588 Restoration and improvement of ditches

TEXT AND NOTE 15--Reference to the Lands Tribunal is now to the Upper Tribunal: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 29(6) (amended by SI 2009/1307).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/9. FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(iii) Powers of Drainage Bodies/A. DRAINAGE WORKS/589. Execution of drainage works by drainage bodies.

(iii) Powers of Drainage Bodies

A. DRAINAGE WORKS

589. Execution of drainage works by drainage bodies.

The Environment Agency<sup>1</sup>, an internal drainage board<sup>2</sup> and a local authority<sup>3</sup> have power<sup>4</sup>:

- 1271 (1) to maintain existing works, that is to say, to cleanse, repair or otherwise maintain in a due state of efficiency any existing watercourse<sup>5</sup> or drainage work<sup>6</sup>;
- 1272 (2) to improve any existing works, that is to say, to deepen, widen, straighten or otherwise improve any existing watercourse or remove or alter mill dams, weirs or other obstructions to watercourses, or raise, widen or otherwise improve any existing drainage work<sup>7</sup>; and
- 1273 (3) to construct new works, that is to say, to make any new watercourse or drainage work or erect any machinery or do any other act required for the drainage of any land<sup>8</sup>.

The Agency, however, is only empowered to do such work in connection with a main river<sup>9</sup>, except that it may exercise the power to maintain, improve or construct drainage works for the purpose of defence against sea water or tidal water both above and below the low-water mark, irrespective of whether such works are works in connection with a main river<sup>10</sup>.

The Agency may construct all such works and do all such things in the sea or in any estuary as it considers necessary to secure an adequate outfall for a main river<sup>11</sup>. The functions of the Agency as respects the doing of any work under the flood defence provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>12</sup>, and the functions of the Agency or an internal drainage board under the Land Drainage Act 1991, are not to be treated as limited by the fact that some other person is under an obligation by reason of custom, tenure, prescription or otherwise to do that work<sup>13</sup>. An internal drainage board is not empowered to do any work in connection with a main river or the banks<sup>14</sup> of such a river and is generally only empowered to do work within its own internal drainage district<sup>15</sup>; and the powers conferred on a local authority may only be used for the purpose of carrying out works in pursuance of a scheme<sup>16</sup> for the drainage of small areas<sup>17</sup>, or so far as may be necessary for the purpose of preventing flooding or remedying or mitigating damage caused by flooding in its area<sup>18</sup>. Moreover, save where works are carried out under a scheme for the drainage of a small area, a local authority may not carry out or maintain any drainage works<sup>19</sup> except with the consent of, and in accordance with reasonable conditions imposed by, the Agency<sup>20</sup>. The Agency must in turn consult with any internal drainage board before giving any such consent or imposing any such condition with respect to any drainage works in connection with a watercourse under the control of an internal drainage board<sup>21</sup>. The Agency's consent must not be unreasonably withheld<sup>22</sup>, and is deemed to have been given if it is not given or refused within two months<sup>23</sup> after the application for consent is made<sup>24</sup>. Any question as to whether the consent of the Agency is unreasonably withheld, or whether any condition imposed by the Agency is reasonable, must be referred to and determined by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>25</sup>.

This requirement for a local authority to obtain consent does not apply to any work carried out in an emergency, but the local authority carrying out such emergency work must inform the Agency in writing<sup>26</sup> of the carrying out of that work and of the circumstances in which it was carried out as soon as practicable<sup>27</sup>. Where the above powers are conferred<sup>28</sup> on a non-metropolitan district council but are not exercised by that council, a county council may only exercise those powers either at the request of the appropriate non-metropolitan district council<sup>29</sup> or after giving six weeks' notice in writing to the district council<sup>30</sup>, but this restriction does not apply in relation to powers conferred on a Welsh county council or county borough council<sup>31</sup>. Where powers are conferred<sup>32</sup> on a metropolitan district council, a London borough council, the Common Council of the City of London or a Welsh county council or county borough council, the Agency may act in the same circumstances as might a county council under the above provisions<sup>33</sup>. Where the council to whom a notice has been given by a county council or the Agency, as the case may be, appeals against the notice to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers before it expires<sup>34</sup> and informs the county council or the Agency of the appeal<sup>35</sup>, the powers to which the notice relates must not be exercised in pursuance of the notice unless it is confirmed by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>36</sup>.

If any question arises<sup>37</sup> as to (a) whether any work is a drainage work in connection with a main river<sup>38</sup>; or (b) whether any proposed work will, if constructed, be such a drainage work<sup>39</sup>, the question must be referred to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers<sup>40</sup> for decision or, if either of the parties so requires, to arbitration<sup>41</sup>.

The Environment Agency or an internal drainage board may also at its own expense, and on substituting other sewers, drains, culverts and pipes<sup>42</sup> which will be equally effectual and will entail no additional expense on the sewerage undertaker<sup>43</sup>, take up, divert or alter the level of any sewers, drains, culverts or pipes vested in the sewerage undertaker which pass under or interfere with, or interfere with the improvement or alteration of, any watercourse<sup>44</sup> or other works vested in or under the control of the Agency or board<sup>45</sup>.

1 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

2 As to internal drainage boards see PARA 569.

3 As to the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 573 note 14. Nothing in the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 14 authorises an English county council to exercise any power except in accordance with s 16 (see the text to notes 28-36): s 14(4)(b) (amended by the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 22(5), Sch 11 para 4(2)).

4 These powers are discretionary and do not impose a duty; thus the body on which such powers are conferred is not liable for omitting to exercise such powers (Smith v Cawdle Fen, Ely (Cambridge) Comrs [1938] 4 All ER 64; Gillett v Kent Rivers Catchment Board, Jones v Kent Rivers Catchment Board, Paine v Kent Rivers Catchment Board [1938] 4 All ER 810; East Suffolk Rivers Catchment Board v Kent [1941] AC 74, [1940] 4 All ER 527, HL), unless it has bound itself by contract (see Smith and Snipes Hall Farm Ltd v River Douglas Catchment Board [1949] 2 KB 500, [1949] 2 All ER 179, CA; and EQUITY vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 614) or unless liability under an earlier local Act applies (Sephton v Lancashire River Board [1962] 1 All ER 183, [1962] 1 WLR 623). If a drainage body exercises a power, its only duty to any member of the public is not by doing so to add to the damage which he would have suffered if it had done nothing: East Suffolk Rivers Catchment Board v Kent. Cf the powers of the Environment Agency to act in default of an internal drainage board: see PARA 582. As to compensation see PARA 591. Nothing in the Water Resources Act 1991 s 165(1)-(3) or the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 14 authorises any person to enter on the land of any person except for the purpose of maintaining existing works: Water Resources Act 1991 s 165(6); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 14(4)(a). The Agency, however, has powers of entry under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 172; and internal drainage boards and local authorities have powers of entry under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 64: see PARA 608. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the meaning of 'land' for the purposes of the Land Drainage Act 1991 see PARA 569 note 2; and as to the meaning of 'land' generally see PARA 14 note 21.

The exercise of these powers may require an environmental impact assessment under the Environmental Impact Assessment (Land Drainage Improvement Works) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1783 (see PARA 649) and/or an appropriate assessment pursuant to the Habitats Directive (see PARA 11).

5 As to the meaning of 'watercourse' see PARA 573 note 10 (definition applied in the case of the Water Resources Act 1991 by s 165(7)). Section 113(2), (3) (see PARA 574 note 3) also applies for these purposes: see s 165(7).

6 Water Resources Act 1991 s 165(1)(a) (s 165 amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 14(1), (2)(a). As to the meaning of 'drainage' see PARA 573.

Any difference of opinion which arises between a sewerage undertaker and any person as to whether any sewers, drains, culverts or pipes of that undertaker are or will be equally effectual or entail, or will entail, additional expense for the sewerage undertaker, may, at the option of the party complaining, be referred to a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the parties or, in default of agreement, by the President of the Institution of Civil Engineers: s 184(3). As to the service of documents see PARA 22. Dock undertakers, railway undertakers, airport operators and licence holders (ie persons holding a licence under the Transport Act 2000 Pt I Ch I (ss 1-40) (air traffic services)) have similar powers: see s 184(1), (4) (as so amended; further amended by SI 2001/4050).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/9. FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(iii) Powers of Drainage Bodies/A. DRAINAGE WORKS/590. Arrangements between drainage bodies and other persons.

590. Arrangements between drainage bodies and other persons.

By agreement with any person<sup>1</sup>, the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> may carry out, improve or maintain, at that person's expense<sup>3</sup>, any drainage<sup>4</sup> works which that person is entitled to carry out, improve or maintain<sup>5</sup>; and an internal drainage board has similar powers, whether within or outside its district<sup>6</sup>, to carry out or to maintain such drainage works<sup>7</sup>. Any local authority<sup>8</sup> other than, in England, the council of a non-metropolitan district<sup>9</sup>, may similarly by agreement do such work within the council's area<sup>10</sup>.

An internal drainage board may not however exercise such powers in connection with a main river<sup>11</sup>, the banks<sup>12</sup> of such a river or any drainage works in connection with a main river<sup>13</sup>. However, the Agency may enter into an agreement with any internal drainage board for the carrying out by the board, on such terms as to payment or otherwise as may be specified in the agreement, of any work in connection with a main river which the Agency is authorised to carry out<sup>14</sup>. Similar agreements may be made by the Agency with any local authority<sup>15</sup> or any navigation authority<sup>16</sup> for the carrying out of any work in connection with a main river which the Agency is authorised to carry out<sup>17</sup>.

With the consent of an internal drainage board and notwithstanding any restriction by reference to a main river of the powers conferred on the Agency<sup>18</sup>, the Agency may carry out and maintain in that board's district any works which the board might carry out or maintain<sup>19</sup>, on such terms as to payment or otherwise as may be agreed between the board and the Agency<sup>20</sup>. The Agency may likewise agree to contribute to the expense of the carrying out or maintenance of any works by any internal drainage board<sup>21</sup>. An internal drainage board may, with the consent of an internal drainage board for any other district, carry out and maintain in that other district any works which it might carry out and maintain in its own district on such terms as to payment or otherwise as may be agreed between the boards<sup>22</sup>, or may agree to contribute to the expense of the carrying out or maintenance of any works by any internal drainage board for any other district<sup>23</sup>. Any expense incurred by an internal drainage board under these provisions is to be defrayed as if the expense had been incurred in its own district<sup>24</sup>.

With a view to improving the drainage of any land<sup>25</sup> (or, in the case of an internal drainage board, any land situated in its district) the Agency or an internal drainage board may enter into an arrangement with a navigation authority or a conservancy authority<sup>26</sup>, with the necessary approval<sup>27</sup> and after publication of the required notice<sup>28</sup>, for:

- 1274 (1) the transfer to the Agency or board, as the case may be, of the whole or any part of the undertaking of, or of any of the rights, powers, duties, liabilities and obligations of, or any property vested as such in, the navigation or conservancy authority<sup>29</sup>;
- 1275 (2) the alteration or improvement by the Agency or board, as the case may be, of any of the works of the navigation or conservancy authority<sup>30</sup>;
- 1276 (3) the making of payments by the Agency or board to the authority, or by the authority to the Agency or board, in respect of any matter provided for by the arrangement<sup>31</sup>.

An internal drainage board is not, however, authorised to enter into any such arrangement in relation to a main river or the banks of a main river or in relation to any drainage works in connection with a main river<sup>32</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

3 Where the Agency carries out the work, the expense to be borne by the person in question does not include such part (if any) of the amount of any grant made under the Environment Act 1995 s 47 (grants to the new Agencies: see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 93) as the Agency decides (subject to any terms on which the grant is made) to allocate for the works in question: Water Resources Act 1991 s 165(4) (substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 69(2)).

6 As to internal drainage boards and districts see PARA 569.

7 See the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 20(1). Where an internal drainage board carries out the work, the obligation of any person to meet the expenses of any work is subject to the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 59(6) (see PARA 639): s 20(4). 27 In the approval of the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers: see the Water Resources Act 1991 s 111(2) (s 111 amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 19(3). The statutory wording, in relation to the Water Resources Act 1991 s 111, is 'the ministers' (as to the meaning of which see PARA 15 note 1) and, in relation to the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 19, the 'relevant minister and the Secretary of State'. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 111, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'relevant minister' and as to the transfer of functions under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 19 to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 569 note 9. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

28 Notice of the Agency's or board's intention to enter into such an arrangement must be published as directed by either the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers: see the Water Resources Act 1991 s 111(3) (as amended: see note 27); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 19(4). Notice of the arrangement when made must be published in the prescribed form in the London Gazette, specifying the place at which a copy of the arrangement may be inspected by persons interested: see the Water Resources Act 1991 s 111(4), (5) (s 111(4) as so amended); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 19(5), (6). By virtue of the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2(2), Sch 2 para 1(1), (2), the Land Drainage (General) Regulations 1932, SR & O 1932/64, reg 2, and the Land Drainage (River Authorities) General Regulations 1965, SI 1965/443, reg 5, have effect in relation to notices published by an internal drainage board or by the Agency respectively. The notice published in the London Gazette after the arrangement has been made must contain particulars of the parties involved, the date and purpose or purposes of the arrangement, and particulars of a place where a copy of it can be inspected by persons interested: see the Land Drainage (General) Regulations 1932, SR & O 1932/64, reg 2(2); the Land Drainage (River Authorities) General Regulations 1965, SI 1965/443, reg 5(2) (amended by virtue of the Environment Act 1995 Sch 22 para 233(1)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/9. FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(iii) Powers of Drainage Bodies/A. DRAINAGE WORKS/591. Compensation for injury.

591. Compensation for injury.

Where injury<sup>1</sup> is sustained by any person<sup>2</sup> by reason of the exercise by the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup>, an internal drainage board<sup>4</sup> or a local authority<sup>5</sup> of any of their general powers to carry out drainage works<sup>6</sup>, the body concerned is liable to make full compensation to the injured person<sup>7</sup>. In the case of dispute the amount of compensation is to be determined by the Lands Tribunal<sup>8</sup>. Compensation is also payable where any injury is sustained by reason of the exercise of the power of entry by the Agency, an internal drainage board or a local authority<sup>9</sup>.

1 'Injury' is not defined in the Water Resources Act 1991 or the Land Drainage Act 1991 but has been held to refer to actual damage as a result of work carried out which would have been unlawful apart from the power conferred by the legislation: Marriage v East Norfolk Rivers Catchment Board [1950] 1 KB 284, [1949] 2 All ER 1021, CA.

2 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

3 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

4 As to internal drainage boards see PARA 569.

5 As to the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 573 note 14.

6 I.e. the exercise by the Agency of any powers under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 165(1)-(3), or the exercise by a drainage board or local authority of any of their powers under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 14: see PARA 589. As to the exemption in certain cases from the liability to pay compensation in respect of the disposal of spoil see PARA 597.

7 Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 21 para 5(1) (Sch 21 para 5 amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 14(5). Compensation payable under these provisions carries interest at the rate for the time being prescribed under the Land Compensation Act 1961 s 32 (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 641) from the date of the claim, and payments on account of such interest may be made: see the Planning and Compensation Act 1991 s 80(1)-(3), Sch 18 Pt I (amended by the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2, Sch 1 para 58).

8 Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 21 para 5(2); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 14(6). As to the Lands Tribunal see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 720 et seq. At the date at which this volume states the law, draft legislation proposes the abolition of the Lands Tribunal and its replacement by the Upper Tribunal (as to which see ADMINISTRATIVE LAW vol 1(1) (2001 Reissue) para 13A).

A claim for compensation is the only remedy (Marriage v East Norfolk Rivers Catchment Board [1950] 1 KB 284, [1949] 2 All ER 1021, CA), and a person whose rights are violated under the legislation cannot obtain an injunction in the absence of negligence by the body carrying out the works (Proctor v Avon and Dorset River Catchment Board (1953) 162 Estates Gazette 162). It is for the tribunal to determine not only the amount of compensation, but also whether a claimant is entitled to compensation: see Marriage v East Norfolk Rivers Catchment Board; Robson v Northumberland and Tyneside River Board (1952) 3 P & CR 150, Lands Tribunal; Birch and Birch v Ancholme Drainage Board (1958) 9 P & CR 268, Lands Tribunal. As to the assessment of compensation for the exercise of these powers and decisions by the Lands Tribunal under predecessor legislation see Vincent v Thames Conservancy (1953) 4 P & CR 66; Scutt and Screeton v Lower Ouse Internal Drainage Board (1953) 4 P & CR 71; Oakes v Mersey River Board (1957) 9 P & CR 145; and Welsh National Water Authority (formerly Gwynedd River Authority) v Burgess (1974) 28 P & CR 378.

UPDATE

591 Compensation for injury

TEXT AND NOTE 8--Reference to the Lands Tribunal is now to the Upper Tribunal: Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 21 para 5(2); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 14(6) (amended by SI 2009/1307).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/9. FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(iii) Powers of Drainage Bodies/A. DRAINAGE WORKS/592. Commutation and enforcement of obligations.

592. Commutation and enforcement of obligations.

Where any person<sup>1</sup> is under an obligation imposed on him by reason of tenure, custom, prescription or otherwise to do any work in connection with the drainage<sup>2</sup> of land<sup>3</sup>, whether by way of repairing banks<sup>4</sup> or walls, maintaining watercourses<sup>5</sup> or otherwise, the Environment Agency<sup>6</sup> must take steps to commute the obligation if the work is in connection with a main river<sup>7</sup>. If the work is not in connection with a main river, the Agency or the internal drainage board for the internal drainage district<sup>8</sup> where the work falls to be done may commute the obligation with the consent of the Secretary of State<sup>9</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers (the 'appropriate minister')<sup>10</sup>.

Where the Agency or an internal drainage board proposes to commute any such obligation they must give notice<sup>11</sup> of the proposal in the manner directed by the appropriate minister<sup>12</sup>. If within one month<sup>13</sup> of any such notice being given, the person on whom the obligation is imposed gives notice to the Agency or the board of his objection to the proposal, the question whether the Agency or board is to proceed to commute the obligation is to be referred to the appropriate minister<sup>14</sup>. The decision of the appropriate minister is final<sup>15</sup>. Where any obligation is so commuted, any person who would, but for the commutation, be entitled to any exemption in respect of drainage rates<sup>16</sup> (either absolutely or conditionally on the performance of the obligation) is entitled absolutely to a like exemption<sup>17</sup>.

Subject to these commutation provisions, nothing in the Land Drainage Act 1991 or the flood defence provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>18</sup> operates to release a person from any obligation by reason of tenure, custom, prescription or otherwise to which he is subject<sup>19</sup>. If any person was subject before 1 December 1991<sup>20</sup> to such an obligation (except an obligation under an enactment<sup>21</sup> re-enacted in either the Land Drainage Act 1991 or the flood defence provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991)<sup>22</sup> and in pursuance of such an obligation is liable to do work in relation to any watercourse, bridge or drainage work (whether by way of repair, maintenance or otherwise) and fails to do the work, then the obligation may be enforced in the following manner by drainage board concerned<sup>23</sup>, being (1) the relevant internal drainage board in relation to any watercourse (other than a main river), bridge or drainage works in its internal drainage district<sup>24</sup>; or (2) the Agency in relation to any main river or other watercourse, bridge or drainage works<sup>25</sup>.

The drainage board concerned may serve a notice<sup>26</sup> requiring that person to do the necessary work with all reasonable and proper dispatch<sup>27</sup>. If any person served with such a notice fails within seven days to comply with it, the body that served the notice may do all such things as are necessary for that purpose<sup>28</sup>; and any expenses reasonably incurred by that body in the exercise of these powers may be recovered from the person liable to repair<sup>29</sup>.

2 As to the meaning of 'drainage' see PARA 573.

3 As to the meaning of 'land' generally see PARA 14 note 21. As to the meaning of 'land' in the Land Drainage Act 1991 see pPARA ara 569 note 2.

4 As to the meaning of 'banks' see PARA 574 note 2.

5 As to the meaning of 'watercourse' see PARA 573 note 10.

6 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

7 See the Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(1), (4) (s 107 amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). The Land Drainage Act 1991 ss 33, 34 (see the text to notes 8-17) apply to work in connection with a main river in the circumstances set out in the text: see the Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(4) (as so amended). As to the meaning of 'main river' see PARA 574. This requirement deals only with obligations arising out of, or attached to, land and does not extend to purely personal obligations: Eton RDC v Thames Conservators [1950] Ch 540, [1950] 1 All ER 996. There is no obligation where a successor in title pays voluntarily under a covenant not binding on him: Re Fitzherbert-Brockholes Agreement, River Wyre Catchment Board v Miller [1940] Ch 51.

8 As to internal drainage boards and internal drainage districts see PARA 569.

9 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

10 See the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 33(1) (ss 21, 33, 34 amended by the Environment Act 1995 Sch 22 para 191). This provision is expressed to be without prejudice to the Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(4) (see note 7): see the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 33(1). 'Appropriate minister' means, in relation to the Agency, either of the ministers and, in relation to an internal drainage board, the relevant minister: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 33(6) (as so amended). As to the meanings of 'relevant minister' and 'the ministers', and as to the transfer of functions to the Welsh Ministers, see PARA 569 note 9. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

Nothing in s 33 applies to any obligation imposed by s 25 (powers to require works for maintaining flow of watercourses: see PARAS 599-601): s 33(5).

11 As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1.

12 See the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 33(2)(a) (as amended: see note 10); Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(4) (as amended: see note 7). See also PARA 574 note 4. The notice must state the terms on which the obligation is to be commuted and the period within which objection to the proposal may be made: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 33(2)(b), (c); Land Drainage (General) Regulations 1932, SR & O 1932/64, reg 1. As to service of such notice see reg 8; and PARA 587 note 13. See also the Land Drainage (River Authorities) General Regulations 1965, SI 1965/443, reg 4 (amended by virtue of the Environment Act 1995 Sch 22 para 233(1)).

16 As to drainage rates see PARA 627.

17 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 34(1); Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(4) (as amended: see note 7). The sum to be paid in respect of the commutation of any obligation under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 33 is such sum as the Agency or the internal drainage board may by order determine in accordance with the provisions of s 34(4) (see below), and (1) is payable either as a capital sum or as a terminable annuity for a period not exceeding 30 years at the option of the owner; (2) is to be charged on the land in respect of which the obligation existed; and (3) has priority over any other incumbrances (whenever created) charged on that land by the owner, other than charges (whenever created) under the Improvement of Land Act 1864 (see AGRICULTURAL LAND vol 1 (2008) PARA 619 et seq); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 34(2) (as amended: see note 10); Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(4) (as so amended). Any capital sum or terminable annuity fixed under these provisions is payable by the owner notwithstanding any contrary agreement between the owner and any lessee of the land: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 34(3); Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(4) (as so amended). An order so made may contain provision with respect to the persons by whom all or any of the expenses incurred by the appropriate minister or other persons in connection with the making or confirmation of the order are to be borne: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 34(8); Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(4) (as so amended).

For the purpose of determining the sum to be paid in respect of the commutation of any obligation, the Agency or internal drainage board must ascertain the amount which, in its opinion, fairly represents the probable average annual cost, taking one year with another, of carrying out and maintaining in a due state of efficiency the works which are required to be carried out and maintained by virtue of the obligation to be commuted, and must fix the capital sum or annuity accordingly: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 34(4); Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(4) (both as so amended). In fixing the capital sum or annuity, no account is to be taken of so much of the probable annual average cost as in the Agency's or board's opinion is attributable to the fact that by reason of improvements effected since 1 January 1900 in the drainage of the land drained by a main river, or alterations effected since that date in the method of cultivation thereof, the volume of water which is discharged into a main river at any time is greater than it would have been if those alterations or improvements had not been effected: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 34(5); Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(4) (both as so amended). If any person is aggrieved by the determination of the Agency or board as regards the sum to be paid in respect of the commutation of any obligation he may, within three months after the date on which the Agency or board notifies him of the determination, require the matter to be referred to the arbitration of a single arbitrator to be appointed, in default of agreement, by the President of the Institution of Civil Engineers: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 34(6); Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(4) (both as so amended). The arbitrator may confirm, vary or set aside the determination as he thinks proper: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 34(7); Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(4) (both as so amended). The provisions of the Arbitration Act 1996 Pt I (ss 1-84) apply to any such arbitration: see s 94; and ARBITRATION vol 2 (2008) PARA 1209.

A record of any charge created as a result of the commutation must be entered in a register kept for the purpose by an authorised officer of the Agency or of the internal drainage board, and a copy of this record purporting to be certified by such an officer as a true copy is receivable in evidence in all legal proceedings: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 34(9); Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(4) (both as so amended).

Notwithstanding the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 21(3) (see the text to notes 24, 25), the powers of the Agency in relation to a main river include the powers which under that section are exercisable otherwise than in relation to a main river by the drainage board concerned; and the provisions of that section have effect accordingly: s 107(2) (as so amended).

23 See the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 21(2); Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(2) (as amended: see note 7).

24 See the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 21(3), (6)(a); Water Resources Act 1991 s 107(2) (as amended: see note 7). This provision is expressed to be subject to the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 8 (concurrent powers of the Agency): see s 21(6); and PARA 582.

593. Variation of awards.

Where any award made under a public or local Act contains any provision which in any manner affects or relates to the drainage<sup>1</sup> of land<sup>2</sup> (including any provision affecting the powers or duties of any drainage body<sup>3</sup> or other person<sup>4</sup> with respect to the drainage of land), the Environment Agency<sup>5</sup> may submit to the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>6</sup> for confirmation<sup>7</sup> a scheme for revoking, varying or amending that provision<sup>8</sup>. Such a scheme may:

- 1277 (1) provide for commuting the obligation<sup>9</sup> of any person under the award to repair or maintain any drainage works<sup>10</sup>;
- 1278 (2) contain such incidental, consequential or supplemental provisions as are necessary or proper for the purposes of the scheme<sup>11</sup>; and
- 1279 (3) be revoked or varied by a subsequent scheme<sup>12</sup>.

The Agency must submit such a scheme if, on the application of any person who is under any obligation imposed by the award or by any internal drainage board<sup>13</sup>, the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers direct the Agency to do so<sup>14</sup>. However, such an application must not be entertained unless the applicant has requested the Agency to submit such a scheme<sup>15</sup>, and the Agency has either refused to do so or failed to do so within six months<sup>16</sup> or has submitted a scheme different from that which was requested<sup>17</sup>.

6 The statutory wording is 'to the appropriate minister': see the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 32(1). 'Appropriate minister' means, in relation to England, the minister, and, in relation to Wales, the Secretary of State: s 32(8). As to the meaning of 'the minister' and as to the abolition of the Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food see PARA 569 note 9. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 32, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

7 The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may, by order made by statutory instrument, confirm a scheme with or without modifications: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 32(5). As to orders generally see PARA 583; and as to the making of orders under these provisions see PARAS 584-585. The order, unless made in relation to Wales, is subject to special parliamentary procedure if opposed (see s 32(6), Sch 3 para 5(2); and PARA 585); and may contain provisions with respect to the persons by whom all or any of the expenses incurred by the appropriate minister or other persons in connection with the making or confirmation of the order, or the making of the scheme, are to be borne (s 32(7)). As to special parliamentary procedure see PARLIAMENT vol 34 (Reissue) PARA 912 et seq. As to the bringing of subordinate legislation made by the Welsh Ministers before the National

FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(iii) Powers of Drainage Bodies/A. DRAINAGE WORKS/594. Powers to vary navigation rights.

594. Powers to vary navigation rights.

The Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> and (except where the application is made in connection with a main river<sup>2</sup>) the internal drainage board for every internal drainage district<sup>3</sup> within which any of the waters to which the application relates are situated, may apply to the Secretary of State or in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>4</sup> for an order varying navigation rights<sup>5</sup>. If, on such an application, it appears to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers that a navigation authority<sup>6</sup> is not exercising at all, or is not exercising to the necessary extent, the powers vested in it<sup>7</sup>, and that it is desirable to make an order with a view to securing the better drainage<sup>8</sup> of any land<sup>9</sup>, they may by order<sup>10</sup> revoke, vary or amend the provisions of any local Act relating to navigation rights over any canal, river or navigable waters or to the powers and duties of the navigation authority with respect to any canal, river or navigable waters<sup>11</sup>. Such an order may extinguish, vary or suspend, during such period as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers think proper, any such rights, powers or duties<sup>12</sup>.

The power to make such an order is not exercisable in relation to any waters within the ebb and flow of the tide at ordinary spring tides except with the consent of the Secretary of State for Transport<sup>13</sup>; and, in relation to Wales, is exercisable only after consultation with the Secretary of State<sup>14</sup>.

As to the meaning of 'the ministers', and as to the abolition of the Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food, see PARA 569 note 9. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. The functions of a Minister of the Crown under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 35, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales, but the Secretary of State consent requirements under the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 35(3) (see the text to notes 13-14) continue in effect: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(iii) Powers of Drainage Bodies/A. DRAINAGE WORKS/595. Schemes for drainage of small areas.

595. Schemes for drainage of small areas.

Where:

1280 (1) the Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> is of the opinion that any land<sup>2</sup> is capable of improvement by drainage<sup>3</sup> works but that the constitution for that purpose of an internal drainage district<sup>4</sup> would not be practicable<sup>5</sup>; or the Agency or, as the case may be, that local authority may, in accordance with the provisions of a scheme made by it, enter on the land and carry out such drainage works<sup>8</sup> as appear to it desirable<sup>9</sup>. Such a scheme must state: (a) the works proposed to be carried out<sup>10</sup>; (b) the area to be improved by the works<sup>11</sup>; (c) the estimated expenses (including administrative expenses) of the carrying out of the works<sup>12</sup>; (d) the maximum amount to be recoverable by the Agency or local authority in respect of those expenses<sup>13</sup>; and (e) the manner in which the expenses of carrying out the work are to be apportioned amongst the lands comprised in the area to be improved<sup>14</sup>.

Before making a scheme, a local authority must consult the Agency<sup>15</sup>; and the Agency or local authority must give notice<sup>16</sup> in the prescribed manner<sup>17</sup> to the owners and occupiers of land within the area to which the scheme relates and to any other persons<sup>18</sup> appearing to the Agency or the authority to be affected by the scheme<sup>19</sup>. Where any objections to the scheme are duly made and not withdrawn, the Agency or local authority must send a copy of the draft scheme, together with copies of the objections, to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers<sup>20</sup>, and the scheme must not be made unless the draft is confirmed by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers, with or without modifications<sup>21</sup>. Before a scheme is confirmed, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must either cause a public local inquiry to be held<sup>22</sup>, or give to the Agency or local authority and the persons by whom the objections are made an opportunity of being heard by a person appointed for the purpose<sup>23</sup>.

Where such a scheme is made by the Agency or a local authority, the Agency or that authority, as the case may be, must send copies of the scheme to the owners and occupiers of land in the area to which it relates<sup>24</sup>; and the Agency, where it makes such a scheme, must also notify the council of any county, county borough, district or London borough in whose area that land is situated<sup>25</sup>.

Any expenses incurred by the Agency or a local authority under these provisions in the carrying out of drainage works, to an amount not exceeding the maximum amount stated<sup>26</sup> in the scheme<sup>27</sup>, and any expenses incurred in maintaining the works<sup>28</sup>, are recoverable by the body incurring them from the several owners of the lands to which the scheme relates according to the apportionment provided for in the scheme<sup>29</sup>.

A local authority has certain powers, for the purpose of carrying out works in pursuance of such a scheme, to maintain, improve and construct other works<sup>30</sup> and to appropriate and dispose of spoil<sup>31</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers have power: (1) to exempt a scheme from this limit if it appears to them that the works proposed to be carried out are urgently required in the public interest (see s 18(6)); and (2) by order made by statutory instrument from time to time to vary such limit; but no such order made by the Secretary of State has effect unless it is approved by a resolution of each House of Parliament (see s 18(7)). Such orders, being of local effect, are not recorded in this work. Section 18(6), (7) and Sch 4 (see the text to notes 15-25) refer to 'the ministers'. FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(iii) Powers of Drainage Bodies/A. DRAINAGE WORKS/596. Flood warning systems.

596. Flood warning systems.

The Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> has power to provide and operate flood warning systems<sup>2</sup>. 'Flood warning system' means any system whereby, for the purpose of providing warning of any danger of flooding, information with respect to:

- 1282 (1) rainfall<sup>3</sup>, as measured at a particular place within a particular period; or
- 1283 (2) the level or flow of any inland water<sup>4</sup>, or part of an inland water, at a particular time; or
- 1284 (3) other matters appearing to the Agency to be relevant for that purpose, is obtained and transmitted, whether automatically or otherwise, with or without provision for carrying out calculations based on such information and for transmitting the results of those calculations<sup>5</sup>.

The power to provide and operate flood warning systems includes power: (a) to provide, install and maintain apparatus required for the purposes of such systems<sup>6</sup>; and (b) to carry out any other engineering or building operations<sup>7</sup> required for those purposes<sup>8</sup>.

1 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

2 Water Resources Act 1991 s 166(1)(a). This power is without prejudice to the Agency's other powers under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt IV (ss 105-113) (see PARAS 573 et seq, 599 et seq) and Pt VII (ss 154-186) (see PARA 453 et seq) or to its incidental general powers under the Environment Act 1995 s 37 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 73): Water Resources Act 1991 s 166(1) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 paras 128, 164). The Water Resources Act 1991 s 166(1) does not authorise any act or omission on the part of the Agency which would otherwise be actionable at the suit of any person on any grounds other than a limitation imposed by law on the capacity of the Agency by virtue of its constitution: s 166(2) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

It appears that local authorities but not the Environment Agency may be under a duty to ensure that effective and continuing flood warning provisions are in place and to ensure effective communication to endangered persons if a flood event is likely: Robinson v Cardiff City Council (16 October 1987, unreported), Cardiff Crown Court.

3 'Rainfall' includes any fall of snow, hail or sleet: Water Resources Act 1991 s 166(4) (substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 69(3)).

4 'Inland water' means any of the following in any part of Great Britain, that is to say: (1) any river, stream or other watercourse, whether natural or artificial and whether tidal or not; (2) any lake or pond, whether natural or artificial, and any reservoir or dock; and (3) any channel, creek, bay, estuary or arm of the sea: Water Resources Act 1991 s 166(4) (as substituted: see note 3). As to the meaning of 'Great Britain' see PARA 22 note 5. As to the meaning of 'watercourse' see PARA 187 note 2.

597. Disposal of spoil.

The Environment Agency<sup>1</sup>, an internal drainage board<sup>2</sup> or a local authority<sup>3</sup> may:

- 1285 (1) without making payment for it, appropriate and dispose of any matter removed in the course of the carrying out of any work for widening, deepening or dredging any watercourse<sup>4</sup>;
- 1286 (2) deposit any matter so removed on the banks<sup>5</sup> of the watercourse, or on such width of land<sup>6</sup> adjoining the watercourse as is sufficient to enable the matter to be removed and deposited by mechanical means in one operation<sup>7</sup>.

These provisions do not authorise the deposit of any matter if that matter would constitute<sup>8</sup> a statutory nuisance<sup>9</sup>. In the case of the powers so conferred on a local authority, they may be exercised only for the purpose of carrying out works in pursuance of a scheme<sup>10</sup> for the drainage of a small area<sup>11</sup>, or so far as may be necessary for the purpose of preventing flooding or mitigating any damage caused by flooding in its area<sup>12</sup>.

Where injury is sustained by any person<sup>13</sup> by reason of the exercise of the power under head (2) above to deposit matter, the body exercising such power may, if it thinks fit, pay to him such compensation as it may determine<sup>14</sup>, but, if the injury could have been avoided if that power had been exercised with reasonable care, the body is obliged<sup>15</sup> to make full compensation<sup>16</sup>.

The Agency, an internal drainage board or a local authority may enter into an agreement with the council of any district or London borough or of any Welsh county or county borough<sup>17</sup> for the disposal by the council of any matter removed as mentioned above<sup>18</sup> and for payment to the council, in respect of that disposal, of such sum as may be provided for by the agreement<sup>19</sup>.

2 As to internal drainage boards see PARA 569. In the case of an internal drainage board or a local authority the power given by the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 15(1) is subject to s 15(2) and (3) (see the text to notes 8-12) and ss 16 and 17 (see PARA 589): s 15(1).

598. Power to facilitate spray irrigation.

Any internal drainage board<sup>1</sup> or local authority<sup>2</sup> may with the consent of the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup> operate any drainage<sup>4</sup> works under the control of the board or authority so as to manage the level of water in a watercourse<sup>5</sup> for the purpose of facilitating spray irrigation<sup>6</sup>. This power is without prejudice to the powers of a board or an authority in relation to drainage<sup>7</sup>; or to any requirement for any other consent of the Agency or any other person<sup>8</sup>, or any licence, approval, authorisation or other permission or registration<sup>9</sup>.

FLOOD DEFENCE, LAND DRAINAGE, AND DAMAGE BY WATER/(2) FLOOD DEFENCE AND LAND DRAINAGE/(iii) Powers of Drainage Bodies/B. CONTROL OF OBSTRUCTIONS AND STRUCTURES/599. Maintenance of flow of watercourses.

B. CONTROL OF OBSTRUCTIONS AND STRUCTURES

599. Maintenance of flow of watercourses.

Where any ordinary watercourse<sup>1</sup> is in such a condition that the proper flow of water is impeded, then, unless the condition is attributable to subsidence due to mining operations<sup>2</sup> (including brine pumping), the drainage board or local authority concerned<sup>3</sup> or, in relation to a main river, the Environment Agency<sup>4</sup> may, by notice served<sup>5</sup> on a specified person<sup>6</sup>, require that person to remedy that condition<sup>7</sup>. Before exercising this power in relation to a watercourse or part of a watercourse, a local authority must, according to whether or not the watercourse or part is within an internal drainage district, notify either the internal drainage board for that district or the Agency<sup>8</sup>.

The specified persons are:

- 1287 (1) any person having control of the part of the watercourse where any impediment occurs<sup>9</sup>; or
- 1288 (2) any person owning or occupying land adjoining that part<sup>10</sup>; or
- 1289 (3) any person to whose act or default the condition of the watercourse is due<sup>11</sup>; but no such notice requiring any person to carry out any work on land not owned or occupied by him may be served without the consent of the owner and the occupier of the land, except in a case where it is not practicable, after reasonable inquiry, to ascertain the name or address of the owner or occupier<sup>12</sup>. The notice must indicate the nature of the works to be carried out and the period within which they are to be carried out<sup>13</sup>, and the right of appeal against the notice to a magistrates' court and the period within which such an appeal may be brought<sup>14</sup>.

Where a local authority has other powers<sup>15</sup> for securing the appropriate flow of water in any watercourse under its jurisdiction which is not a watercourse forming part of a main river<sup>16</sup>, the Agency or an internal drainage board may not exercise its powers under these provisions except (a) by agreement with the local authority<sup>17</sup>; or (b) where, after reasonable notice from the Agency or internal drainage board, the local authority either fails to exercise its powers or exercises them improperly<sup>18</sup>. Where any watercourse, other than a main river<sup>19</sup>, is under the jurisdiction of a board of conservators, conservancy authority<sup>20</sup>, harbour authority<sup>21</sup> or navigation authority<sup>22</sup> which is exercising its powers, these provisions do not apply to that watercourse except with the consent of that board or authority<sup>23</sup>.
